MOVING WESTWARD.

That is What the Manufacturing Element is Thinking of.

THE HOME INDUSTRY MEETINGS.

Proposition to Re-open the Deseret Woolen Mills—The Fair and Kindred Items.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 18, 1894.—The question of factory development in the western states has never been discussed so generally as during the past six months. The wonderful increase in factories in western states has had an influence which is being felt all over the country. "Factories are moving westward" and the western communities that do not rise to the occasion and endeavor to grasp the opportunities now being offered will live to regret their lack of enterprise. A recent editorial in a western magazine is worth considering in this connection. It reads:

WHY FACTORIES SHOULD MOVE WEST.

First, because the cost of manufacturing or loss then in the East, and the raw material at hand is an insurmountable question. There is no industry that flourishes in the East that can't be made to add one per cent to the profit side of the ledger, if you move west. No skyrocketing in the cotton, iron, brick, machine, furniture and glass manufactories. The fuel supply is as cheap as in the East and the goods is at our doors. The iron ranges are practically inexhaustible. There are thousands of acres of forest, with pine and hard wood, waiting the shrewd, far-seeing man who realizes that this material is gold to the East. The western manufacturer can no longer compete with the general trade. He finds his profits smaller every year, and the cost of manufacturing greater, and so he realizes the condition. He sees a solution. The question of the trades itself upon him is this, why he cannot put goods upon the market in competition with the western houses, who saw the chance and took it, moved west and had no difficulty in putting his goods on the market, getting a trade and keeping it? There is only one solution to the question and that is the right one. Let our business men and capitalists be not in a desperate effort to make both ends meet, but come to the west and embrace the opportunity and growth. The lathe manufacturers will find one of the finest quality, necessities to the trade, in the forests which are some of the finest and best equipped made in the country. The old country that the West could alone supply the demand for cotton and woolen goods is exploited. The West has the cotton, the sheep upon a thousand hills are ours, and in no the south whose "cotton is king," more convenient, and can it not be laid down always to the western manufacturer that the easiest? There are personal questions that demand serious consideration, and will interest the eastern manufacturer. The era of rapid transit has set in, and the doors of the world are open to the intrepid and women to come in and take possession.

The members of the Manufacturers Bureau believe that the result of the present agitation in favor of home industries will be some good if it opens wide efforts in which the Tribune, merchants and consumers will join. West can no longer compete in cotton in large quantities, also with very little money coming to the end there is not far from south Bingo.

There is not much more for sixty days this year, and what are we going to do about it? We believe the manufacturers will turn and assist in developing the idea of trading at home with home products and, supported by the honest sentiment, at the moment, they will see to their advantage to encourage the home industries already established and assist in securing new industries. There has been a good deal of talk during the past few weeks and it is now time to get down to business.

The morning of meetings and discussions (the Monday evening) will probably show how the manufacturers need to join in the movement. If they attend and take hold jointly as some say are they intend to do, the move will have plain sailing. It is believed they will do so earnestly because many of the leading merchants of Salt Lake are heavy individual owners and it is sure that nothing will drag and the interest as much as heavy payments to Utah during the next year or two.

The hope of any good advance in local industrial is not based on an increase in factory industries or any sudden rush connection with Co-Operative Institutions. The market has promised that the time shall come when the Salem cloth shall make its appearance in the market with this at its marriage report.

The speaker explained the effort of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which has been the means of awaking a great school for the temperance movement.

The speaker referred to the position of the University people in the matter. He referred to legislative measures passed to stimulate the growth of manufactures. The state itself should be encouraged. It is realized in the laws of Utah, which, in the main, imitate the well which will encourage the dreamers who resides toward and to enter the Kingdom of God.

The special interest to the business place is to Joseph Smith known as the Word of Wisdom. It is to call a temperance society, and great are the promises which are made to those who observe it. The end of man depends on the body and the spirit. The body, therefore, as well as the spirit, must receive proper care. Too long shortly to tell you and the time has arrived for the effects of intoxicating spirits.

The speaker alluded to other forms of intoxication which had indeed to the extreme use of intoxicating liquors, such as morphine, opium, chloral, cocaine and vulgar tobacco, but the serious results of intoxication are not always confined to the same street and immediate evil. The drunkard and the leaders in the thirty and accompanying traffic will be most responsible for the indirect evil which accrue from the use of intoxicating drinks. They will be held accountable for the evil upon their posterity. God has designed that the children upon the earth should bring forth over all spring, but this is impossible with those who indulge in the use of intoxicating drinks and in the moderate and common good sense.

Elder Angus M. Cannon also spoke. He alluded to a remark of President Brigham Young, who said that intoxicating liquor were a very great evil. He was sorry to say that this building a saloon in the Church would claim that they actually make a living out of engaging to the drink traffic. The speaker was that if he had the power he would not let alcoholic liquors and stimulants from the earth. He commended wives and his the added influence, with all the sentiments expressed upon temperance, had caused him much grief in what he had witnessed. He felt that a crime attends the traffic. Men who could be happy, living the way of their neighbors' lives, will have a strong moment to resist to their Maker. It is not the direct change alone that they will have to account for but for the various consequent changes. God our Father has provided us in some upon the earth to take part in the great work of temperance, and those who are swayed from the path of duty by the influences of drink, prompted by those to whom we should look for better things, will be called to account and only for the evil consequent upon themselves, but also for the evil attendant upon the families of those whom God has entrusted to their care. For every measure designed of God, but definitely by the unguody conduct of degenerate men, will have to be met.

Elder Cannon alluded to the representations falling upon the brain of sensitive at the moment of temperance. He stated that the taking of God would attend the union of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The choir sang "Light and Truth," and Elder Joseph E. Taylor pronounced the benediction.

