WANTS A SECRETARY.

The Stock Exchange After a Successor to Mr. C. E. Hudson.

THAT GENTLEMAN OUSTED THIS MORNING

Pits Encountered in the Wandering Jew—The Star Consolidated—Business in Stocks—Miscellaneous.

WANTED—A good, capable and efficient secretary and caller; one who does not dabble in stocks, but who will pay strict attention to the duties of the office without showing the least disinclination. None others need apply. Salary $50 a month. Address, Dave Moss, board of the Salt Lake Stock & Mining Exchange.

The above "ad" is inserted without rush. In view of a vacancy in the official roster of the mining exchange, upon which date honor is due. As general notice to the mining public C. E. Hudson has filed the position now valued for nearly three years, and so far as money has given excellent satisfaction. But as changes must occur occasionally in order to keep things moving harmoniously, it has been adjudged and decreed proper that Mr. Hudson take a back seat.

Something like six months ago several of the members of the exchange began to find fault with Mr. Hudson dabbling in stocks and at the same time holding his position as secretary and caller. Then the gentleman was shorn of his right to act as broker on the exchange, and he accordingly called in his coupons to buy and sell stocks in his stead. Things worked smoothly for a while until it was apparent to some, and not long, they thought so—that Charlie was loading heavy on those stocks in which he was interested than he did on others, and this was the basis for another kick. As there was not enough grounds to make quite warm for Mr. Hudson, and it is stated that about a month ago certain members of the governing board became so dissatisfied and worked up, that they took steps to remove the gentleman without any reason whatever. More conservative members of the board, however, took offense at this, and refused to bear in the premises, and Mr. Hudson was asked for his resignation.

His resignation tendered, the secretary began to look up the law a little, and is acting with more care than ever, the activity and by-laws of the exchange. Mr. Hudson discovered that his tenure of office was secure, in that he had been regularly elected rather than appointed, as provided by the by-laws. In order to prevent such a thing from occurring again, he offered a motion to amend the articles of incorporation, the same to effect making elective the offices of secretary, caller and treasurer, with the further proviso that their terms of office be for one year. The amendment was introduced several days ago, and the time having arrived for a vote to be taken thereon, it was called on this morning and precipitated quite a spirited debate. Some members thought it all right, while others objected to "railroading," and put their stamp of disapproval on it. Going to a vote, however, the amendment fell short of a two-thirds support and was therefore killed. Prior to this, Mr. Hudson's resignation had been called up and tabled.

The day's work over in the pit, the governing board held a short meeting call then and there removed Mr. Hudson, thus causing the vacancy noted above. Tomorrow the board will meet again and take action on the appointment of a successor. Thus ends Mr. Hudson's tenure of office as secretary and caller of the Salt Lake Stock and Mining Exchange.

ENCOUNTERED THE VEIN.

Owners of the Wandering Jew Strike it Rich in Beautiful Canyon.

On Saturday evening Jim Olson came down from the Wandering Jew, located in south Mountain in beautiful canyon, where he has been engaged in the pastime of "seeing what he could find."

He brings a good report from the mine. At first the company sunk a shaft of the ledge, but had reached a depth of about fifty feet when water caused further progress. Then it was determined to tunnel the mountain from below, and on Saturday, at a distance of 105 feet, the vein was encountered. The ore has improved with depth, an average assay showing 18 ounces of silver, 35 per cent lead, and 15 cents in gold.

The boys are jubilant over their good fortune, because of the vein being a true fissure and demonstrating itself to be permanent, thus making of the property a very valuable one.

THE STAR CONSOLIDATED.

Two Splendid Ore Chutes in This Property, Both Yielding Good Values.

The Star Consolidated at Tintic is reported to be in excellent shape. In the past few months the mine has shown wonderful development and at present it is said to be showing two distinct ore chutes, one principally gold and other values, and the other lead. The former will run about $60 to the ton, while the latter, it is stated, will go $40. These ledges have been pushed 50 feet from the surface, and as depth is attained, separate rather than come together.

A party of local mining men visited the property last week and are much interested in its splendid showing. The mine, say they, is one of the biggest things in the Tintic district, and the ore, or most of it, is purely a shipping proposition, and is netting the miners owners a good sum per ton. Shipments have been quite frequent of late, and today the property had three cars to the depot.

Above the Star on the same hill, is a ledge from which considerable iron ore is being taken, although other metallic values are also encountered, which in the same vicinity is the great Dragon iron mine, which has proved itself a phenomenal producer of this metal.

TRADING IN THE PIT.

Good Business in Mammoth and Swansea—Figures Well Maintained.

Taking the consideration the amount of other business the brokers had to attend to this morning, the day's work in the pit was quite creditable and some of the best stocks on the board were traded in.

The first to do business was Mammoth, which handled 100 shares at $1.35 and 100 at $1.33. Some others in the same vein, that is but little generally, were Brooklyn, Cardiff, Colorado Prince, Lower Mammoth, Mammoth, Ontario and Uncle Sam.

