THE case of S. F. Cummings, Jr., vs. Thomas Williams, which is to be tried today in Commissioner Pratt's court. The arguments were unusually long considering the amount involved, and the questions were quite voluminous. The ruling of the Commissioner gave the plaintiff judgment for the full amount claimed, less $2.50. A stay of execution for five days was granted. Mr. A. Kenner represented the plaintiff and Messrs. Lewis & Kelsey the defendant.

GONE TO THE WALL.

Failure of a Clothing Firm on Second South Street—Bell Trace Said to be the Cause.

The firm of Sipperley & Co., clothiers, who have been carrying on business in the Morlan block, on Second South street, west of Main Street, has gone to grief. The members of the firm came to this city from the East about three months ago and went into business soon afterwards. All went on with apparent success until yesterday afternoon, when the following notice appeared on the window: "Frank W. Rose, assignee." The liabilities are given as $2,000, with the claims of preferred creditors $10,000. The assets are at present unknown.

Judge Judd, attorney for the defaulting firm, has filed with the county recorder a list of judgments, giving a full list of preferred creditors.

Amusement Notes.

"Sport McAllister" will be presented at the Salt Lake Theatre tonight and tomorrow night. The piece was written especially to fit the peculiarities of Mr. Gaspar and the author has produced "a genuine treat in the way of fun and music."

EDGAR S. WILLARD, supported by Mr. A. S. Palmer's special company will hold the stage for one night not a week, beginning with commencing Jan. 26th, "The Middleman" will be given Wednesday and Saturday, and "Judah," Thursday and Friday. Judging from what is said about Mr. Willard by Eastern and Western critics, his appearance here may be looked forward to as a memorable event in the theatrical season. But we shall see.

WONDERLAND.

There was a large crowd last night at this place of amusement, and the programme was even more than usually attractive. The little gentleman, six years old, with a head that would require a number six hat is a strange phenomenon. The evolutions of the one-legged bicycle rider and the remarkable Japanese juggler were "equalized" with each other. The Hing company pleased well last night. The large "Ginger Bread" is full of humorous in and the performers well distributed that each player appears to his, or her, best advantage. Mr. Elliott is a favorite with the public, and as in New Thinkum, Mr. Elliott and Miss Graham did exceptionally well last night. A pretty little curtain is waiting for the before today.

Caught on the Rails.

A peculiar accident occurred on First South street this morning. A team of horses, attached to a hay wagon, was in the act of crossing the curved track leading to the power house of the Salt Lake Street Car company, when the rear end of one of the shoes of the near horse caught on the lower or double rails. The animal was driven to the second airport, the harness was unbuckled and the wagon rolled back, but the poor beast could not move until his shoe had been pried off with a pick, when it jumped up, seemingly glad to be liberated.

TWICE CONVICTED.

In the First Instance His Fine was Remitted, and if the Second Sentence Was Suspended.

William O'Niel, who has for some time been running a saloon opposite the post office, on Second South Street, has been an extremely fractious lizzie in his transgression of the municipal ordinances.

A short time since he was convicted in the Police court on a charge of "permitting scene to be played were there is liquor sold." A fine of $10 was imposed. Ignorance of the law and other things were pleaded and the penalty was remitted.

Since that time the playing of a piano has been heard day and night at frequent intervals in the place of business. One of the police officers informed him that the engine would cease forthwith or that he would be interrupted. He is alleged to have replied, "I have permission to play a piano in my saloon and that is sufficient."

On this representation he was left unmolested until Wednesday afternoon, when he was arrested by Officer Peel for a repetition of his old offence. Late yesterday afternoon he was arraigned before Justice Gee, and after a plea of guilty, his sentence was suspended and O'Niel went on his way rejoicing. The cause evoked considerable comment among several officers of the police department, and one of them was heard to declare with emphasis that should he have occasion to arrest the same man, he would take him before the United States Commissioner, where justice would not be compelled to pay second fiddle.

THE SUPREME COURT.

A Question of Water Rights.—A Case of Personal Injury.—Nonsuit—Interesting Items.

The following cases came before the Judges of the Territorial Supreme Court this morning:

TO AMEND AN ABSTRACT.

In the case of Wallace vs. the Union Pacific Railway Company, leave was granted to amend the abstract, and the appeal was reinstated; appellant to submit his case on briefs.

THE SAME.

Rieter vs. the Union Pacific Railway Company. The motion to amend was allowed, as in the foregoing case.

THE TUFTS DIVORCE CASE.

In the divorce appeal of Tufts vs. Tufts, by agreement leave was granted to amend the abstract.

ANOTHER ADDITION.

On motion of Judge Henderson, Mr. Charles F. Loring of Michigan was admitted to practice at the bar of this Court.

ABOUT WATER RIGHTS.

The case of R. M. Rogers vs. Daniel Cook et al., was taken up, the appellant being represented by Attorney George Sutherland; J. W. N. Winchester appeared for the respondents. This was an appeal from Judge Miner's court at Ogden.

The original complaint alleged that on May 21, 1891, Anderson was employed by the defendant company as a laborer, and that while working by order of the foreman on a certain row that and grade, at a point under a trestle and collective embankment, without any fault on his part, he was injured by reason of the fallen embankment. For his damages in the sum of $20,000 was claimed. On the trial judgment was rendered for the sum of $1000 and costs against the defendants, and on the hearing of appellant's motion for a new trial the court made an order granting a new trial, unless the respondent should remit $2,500 of the judgment, which was so remitted. Thereupon the motion for the new trial was denied, and judgment was given in favor of the respondent for $1000, and costs $213.85. Against this an appeal was now taken.

A DANGEROUS PASTIME.

Little Artie Wolf Sustains a Compound Fracture of the Left Leg, While Coasting.

A serious coasting accident occurred in the northwestern part of the city yesterday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock, which resulted in the breaking of the left leg of an eleven-year-old boy named Artie Wolf.

The lad had left his parents' home, 107 West, Brigham avenue, a couple of hours before, in company with a number of other boys in the neighborhood, all of whom set out for the north bench on a coasting expedition.

On reaching their destination they mounted their sleds, and for a time enjoyed themselves immensely, but the sport suddenly terminated. Little Artie was coasting down the icy grade at a terrific speed. Directly in front of him were three boys hauling a "schooner"—a long plank with a sled at and under either end—up the hill. The little fellow sought to steer clear of his large and ugly antagonists, but was unsuccessful, doubling upon himself with such force as to cause the bones of the left leg midway between the ankle and knee joint. He was put aboard a hack and taken home, and was carried down into the White House corner, where a hack physician attended to his injuries, and then home in the care of A. Nixon respectively and an officer from Fort Douglas.

The little fellow exhibited a wonderful amount of pluck, never once shedding a tear of complaint, though he suffered and physical anguish without ceasing. He was fully conscious all the while, but was held in position by the hot limbed, pending the arrival of Dr. Wilson, who was summoned and pronounced the injury a compound fracture. The limb was soon dressed and the patient was resting satisfactorily.
