The deficit is estimated 200 and may reach several hundred dollars more.

When proof of the theft had been written Mitchell was summoned before Mr. McCopin, and on being accused of the crime and shown the evidence against him had no reserve but to admit his culpability. This took place not he was immediately discharged. It was Mitchell's duty to receive from the newspapers the payment of postage, and instead of turning over the full amount to the account of the postoffice he diverted portions of the money to his own use, and thus sought to hide his operations by misdescription of his books. MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.—President Diaz and Foreign Minister Mariscal had a long conference over the Guatemalan matter. The reply of Guatemala to the demand of Mexico received yesterday at the National palace was read and considered to many of its bearings. Another conference will probably be held next Monday, at which the entire cabinet will doubtless be asked to be present.

When interviewed neither President Diaz nor the minister would give any information.

As to the various reports published by the press on the president's speech, President Diaz stated the following to a reporter:

"The government appreciates the unanimity manifestation, it being one of the results of the excitement and the manner in which the press has conducted the question of the day. I congratulate with a duty in stating that, although it is true that the government is sustaining a serious and delicate controversy of a right merit nature, which, if not handled with extreme logical and honorable means may lead to a War, it is not true that We are not yet on the verge of war, because honor, good faith and right constitute the program of the government, and because it has no right to attribute any other motive to its adversary. The government believes that practically speaking it is of that it is believed for several years that the greatest blessing we can offer to our country is the present period of tranquillity and happy and visible [illegible] in peace, and decides that it will only allow it to be interrupted as a capital and fortunate supposition [illegible] upon suffering man in well constituted rights, and assuming the national honor and dignity. In such an event, which I hope will not be realized, the government will endeavor the situation with true labor and energy inspired by the duty and its right. The government accepts, also in earnest and will use with economy what you so patriotically offer. We, soldiers of the convention now parting away, feel our blood thicken when we think that we may be able to battle in a war every way just on our part, by generous closing, and in which honor we are going to leave our country and its [illegible]."

The communication is cordially received here and it is believed that the minister of foreign affairs is authorized for five or six days at least the minister to wait for the reply from Guatemala.

Nays—Aldrich, Allen, Allison, Carey, Carey, Chandler, Cullom, Davis, Frye, Gallinger, Hale, Higgins, Kyle, Lodge (Oregon), Peffer, Platt, Proctor, Pruner, Sherman, Stewart, Teller and Wolcott—total, 22.

Allen offered a resolution in the house which went over, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to exercise his discretion to redeeming all forms of paper currency in silver, when convinced that a systematic effort was being made to deplete the gold reserve and force the issue of bonds.

At 5 o'clock the session by bill was taken up, informally, and bill and other business considered.

Lodge and Frye, in bitter speeches, denied the statement of Mills in behalf of interest in the Hawaiian question was due to the fact that New England sugar refiners owned Hawaiian bonds. Frye, a minute to the use of sarcasm, fairly outdoors himself. He charged Mills, who was absent, with having himself circulated the information published in New York, that the Republicans intended to filibuster in the interest of the New England sugar refiners who held Hawaiian bonds.

Curiousness opening up between the interval of these writers.

Today you will find four hundred millions of people that acknowledge Christ as the Son of God. He bridges the past with the future and there is a chain of evidence which cannot be broken. A NOTE OF WARNING SOUNDED.

Views of an Old Citizen on the Proposed Exchange of Water Between the City and Mill Creek.

Editor Evening News.

As an old resident, taxpayer and citizen, I want to sound a note of warning to some of my friends through the columns of your paper concerning a transaction of vital importance to all parties interested.