The stocks entitled the silver were Swansea and Omaha, the former showing considerable strength in view of 5,000 and the latter holding up well by finding takers at $1 cents. Among other stocks Colorado Prince, Swansea and Dexter were in evidence with good figures, while some of the smaller securities also shared in very favorable recognition.

The closing figures were as follows:

Young Prospectors at Work.

Carl Ashby and Charlie Price, good two youngest prospectors in the district, youngest prospectors in the district, they thought so—that Charlie was locating heavy on those stocks in which he was interested than he did on others, and this was the basis for another kick. As there was not enough grounds to make quite warm for Mr. Hudson, and it is stated that about a month ago, certain members of the governing board became so dissatisfied and worked up, that they took steps to remove the gentleman without any reason whatever. More conservative members of the board, however, took offense at this, and refused to bear in the premises, and Mr. Hudson was asked for his resignation.

Jackson System of Station.

The question whether or not our own city can successfully followed in the Jackson system, has been definitely settled by actual experiment. About two weeks ago forty pounds of mixed ores was taken from various parts of the Upper Platte mining district, were forwarded by Messrs. J. H. Hassett and Alfred Heath and sent to Denver. They were given to the assayer there and found very easy to work. The ore seem was intended to be of low grade and refractory. The copper obtained was 5 per cent. The gold was higher than was expected, giving 1.142 ounces to the ton, worth $23.65. There was a trace of silver. The copper bar and gold button have for several days been on exhibition at the office of the town company.—Grand Encampment Herald.

DIPS AND SPURS

Silver, 59½; lead, $3.95.

John Dern went out to Mercur this morning.

A strike is reported in the Oregon mine near Alta.

The Utah mine at Fish Springs, has a car of ore at the sampler.

The Sacramento company will its August dividend of $1,000 today.

Work has been resumed on the Whiterock county claims near the Consolation at Park City.

The Park Record says the Cumberland people have decided to go to a depth of 1,000 feet, and to that end will put in a new steam hoist.

A trial shipment of ore from the Copper King in Big Cottonwood amounted about 11 per cent copper, between 2 and 3 gold and a little silver.

The Dalton company has levied another assessment of half a cent a share, the same to be delinquent Sept. 20th, to be sold a month later.

The Copper King Mining company filings circled into Silver shares. Its properties lie in Big Cottonwood and Joseph Stickley is president, William J. Kearns, vice president and Frank A. Bird, secretary and treasurer.

Charles Crisman, who has just returned from the Washakie mine in southern Idaho, pronounces the property in good shape. He says the mine shows strong ledges, and will undoubtedly produce good ore bodies.

Murray Earle: Mr. Frank Atwood has given up brick making, livery stable, sheep herding and the whole lot and gone mining. Last week he made a shipment of ore from the "Utah Volunteer," a new prospect near Alta, which netted him $5 a ton.

Park Record: The McGregor mill started up Sunday morning last and is now pounding away regularly. About carloads of smelter ore is being worked every twenty-four hours and the results attained appear to be perfectly satisfactory. Aside from several hundred tons.

Butte Miner: At the Alice in Walker-ville, at the 300 foot level cross-cutting pushed north to tap a virgin lead, will be in rich in gold and silver, is under way. At the Blue Wing on the Pittsburg Frazer has been raised 18 feet to allow better facilities for dumping waste rock. The usual amount of ore is being extracted. At the Velsnor and Moyle Chorts the usual amount of ore milling ore is being extracted, and development goes on.

ABOUT INGERSOLL.

To the Editor:

After reading you a brief letter touching upon war matters I read Ingersoll's article on the Philippines in which he strongly advocates their retention by the United States, and in which, as you pointed out in your article of Tuesday last, he makes the statement that we send teachers, not preachers, that we should not take from the inhabitants the superstitions of Spain to give them the superstitions of our own country. As I read his article I thought of calling attention to that statement as well as to another in which he says the islanders were barbarians when the Spaniards found them several hundred years ago and are worse savages now.

I am of the opinion that Mr. Ingersoll's tub will not hold water though my objections are not the same as yours. It was a generous and humane impulse that actuated "Bob" when he advocated the civilizing of these people, but his statement that the teachers should precede the preacher was not original. It has been made over in reference to the work of elevating savages. The man who gave it greatest prominence was David Livingston, the great African explorer. He was a devout Christian. His statement was received as a wise and practical one. The necessary may be a teacher. If so he will see the importance of preliminary common education as a basis for theological education. In fact this is the course pursued now I believe by most missionaries in "the heathen."

What Mr. Ingersoll doubtless intended was that the civilization of the United States should be carried to these islanders. But there I think he wrote without reflection. Spain was once a civilized nation. Nobility; that is, titles, families, royalty, priest craft and greed overrunn her civilization. Greed was the most degrading influence under which she lived only to decline. She carried her civilization to savages in various parts of the world and everywhere the weak went down before the strong. But how much better has been the effect of promoting the civilization of France, Great Britain and after the United States savages? The North American continent has been taken by force from the Indians because the weak go down before the strong. We have long boasted of our Christian civilization, and yet we have crudely disregarded the very foundation of Christianity as presented by Jesus of Nazareth—the Brotherhood of Man.

