THE MINING MARKET.

No Startling Developments On the Stock Exchange Today.

TRADING DULL AND SLUGGISH.

Sales of Sunshine, Swansea and Northern Light—The Lemhi, Idaho, Property Sold in Salt Lakers.

Totally uninteresting and sluggish were the proceedings on 'change today and trading amounted to almost nothing. For a time it looked as though the listed stocks would score their first cut and out "whitewash" so no transfers occurred until the call of that class of stocks was nearly finished, and then, as if to save them from such a calamity, 100 shares of Sunshine were sold at $2.00. Mammoth brought out the main interest of the call and buyer and seller crept to within 9 cents of each other, but closer than that they apparently dared not go and therefore no sales were recorded. The stock closed at $2.70 asked and $2.61 bid.

The unlisted stocks made a better showing than their neighbors in point of trading. Swansea opened the call, and before hostilities closed on that particular stock, 100 shares had changed hands at $2.12½. More of the property was offered at the same figure, but the bid which followed the sale was $2.07½—a figure too low for holders of the stock to accede to, and no further trading was indulged in. Numerous other stocks came out as candidates for speculative honors, but not escape Northern Light met with popular favor. That stock was honored with a sale of 100 shares at 50 cents, at which figure holders of the property manifested their willingness to relinquish more, but the closing bid did not rise above 42½ cents.

The closing figures were as follows:

BOUGHT THE LEMHI.

A Salt Lake Syndicate Takes an Idaho Property for $10,000.

Idaho Mining properties are held in high esteem by Salt Lakers, and while a great number of the citizens of this city are already extensively interested in the hidden treasure grounds of the state to the north, satisfaction has not fully come to them yet, and they are still exploring that country in the hope of investing in bonanzas, which may perhaps bring to them not only fame, but fortune.

The latest investment by Salt Lakers in Idaho is told by the Salmon City Recorder, which says that last Saturday the Pratt creek mining property, owned by McKillip brothers and L. S. Johnson, was sold to a Salt Lake syndicate represented by Mr. Crisman. The purchase price is $10,000. Of the amount $5,000 was paid down and the balance is to be made in payments as it is taken out of the mine. The new company is bound by the terms of the sale to put in a mill and all necessary machinery. The property is situated about twenty-five miles from here in a northeasterly direction and lies almost upon the summit of the main range. The machinery will be brought in by the way of Bloody Dick creek, on the Montana side. A small force of men will be put to work at once under the direction of John McKillip, who is a practical miner of many years experience, and the force will be increased as soon as more men can be worked to advantage, as the snow is still very deep up there. This property is both rich and extensive.

Bigs and Spurs.

A carload of ore was prepared at the Northern Light yesterday for shipment to this city.

On Saturday, the 6th inst., the Silver King will distribute $37,500 in dividends.

It is reported that the Mammoth is about to declare a dividend, but nothing definite or authoritative could be learned today.

The Utah and Galena Mining companies have declared dividends payable on the 10th inst. The former amounts to $2,000 and the latter $3,000.

John Johnson of Heber, met with a serious accident in the Lucky Boy mine at Park City yesterday, when two sticks of giant powder exploded and frightfully lacerated his arms and legs.

The Fairview and Tough Nut mining groups have been consolidated, and consequently the litigation existing between the two factions has been settled and satisfactorily adjusted without the aid of the law.

Ore yielding 60 per cent lead, 10 ounces in silver and $1.50 in gold to the ton is the latest discovery in the Dalton and Lark mines at Bingham. It comes from the 800-foot level and shows a fine-cut body.

The offices of the Mackintosh sampler and the Galena and Daly mining companies are now located in the new Mackintosh block, and the offices thereof are occupied in large city rooms arranged and furnished up to date.

Ogden Standard: About two and a half feet of the ore vein in the Rubber mine in the canyon has been uncovered and an average assay show $240 to the ton. It is proposed to take out a car load of ore as soon as possible and see what returns are made from the smelted ore.

The annual roster of the Crown Point Mining company, owning properties at Eureka, will be as follows for the ensuing year: G. W. Sleymer, president; John Rock, vice president; Arthur Sleymer, secretary and treasurer, and James Jack, John Donaldson and Hyrum Rock to make up the directorate.

A gang of miners who have recently been employed by the Horn Silver company came to this city today. They were satisfied with their salary schedule under the new eight-hour law, and therefore went out on strike and their places were rapidly filled by others, throwing them out of a job.

Preston, Ida., New Era: The Mining Exchange says that a coal prospect near Preston has turned out to be a rich silver mine, and mention the matter of a 600 ounce assay. Isn't it about time that western journals, and Idaho papers in particular, had limited to that fake? Four days after the first announcement of the discovery was made the paper stated that there was little if any doubting in it and that the excitement had subsided. If some publications would watch their exchanges more closely false alarms of that kind would not continue to spread over the country for weeks and months at a time as has been the case with the above mentioned affair.

