FIRST DAY OF THE PEACE JUBILEE.

President McKinley is in Attendance at an Auditorium Building—The Windy City Is Its Fate.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The national peace jubilee of Chicago was brought inaugurated with a thanksgiving service in Auditorium building. President McKinley attended and listened to addresses by Jenkin Lloyd Jones, a Roman Catholic priest, a Presbyterian clergyman and a Jewish rabbi. The appearance for President McKinley was terrific and at one time the President was compelled to rise in his seat and respond to the frantic cheering of the audience. The addresses were all of a religious character, and all seemed to reflect the spirit of the vast assemblage. The addresses of the Jewish rabbi and the Catholic priest were the wildest applause.

The President rated during a great part of the evening at the residence of Judge Lambert McWilliams, his relative, Lafayette McWilliams, his relative, where he is now visiting, and left the city at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for a visit of short duration to the Indian reservation near Lake Mohonk, N. Y., where he will be a guest of Mr. McWilliams and Miss McWilliams.

The party was driven to the auditorium in carriages and all along the way people lined the streets to watch the people from the President's carriage. The people did not cheer, but they gave great enthusiasm and probably very many were disappointed outside, who could not gain admittance. The President was seated in a box on the left side of the stage, and with him were Mrs. McKinley, President William Rainey Harper of the University of Chicago, Senator Cullom and Secretaries Porter, Alger, Gage and Wilson. Among the occupants of the boxes were the Cabinet officers of the President's nephew, Secretary Abner and Miss Wilson, Secretary and Mrs. Gage and Secretary and Mrs. Porter and Postmaster Jordan.

Elaborate music had been prepared for the meeting, under the direction of Professor Tomlins. Rev. Dr. Henry Thomas pastor of the People's church, was the chairman of the meeting. Addresses were made by Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Lyman J. Gage, Rabbi Hirsch, Lord Aberdeen, Bishop Fowler, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Aberdeen, Lord Aberdeen
