SWEPT BY GALES

Destruction From a West Indian Cyclone.

MANY PERSONS KILLED.

Ships Wrecked in the Harbors and on the Sea Coast.

STREETS LITTERED WITH DEBRIS.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge, the Largest in the World, Demolished.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 29.—The West Indies cyclone that swept over this city yesterday has hardly been equalled in intensity and destruction within the memory of those living here. The wind reached the highest velocity ever recorded in this city, namely, 72 miles per hour, and then went to pieces. The barometer went to 28.90. It would go even below the record of 28.91 of 1893, but the storm continued longer.

The blow was practically over within two and half hours, but for that time raged with an intensity never before known. The roofs were rolled up every where as if tissue paper. There must have been a hundred tons of tin rolled off of the roofs in Savannah. Brick and wires fell everywhere, and hundreds of roofs were totally demolished. It is impossible to enumerate the buildings unroofed or partially damaged. Shattered trees covered every street and there with hundreds of fallen wires made the streets impassable for hours. The total damage is estimated at $700,000 to $1,000,000 in Savannah and the county.

The list of known fatalities is about six in or near the city. There has been no way of reaching an island where the storm was worse, it is likely the fatalities number a hundred. William Johnson, a young white man, was killed by a falling roof. W. J. Thompson was killed in the wreck of A. S. Bacon's rubber mill. Four negroes were killed in a house on Twelfth street; another negro was killed by a falling tree. Captain S. J. Murphy of the tug Turner, was sunk in the river and drowned. C. J. McIlhiny, of the Southeastern Fibrer company, and a negro were also killed on a tug.

DAMAGE TO SHIPS AND BUILDINGS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 30.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Savannah dated yesterday says: A worse storm than that of August, 1893, if not the worse in the memory of the oldest living, was at its height at 12:30 today. Business in city was suspended over an hour, the storm being furious for that length of time. No persons dared to appear on the street. Steamers sailed and elevators stopped running, electric currents were shut off, through water or breakers of brewing. Windows and chases were blown in everywhere; wires untied down, trees inland, fences blown down, houses unroofed and portions of big buildings were torn away. Vessels were turned over in the river. Church steeples topples and the stores were literally strewn with debris at every imaginable kind. People were afraid to stand for an hour in Savannah. The strongest buildings in the city trembled. There is the greatest apprehension for vessels out and for small craft that are known to have been in the blow.

Relatives of persons known to be at sea are frantic in their endeavor to receive news from them early. There are reports that there has been loss of life in the city. The loss is estimated, will reach $600,000 to $800,000.

There was an indication at 5 o'clock of severe wind and that hour the observer's office was blown out of working order, the barometer at 29.20. At 12:15 it was 28.90, and after that hour there reports from it could not be secured.

The last report of the observer received from Tybee was at 12:15, when wind was then blowing forty miles an hour there. Since then it has been impossible to secure connection with the island.

The damage to shipping was great. The tramp steamer at the Plant system wharf is aground; the bark Hesperides, Norwegian, was blown from its moorings and capsized. She is a total wreck. The Ocean Steamship company's steamer Chatahoochie pulled away from her moorings and got out to the stream, but is all right. The steamer Flora lost at 8 o'clock this morning with a heavy cargo for Brunswick. Nothing has been heard from her. The steamer Gov. Safford was to leave Beaufort for Savannah at 10 a.m. There fears are entertained for the vessel. She was due at Tybee at 11 o'clock. It is thought the storm waxed that hour at its height at the island. The bark Hinky, arrived in Savannah, left here last night at 11 o'clock for Brunswick in tow of the tug H. M. C. Smith. Those interested in the vessel and the owners of the tug are worried. The lighter Jessie, formerly left at 8:30 a.m. with 500 bales of cotton bound for Brunswick. She was in tow of the tug Corbett. The tug returned safe this afternoon and reports the lighter safe in port.

