HAVE GONE TO LOGAN

Members of the Convention Left for There This Afternoon.

A SESSION OF WARM DEBATE.

Beauty Strong Talked Up and Down For and Against—The Judiciary Article.

A Constitutional convention held a session which makes this morning memorable by the attempt to resuscitate the much-used old Vartan woolen mill in this city. The judiciary article was also submitted and at 12:45 the convention adjourned to get to Logan by the special train over the Union Pacific at that afternoon, to visit the Agricultural college. The affair is under the auspices of the Cache county delegation and is in the interest of the claim of the Agricultural college and the Utah University, on the site of the former. The train leaving the depot at noon is expected to make straight work to Logan.

The idea that it was to be shut down at 4 o'clock, but a quorum at that time was in the morning session, continued him over there. We are a quorum present, and it was adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock." Grand laughter.

Prayer was offered by Delegate Snyder, of Cache. Yesterday's journal was read, amended and approved, particularly those which the Cache delegates had introduced.

MORE PROPERLY CONSTITUTIONAL.

A resolution introduced by Hon. John Henry Smith as president of the convention, was received from J. H. Smith, relative to the meeting into the Legislature sending twenty, owing to market vacillation. The article stated that there were five hundred and eighty-four present and that they were unanimous in their present opinion having the equal suffrage article incorporated in the Constitution. The resolution adopted at the meeting also expressed the gratification and Mr. Smith said that it "could not be of better." Applause.

Telegrams were received as follows on the same subject: Thurman, 42; Ancram, 50; Ogden, 50; Ogden, 50; Ogden, 50; Page, 50; Page, 50; Cache, 50; Fund.

Delegates stating that the question be incorporated in the Constitution were sent as follows:

Provo, at Rio Grande, 500 names, and Cedar, 50 ditto; Lehi, a letter from Lehi Cultural society saying that at a meeting held there, 50 persons unanimously agreed that woman suffrage should be placed in the hands of the Constitution.

JUDICIAL ARTICLE.

The committee on judiciary, Good-enough, chairman, brought in their long-looked report and with it the following article:

Section 1. The judicial power of the state shall be vested in the senate sitting as a court of impeachment, in a supreme court, in district courts, in justices of the peace, and in such other courts inferior to the supreme court as may be established by law.

Sec. 2. The supreme court shall consist of three judges, but after the year 1899 the Legislature may increase the number of judges of the court, if it is necessary to make a quorum or give the supreme court such jurisdiction as the supreme court shall by its rules provide, sitting in a case or before any single judge of the court, or any two of the judges, or all with three or more judges present, and each shall have a voice.

Sec. 3. The state of Utah shall be one judicial district, and there shall be a district court therein, which shall be called the district court of Utah, and there shall be a district judge for said district, who shall be elected by the qualified electors of said district, and who shall hold his office for the term of six years, and until his successor is elected and qualified; and in case of the death, disability or absence of the district judge, the Governor may appoint a district judge pro tem.

Sec. 4. The supreme court shall sit at Salt Lake City, and at such other places as the Legislature may from time to time provide, and shall have power to make and publish rules for the government of its proceedings, and for the transaction of business in the court, and for the regulation of the practice of the courts of this state, and for the admission of attorneys and counselors at law to practice in the courts of this state, and for the admission of members of the bar of this state to practice in the courts of this state, and for the admission of members of the bar of this state to practice in the courts of this state, and for the admission of members of the bar of this state
