GENERAL CONFERENCE.

THIRD DAY—OCT. 8TH.

MORNING SESSION.

Singing:

God bless the cause of Zion
Hasten the blessed day
We seek earth

Prayer by Elder H. H. Roberts.

Singing:

Softly beams the silver morning
Of the great Millennial dawn,
And to Zion gives a warning
Of the day at morning's end.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH F. SMITH

delivered an instructive discourse. The introductory portion of it was devoted to a consideration of temporal affairs and the principles which govern them. The speaker showed clearly the course that ought to be pursued by the Saints as individuals and as a community in order that they might become preeminently prosperous, dwelling specially on the duty of all to be productive and to expend less than was produced. He spoke of the sugar works and the beneficent character of the object of their establishment and the prospect of their being a future success. The end of cultivating industrial habits among all the people, young and aged, rich and poor, was forcibly urged.

In conclusion the speaker explained that humility and meekness consisted in God acquainted the sons of eternal exaltation to His presence.

President George Q. Cannon stated that, in response to a general desire, Brother Robert C. Easton had consented to sing the beautiful hymn composed by Sister Eliza R. Snow, beginning O, My Father. This hymn was then exquisitely sung by Brother Easton to the great pleasure of the vast congregation.

PRESIDENT GEORGE Q. CANNON

alluded to the enthusiasm with which the singing of this hymn had been received at Denver, Kansas City, Independence, St. Louis, Chicago and Omaha on the occasion of the recent trip taken by the Tabernacle choir. In some of these places, especially at Independence, persons among the congregation had been melted to tears by the sentiments and music of this devotional song, which embodies the sublime of the pre-existence and heavenly paternage of man. It musicians stimulated thought on this subject in the minds of those who heard it and would lead them to inquire into a theme so interesting. The appreciation of the singing of the choir on that journey was very marked and the speaker said that, in no small degree our choirsters had been instrumental in preaching the Gospel.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH F. SMITH.

I hope that the Saints will pardon beforehand the remarks that I am about to make. I must believe that although I have had the privilege of listening from Sabbath to Sabbath to the singing of our choir, I has to go abroad to find how the music is appreciated.

The audience before whom the choir sang while abroad, who seemed to appreciate their singing most like the congregations of this tabernacle, was the audience that greeted them in Chicago after the contest. And I think it was the universal expression of the choir themselves and every body of our city who was there, that it was the oldest and most critical audience before whom the choir had sung at all, and apparently the most appreciative, but they were forced to applaud, nevertheless. Now then, if our choir were to do so with sufficient notice to give a concert, and there was a hall there as large as this in which the people could assemble, judging from the appreciation that they expressed of the singing of the choir when they were there, that hall would be filled to overflowing to hear them. But when they give out notice that there will be a concert here, the people come, a few of them, and fill up the body of the hall, while a great portion of it is vacant.

Now, you don't need to think that I am criticising anything; I am stating the fact as it has been in my self. We get the beauty of the earth, the music of the earth, gratuitously, from Sunday to Sunday, and we get the Word of the Lord, and with many of us it has become a common thing, which we have ceased to appreciate very much.

Let us appreciate good instructions and good music, even though we are treated to them from Sabbath to Sabbath. Amen.

The choir sang the anthem:

Our father in heaven,
Before Thee we bend.

Benediction by Elder George Reynolds.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

AN OVERFLOW MEETING WAS HELD IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL, COMMENCING AT 2 O'CLOCK.

Elder Abraham H. Cannon presided.

The congregation sang:

We meet now, it is sad, for a Prophet

Prayer by Elder Lewis W. Shurtliff.

Members of the Tabernacle choir who had come to and occupied seats in front of the stand sang:

Be that, the Great Spirit God.

The Sacrament was administered by the Bishopric and other Bishops of the Fourteenth ward.

