BAD WORK FOR THE NAVY.

The Report of Captain Phillips of the Cruiser New York.

Both Vessels Almost Immovable and the Ammunition Quite Defective.

NEW YORK, April 20.—A special to the World from Washington says the report of Captain John Phillips, commanding the United States cruiser New York, sending in details to the construction, said to have developed during the trip to Rio De Janeiro, has just been received at the naval department. When Captain Phillips got to sea, the report says, the forward turret was tight and would not be forced either to port or starboard, while the aft turret could be moved only to one degree at a time. The Detroit, which was an cruiser naval commander, was set to work on the engines and to turn the turrets and by making certain alterations, succeeded in working them early slowly, but not quickly enough for brilliant work in action. Then the discovery was made that the ammunition hoists were also defective. During heavy practice an attempt was made to hoist a 6-inch shell 1,100 feet forward turret gun. The hoist which is said to be too small, caught the drum at the top of the lift and the 6-inch shell was thrown out and plunged down the ammunition shaft on top of the waiting projectiles. The men shot their eyes in horror. Nothing but a miracle, it seemed, could save them and the great ship from being blown to the atoms by a terrible explosion, but the lower shell had settled slightly by the ship and stood in such a position that the carriage of the shell into turret rolled on rollers instead of being forced. The men escaped with a fright, but the ship was saved. Later, the report, up the magazine of the eighteen guns, it was found, threatened the destruction of the ship. The officer of the deck was unable to move a quantity of ammunition from the magazine. Then the men were ordered from the magazine when the fumes of powder were found to be so strong that they were treated in a temperature of 100 degrees. Captain Phillips and Lieutenant Mason were summoned to consult. Then the men were ordered right up against the fire hose of the ship and this restored sanitary.

After three hours' fighting the Aquidaban was struck by the torpedo boat and she went down in shallow water. A few of her officers were wounded. The crew are coming to Rio as prisoners.

IN KELLY'S CAMP.

The Silvering Men the Object of Sympathy.

HOSTS OF LABORERS STIRRED UP.

Six Thousand Workingmen with Flying Banners Demand the Attention of the Authorities.

OMAHA, Neb., April 20.—Three thousand laboring men marched out of Omaha today with banners flying and joined for the camp of Kelly's commonwealth at Weston, Iowa, fourteen miles east of Council Bluffs. At 9 o'clock the signal was given, ringing the shrill bells and howling the whistles was given, announcing that Kelly's army was still at Weston, would be ready to march on the East. Hosts of five miles long 1000 men assembled on Jefferson Square and quickly organized, and the march was taken up.

At every street hundreds were received and joined into companies and provided with banners. The column had been traveled in Council Bluffs by a committee of prominent citizens to call on Governor Jackson and managers of the railroads and urge that the commonwealers be at once started east. While the citizens were marching, General Kelly was in Omaha with President Mr. John, of the Rock Island railroad. Mr. John said he was not in a position to grant a truth of the matter was wholly in the hands of the president of the road. A prominent man suggested that the army way on for Denver for horses and wagons, and that the army be sent on reports of 100 and spread out over a territory twenty-five miles wide and march on foot across the state, as such plan would serve to bring the people to see for the army would practically devastate the country through which it passed, and the railroads would then be forced to carry the commonwealers out of the country. It is said that no action in the column according out of Omaha had agreeable with them, for now much is not known.

The column marching to Kelly's camp, traveled in the forenoon on the march, halted at Bayless party, where the committee appointed presented their demands to the railroad people. Mr. Dutton told the committee to lead and show all possible to get transportation but in vain. He said the army must go back to Chamberlain and await transportation to Kansas city, or take advantage of the Rock Island offer to carry the men as regular passengers.

The spokesman replied he was positive the army would not go to Kansas City, but would go to Chicago today.

WILL NOT GO TO OMAHA.

Kelly had a long interview with Governor Jackson. The governor said to Kelly that the citizens of Council Bluffs had arranged to furnish boats to take the army to Kansas City and provide shelter during the preparations. Kelly replied he refused to go, for would submit the proposition to the men.

A RAILROAD MANAGER SUFFERING.

The weather is cold and the men suffering severely, many having pneumonia, although they have an ample supply of medicine to counteract the illness. General Manager St. John, upon seeing the men suffering, promptly expressed his willingness to carry them east, and asked permission to do so. The army may be transported down the river to Kansas city. Five thousand sympathizers are here ready to join this morning's advance guard.

TROUBLE FEARED.

All the eastern railways have pulled the empty cars out of Council Bluffs to avoid trouble. Fully 2,000 more men have joined the ranks today, bringing the crowd that preceded them.

MONTANA'S ARMY.

