INFLUENZA HITS LONDON HARD.

French Papers Promise Queen Victoria a Lively Reception.

STORY FROM PHILIPPINES.

Relics of Sir Walter Scott Sold at Auction—Prince of Wales' New Order.

London, March 4.—(Copyrighted, 1899, by the Associated Press.)—Influenza has reached an epidemic form in London, being responsible for one in eighteen deaths during the past week, when the deaths from the disease reached a total of 131. But the increase was accompanied by the least number of deaths from pulmonary affections recorded during the present winter.

The cheering announcement comes from Berlin that Prof. Wassermann, one of Prof. Koch's oldest pupils believes he has discovered a serum for the cure of pneumonia. Experiments with animals have been successful and he is now operating upon human beings.

The weather has been bright and cold.

The two drawing rooms this week brought the people to town.

The Japanese minister presented Miss Astor, who wore a white toilette, with silver embroidery and a satin train, bordered with silver, and carried a bouquet of white lilies. The United States ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, is still sojourning at Christophe's hotel and is busy home hunting. He has received an invitation to attend the annual dinner of the associated chambers of commerce on March 15. The other guests will include the lord high chancellor, the Earl of Halsbury, the lord chief justice, Baron Russell of Killowen, Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, and the president of the board of trade, Mr. C. T. Ritchie.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S TRIP.

The arrangements for Queen Victoria's departure for the Riviera next Thursday have been completed. Her majesty will travel to the south of France by way of Boulogne-Sur-Mer. Instead of the Cherbourg, being the first time she will have visited Boulogne since the Prince's death.

Some interest is taken in the fact that the queen's yacht will be convoyed by eight of the fastest torpedo boat destroyers in the British army, five of them being thirty knot boats. Crusoes have previously been engaged for the duty and the use of destroyers, it is hinted in some of the papers, is intended to act off the French coast and talk about submarine torpedo boats.

There is much indignation in England at the scandalous and coarse attacks made upon Queen Victoria by some of the newspapers of Paris this week. The Liberal Press is an insignificant article and "Frankly, the queen will be well advised if she does not come to France this year. The sentiment manifested shows that it was Lord Salisbury and not the queen who inflicted the outrage of Fashoda and the humiliation of Mount au France will not suffice. It is well known that Darlington and Queen Elizabeth's policy throughout her long reign and she has never relaxed in supporting her authority against France. Under the circumstances, therefore, her visit is an additional insult and because of public opinion, if she for this reason it will only be her own fault if she meets with a hostile reception in France."

M. Cassagnac's Autorite says: "The queen becomes our guest at a moment when the British government has made itself more than ever our enemy. Her journey will be full of the same risks as the Maine incurred in entering Cuban waters and the French government is responsible for the same foolishness as Spain. Finance by not preventing France from being placed in such position that the consulate of Mr. Rodd represents both powers into a terrible conflict."

After such insinuations as the foregoing, it seems possible that the queen's visit to France will not pass without some disagreeable incident. A special police staff has left Paris to watch over her majesty at Cannes, where her heavy baggage is already arriving.

Queen Victoria pays $12,000 monthly for her own house, without counting the expense of her suite, numbering sixty persons. Altogether her little trip will cost her about $15,000. Her Shetland favorite white donkey and numbers of pet dogs and birds have been sent ahead.

Her majesty also has a custom when about starting to her own bed, which is taken with her wherever she goes.

The Prince of Wales went to Paris this week and visited the exposition grounds. He proceeds to Cannes on Sunday.

SHOPOCRACY LEAGUE.

The prince's wonderful scheme known as the Leagues of Mercy, in connection with which a new work has been published, for those who collect and distribute the contributions of workers for the Prince of Wales's hospital fund, five years work being required for admission to the order, is severely criticised in several quarters. The Daily News thinks the prince has not been fortunately advised in connecting himself and in covering the sanction of the queen to such a scheme. The paper calls it an "organization of workers by the aristocracy which is repugnant to the idea of charity and not calculated to add to the dignity of all concerned."

The annual report upon recruiting for the army shows a slight increase in the physical development of the recruits but 24 per cent have still been rejected owing to unsatisfactory physique. The announcement is made that captains per 1,000 are short in Ireland and that only forty-five per 1,000 are deemed sufficiently well educated.

STORY FROM MANILA.

There has been a revival of the sensation caused a few weeks ago by the alleged disappearance of Prince Ladislas von Lowenstein-Wertheim, who married Lady Anne Scott, the daughter of the Earl of Mordecaunt. He married a good deal in English society and then disappeared mysteriously. An adventuress impeding after his whereabouts caused considerable speculation in the London press and now a telegram from Manila has been published saying the prince is at Manila, has been there for more than a month, was present during the destruction of the Spanish fleet and was a member of the European club. He, it is added, has behaved around reticent and he was thought to be acting as the confidential agent of the Spanish government. After Manila surrendered, it is further alleged, the prince was allowed to pass in and out of the Spanish and insurgent lines, each party apparently regarding him as favorable to themselves. For a few days, it is even added, he was a voluntary aide-de-camp of General Miller, though he was never commissioned with the American army. The English papers are wondering what is the meaning of these "mysterious movements."