Church University Theology Class.

The class convened at the usual time and place, about 1,200 students being present. Lesson No. 19 was given to each at the door. After the opening prayer by Elder T. C. Ellis, the subject of the Book of Mormon received further attention. First the genuineness or integrity of its claim and then the authenticity of the record were considered. Elder Talmage referred to ancient prophecy, expounding that the record should be sealed, were there and also others, which was verified by collateral facts. In keeping the Book of Mormon as a divine record, the Latter-day Saints look to the following points: (1) It is in strict harmony with the Bible; (2) it is in fulfillment of prophecy; (3) it is a miraculous production; (4) it is a miraculous recovery; (5) it is the evident translation of its records. Each of these points received careful attention. The last point was more important to the Church in the assurance from within, the spirit's testimony of what cannot from God. The instructor then proceeded to the main subject of Bible, or sacred. He believes all that God has revealed, all he does now reveal and we believe that He will yet reveal many great and important things pertaining to the Kingdom of God." Too, if we make, we believe one of the most complete institutions of the Latter-day Saints. The Bible, scriptures, past, present and future. The lesson occupied the entire hour, students of the occasion were pleased and profited. Benediction was pronounced by Elder George Goddard and the class adjourned for one week.

TABERNACLE SERVICES.

The Gospel of Temperance Built Upon by the Speakers Yesterday.

At the Tabernacle services presided over by Elder Angus M. Cannon, President of the Ward, yesterday,

The choir sang the hymn,

"Hail Ye to the Prophets."

Prayer was offered by Louis Gustav Goddard.

"Through Jesus Christ" was the prayer way" was the song.

The President of the Tabernacle ward announced the sacrament.

It was administered by Priests of Canon Hall, to assist those with a request of those interested in the Women's Christian Temperance union, and under the direction of the Pres. Pioneer, the meeting would be devoted to the cause of temperance.

Elder C. W. Penrose said that temperance is a spiritual virtue of the Gospel, and that an example of its observance can be seen in the administration of the sacrament, where only water instead of the wine that intoxicates. In the Bible he promised that the time shall come when the Saints shall drink wine with Christ at his marriage supper.

He spoke of the effort of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which has been the means of awaking a great school for the temperance movement.

Last of the Pioneer Day Jubilee Entertainments Successfully Rounded.

The last of the Pioneer Day series of entertainments of merit, which were commenced a week ago, was given last night over the Auditorium which for occasion was the largest that for that Lyric Theater has had within its historic walls for many a day. The doors were thrown open at 7 o'clock and soon thereafter every seat in the floor of the house had been taken, while standing room was at a premium in the first gallery. Upon the stage, the curtain was drawn to reveal the opening tableau—that the pioneers were in the valley. The tableau was a unique one, showing the covered wagon, with men spading the ground, and women spinning and knitting. The musical and vocal and instrumental was of varied character throughout and was enjoyed to the utmost by the numerous audience. Everything was in the highest order, every number was applauded and the results and sympathies in all seemed to hardly know when.

In all seven entertainments were given. The net profits exceed $1,000 and that amount will be turned over to the Young Ladies' Auxiliary for the benefit of the part of the city.

Strongly Anti-Catholic.

Ex-Pastor Slattery, now a Baptist minister, hoisted anew a fair sized audience in Bliss's hall at the corner of Fourth South and Second West streets yesterday afternoon and last night. Mr. Slattery is an Irishman with a decidedly active accent, of large frame, fair stature, smooth shaven and about 40 years of age. Feeds beginning to arrive, he appears were extremely anti-Catholic, and no more so he when he is a bitterly set or uttle-bed having been connected up a member of the church. Towards his own nationality the speaker was even more severe. He avowed his allegiance to the A. P. A. and appealed to his audience to ally themselves with that organization and fight under its banners even to the bitter end.

Mr. Slattery lectures at the same place tomorrow night, while he will speak to males only tomorrow afternoon.

The Last Sad Rites.

All that was mortal of Nelson Young Clawson was laid away in mother earth yesterday (Sunday) afternoon. The funeral services were held at the family residence, beginning at 12:30. Elder Orson F. Whitney, Bishop of the Eighth ward, officiated. The funeral services were attended. A male quartette consisting of Neeb, Piper, Pomeroy and Hoffman, and Whitney, rendered the opening and closing hymns in a manner most beautiful and touching. Prayer was offered up by Elder John Nicholson. Remarks eulogistic of the noble character of the deceased were made by Elders Heber J. Grant and Orson F. Whitney. The large number of relatives and friends present and the numerous costly and magnificent floral offerings, some of which were sent from the East, proved the esteem in which he deceased was held. The Mayor and members of the City Council showed their respect for the sorrowing bereaved by attending in a body. A large cortege followed the remains to the cemetery where they were deposited in the family vault, which was dedicated by Elder Seymour B. Young.

Little Annie Dean, daughter of Chief of Police Cole, was also buried yesterday, the funeral taking place from the family residence on G street. The first part consisted of an opening prayer offered by Robert Joshua Sharp, the reading of a chapter from the Bible by Elder John T. Caine and benediction by Elder Seymour B. Young. The funeral was numerously attended. Among those present were members of the school class to which the child belonged.

The funeral of the late Henry George took place yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Dean, and the singing was rendered by Professor Martin and wife.

The funeral of C. M. Brown, who died several days ago, took place from the Tabernacle ward meeting house at two o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the G. A. R., A. O. U. W. and the Foresters. On Saturday evening, while under the direction of Dr. Sheldon, it developed that the left lung has almost entirely disappeared and that the cavity was filled with an acute and pus caused by an injury received from a fall some three weeks ago. The accident was given as the cause of death by the physicians present at the post mortem examination, and no permission, as stated.