ELDER JOHN MORGAN

was the first speaker. He referred to the anxious results of the teachings and words of wisdom which the Latter-day Saints had received in years gone by; a compliance with the same kind of advice and instructions would secure their more happiness and prosperity. The instructions of the late President Brigham Young and other leading men in Israel inspired years ago in relation to the Saints becoming a self-sustaining people were good in days. While we were at the present time purchasing canned fruits and vegetables from abroad, our own productions of the same sort were permitted to perish for want of proper care and management. The same could be told of various kinds of manufactured goods. We had been sent to the mills (Cutting hides at a nominal price to be shipped to Boston and other cities of the East, there to be tanned and manufactured into boots and shoes shipped back to us. This was a ruinous policy to pursue. As Saints we should endeavor to act wisely in temporal as well as in spiritual matters. It was hoped that the Saints would learn from the things they were suffering at the present time, and by their action in the future prove that they desired to follow the admonitions of the Lord through His servants. If they did this Zion would prosper and flourish.

ELDER HEBER J. GRANT

read from the Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 68, par. 3 and 4, and remarked that the doctrines which had been taught during this Conference are in accordance with that revelation. Many years ago, when the Saints resided in Jackson county, Missouri, the Lord revealed certain great and fundamental principles which were calculated to make His people free and prosperous temporally, but were none agreed with the Saints in that land and drove them away from their homes. The speaker was highly pleased with the change in feelings and sentiments which apparently had taken place in that part of the country. In this we could see the mercy and tender feelings of the Almighty, in answer to the prayers of His people, and in fulfillment of prophecy. After reading extracts from Church history concerning the persecution suffered in the Kirtland Temple, when the Saints had left that land, he had heard the sinners declare that the speaker listened to the Devil's counsel in not leaving Salt Lake Temple, on which occasion the Lord through His servants also declared that He had accepted of His people and blotted out their transgressions. This was a cause of great rejoicing among the Saints, and should stimulate us to renewed efforts in serving the Lord, who is merciful and full of forgiveness toward His children.

ELDER HELAM B. WELLS

spoke of the opportunities which the Conference would afford men for being informed, and questioned whether some of the Lehi-day Saints had risen above limitations of this kind. If so, they should take heed from now on, and strive to be perfectly honest and fair in all their business transactions, and not take advantage of any opportunity that might present itself for Lehi to be cheated. The speaker also discouraged backbiting and slandering among the Saints, which always resulted in great evil, and admonished a life of purity and consistency.

ELDER ABRAHAM H. CANNON

spoke in relation to the children of the Latter-day Saints, some of whom had gone astray, though their parents had always been faithful and true to God and their religion, and had some they cannot be held their families to the path of duty and righteousness. We were not to suppose that such wayward sons and daughters were lost forever. The speaker believed that the Gospel of Jesus Christ was sent forth in power for the final redemption of the world, that in the course of time, in the case of the prodigal sons, the parents of these office were should rejoice in the repentance and salvation of their offspring, but perhaps not until after they had suffered the penalties of their misdeeds. But no one should take occasion from this and excuse themselves in committing sin. The sons and daughters of Zion should understand that their salvation in the Kingdom of God depended largely upon their virtue and purity, and if they willfully and knowingly sinned against God, their parents or society, they would have to pay the penalty. The speaker regretted the change for the worse in this connection which had taken place in Salt Lake City and other places in our Territory of late years. At one time virtue, good morals and the fear of God were leading characteristics of the inhabitants occupying these mountain valleys; wives and daughters were safe by day and by night; but now we were surrounded by wickedness and abominations of all kinds. The wicked had desired to defile Zion, if possible; they had laid their traps for corrupting the youth of Israel and all who were not sufficiently founded in the love of God and in the strength of the Holy Spirit. The speaker admonished the Saints to be on their guard against the abominations of the world and encouraged husbands, wives and children to love each other, be true and faithful and act so that confidence and good will would be the crowning characteristics of the household. Parents should be careful in the example they set before their children, and parents a source of consolation, which God could approve and which finally would become the means of saving their offspring, even if some should temporarily stray away.