HOW ABOUT THIS, MR. CLERK?

Why Are Court Decisions Permitted to Be Removed from Your Office Against Public Interest?

The News is not given to fault-finding nor does it believe in that sort of thing. All that it wants in the field of newspaper-writing competition is a fair show. That it usually gets. Public officials generally are courteous in their reception and treatment of representatives of this paper. If they have any information to impart they do so. If papers or opinions are placed on file in their offices during the hours covered by the News they are given out freely in whole or in part. But there was a glaring exception to this rule yesterday in the office of the clerk of the Third district court and it seems to be wholly inexcusable attention will be directed to it for the benefit of those concerned.

Judge Hirest delivered an opinion in the Eisinger case. The decision was handed down at an early hour. The News court reporter who was in Judge Hirest's division of the court at the time immediately stepped into the clerk's office and asked for a copy of the decision. He was informed that it was not there; that it had been taken away. Then he asked what the report of it was but could get no information on that point. Six different times during the day did he visit the office with the expectation that the document would be returned and six times was he told that it was still not there. With the last answer came the supplemental statement that a representative of a morning paper had it. The result was that the News was compelled to make a cross snapper; president of the ruling last evening.

Recently an important paper was handed down by one of the judges. This also occurred at an early hour of the day. In this case a News man was promptly on hand to get it. The clerk very politely and properly informed him that the paper must not be taken from the office. A rapid typewriter was employed to copy it which he did on a machine in the clerk's office. Now, then, if court decisions are public property, if it is calculated that they shall be filed in the clerk's office where the public can get the information they contain and get it as quickly as possible why are they not left there for that purpose? Why is the rule followed so strictly in one case and so flagrantly violated in another. Public officials should remember that they are after all simply public servants with a public duty to perform. The News wants only what it is entitled to; it will be satisfied with nothing less.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Indians Are Competent to Lease Lands —Lloyd-Elliott Case Decided.

Justice Hatch rendered the opinion in the case of the Strawberry Valley Cattle company, respondent, vs John L. Chipman, appellant.

This action was brought before Justice Miner to enjoin the defendant and appellant from permitting his sheep to graze upon the lands forming a portion of the Uintah Indian reservation. Plaintiff and respondent in this case claimed the right by virtue of a lease made with Indian Agent Robert Waugh, who was acting under the direction of the secretary of the interior, on behalf of the Uintah and White river Indians, the consent to lease the land having been given by both tribes in council assembled and the lease having been signed by eighteen of the chiefs and head men of the tribes. This lease was originally given to Charles H. Hemit, under the provisions of an act of Congress, passed in 1891. The acreage involved was 640,000, and it was stipulated that lessee would have the same for five years at an annual rental of $7,150. Grazing of sheep was prohibited, under penalty of forfeiture of the rights under the lease.

The testimony showed that defendant's sheep grazed upon the land in question and decimated the grass and vegetation. After notice to quit, which was disregarded, plaintiff and respondent went into court and obtained a restraining order, the decision of the court below being that plaintiff was entitled to the possession of the land. A motion for a new trial was made and refused, and from the decision of the court below the appellant and defendant appealed to the supreme court.

Appellant's attorneys allege that the lease is void because there is no authority in law for making it. That the statute of 1891 is of no force. Respondent relied upon the statute.

There was a question as to the right of the Indians to lease under this law, which states, among other things, that lands "must be bought and paid for" by the parties owning and occupying the same before a lease can be issued.

Hence, in the language of the opinion, the controlling point was whether the Indians who occupied the lands in question at the time of the execution of the lease "bought and paid for" them.

The court's opinion in the case covers all the ways of the government in dealing with Indians, their rights under the law, and decides that the savages had a title and could agree to lease. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed with costs. Chief Justice and Judge Street, who was called to sit in the case, concurring.

Elliott Out, Lloyd In.

By decision of the State Supreme court, delivered by Justice Hatch, Councilman Ellis H. Elliott was yesterday ousted from office and E. T. Lloyd will hereafter represent the Third precinct in municipal matters.

Joseph M. Waters was a member of the City Council of this city at the time of the election in 1895 and when he died Benjamin T. Lloyd was appointed to fill the vacancy. At the expiration of the term ending January 1, 1896, Elliott was selected as a councilman from the Third precinct and Lloyd contended the place, contending that he was entitled to fill the term beginning at the first of the year.

The case was taken before Judge Street, who decided in favor of the plaintiff, and from the decision Elliott appealed.

The judgment of the lower court was affirmed with costs.

Zane, chief justice, and Miner, justice, concurred.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - - JUNE 4, 1896.

City Ordinances Again.

A. V. Robison was before Justice Haxey yesterday on a charge of riding a bicycle on the sidewalk in the prohibited district. The complaint charged him with committing the offense in violation of section 162 of the revised ordinances of Provo city, passed December 8th, 1893.