CREW FOR ENGLISH YACHT.

Sir Thomas Lipton has engaged a crew for the cup challenger Shamrock, numbering thirty men. Half of them are picked Clyde yachtsmen, have long been members of the Thistle's crew and the remainder are Irish sailors.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie is expected to return in May to Skibo Castle, which is being refurbished and furnished during his absence in America.

A number of relics of Sir Walter Scott were sold at auction this week. Among them were eight these letters which fetched 1,15. His walking stick, a manuscript of his poem in the woods of Abbotsford, was sold for £26, and two locks of his hair went for two guineas each. A guinea is $5.25.

Struck a Sunken Rock.

San Francisco, March 4.—The big collier Wyefield, now on the dry dock, had a narrow escape from destruction on her last trip from Nanaimo. She struck when out from the sound, and it is evident that she found a rock not down on the charts. That she was making water was soon discovered, but the source of the leak was not discovered until she was docked, when a hole 20 by 10 inches was discovered in her bottom away inform near the keel. Her keel plate was bent and a new one will have to be put in. If it were not for the fact that the Wyefield has water tight compartments she never could have reached port.

Attacks in Wall Paper.

Hiaria, N. Y., March 4.—Dr. E. M. Chanoil, of the chemical department of Cornell University, has announced that, as a result of the chemical analysis of wall paper which he has been carrying on for several months, he is able to state that nearly all wall paper sold at the present time contains arsenical poison, some of them in startling quantities.

Dr. Chanoil's investigations were prompted by a result of the serious cases of arsenic poisoning which was said to have been caused by colored with paper recently sold, while. One of these cases was in W. S. Bancroft's family at Cornell University, which was confined for two weeks with the pains. Chanoil says there is no book for the popular market that gives paper contains the most arsenic.

Joseph Jefferson's Sister Dies.

New York, March 4.—Cornelia Jefferson, whose name by marriage becomes Mrs. Jackson, died at her home in this city at the age of 62. She was the only sister of Joseph Jefferson, the comedian, in childhood she went on the stage and played her life she was more or less connected with the dramatic profession.

Valuable Horse Shot.

Nashville, Tenn., March 4.—Tremont, the thoroughbred stallion, the property of General W. H. Jackson, was shot in the stable with his stable boy looking on. Nothing could be done and the stallion was killed. He cost General Jackson $17,000 some years ago at Sanford's sale.

HER NEW PRINCIPALITY.

England's Plan of Government Adopted for Soudan.

Of recent political incidents, the most striking and the one most likely to draw a sharp line of cleavage between the British political parties is the creation of a new independent state in the case of the Mahdist empire.

The territory which General Lord Kitchener, by his valor and conference and by subsequent military operations, is now to add to Egypt, is not, relatively or proportionally, for civilization stretches from the Red Sea to the west, and from the Nile and Lake Victoria Nyanza, which still remains the southern output of Egypt, to the source of the Nile. This territory comprises an area of upward of 1,200,000 square miles, and before the waste of life resulting from the wars and neglect of the Mahdi and his successor, Khalifa Abdullah, was estimated to contain more than 15,000,000 inhabitants. Under a wise and firm government, which should give encouragement to agriculture, it could be made to support a population of 30,000,000.

Two modes of administration were, in the first instance, suggested, each of which was, ultimately, discarded. The first of these was a protectorate in the system which had been followed throughout the Eastern Soudan up to the defeat of Mahdism, a system which placed the country under a governor-general, residing at Khartoum, who was not only appointed by the Khedive, but necessarily received instructions from the Khedive's ministers. Under this system, the inhabitants of a large region, while nominally controlled by a viceroy dwelling among them and supposed to be more or less acquainted with local conditions, were really governed from Cairo, some two thousand miles away, where the wishes, needs and circumstances of the Soudanese were imperfectly understood, and where orders and decisions could only be accepted at the cost of intermediate delay. The other proposed solution of the problem was that the status of the Eastern Soudan should be assimilated to that of a British crown colony, and that the country should be administered by officials directly responsible to the colonial office in the British metropolis. This alternative also had many advocates, and it would be undoubtedly better for the Soudanese to be governed from London than from Cairo, notwithstanding the greater distance of Mahdi, in consequence of the latter nature consideration of the subject, however, in the course of which the writer has paid to the conversations of General Lord Kitchener, the governor of the Khalifa, and of Lord Cromer, the Egyptian governor of Egypt, the military cabinet decided to institute in the Soudan an entirely new scheme of government, the principal features of which were defined in a proclamation issued by Mr. Balfour in the absence of the secretary of state for the colonies, the cardinal feature of the plan is the creation of the whole region south of Wady Halfa is hereafter to be governed neither from Cairo nor from London, but exclusively from Khartoum. General Lord Kitchener, the governor, is to be invested with powers absolute, and neither the Khedive's ministers nor the members of the British cabinet are, in any sense, to interfere. He is authorized to establish a new code of laws, which will be, in effect, the old one, and that neither Catholic nor Protestant missionaries will be suffered to enter the country. It is well known that Gordon, when governor-general of the Soudan, was strongly of the opinion that no European rule could be made acceptable to the Mohammedans, and that the Christian religion, plurality of wives was prohibited. Under the government which is now to be founded, Mohammedanism is not merely tolerated, but is practically made the religion of the state, while the propagation of other creeds is forbidden.

