NEWS OF THE WEST.

Shocking Suicide of a Railroad Man at a Denver Hotel.

DISCHARGE OF THEATER EMPLOYES.

Interesting Death of a Miner—The Mad Reader and the Burglar, etc.

Shoshone cattle are becoming quite popular in Evanston, Wyoming.

A big Lemmie, Wyo., newspaper says that at the source of the river there is at least forty feet of snow on the mountain sides.

Governor Ahumada, of Chihuahua, is exerting himself for removal of quarantine upon the cattle trade between Texas, Chihuahua, and the United States.—Denver Republican.

Sheridan, Wyoming, will probably be a very busy place this summer. The good irrigation canal will be started, many new men will come, and when completed will start a large number of small farmers to work.

John M. Ryan, a miner at the Irish-American Victor, Colo., has met an unfortunate death. He had ventured in the cage yesterday in connecting the cage, which he stepped over to change so that at the same moment the cage started down, and being off balance he was precipitated to the bottom.

A number of Apache Indians are out near Stockton, Utah, participating in the ghost dance. Some of the Indians came into the Fort Cotton reservation a few minutes ago from the mountains to the Colorado river, and there are a few Navajo also on hand. They feel heavy on ranchmen and cattle.—Prescott Miner.

Nicholas Tyndall and Harry Quinn, the boy arrested for burglary at Pelican, Colo., under suspicion by Sheriff Cooper, on Friday, Quinn told the same story he told in court, claiming to own all the articles stolen, and claiming that he had no confederate. It was believed by some that Quinn was under the influence of his partner, Frank Wilson, who was believed to be as guilty as he.

The Lemmie Republican says that extensive improvements in the milling and smelting are now under contemplation by Lemmie Gemmin and Jones when called to the attention of the latter of this city, said that the same company is in the West. Mr. Jones is now in Chicago on a mission for the purchase of two massive pieces of machinery for the mining of ore for our smelting.

Lemmie Sunnerang: Yesterday (Friday) afternoon an entrance was made into the Hanna mine, which has been in fire and smoke for the past month while engineer Lake has been running room into the great reverse to extinguish the fire. It is thought that the blaze of the month will be replaced by which to place the mine in a condition to resume work. There is also hope that the fire may break out behind the workers.

The Silver Statesman says: The supreme court has decided the case of the Ark mining commissioners, reversing Judge Norris. Under the terms, ex-Commissioners Jackman and Wheeling are required to pay a fine of $100 each for taking excessive fees. But for the fact of their terms of office having expired prior to the decision, the action of the superior court would presumptively oust them from office.

It is learned at Great Falls, Mont., that McNamara & Mathew, a well known firm of Montana cattlemen, have closed a deal whereby they are to run the entire herd of the circle herd of cattle, in all numbering from 15,000 head. Negotiations for the purchase were carried on by cable, as the owners of the circle stand free in England. The purchase price cannot be learned, but it is understood that the consideration will amount to about $175,000.

The Denver Star says that Charles Fary, who is under sentence to be hanged at Pueblo on March 22nd, for the murder of Patrick McNamara, and who has been detected a reprieve by Governor McConnell until the next meeting of the board of pardons, has given another version of the murder. He claims the killing was done by one Bennetheis, and although he was present at the time of the killing, he was in no sense his will and under orders from himself.

A very sad accident occurred in the vicinity of Mesaba, Ariz., last week. A young man named Frank Holland, in company with some others, undertook the dangerous pastime of breaking a wild horse. Holland was riding and succeeded in roping one for saddle, while it was "bucking," but after the horse ran down the road a couple of miles he was thrown and received frightful injuries, being badly trampled and receiving internal injuries which it is hoped will prove serious.

John A. Hamilton, formerly engineer for the Southern Pacific at Oakland, Cal., committed suicide on Friday morning in his room at the Astoria house. The suicide was discovered some time after 9 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, but the fact was not observed until Friday afternoon through the carelessness of the chambermaid who was supposed to visit the room. The deceased took carbolic acid at his death, after stripping himself down to bare in the position in which he was found. He death was directly due to the shock his system sustained by the heavy transportation the great strike of last summer.

The employes of the California theater, says the San Francisco Chronicle, numbering some forty in all, have been notified that their services will be no longer required after the end of the present month. Manager Frohman's action is being under instructions, based the action in the dispute, and when it became known how general was the work of discharge, the employes in question were informed. It is known that the intention of the management is to close the theater for some weeks, and then reopen it with a new company, and have it thoroughly renovated. It is also understood that the theater is to close at the expiration of the present month because the large number of employes, who have temporarily joined in the strike, are a source of embarrassment, they not to secure for some months to come.