The choir sang:

Captain of Israel's host and leader

Benediction by Elder A. H. Raleigh.

AT THE TABERNACLE.

The choir sang the "Hosanna" anthem.

Prayer by Elder David H. Cannon.

Singing by the choir:

Worthy is the Lamb that was slain.

The Sacrament was administered about the direction of the Bishopric of the Thirteenth ward.

PRESIDENT WILFORD WOODRUFF made the opening remarks, stating that although suffering from a severe cold on the lungs, and therefore feeling indisposed, he yet desired to say a few words to the vast congregation in Conference assembled. He referred to the many great and interesting truths which had been laid before the Saints by the Conference Conference, and then proceeded to enlarge upon the subject of faith. Strange words, he said, so many marvelous things had been accomplished. He looked upon faith as one of the most important principles that God had ever revealed to man. The enemy had labored against the Church of Christ in every age of the world; the enemy had labored against the people, and they had, nevertheless, great cause for thankfulness for the many mercies which the Lord had vouchsafed unto them. President Woodruff touched upon the war measures of this Territory, and made special reference to the valiant conduct of the negro troops, which he felt was deserving of their hearty support. The Church has shouldered the responsibility to a large extent, in order to make the Territory a success. The speaker paid a tribute to Brigham Young for the great work which he accomplished while among the Saints on behalf of the Church, and acknowledged the faith and prayers of his brethren and sisters through which he knew, in the mercy of God, he the last task preserved to this hour.

PRESIDENT GEORGE Q. CANNON

read a portion of scripture from Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, wherein he said, was set forth with great fulness the reason why there should be Prophets and Apostles in the Church of Christ. The speaker dwelt at length upon the authority and power of the Priesthood, and discoursed on the subject of revelation. According to revealed information and Christian science, he said that Satan was rather the means to bind the already down in chains of darkness and hell, then in everlasting destruction. He desired therefore to bear testimony against the doctrine of Latter-day Saints, and to warning to all Latter-day Saints, who believed in such miracles. Let the people beware of the coming and delusions of men. President Woodruff was a man of God's ordaining, just as were Brigham Young, John Taylor, and others who had been sustained with him. And he was conscious of his duty now. God grant that his people might never stray beyond the line of duty which the Lord through His chosen servants had marked out for them, and they would always remain excellent in the truth.

The speaker made some closing remarks in opposition to the doctrine of reincarnation—the re-appearance in the life of certain men who had lived in other dispensations. He characterized the theory as false, and warned the Saints against entertaining it.

Conference adjourned to meet on April 6th, 1894.

The choir sang the anthem,

Lead, kindly light.

Benediction by President Wilford Woodruff.

SEE WHAT IT HAS DONE FOR ME.

I am as good as any man from the dead. A few months ago I had given myself up to die, and by mere chance I heard of Killer's Geneva Mineral Water, from Dennis, New York. I acted on the Water Depot in Portland, Oregon. I felt the agent I had been for about twenty years with what is commonly known, or in Germany is of the blood, also eczema, that I had lost fifty pounds weight in the last year, and that I would soon cease to be. Over a month ago I began using Killer's Geneva Mineral Water, and I am all to so well. I weigh twice as much as at that time than I ever had been, and was using medicine all the time for the last six years. Well, to make a long story short, by the time I had used five gallons of the Geneva Water I had almost forgotten I was sick, and felt so well good it that I had to tell everybody I met, and up to this moment I have used fifteen gallons. Time will tell whether or not I will be cured, but I am so completely well. While using the Geneva Water I had to cease medicine to get my sleep at all, and stop drinking the Mineral Water I can sleep as well as I ever did. If, hereafter, all you can see of me will be writing with Uncle Sam, Brother of Mamoth Alliance of any kind, the Geneva Mineral Water will save you. It has saved me.

Come and see me and judge for yourself, and I will tell you all you want to know about the Geneva Mineral Water. It is for sale at my address, 100 Postoffice Box, Salt Lake City. Don't forget to try it before more and remain.
