WHO WAS THE REAL HERO OF SAN JUAN HILL?

A much mooted question since the war closed has been the charge up San Juan Hill. Friends of the various gallant officers who faced the Spaniards' hail of death have claimed the distinction for their favorites of being the real hero of that historic charge. According to the military standard, that man is the hero of an event whose presence prevented a different outcome. Captain George L. Kilmer, the famous authority and writer on military topics, has investigated the claims of the different officers by exhaustive correspondence with every one who could possibly shed any light upon the subject, from General Shafter and Wheeler down to the humblest private. The result is that he has found the real hero of San Juan Hill—the man but for whose presence there, there might have been a different story to tell. His reasons for his deduction Captain Kilmer will set forth interestingly in the Saturday Evening "News."

LOCAL BRIEFS.

The potato market is showing up pretty strong in prices now, as buyers of "spuds" have reason to feel.

A change from today's light snowstorm to fair weather is promised for Saturday by the weather bureau.

A runaway down East Temple street about 4:30 this morning caused considerable excitement but no further injury than a badly damaged buggy.

Decorators are at work in the office of the Dalton hotel, and when their work is done the hotel will have one of the handsomest offices in the city.

This evening there will be a temperance rally at the residence of O. D. Peyton, corner of B and Seventh streets. The meeting is under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

The closing day for the present Legislature is March 5, but the last legislative day may be prolonged over the 10th and 11th, as it is usual to have a lot of business to rush through in the closing hours.

Capt. Joseph B. Batchelor came in today from the east and assumed the command of company M, of the Twenty-fourth infantry at Fort Douglas. The company has been under First Lieutenant W. H. Dashiel since its formation.

Band Master C. H. Schaffner of the Twenty-fourth infantry band, has gone to Los Angeles for his health. Mr. Schaffner has been unable to get the malaria out of his system since going to Cuba, and makes the trip at this time upon the advice of his physician.

Representative Parry has purchased the large picture of the Legislature of 1892, formerly owned by Shipler, and will present it to the branch Normal school at Cedar City. It was the Legislature of 1892 that passed the law for the branch Normal school at Cedar City.

Attorney General Bishop holds that no liability exists against the State for reason of damage from the increase water from irrigating the Agricultural College farm. His opinion was given in answer to the query of the board of examiners regarding the claim of the Logan and Richmond irrigation districts for damages amounting to $5,000.

A little daughter of J. W. Summerhays of Forest Dale is suffering considerably from an accident which befel her on Wednesday evening. The child was on a high chair, trying to reach an article from a shelf, when the chair tipped, and she fell, striking on her chin. She fell backward, her head upward and backward, and the large swelling which followed quickly must be reduced before the precise nature of the injury can be determined. Meantime the lower jaw is practically immovable.

CAUCUS REPLIES TO A. W. M'CUNE.

Does Not Want Him to Withdraw from the Senatorial Race.

TELLS HIM SO IN A LETTER.

Letter Signified a Willingness if Desirable to His Supporters—Open Letter to King and Powers.

The legislative supporters of Hon. A. W. McCune in the senatorial contest caucused at the Knopp last night. Twenty members were in attendance and from Mr. McCune received the following:

Ladies and Gentlemen—Last evening, Judge O. W. Powers and Mr. W. A. King, the latter representing Judge W. H. King, called on me as my headquarters and submitted a proposition in writing, signed by Judges Powers and King, and which they requested me to sign, agreeing that each of us should draw from the senatorial contest and recommending that the ladies and gentlemen who are now supporting us serve upon some Democrat who is not now before the Legislature. I informed the gentlemen that no caucus of my supporters had been arranged for that evening, and that I would submit the proposition for your consideration this evening. I am now, as I have always been, entirely in your hands. I will accept your decision and retire, or continue in the race, as you may conclude best for the party. Let me add that I shall accept cheerfully any decision you may come to and shall be grateful as ever for the support so unselfishly given me up to this time. Yours sincerely,

A. W. M'CUNE.

The subject matter of the communication was discussed at length and it was unanimously agreed that Mr. McCune should be requested to remain in the race, and in accordance therewith the following reply, signed by twenty-eight of his supporters, was presented to him:

"Dear Sir—We, the undersigned members of the Third Legislature of the State of Utah, hereby respectfully notify you that at a meeting held this evening, the letter referred to as by you from Judges King and Powers, in which those gentlemen propose to withdraw from the senatorial race, providing you serve in the interim, was carefully considered. In reply to you, we desire to state that it is our wish that you remain in the contest, fully believing that your election can be more easily accomplished and under existing circumstances will be of greater benefit to the Democratic party and the State than that of any other person. Yours truly,

"A. J. Evans, John E. Hansen, A. C. Benner, M. W. Mansfield, Horace Cummings, John Parry, William M. Bowlance, R. T. Lloyd, William O'Neil, J. V. Robison, John H. Pulliner, J. W. Clyde, L. H. Rodd, J. K. Wright, J. Robertson, Robert Dennison, Joseph G. Rywater, A. W. Forman, Richard B. Shepard, Aaron F. Farr Jr., Alice Merrill Horne, Harden Bennion, Martha H. Cannon, R. K. Thomas, Thomas Chambers, O. F. Whitney, R. R. Tanner, John G. McQuarrie."

M'CUNE TO KING AND POWERS.

Mr. McCune last evening also sent the following open letter to Judge W. H. King and O. W. Powers, the two other Democratic candidates for the senatorship:

Gentlemen—On Wednesday evening last you honored me with a call whose spokesman King is, the person of his brother, Hon. S. A. King—and proposed we should withdraw from the senatorial race that is now agitating the politicians in this district. You proposed for my signature a document which provided for our joint retirement, in the premises, and which bore evidence I had no part, but which, as an evidence of good faith, already bore your distinguished signature. You gave me to understand that the preparation and signature of this instrument a proofound desire to preserve unity in the Democratic party, which, in the discussion of the question, I had expressed to you on the occasion of our interview in the Knopp and of which there are no more conspicuous members than yourselves.

I should be pleased to be able could make no reply until the proposal had been submitted to the consideration of those who had supported me by their votes. It may be that Judge Powers had consulted with the worthy gentlemen who have manifested their confidence in me by a support that I will concede does him credit because of its faithfulness, while Judge King may have voiced the sentiments of the adherents of his brother, who gave to him with a loyalty that bespeaks a high recognition of his sterling qualities. In this he deserves, I am understand that those voting for you both have concluded that our protracted efforts in your behalf are useless. I know that some have taken independent of the assent or knowledge of those who through all the trying incidents that have marked a contest that has counted for much in our party, have given me an opportunity of consulting with these friends, who, in championing my cause, have brought to my support of it the highest count, twenty-one distinct members of the Legislature, all representing the Democratic party, requisite for a majority, and take it to secure an election as today balloted for Mr. Powers, and less than one-half the number supporting Mr. King. My supporters have proved that if minority cute were to count in Democratic ranks I must continue in the race. I therefore, expired to you that I would accept the proposal of those who have won my lasting friendship and gratitude by an adherence to my cause in the face of many obstacles which are subtle, yet none the less unkind because unseen.

And I was induced of a fact which Judge Powers will undoubtedly confirm, to be promised me his cordial support if he could not be elected. I also received the assurance given me by Judge Powers, voluntarily offered, that I was his choice if he himself could not win. With such a virtual abandonment of opposition on your part, I felt that involved in the proposed submittal to me last evening, I am at a loss to know why I should not call upon you for an explanation in the spirit of the tender of friendship and good will made without any solicitation on my part. When I told my friends in the caucus may take tonight, I cannot forsake. Their decision will be mine—mine in heart and in cheerfulness.

As they have also a member of the Legislature here wedded to me or been held for a moment by promise or pledge, actual or implied. And I shall be proud always of the hearty and unselfish support given me. So also, will I continue a Democrat—giving to the cause such support as I can, and being willing even though a contravention of the rule at this time may compass my defeat, to accept and abide by that fundamental doctrine of Democracy—the right of majorities to rule.

A. W. M'CUNE.

DEATH OF MRS. NELLIE S. WELLS.

The many friends of Gershon B. Wells will sympathize deeply with him in the demise of his estimable wife, which sad event took place today. The lady has been ill for some time, and all that loving hearts and medical skill could suggest was done for her, but to no avail, and she passed quietly away today, leaving a husband, two children and numerous relatives and friends to bear the sad loss. Nellie Sheets Wells was the daughter of Bishop E. F. Sheets of the Eighth ward, and was in the 39th year of her age. She was a most lovable woman, whose noble qualities had endeared her to all her acquaintances.