Among the prominent buildings are: City exchange, Savannah theater, John Rourke & Bro. carriage factory, Savannah pants factory, Conmer & Co., the Guss' factory, Henry Blun and Bro., wholesale grocers' building, the Brown & Co's planing mill, Plant System shops, Central Railway of Georgia shops, Chatham Artillery armory, Pythian armory, Lutheran church, the roof of the City and Suburban Railroad company and the Savannah brewery.

Throughout the city blinds are either totally demolished or damaged and many principal retailators are suffering. There has not been such a general throw down to this city for years. The loss of life, it is feared, will be great. Already ten deaths are reported and more will come tomorrow.

There are reports from islands about the city inhabited by negroes and the loss of life, it is believed, will be heavy on those.

Within two hours and a half after the storm began the sun was shining and the rain ceased. The streets were filled with curious sightseers this afternoon. The city is in total darkness tonight, owing to the blowing down of the electric light wires.

THIRTY MILES AN HOUR.

MILWAUKEE Sept. 30.—Late night the wind reached a velocity of thirty miles an hour at Milwaukee, blowing straight from the north. During the night the barometer dropped to 29.28. At 8 o'clock this morning the wind was blowing at from the northwest 24 miles an hour and the barometer stood 28.40.

AN ELEVATED RAILWAY.

The large Sumatra, the consort of the R. W. Arnold, from Chicago, with a load of railroad iron, foundered off the northwest pier here early this morning. Four sailors were drowned. The captain, mate and cook were rescued by a life-saving crew. Lost were: Arthur Burnette, Charles Hammer, Patrick Primrose, Peter Anderson, all of Westway City. Rescued: Captain Charles Jackson, John Herbert, Frederick Parter, the cook. The Sumatra was leaking all night. When she reached South Point she got in the trough of the sea, and in a short time her hatches were washed off and the rails were carried away. The steamer sounded the whistle. The tug Simpson put out to the wreck. As she was coming high and great difficulty was experienced in gaining near the sinking barge. Yet the saving crew waded hard, but were unable to save all of the men on the barge.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 30.—The elevated tracks went down with scarcely a moment's notice. The cars did not even have time to mount the rigging after realizing that the tracks were breaking. "The tracks in gave way like a lot of lead, and inside a minute or two," was the way Captain Jansen described it. The captain jumped into a yawl boat which rolled and pitched fearfully towards the breakers. The yawl was half full of water and being knocked about in a dangerous manner, when the tug Simpson, towing the lifeboat and crew was making toward the wreck against a heavy sea. Captain Bustin of the lifeboat, discovered the yawl rapidly drifting toward the breakers and at the risk of being himself, the boat and crew, cut the rope which attached his boat to the tug and began the life and death chase for the drifting yawl. After a lively run the life boat overhauled the frightened craft and rescued Captain Johnson. The life boat crew then put southward to cut off the breakers which were washing over their boat every moment, fearfully making the lifeboat under sail. "The life boat was under water almost half the time," said Captain Bustin. "It was broken here in Milwaukee such breakers. At times the sea passed entirely over the house at the lighthouse station, and the pipers along the harbor were entirely covered by water when we were out. Before taking out the life boat and crew, the tug Simpson made a trip to the Sumatra and rescued the mate and cook who were drifting among the wreckage. One member of the Sumatra's crew was rescued by Robert Worley, the engineer of the tug Simpson, by putting him on board by the hair of the head, but a heavy piece of drifting timber struck the unfortunate fellow and he sank beyond reach and he sank before the tug could again get near him. Some heroic work was done by Captain Cassell and the crew of the Simpson, too, like Captain Bustin and the life saves, they were nothing short of heroes. The steamer Arnold found it impossible to do anything for the barge and made for the harbor without her.

The Sumatra was owned by the Mill Transportation company, Port Huron, Mich., and was valued at $15,000.

RAILROAD BRIDGE DEMOLISHED.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 30.—Over an hour last night the city and vicinity were subjected to the severest windstorm ever known here. It is impossible to estimate the damage, as the wires are partially demolished or the extent of the damage. Within a mile and a half of the city the Pennsylvania railroad bridge, the largest of the kind in the world, was blown down. The bridge was 1,000 feet long and 70 feet high. Two men are reported to have gone down with the bridge.