Why has it been forgotten? Because English-speaking people are as much controlled by greed, by worship of Mammon as the Spaniards ever were. The North American Indians have been driven back and down because the white wanted their lands, their fishing and hunting grounds, and Christianity has been powerless, even where some of its professors perceived, to prevent the wrong, the crime. Love of money, land and opportunity to increase wealth will people Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines with white men who care no more for the weak islanders than others cared for our Indians. In the end the fate of the native at all the islands that seem to be coming to us will be the same as that of the poor creatures who once welcomed the whites to the new world as people from heaven.

It is a horrible thought to contemplate, but it will move to be the truth, unless Christianity, if it be the saving grace of God for the elevation of mankind, can first convert our Christians to a Christianity that sincerely accepts the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man as an eternal truth! At present our Christian civilization is carrying out Darwin's idea of "The survival of the fittest." Not the best, but the strongest, regardless of right or wrong. We are but little in advance of Spain as the guardian of men and women who are wholly incompetent to hold their own against men whose lives are devoted, not to the good of mankind, but to the acquirement of wealth by any means.

If law of nature and law of God are the same, there is no mediation for all the weaker portions of the human race, for as the strongest grow stronger, the weaker become less competent to withstand them. If, on the other hand, it is the will and purpose of God that injustice and unrighteousness shall be overthrown and a time come when the weak shall have the same protection as the strong can command, then, without sparing any forcemeat, I say to say that, in my opinion, it is time something should be done; and I say again that the first thing to do is to convert Christians to Christianity; that is, persuade those that indians, Cubans, Porto Ricans and Philippines are just as much the children of God as are the sons and daughters of the United States, or any other so-called civilized nation.

Robert Ingersoll will never raise his voice to wrong the weakest of the earth, and I believe he would agree largely with the thoughts I have penned. He is not an enemy of religion so far as it stands for rational thought and practical efforts for good. He is the opponent of the dogs, pretense and fraud in so-called Christianity, and God knows there are plenty of them everywhere.

Your Islanders, I grieve for you! Civilization stands armed around the world and finds non-and in every nation waiting for opportunity to incorporate you in its dominion, and yet it is only the old tales of Little Red Riding-hood because a fact. Civilization is the wolf of ravening and if God cannot help those who fall, woe to unarmed laws, their fate is already settled, or, if we only were, as a nation, to take the hand of the weak and stand by Humanity! But, alas! we are only following in the footsteps of every nation that has risen from poverty to power.

Some theorist sanguinely says that the war of rebellion in which four million slaves were given freedom, but not one share defined freedom because the nation, the people, knew it was right, knew it was the will of that power we in our utterance call "God" and feel in our hearts pure and holy. Not so, but because the nation was compelled to give the slaves freedom in order to save its own existence. The soldiers and sailors of the regulars and the volunteers placed themselves in position where they might be ordered into it doubtless furnished with the thought that they were risking their lives for the weak cause of Cuba and for the honor and glory of the nation. But the nation's glory was not increased, and a few years will demonstrate that humanity has not been really benefited. The war will be campaign theater for two years in national politics, and greed will grow upon it for a long time. The poor wretched of the country will sink and disappear and the world will move and move forward the property of a few who by wealth are called Rich Men, that want to elevate mankind, will move and move strong to accomplishment in the rule of the strong. God will move and move forward the straightly dollar, and humanity will, in the mass, and struggle for life on the earth that should be given equally to all. Yet I say that if there on earth a religion, disabled to make matters right for humanity it never was more needed than now. Not the religion of Christ, but that of the barbarians, not the alleged Christians of the world, not the brothers but the civilized nations. Truly, the blind leaders are the blind leading the blind and both must fall. No civilization can endure that is not based upon a practical recognition of that social system that has been the dream and hope of the best for ages, the Brotherhood of Man, a condition all men will refuse to take with them in the right, not through fear of God, but because God is in them a living and developing power for good.

CHARLES ELLIS.

Funeral of George Hassett.

The funeral of George Hassett, the little fellow who on Friday succumbed to injuries received the Sunday before, was held in the Fifth ward meeting house yesterday commencing at 12 o'clock. The remains were viewed at the family residence by numbers of his little playmates and Sunday school associates, and the funeral services were presided over by Bishop H. M. T. Reddish. Music appropriate to the occasion was rendered by the Fifth ward choir, under the leadership of Conductor J. E. Salisbury, and remarks were made by Elders Fred May, Archibald Freemalre, H. B. Bitter, W. A. Cowan, S. H. Harper and Hyrum Redden. The consoling closing prayer was offered by Elders Thomas C. Nuttall and Richard Belmer respectively. All the speakers allowed words of consolation to the bereaved ones, and paid tribute to the little lad who was unexpectedly called away. A large concourse followed the remains to their last resting place in the city cemetery.