Briefly, and to the point, I have reference to the contemplated exchange of water between Salt Lake City, represented by the members of our Common Council, as proposed to parties of the Red jail and the farmers of Mill Creek as part of the second part. It is to be remembered that the latter are [illegible] what they are doing. I hope they do, but may they not be blinding under a false impression as to the benefits they will reap? Have they provided the exchange is mutual? Today they have unimpaired right and title to the waters of Big Cottonwood creek. It is proposed to give them similar rights and title to Salt Lake in Jordan canal water. But even the use of that water is guaranteed them. It is still theirs. But do my friends in Mill Creek know this? Are they sure that in the better spelt of summer the city will be able to keep faith with them and the publicist would say, "Deliver the goods?" It may [illegible] simply [illegible] them to be very careful and examine in detail the matter before it is too late. They should know, and do, that a law of nature [illegible] water supply in June, July or August may mean the loss of a crop to them. It is such my intent to take a false alarm of danger, yet simply to ask a few questions, and by way of suggestion bring home to our Mill Creek friends some facts that they may to their cost have overlooked. As a matter of fact in Sixteenth ward I know that I [illegible] has not kept faith with us in giving water from the same canal in exchange for City Creek water, according to an agreement made several years ago. Prior to that, when we depended on City Creek, we had plenty for irrigation purposes. We were to have more when the trade was made. But we were defrauded of our rights. We, of course, are at the mercy of the city, and when we need water must we [illegible] it. Now, if the city has failed and continues to fail to keep faith with us in a similar case, what can it be expected we will submit to?

UTAH FISH AND GAME

Commissioner Musser Receives a Promise of White Fish Fry.

WILL BE PUT IN UTAH LAKE.

Sevier County's Commissioner Reports Bad Little Stocking in His District—Not Two Arrests.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 26, 1895.

Editor Deseret News.

DEAR SIR—Enclosed I hand you a copy of letter from Washington about the fry of white fish by I have [illegible] Dove years been negotiating for. The department would, no doubt, have sent them to us but lacked transportation for the great distance when they had so much to do nearer home.

Thanks to the local railway authorities, I have secured free transportation for the car and crew from Chicago to the point. The value of the consignment cannot be well ever estimated. In the first place it means several millions of fry. The white fish (Coregonus Clupeaformis) is hardness and comparatively hardness and maturing and multiplies rapidly, each element producing from twenty thousand to seventy thousand eggs. It is the most important food fish in the great lake region. It is called Oswego bass in the neighborhood of Oswego lake, New York. The average weight varies from fourteen pounds in Lake Superior to two and one-half pounds in Lake Michigan. It is caught in pound nets, gill nets, hook and line and by seining. The eggs are now being selected to be from Michigan to Bear lake, into which I intended planting a part of the consignment, but for fry being so tender it seems to be impracticable to attempt their transfer by reason the distance intervene.

I also enclose the report of the Fish and Game Commissioner of Sevier county, for the year 1894, which you will please publish for the information of your numerous readers concerned only interested in the subject of fish and game.

Yours truly,
A. MILTON MUSSER.

ALL FOR UTAH LAKE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22, 1895.

A. Milton Musser, Esq., Fish and Game Commissioner, Salt Lake City, Utah:

Dear Sir—Replying to your letter of the 14th inst., I have to will be glad to send you a number of white fish fry as soon as the season on the eastern coast if you can arrange the transportation from Chicago to Salt Lake. It will be fine if you can do this, but I fear it will be too late for us to send fry by wagon after we bring it here. It is impossible to say definitely when the shipment will be made, but I expect it will be about April or May in February or March. There has been a regular crew of five men collecting the eggs.

Yours truly,
W. M. CHAPMAN,
Acting Commissioner.

REPORT FROM SEVIER COUNTY.

R. Cutler, fish and game commissioner of Sevier county, has sent in a report from Richfield in which he says: "There is little to look after in this county in the way of fish and game. As to fish I will say the Sevier river is contracted into ditches. There are still [illegible] taken out of the river in this county. Fish lakes in the mountains and the Sabich Valley. I feel in confidence but that some of all winter and will [illegible] when they open the lakes and [illegible] [illegible] of fish. Fish lakes in which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