NO TRAINS RUNNING.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30. — Last night's storm did great damage to this state, but as the wires are down in nearly every direction, it is difficult to obtain reliable information. The storm swept through Lancaster with the most great damage. North of Reading there was also much damage, but no trains are arriving and there are no wires. The wires of the Western Union and Postal telegraph companies and the long distant telephone are down in all directions. The Western Union sent fifty linemen from this city on early trains through the state and on the main lines such. It is reported that trees are blown across the wires in different localities and groups of poles are broken off and wires strewn along the ground. Between this city and Baltimore out of 100 wires only five are working. South of Baltimore there is not a wire at any sort. In this city there was a heavy downpour of rain but little damage, accompanied by high winds.

In New Jersey the storm was also severe. Trains from western Pennsylvania were delayed. The trains on at 2:30, 8 and 9:30 a.m. were from five to ten hours late. Arriving at Camden they have heard of no destruction. The Pennsylvania wires are down west and south.

TRAINS DELAYED.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 30.—A terrific wind and rainstorm broke over this section about 2 o'clock this morning and raged with fierce intensity nearly two hours. Trees were blown down in twenty of sixty miles an hour, prostrating telephone and telegraph wires, entirely cutting off communication with the east, and, so far as can be yet known now, doing no serious damage. Heavy washouts are reported on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Huntingdon, and all trains are delayed six hours late. Large forces have been sent out to clear the tracks.

WORKINGMEN KILLED.

READING, Pa., Sept. 30.—At 2 o'clock this morning the east house of the Temple furnace at Temple station, Reading, was blown down by the high winds and nearly a dozen workmen were covered in the ruins by heavy timbers. It was some time before they could be extricated. Killed: Edward Roemiller and Samuel Frey. Injured: William Culer, James Rosenberger, Jacob Brecker, William Sneider and William Mertz. All were badly hurt and some are likely to die.

DAMAGE AT BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—A severe hurricane struck this city at about midnight last night. Houses were unroofed, wires prostrated and windows smashed. The high wind forced the water in the harbor into the streets. Almost the entire northern waterfront is submerged. Several schooners broke up at Pratt street wharf, broke from their moorings and were resting in the middle of Pratt street. The lower floors of the warehouses are flooded. The storm was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain.

THE REPORT FROM CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Great damage is feared and many accidents resulted from the furious gale on the lake last night. The most serious accident to the fleet of Chicago occurred this morning when the schooner Seaman broke from her moorings in the slip at the foot of Randolph street and went to the lower end of the harbor, where she wrecked and damaged a number of small craft. A number of men had narrow escapes, among them being Captain McCuaig of the Seaman. Three or four sailors were thrown into the water and forced to battle for their lives.

The city experienced last night the heaviest wind and rain storm of the season. The wind reached a velocity of 48 miles an hour. It was the big storm in May, 1893, has Lake Michigan been so rough. Spray from the waves dashed far over the breakwater and on to the tracks of the Illinois Central road.

The steamer City of Milwaukee, from St. Joe, Michigan, laden with passengers, had great difficulty in entering the harbor, but finally succeeded after three attempts, though with the loss of the tug mast. The tug H. D. Coffinberry, belonging to the Lake Michigan Transportation company, which left Peshtigo yesterday with her series number 1, 2 and 3 barges in tow, reached safe harbor Chicago harbor. She succeeded in gaining the protection of the breakwater with two barges, but the third broke adrift and could not be picked up owing to the big seas. She let go her anchors and is still out of the storm, having apparently suffered no damage. There was considerable danger that the cars with which she is loaded will go overboard.

Of the great flag which was stretched across Clark street between the Auditorium, where the Republican national headquarters are located, and which, nothing remains but two strings. Many signs blown down town streets were whipped to ribbons. The total rainfall was 1.44 inches.

MOVING WEST.

Prof. Gerrick of the weather bureau today said: "The West Indian storm has moved west of north and is central this morning in the vicinity of Lake Huron where the barometer reduced to 29.50 and the wind blows 25-32 miles. The westward movement of the storm has been attended with easterly gales along the Atlantic coast, over the lake region, in the northwest advance of the storm has been attended by heavy rain and high winds, the highest velocity reported being 52 miles. During the day and tonight the storm will move eastward over St. Lawrence valley."