SUGAR IS KING IN CUBA'S ISLE.

Car Load of Saccharine Matter for Santiago.

FIRST LOT FOR TWO YEARS.

Timber Lands on the Island are in Big Demand—Survey is Greatly Needed.

Santiago de Cuba, Feb. 28.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The first car of sugar that has come into Santiago since long before the blockade and the first that has been produced since the spring of 1895, was marketed last week. It came from the Santa Ana plantation near San Luis, the first to begin grinding. There was quite a celebration among business men in the warehouse district and Senor Aznar, proprietor of the plantation, was warmly complimented on his enterprise in starting the new era of prosperity.

Sugar is king in Cuba. On the big plantations and their dependent colonies has practically depended the prosperity of the island. Many mills have been destroyed and will require time and new capital to replace, but those remaining are now busy the work of grinding as rapidly as possible.

One of the difficulties encountered by planters whose mills have escaped destruction is lack of cane to haul the cane. Of the hundreds of thousands of work cattle formerly employed on the big plantations, scarcely any have survived the war. The cattle business is the most active of any here at present. Cargo lots from Jamaica, San Domingo, Puerto Rico and Central America have been rushed in and even Texas has taken advantage of the excellent market, although West India bred stock is preferred. Well broken oxen sell readily at from $125 to $200 per yoke and the demand greatly exceeds the supply.

One of the largest planters, Mr. Bigelsy, has imported a number of American traction engines as an experiment and is using them successfully in hauling cane.

A number of representatives of American syndicates are examining tracts of land in the interior with a view of purchasing. Captain C. C. Vaughn and Lieutenant T. C. Cheney of General Lee's staff, have purchased from the Grimm Heirs, of this city, a tract comprising 13,000 acres of choice cedar and mahogany land in the Nipe bay district. This the first big real estate transaction in this province since the war. The tract embraces some of the finest timber land east of the Havana district, and is admirably adapted to sugar and coffee culture when the timber has been removed.

The demand of northern investors is for timber lands. Much of the available timber of value has been cut off, but there is a practically unlimited supply in the interior. Land can be purchased at from fifty cents to $1 per acre. Much of this land will be practically without value for agricultural purposes, but is regarded as an excellent investment for syndicates able to wait for the much desired railroads or to build them for themselves.

Land prospectors in the interior find a serious difficulty in the lack of reliable maps.

Native guides know the roads, such as they are, but to locate a tract of land from such descriptions as are found on deeds is sometimes almost impossible. Frequently surveys and their agents have only a vague idea of the location and reliable information is unable to indicate the exact boundaries.

A complete and accurate survey is greatly needed.

Don't Experiment.

When grip attacks a person of nervous temperament there is usually a great depression of spirits, the patient is plunged in despair, and no amount of argument or raillery has any effect on his misery. The man or woman whom nerves become so shattered that it is a torture to remain in bed, and the slight is painful to a vain attempt to get a little sleep is on the down grade to nervous prostration, insanity and death. There is no time then to experiment with new and untried remedies. Neglect or delay in this respect is prove a sad mistake.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is the best of all medicines for the nervous, tired out and sleepless victims of the grip, just as it is the best remedy for all other weaknesses and disorders of the nervous system.

"I attribute the minute germs of impurity clustered in the blood and thoroughly coats them out of every hidden corner of the body.

"I was extremely nervous and although I doctored with several physicians I could not gain strength. My nerves became so badly shattered that I could scarcely sleep at all, and I thought I should surely die. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and in less than a week I was feeling very much better. After taking six bottles I was completely restored to health."

C. E. HACKIT, Greene, N. Y.

A trial package of Dr. Miles' favorite treatment for the grip, consisting of Dr. Miles' Nervine, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, will be sent absolutely free of cost to any person sending name and address on a postal card, mentioning this paper and describing the name of this paper. Address, Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