HELENA, Mont., April 20.—Coxey's army under command of Hogan marched from Butte, two hundred strong, to march to Washington. Two miles out they attempted to capture a Northern Pacific freight train. The officers of the company wired Governor Rickards, demanding protection, and intimating that they would hold the state responsible, if once compelled them to grant transportation. The governor wired back that the Northern Pacific was under the protection of the United States courts and must look first to the local officers for protection. The train was still camped in the railroad yards at Butte.

ANOTHER CONTINGENT.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 20.—Eight hundred workingmen under the leadership of John S. Stewart, president of the Workingmen's Protective relief league, left today for Washington to enter a protest against the Wilson bill. They expect to reach Washington about 1 o'clock. A mass meeting, to be held in Metropolitan hall in this city, will adopt a memorial to the United States Senate. Tomorrow the men will have a street parade and march to the Senate, where they will present a petition which will be accompanied by textile fabrics.

CHIEF OF THE CONFEDERATE COURTS.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 20.—For days the city trustees, the county supervisors and the chief of police, have been in consultation and the result is that Captain Williams has been told that beyond feeding his 200 men until noon today, the city would do nothing for them, as it has its own to look after. The captain told Williams to load take his army out today or he would be arrested.

Captain Williams says he has no plan further than that the men will not walk out of the city, but will stay here and fight it out.

Chief Shew says that if the order to move on is not obeyed the men will surely be arrested.

FOURTH CONTINGENT.

CHICO, Cal., April 20.—Commander Vincent, of the unemployed army, has been endorsed today by a fine of $25, or serve twenty days in jail, for refusing the Southern Pacific out of Chico. He, with the seven other men, who were sentenced with the engineer, nothing to do and were released on over in the superior court with bail of $500. The army yesterday received a wagon load of provisions from the Farmers Alliance at Highlands.

The Gold Shipments.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The gold shipments by steamer amount to $2,000,000. All but $500,000 comes from the United States subtreasury.

A Double Tragedy.

OMAHA, April 20.—John Mason and J. J. Simons, merchants of Harlowe, attempted to settle a difference in a street battle with revolvers. Mason was shot in the abdomen and Simons twice in the body, and were in the shoulder. Both are expected to die.

Trouble is Expected.

MCCALESTER, I. T., April 20.—There is a possibility that trouble will occur at the coal mines at Krebs, I. T., when the Choctaw Coal company attempts to put 300 more miners to work. Some engineers have gone the way from Texas and 8,000 miners who went on a strike some weeks ago have decided that the engineer will not go to work and trouble is expected when the latter arrives.

The Miners are Right.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 20.—A prominent Massillon mine operator says the miners' strike will cost 1,000 miles and a quarter of a million miners. It won't last later than June, and may be settled in two weeks. A majority of the operators think the miners are in the right.

The Miners Center of the Strike.

ST. PAUL, April 20.—The storm center in the Great Northern strike of 2,000 miners, Wednesday, Assistant United States deputy marshals were interfered with and the remaining order of the court issued, the trains being stopped as on the previous days. There is now in the vicinity between Hinckley and Duluth United States deputies and Marshal Ross started for that place today with an additional force. Warrants have been sworn out against the strikers active in opposing and threatening the operations. It will be interesting to see what the union officers do, as it recognizes the union, but specifically explains that the company is ready to receive the men in the employ of their representatives.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

Senator Gallinger Opposes the Tariff Bill in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Senator Gallinger spoke on the Wilson bill. Gallinger denounced the bill as one which nobody unqualifiedly approves except the senators from Missouri and Indiana, McLaurin and Turpie. Even the author entered an apology for the measure. Gallinger said Republicans had and most of the New England money invested in the South was forever lost, if it becomes a law.

He took up in turn the various industries of New England which will be injured if it is passed and said the increased tax on spirits would benefit the whisky trust alone. Free wool was a curse to the industry and the income tax was denounced as sectional and unjust. The tobacco masses of the north came out the end of condemnation on the bill and no longer thinks of supporting the ticket they voted last year, but will ally themselves with the party that stands for protection, good wages and happy and comfortable homes.

UTAH FREIGHT RATES.

A Suggestion That the Chamber of Commerce Take Them Up Again.

Enterprising Chicago dry goods houses are sending out circulars to Utah merchants, stating that "on and after April 16th, 1894, freight rates will be reduced as below from Chicago to Pacific coast points: On dry goods in cases, $1.50 per 100lbs, and cotton piece goods, in bales, ginghams, cambrics, cotton flannels, cotton dress goods, jeans, denims, ginghams, sweatings, sheets, ticking, warp, etc., $1."

This circular is sent out, it is presumed, for the purpose of influencing the "press" in favor of Chicago jobbers, but Salt Lake merchants must not think because the rate is $1 to San Francisco it will be 75 cents to Salt Lake. The interstate commerce law does not state that way-bills is, as far as Utah is concerned. These rates will apply to Pacific coast terminals only. What is the matter with the Chamber of Commerce taking up the rate question again?