FIFTY MILES AN HOUR.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The wind raged here at a velocity of fifty miles an hour this morning. Small out-buildings were blown down. The storm center had passed by daybreak. High water prevails in the harbor and all navigation proceeds with great caution.

COLLIDED IN THE STORM.

NEW HAVEN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—During the storm on the Hudson river the passenger propeller Redfield collided with the tug boat Edwin Terry off Cold Springs. The pilot, George Hammond and three others, Robert Rose, of the tug Terry were seriously injured.

WASHINGTON STAKES UP.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The windstorm last night gave Washington the worst shaking up ever had. The wind blew in a rotary manner, reaching a velocity of seventy-five miles an hour. The rain was driven in torrents. Lightning darted and the thunder shook and shook every place of thunder continued to make nature a world oddrom. A few trees, branches, fire escapes, sheds, were demolished, the roles crushing Betty's restaurant and Kelley's Dairy Lunch stand, the latter being entirely wrecked. Four wagon sons released. George Sutton, a negro, was pinned in the wreck at 11:45 o'clock. The steeple of the New Jerusalem church, Pennsylvania avenue, was blown off. The tower of the Grand Opera house was turned to the sidewalk. Trees were everywhere uprooted, trees being entirely torn down. Many are from complete stockades. Some of these were made compact with the addition of the roofs from the houses, sign boards, shutters, fencing, etc. Telegraph, telephone and electric light wires snapped and the ends dangling.

At Water front every boat received a terrible wrecking. The Mattaso, an excursion steamer, had holes above in the side and was half sunk. It is next to impossible to compute the loss. About 11 o'clock a crash that could be heard a mile away caused by the falling of the Metropolitan railroad power house on Fourteenth and Half streets. Six houses within half a block were shaken. Seven men working in the building came out just in time to save their lives.

Colorado Republicans Gather.

COLORADO SPRINGS Col., Sept. 30.—The incoming trains this morning brought hundreds of delegates of Republicans (McKinley) to the state convention. United States Senator Wolcott, it is said, will be accepted by Dubois at the convention and make a speech. It was announced this morning that the state convention would not meet until July 9, instead of 19 as at first, for which it was called, as the Coliseum will be occupied during the interim by the Congressional convention of Colorado, which, it is expected, Senator Allen of Denver, unless he positively declines, will be nominated for governor this afternoon.

OUT OF MONEY.

Financial Straits of the Bryan Democratic Party.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A special to the Tribune from New York says:

"We are out of money," admitted Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic committee, in reference to the national campaign, when regarding the financial straits of the Bryan contractual bureau.

Chairman Jones said further: "I am here to see if I can raise the money. Bryan is coming to New York for a conference about the opening tour. I wanted to arrange for his trip through the West. He will go to St. Louis from Chicago, then from St. Memphis October 5. Then he will go to Nashville, Tenn., October 6, and from there through Indiana and Ohio to Cleveland, October 8. Now, I am willing to take silver or currency in payment if custom permitted.

Yours truly,

ARTHUR SEWALL.

Gave Armenian Outrages.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Daily News Constantinople correspondent says that patrols are parading the city in unusual numbers, and that the patrols have been notified that some outbreak will occur tomorrow.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily News quotes a Constantinople dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung, which says the governor of Erzerum telegraphs that a thousand Armenians were crushed to death at Nikde on Sunday. This dispatch also says the sultan has given $150,000 to immunity the foreigners injured in the massacre.

IN TEXAS.

McKinley's Majority Estimated at 10,000.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—A special to the Republic from Dallas, Tex., says: Republicans here are working hard to pull Texas into the McKinley column have been in conference with Populist leaders today. The conference has been satisfactory. Senator Marion Williams and Harry Tracy of the Populist plenary committee and Mr. Curnion, secretary of the Populist state committee were present. Two pages were being matured. The Populists will cannot be induced to vote for Bryan electors, but will cast a Populist electoral ticket are to be provided upon to vote for Bryan and Watson instead of Bryan and Sewall electors. Populists will also be asked to vote for McKinley. Then all the trading position is to be done on the Populist state ticket to get votes for Bryan and McKinley.