The funeral services will take place in the Eighth ward meeting house on Monday, February 20th, at 12 o'clock noon.

The Young Ladies' National Mutual Improvement Society is composed also entirely of Utah women, as follows: President, Mrs. Elmina S. Taylor; proxy for president, Mrs. Martha H. Tingey; delegate, Mrs. Minnie J. Snow; alternate for delegate, Miss Mae Taylor; program committee, Mrs. Ruth Young Galvin; resolution committee, Miss Alma M. Cannon. The latter is a daughter of Angus M. Cannon, and cousin of the present Senator from Utah.

SALT LAKE'S CHINATOWN.

Visit Paid to the Mysterious Region of Plum Alley.

Chinese New Year's Celebration at an End—Talk with a Prominent Chinaman on the Event.

The hubbub of fire crackers, and the strange cries that have been heard, for the past week or more, in the mysterious region of Plum alley, Salt Lake's Chinatown, ceased last night, and the Chinese new year is now an event of the past. The fends and air-derbs have taken their flight, and today the Chinese merchant, laundryman, peddler, restaurant-keeper and gambler settled down to work again.

Last night a party of curious ladies and gentlemen, accompanied by a "News" reporter, paid a visit to the scenes of noisy and strange mirth. They had for their guide Hong Hop, who is one of the high mucky mucks of Chinatown. Hong greeted the visitors with "Kung he fay Choy," which in English means "A happy new year to you." He then explained all about the Chinese new year, and said the season was a sort of double celebration, for it was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the birth of the present Chinese emperor. During new years all business is suspended and the Chinese men and women and children all put on their best attire, and, in addition to gorgeous, worn by the better class, are very gorgeous affairs; long silk robes with fringed silk girdles, new shoes and wide sleeves. All business is suspended, and the debtor class is put in way for getting out of debt before the advent of the new year, for it is considered a disgrace for a Chinaman to owe another during this period as well as an ill-omen.

New year's calls are made, the men taking with them red slips of paper, bearing three characters in black. The first character gives the surname and the other two the common everyday name. If the caller is a married man, the last two characters are to signify his married title. Among the Chinese, Hong Hop said, it is the custom to give the married man two additional names.

The ladies, in making a call on each other, exchange fruit and hold conversation a little longer than men do.

The children are remembered with "li-shee" (good luck money), which is given to them during the holidays wrapped in red paper. After these explaining matters to his guests, Hong Hop led the way into the rickety old buildings in Plum alley. Only two dens were visited, and in these places the air was thick and heavy with tobacco smoke, opium, incense from burning joss sticks and pungent odors only known what. Crowds of Chinamen (no women) in one place were seated and standing around a large table, engaged in playing, and watching, taking of the game to be a game of dice. Others were smoking and talking like so many parrots. Some were eating, gambling and drinking tea, and all seemed to be busy doing something. Hong said they were all feeling "shoel" and paying lots of fines.

It must be said that the Chinese are liberal to a fault during new years. The lady members of last night's party were presented with a number of beautiful Chinese flower plants, as well as an abundance of fruit, candy, nuts tea, etc. The gentlemen also were made recipients of numerous presents. After wishing Hong Hop and the rest a "Kung he fay," the party sallied out of the alley and hurried home.

A TELLING LECTURE.

Two colored farmers, one an old man and the other a younger one. The young one took off his apron and started for the door.

"Ya's gwan to get a drink, Jim?" asked the elder.

"Dat's what I'm gwan to do."

"Go and get yo' drink. I used to do de something when I was young. When I was married dah was a gin mill next to the store who I worked, and I spent in it fifty and ninety cents a day, outen de dollah and half I collected. Well, one morning I went to de butcher's shopah' who stood ready in fut de man who kep' de liker shop.

"Gib me ten er twelve pound porterhouse steak," he said.

"De ole man wo' wout out. I speaked up to de butcheh and looked to see what money I had left.

"What do you want?" said the butcheh.

"Gib me 15 cents wo' of liker," was my remark.

"It was all I could say for. Now you do as ole yo' drink. You'll cut yoh throat, but you can what sells you de stuff will rob his poterhouse—dat man in front outa rubber. I ain't touched de stuff for thirty years and I am eatin' po'terhouse myself."—Ex.