THE DISTRICT COURT.

That $10,000 Damage Suit Against the Union Pacific.

A LAND CASE FROM BOUNTIFUL.

Matters of Brief Motion Before the Two Judges—Today's Docket.

The trial of the $10,000 damage suit brought by Joseph H. Slater against the U. P. Railroad Co. was resumed before Chief Justice Merritt and a jury this morning in the Third district court, when further testimony was adduced. The plaintiff's side of the matter rested at 10:45, when Attorney F. S. Williams, on the part of the defendant company, moved the court to instruct the jury to find a verdict for the defendants. Counsel then proceeded to present certain points of law in support of his application and to direct attention to certain admissions in Slater's evidence. It was developed that the arguments pro and con arising out of Mr. Williams's motion were likely to occupy the whole of the forenoon, and therefore Judge Merritt was disposed to show some consideration for the jury. Instead of requiring the twelve to "sit on" the case of the lawyers the hour expired, them said it was, resuming then, however, that the jury must not show any person or persons entitled to talk with it influence them on the subject of the trial.

At two o'clock the jurors reported themselves, but as the arguments were likely to occupy at least another hour, he hence further excused them till the hour of three.

The facts were reported in yesterday's News. The plaintiff while working in the tender part of Moses & Co. about three years ago was knocked down by one of the company's trains and on his feet his manglad. In bringing his suit for damages he alleges carelessness and negligence on the part of the defendant's employes.

SUMMING.

The case of Angell Bros. vs. Simpson & Schroeder was dismissed at defendant's costs.

Test of C. L. Hammond vs. the Salt Lake Terra Mercantile Co. has been continued for the term by consent.

THE SHORT QUESTION.

In Judge Barto's division, the motion was taken up with the argument of counsel in the case of James H. Erickson vs. Henry J. and Isaac H. Erickson, administrators of the estate of Peter Erickson, deceased, the trial of which began yesterday. The plaintiff alleged that on October 20, 1893, he entered into an agreement with Peter Erickson, to whom he leased 1,000 head of sheep, for the term of five years from that date. It is out of that deal that the present suit arose.

The arguments had not concluded at 5 p. m.

DISPUTE ABOUT LAND.

The case of Joseph Hall vs. Charles E. Pearson came next on the day's call in Judge Barto's division. The action was brought to recover the sum of $1,224.75, interest thereon from June 1st, 1891, and costs alleged to be due as the net balance of money paid by plaintiff and other persons to defendant for the procuring of deeds to certain lands in Bountiful, Davis county, Utah. It is claimed that $1,300.50 was paid to Pearson in excess of the amount required for the deeds, that he has returned the sum of $100.75, leaving unpaid the balance sued for.

Plaintiff sets forth that in May, 1891, the defendant, at Bountiful, represented to plaintiff and others that he was the agent of the probate judge of Davis county, Utah, for the collection of fees and expenses for procuring deeds to lands in the additional plat above named, and that the costs for these and for making survey was $42. Relying upon these statements plaintiff paid to him $108, and the other persons their proportion. It is now stated, however, that the charge should not have exceeded $1 per lot, as required by the laws of Utah. Upon demand being made of him in March, 1892, for the return of the amounts paid in excess of the $1, defendant refused to yield, but, realizing his wrong and the incorrectness of his representations, he in the same year returned $150 per lot of the sum originally collected, amounting in the aggregate to $100.75, leaving the net balance now sued for. The other parties interested having assigned their respective amounts to plaintiff.

Attorney S. D. Walcott appears for the plaintiff and Com. M. M. Raigho for the defendant.

MISCELLANEOUS.

James H. Smith et al vs Salt Lake City. In this case, which will be remembered as the old conduit suit, Judge Hogle (city attorney) asked for and was granted nine days' additional time to prepare statement on motion for a new trial.

SOCIAL HALL SCHOOL.

A Summer Course Arranged for in Physical Culture.

One of the most important social problems of the day, involving as it does the future of a people, is how to give men and women physical health and stamina that they may not only withstand the enervating tendency of the age but improve upon their physique by giving time and a fair portion physical culture. It is the solution of this question that physical education seems to give, it is the improvement of the present and future condition that it should, suffering the physical to be the one that supports mental and moral progress.

The widespread adoption of daily exercise in schools and colleges and the number of gymnasia energized to meet individually considered, has created a demand for thoroughly instructors—teachers who can not only give certain exercises but who know definitely why and when to give them, having their hand on the facts which scientist and scientific research has given.

It is to meet the need of those desiring a course taught from an important branch of education that a course of five weeks will be held in physical culture to commence with the commencement in this city in June and July. While the course is largely for the benefit of teachers who desire a more definite knowledge of this work, its advantages are also open to any who may so desire, for personal benefit.