The latest figures made by the Republicans are: Total vote of the state, 500,000; Bryan and Sewall electors, 240,000; Populists, 10,000; McKinley, 250,000; Republicans, 125,000; Populists, 30,000; gold standard Democrats, 25,000; McKinley's total vote, 195,000; McKinley's majority, 10,000.

THE BERING SEA FLEET.

Work by the Revenue Cutters Patrolling the North Pacific.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 30.—The revenue cutter Corwin, which yesterday arrived here, nine days out from Unalaska, she is the first of the Bering sea fleet to come from the north this season and reports all well.

The revenue cutters cruising in the North Pacific ocean and Bering sea were the Wolcott, Grant, Perry, Curtis, Rush and Bear, and up to the date of the detaining of the fleet they had cruised 79,000 miles and boarded sealing schooners 182 times. The cruises Satellite, Iaaca and Pressant of the British navy sailed in succession with the American fleet.

Seven schooners were seized during the season for violating the regulations of the Paris awards.

The James G. Swan, Patt Townsend, Jane Gray, San Francisco, Alaska and Viva, Victoria, and Beatrice, Vancouver, were seized for being found within the closed area of sixty miles from the Pribyloff islands. The Sitka, of Juneau, was seized for sealing in the North Pacific without a license and the Aurora, of Victoria, for sealing outside within Bering sea. There are fifty-five schooners engaged in sealing in Bearing sea after August 1, three-quarters of them British vessels. The weather has been favorable for sealing, but seals have been scarce and the average catch has been little over half that of the season of 1895.

The Bear reached Point Barrow, closed the relief station there and brought away the keeper. She also brought to Onnalaska Rev. Sheldon Jackson, superintendent of Presbyterian Missions and the mate and eleven seamen of the wrecked whaler Hilling. Brochet named being given free passage on the Bear from Onnalaska to Puget Sound and San Francisco.

Murder Caused by Jealousy.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Jennie Lewis was shot in the head and instantly killed by William Swanson today. Jealousy is the cause. The murder then goes to show that the belief which exists that the women's life was taken for William Lee, a negro with whom Swanson was quarreling.

Jealousy about the woman is the cause alleged.

THE PRISON CONGRESS.

Crime Increasing Everywhere—Suggestions of Prominent Speakers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 29.—At last night's session of the prison congress Rev. Samuel G. Smith, lecturer on sociology in the Minnesota state university, said that no crime to its mind thus is economics.

Mr. Smith, in starting out, said statistics taken in England showed that at the time greatest during the days of prosperity than during the time of business depression. This, he said, was not quite the fact that the fact that during times of prosperity drunkenness and dissipation led up to the committing of crimes. He said that the population the effect that crime had increased in the United States while it had decreased in Europe was entirely a fallacy. His observations had shown that the increased quantity of crimes were committed by the most advanced and morally most progressive nations.

The following resolution was offered by J. A. Kingsley of Berlin and was unanimously adopted:

Whereas Sunday, October 25, 1896, has been designated as "Prison Sunday"

Resolved, That the National Prison association earnestly requests all clergymen in the United States to preach a sermon or hold a service on that day in the interests of prison reform and the prevention of crime.

Resolved, That the wardens and superintendents of prisons and reformatories who publish newspapers are requested to publish a prison sunday edition early in October and to circulate it among the convicts in their respective states.

A STRANGE STORY.

Century of a Child Transferred from Mother to Father.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 30.—The filing of a bundle of papers with the clerk of the superior court disclosed a strange story whose principal actors are wealthy people of Bay City, Michigan. The principal document placed on record was a modified decree in the case of Kate Bradley vs. F. E. Bradley, in which the custody of their child Bertie, formerly awarded to the mother, was transferred to the custody of the father. The latter is the son of F. E. Bradley sr., one of the best known lumber kings of northern Michigan and several times a millionaire.

