NEWS OF THE WEST.

A Tragedy Very Narrowly Averted During a Dice Shaking Game.

A MOST DESTRUCTIVE HAILSTORM.

A Young Man Goes Insane as the Result of Being Nearly Drowned.

Albuquerque is said to be making her usual effort to render the New Mexico territorial fair a great success, and that the present outlook is for a fine display, a big crowd and an attractive programme.

A shocking suicide has occurred at San Bruno, Utah. As the mail train approached the depot a man threw himself in front of the engine and the entire train passed over him. He was crushed and mangled beyond human resemblance.

Captain H. J. Moore and J. E. Elder have returned from the Big Hole Basin, says the Dillon (Mont.) Examiner. The gentlemen report that the ranchers have the largest hay crop ever harvested there. There are plenty of stock cattle and they are all in an excellent condition.

Three men attempted to rob the S. James hotel, at San Jose, Cal., early the other morning. Fred Swan, the night clerk, was knocked down, but Porter McCarthy came to the rescue and two of the rascals escaped to their pal, who was on the outside. Much money had been placed in the safe at the hotel during the day.

Parties in from Hound creek report chaparral fires in the forest five miles, says the Great Falls, Mont., Tribune. The fire started in the vicinity of Squaw hollow and is supposed to have originated from a camp fire which had been carelessly left without being extinguished. A large amount of valuable timber has been destroyed in the vicinity.

M. L. Martin was over from Birch creek Saturday and tells us that the hail storm destroyed 3,000 bushels, principally oats and barley, on his ranch in that neighborhood. Others suffered even more severely. Here again the hog proves himself the farmers' best friend, for the grain thus destroyed makes the hog secure.—Grangeville (Idaho) Free Press.

The reconstruction made on the White House, the property of the Portland company at Cripple Creek, Colo., is said to be without doubt one of the best finds made on Battle mountain for many a day. Everything in the vein, which is over three feet in width, is pay ore. Hitherto only prospected, eighteen sacks of the ribbon of the ore were recently sampled and gave returns of over $13,000 per ton.

Henry Krause, the young sporting man who went insane as a result of being almost drowned in the swimming tank at Alum Rock Park, near San Jose, Cal., last week, shows no signs of regaining his senses. A peculiar feature of his insanity is said to be that he retains enough reason to believe that a promise should never be broken. Two attendants keep with him constantly and unless he improves soon he will be committed to an asylum.

John Lee, Sr., who owns the hotel Mateo, and Waltemeir, the proprietor of a hotel and wagonette house at Belmont, Cal., started to shake dice for $70 a rattle, the other evening, in the Hotel Mateo. Lee shook a full hand, and Waltemeir refused to shake. The latter drew his revolver, when Lee asked it and commanded: "Shake dice or you die!" Waltemeir refused, and bang went the weapon, the bullet barely escaping Waltemeir's head. Friends separated the men.

W. T. Shirley, of South Butte, Montana, about two years ago, was accidentally shot by Dick Norman. The latter fired a revolver to frighten Shirley, but the bullet went upward, apparently into Shirley's left eye. Physicians probed for the ball, but without success. The pain continued, and was so great that the physicians were finally obliged to cut out the eye ball. This relieved the patient, and since then Mr. Shirley has tried to get along the best he could with one eye. Recently Mr. Shirley was sunstruck, and he seemed real hard. The consequence was he sneezed up the bullet which had lodged somewhere between the eye socket and the bridge of the nose, and had stayed there two years in spite of all efforts to find it.

Baker City Democrat. Last Friday was the time set for the preliminary examination of John W. Young, who on the previous Sunday in the Eagle Valley shot and killed Mrs. Murphy and inflicted knife wounds upon the person of the husband of the deceased, and at the appointed time the defendant appeared in Justice Kinfaile's court, and through his counsel, Judge R. S. Anderson, of Baker City, waived preliminary examination and his bonds were fixed in the sum of $4,000, which at last accounts had not been furnished. The feeling in the neighborhood is considerably divided and there is a factional tendency. However, all look upon the killing of Mrs. Murphy as accidental and unintentional on the part of Young, who is deeply grieved over the unfortunate affair. As for Murphy, little sympathy is expressed, as he bore the reputation of being a bad man. Young, on the other hand, had always been peaceably inclined. Still, it is thought that punishment should be meted out to him for his rashness, even though he is not blamed for protecting himself against the attack of Murphy.

A New Employment.

A boy who had visited the office of a certain humble merchant a good many times as a messenger and had heard how the old man talked to offending clerks had his place and at once applied to him for a position.

"I've got nothing for you to do," was the ill natured response to the boy's request, but it never phased him.

"I don't want nothin to do," he replied promptly.

"What are you coming to me for, then?"

"Oh, I just want a place to set around in your office, so you kin cuss out to everyone you get mad and then's nobody else hardly. I'm kinda spoil'd to that sort of thing. My pa ain't no Sunday school scholar himself."—Detroit Free Press.

The silk with which spiders weave their webs is a thick, glutinous, transparent liquid. Like a solution of gum arabic. It hardens quickly when drawn into threads and exposed to the air.