In the course of instruction, the work of the present year may be taken as the first part of a normal course, advanced work in which may be included for. From three to six hours' work each day in theory and practice will be given. As to expense, it is not the intention to produce the pupil in in favor of any one, but to give some theoretical and practical knowledge of the fundamental principles, giving certain hours and issue of work. The student is thus left to select matter for himself or herself. The theoretical work will consist of lectures, demonstrations and special sections upon the following subjects: Applied anatomy, applied physiology, general and school hygiene, anthropometry, history of gymnastics, and gymnastic systems and practical work, including the Swedish, German and Delsarte movements.

The Social Hall has been specially fitted up for the school. Arrangements have been made for special lessons by F. S. Benson, M. D., Prof. J. T. Kingsbury, Samuel Hughes, M. D., Geo. W. M. Stewart, G. R. Pratt, M. D., Prof. C. A. Stulting and others.

The instructors are Richard May Rowe, B. S., lecturer on history of gymnastics, Delsarte, voice training, light gymnastics and heavy gymnastics for women. W. W. Babcock Jr., M. D., lecturer on anatomy, physiology, hygiene, anthropometry, and practice of heavy gymnastics. The City Railway Accepts.

The Salt Lake City Railway company today accepted the franchise vetoed by the Mayor a few days ago, with the amendments made by the Council at the last meeting of that body. His honor was anxious that Mr. Chambers, who is absent from the city, should be consulted with first and that was done by telegraph, Mr. Chambers agreeing to the amendments. The franchises of the respective companies now run for fifty years.

Accident to a Lady Bicyclist.

A young lady bicyclist and stenographer employed in the law office of W. C. Hall met with a painful accident last evening about 8 o'clock, though she was not seriously hurt. That she was not is almost miraculous. A party of young people, five in all—two gentlemen and three ladies—were passing the intersection of State and First South streets on their bicycles, at the time indicated, as the lady in question was coming down the hill from the Salt Lake Hardware company, which dashed into the object of the fair amazonian referred to. She was thrown to the ground with considerable force and barely escaped being trampled upon. Her companions rushed to her assistance, frightened at first, but their fears gave way to thankfulness when she got up, mounted her wheel again and rode off with them.

A HOST ENRAPTURED.

The City's Guests Entertained in Splendid Style.

RECITAL AT THE TABERNACLE.

An Elegant Banquet at the Knickerbocker with Eloquence and Complimentary Toasts.

The city presented a charming appearance this morning, clad in a mantle of sunshine and be adorned with trees and flowers. As the train bearing delegates to the city's guests, the members of the International Association of Theatre Agents, arrived at the Rio Grande Western depot, and the merry crowd made their way up town to eat and continue, the streets were enlivened, and everything assumed a holiday. There were 700 of the visitors, and they were taken charge of by the Chamber of Commerce, and several of the business men of the city were appointed to escort the various throngs to points of interest all around.

At 11 o'clock all were taken to the Tabernacle, where his mysteries were explained, and an organ recital given by Professor Dayton. The grand old instrument thundered forth its volume of melody as if a living thing to the Offertoire by Stearns, to the pastoral cadenza of Wagner's Evening Star it trilled and carried ecstacy, while the William Tell Overture, the Pilgrims Song of Hope and the grand Doxology, depicted the song beauties of time and tenth and power to an enraptured host. Professor Dayton played especially, and was enthusiastically appreciated.

From the Tabernacle the party were escorted to the Knickerbocker hotel, where an elegant banquet was spread, and there the sweet strains of music were continued for the pleasure of the guests. At the banquet table Judge Colzatt and others welcomed the visitors to the city in cordial, eloquent words, and invited them to come again and learn more of our year and the glories of this matchless valley.

The secretary of the association, C. D. Caldwallader, in response said he was overjoyed at the grand reception they had been given and he would never forget the hospitality of this city nor the magnificent entertainment with which they had been provided. They would carry back to their homes many pleasant memories and he wished to say on behalf of the association that they returned their most heartfelt thanks.

Mr. David Bell was called for, and spoke in substance as follows:

"We have formed with you today a bond of inseparable union—of hearts, and Blaine and hands, and all would carry memories of Salt Lake City with them that would linger while life would last. This is one of the brightest days we have had since leaving home, and my son has been enraptured with the glorious music of the Tabernacle—music grander than Lever heard before. May heaven bless and prosper your city! When we did you some slight service, we did best away with us many delightful reminiscences."

Mr. Fred Stone invited the assemblage to visit the Industrial Exposition after lunch and added that the company will leave for Saltair at 2 p. m.

The International Association of Theatre Agents has been organized six years and its main objects are assurance, education and sociability. There are thirty-five states represented by the party with us today, and the officers of the association are W. E.