The Bradleys were married in 1884, but not long afterwards Mrs. Bradley, accompanied by her little son, left home and her husband's mother, came to southern California, where she obtained a divorce in July last. The case was pending when she died here by Samuel A. Benton, a New York lawyer, who came ostensibly to assist her in prosecuting her suit, but married her. Immediately after the decree was granted. The Bentons then returned East, leaving the child to the custody of their landlady, Mrs. Mayer, who, it is said, had thoughts but finally communicated with his father's attorneys who have so adjusted the matter that the child is transported across the continent to his grandfather's home in Bay City.

SHEELING TO MCKINLEY.

A Big Eagle Sent Him from Gull Lake.

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 30.—A big eagle caught in the hills near Berkeley a few days ago has been sent to William McKinley at Canton, Ohio, by Senator Eli Dunstee. Accompanying the bird was a letter, part of which read:

"We bears you our greetings from California, and lately illustrates the swiftness, strength and courage determined will and unconquerable spirit that animates the Republican party in this district and state. The letter is inspired and guided by Gulch Gulch, a white record, but the principles and consistent position you so ably maintain today."

DISASTROUS HURRICANE.

The City of Brunswick Badly Damaged.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Atlanta, Ga., says: A disastrous hurricane swept over Brunswick and along the Georgia coast this morning. Meager reports have been received from the storm center, which was so severe that it cannot be one of the most terrific and that great damage and probable loss of life resulted. All the wires along the coast are down, and up to a late hour communication has not been restored to Brunswick, Savannah or Charleston. The wires are down for a distance of forty or fifty miles this side of Brunswick, and no information has been received from that place except by a train which left there while the storm was still raging. The train was delayed in Brunswick two hours this morning, the engine being unable to make headway against the wind, which was blowing at a high velocity.

People were injured by flying objects, and one lady was killed at Everett, a small station a few miles from Brunswick. The railroad track was obstructed by trees and poles, and the only train which came through from Brunswick was preceded by a wrecking train and crew for a distance of twenty miles.

H. M. Merrill of the Atlanta Telephone company reaches Atlanta late tonight from Brunswick, and states that the city of Brunswick is badly damaged and that three big vessels are ashore in Brunswick harbor. The vessels were blown away from their moorings.

The Mobile was blown from her place and was floating helplessly in the harbor in danger of going to the bottom.

Part of the Oglethorpe hotel, the leading hotel of Brunswick, was blown away, and other big buildings were totally or partially wrecked. Four persons were killed, outright.

The Atlanta Journal, Sept. 30.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Savannah says:

A worse storm than that of August, 1893, if not the worst in the memory of those living here, was at its height at 12:30 o'clock yesterday. Business in the city was suspended for over an hour, the storm being furious for that time. No persons dared appear on the streets. The monetary loss, it is estimated, will reach $600,000 to $800,000.

Hundreds of awnings are either totally destroyed or damaged and many of the principal stores of the city are unroofed. Ten deaths are reported and more will be reported tomorrow.

A BADY SCUFFLE.

A Negro Assaulted by Deliberately Throwing Off a Steamer.

DALTON, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Though he is a mere lad, it was a felonious motive that charged little seven year-old Carl McIlhaney to plan and then execute a desperate shot and kill his playmate, Tommy Kidd.

Tommy Kidd was sitting in his chair in court to which, by means of hard work, he had been lifted, for he was little paralyzed body from waist to room. He was just fourteen years old, having for ten years of short existence been an invalid and confined to the house. He was bright, intelligent and had an aptitude for study. The parents of Tommy, who only boy, left two weeks ago, Mr. Kidd to be the Methodist of the country to the care of Mrs. McIlhaney, who is a widow. Carroll, little McIlhaney, has been the subject of the whole community ever since he caused his uncle's arrest. Two years ago he set fire to his mother's home, and in the attempt burned himself from one of Carroll's practical jokes, slapped Carroll. This was the provocation for the murder. Last Saturday afternoon the boys were in school. Carroll had secured a single-barreled shotgun to the McIlhaney house. The gun was not in the final earnest. The barrels were empty. Carroll loaded and said that can, nodes hard barrels, cone down, considerably drew his belt under from the range of his chair, aimed at little Tommy's neck and deliberately shot and killed him instantly. He put the gun back into the sewing machine place. The body of the dead boy had fallen into the aisle. He let his seat and taking his little sister with to speak the rest of the afternoon with the neighbors. The little girl was not in the schoolroom. He will have many a criminal suit for the murder he has committed.

He is a year too young for trial. However, difficulties made to send him to a reform school.

The Wilkins Schore.

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 30.—H. M. S. Wild Swan is since somewhere along the Central American coast, searching for remains that have not reached England, in the wreck. The particulars are still obtainable, but it is believed that she is a very dangerous position, at least until authorities are of the opinion, as the Comus has been ordered south to assist her. The Comus is now at Esquimalt, ready for her trip and will take Esquimalt on Thursday morning at daylight.

NOT SNUBBED BY TREAKER.

The Farewell Reception Was Called Off But Not in Scorn of Bryan.

A Special Dispatch.

A great deal—quite a misapprehension, it seems, it is presumed—was made in the Tribune this morning over the abandonment of the proposed elaborate reception at the Theater on Friday evening to the departing officers and ladies of the Sixteenth infantry at Fort Douglas. The reason for the feeling shown is based on an alleged snub said to have been given by Colonel Treaker, the new post commandant, to a committee of citizens who called on the Fort by invitation with the Fort by invitation. With yesterday afternoon. According to the Tribune's report the committee was rude and discourteous to Treaker, who politely and courteously received them. The committee had Colonel Treaker, his officers and the whole garrison at their mercy, and proceeded to snub and insult them. The Tribune's report of the interview is a tissue of falsehoods. The Twentieth were quite organized a considerable period the organization of the Twentieth. The Twenty-seven years ago to the young people and their wedded life may be a good prosperity. They will have a reception this evening at street, the residence of Mr. Rodney Jr., brother of the

LEADVILLE STRIKE.

No Conciliation Expected as a Result of Tonight's Meeting.

MINE OWNERS BUILD STOCKADES

Union Men Need Not Apply for Work—Warlike Preparations Being Made.

LEADVILLE, Colo., Sept. 30.—No action of a conciliatory nature is expected from the meeting of the Mine Miners' Union this evening and the mine owners are preparing for the worst. Fences are being built around the principal mines preparatory to resuming work with non-union miners. The stockade to inclose the Iron group of gold mines, including 3 the Jonathan, the construction of which was begun by a large force this morning, will be a mile in circumference and will be built entirely of lumber. A hundred thousand feet of lumber will be used in the construction. All the fatalities of the union miners living in the stockade erected on the mine company's ground, will be evicted, the company paying the house on rents where the buildings are worth. The Iron company is receiving applications for work and claims to be able to secure all the men needed to entry. The mine employes of the company's mines did not strike as they were receiving $3 per day, the union scale, but when the strike was inaugurated at the mines where the rate was $2.25 the Iron company discharged all its employes. Now only men who will be employed at the mines.

It is said that over 300 members of the union have signed a paper acknowledging the policy of the union detrimental to their interests, and they will be powerful if it is brought to bear.

To put a stop to the guerilla warfare on the hills at night it is proposed to place two flash lights at points from which the entire country around can be swept and the guerillas detected.

Smith and Silver.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29.—A special to the Enquirer from a noted political writer, with a Leadville date, quotes the following letter:

BATH, Me., Sept. 24.

Mr. L. C. DeLong, Louisville, Ky.:

Dear Sir—In reply to yours of the 22nd inst. I desire to state that it is true that I am making contracts with the gold clause inserted. I have always made my contracts regarding the way for the last forty years, and I doubt if I could make them in any way. Charter contracts for freight, I suppose, are subject to the law. "Freight payable in gold or sterling." I call to me why I would be entitled for collecting the coin in my business that has universally obtained for the last forty years in my knowledge. I am perfectly willing to take silver or currency in payment if custom permitted.

Yours truly,

ARTHUR SEWALL.