Mr. Robison declined to plead and a plea of not guilty was entered. His attorneys, Messrs. Chas. DeMoney and E. R. Corinna, objected to any evidence being introduced on the ground that the complaint did not refer to the title and section of the ordinance under which a conviction was sought to be obtained, as the charter provides it should.

City Attorney Wallentine and Attorney Grant, who appeared for the city, held that the reference as quoted above was sufficient. Lengthy arguments were made, and finally Justice Haxey stated he would permit the prosecution to amend by adding the number and heading of the chapter containing section 162, adding. Wallentine and Grant refused to amend and the case was dismissed.

The prosecution gave notice of appeal and an attempt will be made to have one of the judges from the Third or some other district, come here this evening and hear the case on appeal.

This case involves the same question raised in the Parkinson case, previously reported, and as the ruling in the latter case was the same. It is of interest to city in Provo city not to five or six other cities in the county where ordinances were revised at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinances of Provo. These revised ordinances go on substantially the titles of the ordinances as originally passed, but are divided into chapters and sections and continuously from the first to the last of the book, and the ordinance providing for the revision repealed "all former ordinances and amends the "Revised Ordinances" in lieu thereof and directs that complaints shall refer to the "revised ordinances."

It is generally believed that the charge against Mr. Robinson was made for the purpose of getting a case to test the correctness of the ruling of Justice Haxey. Attorneys are awaiting a decision in the case with considerable interest.

Notes and Personals.

Five tramps, having eight days to serve as a sentence imposed for vagrancy, were taken out yesterday by Road Supervisor Johnson and Watermaster Taylor to work near Provo river. When they arrived at the point of operations the prisoners refused to work. The officers and other workmen went on with their labors, and in a short time discovered that three of the prisoners had departed. They were not captured. Two of the prisoners, quite young boys, had left a little money with the marshal when they were committed, and that was the reason they had not followed their companions.

Superintendent Sharp of the P. V. Coal company and Professor Marcus R. Jones came down yesterday, and visited the Kellogg & Harlan anthracite coal properties in Rock canyon. They returned on the evening's 10:15 Rio Grande Western train, and Mr. Sharp took samples with him for analysis. He is satisfied that the formation is right for anthracite, while the quality and quantity remains to be determined by development.

Mr. John Skelton of Orderly, who has spent much of his life piloting the dery, in speaking of the Hermosa on last evening, suggested that it is a fact that Hermosa was a called locale on account of a stalemate, he would seek some respectable town as soon as he married his other was discovered and this as a salve at his earliest opportunity.

George Huntington of Springville pleaded guilty yesterday, in Justice Bailey's court, to unlawfully selling liquor. He was fined $10 and costs, $11.05, and will serve twenty-nine days in the county jail.

An effort will be made to have the Institute and Summer Normal, which opens July 27th, under the auspices of the academy, conducted free of charge to those who attend.

A large number of students, many of them from Arizona, are registered in the commercial department of the Brigham Young academy for the summer session.

John V. Smith qualified as postmaster of Cotton (Pleasant Valley Junction) yesterday, before the county clerk.

W. V. LeRiese came in from Grand Junction last evening.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, - - JUNE 4, 1896.

Cache County Items.

On Monday morning, at 11 o'clock, the Democrats of Cache county met in convention to elect delegates to the State convention to be held in Salt Lake on Saturday next. The features that elicited the only discussion were the resolutions denouncing the entire organization of church and state, reaffirming the principles promulgated by the renowned convention, etc. Warm feelings prevailed during the discussion, and while a number of amendments were proposed with a view to harmonizing the contending elements and changing the phraseology so that all could endorse it, the friends of the original motion were in the majority and it was passed. Hyrum Haydel was elected county chairman for the ensuing year.

The Sportsmen's club of Cache county met on Monday evening and discussed matters of interest to sportsmen. A resolution was passed asking governor Wells to appoint John Sharp or Bob Lees, fish and game warden. J. B. Edwards was elected president of the club for one year and N. W. Hess was re-elected secretary. On Tuesday our county warden appeared before the county commissioners and stated that inasmuch as the State law provided no compensation for complaining whenever a case of violation of the fish and game laws, that they take action in the matter and allow a liberal percentage of the fine to each case to the informer. Half of the fine, as is the old law, was recommended.

The Alumni reunion of the B. Y. college will give its annual banquet and ball on Friday evening next. L. A. Dixon, class of '94, will be toastmaster, and the occasion is sure to prove a joyful reunion of those graduates of the past who have gone with the flock's tattle, but who, regardless of distance, will gratefully stand elsewhere and take advantage of these annual opportunities to commingle with their old classmates and teachers.

Brother David Jenkins has returned from a mission to Wales. He was accompanied on the return journey by his wife and daughter, who went to Wales last autumn on a visit. They first visited the St. Louis exposition, and Brother Jenkins says the scenes at that fair have not been fully described.

FACE RAW AND BLEEDING

My little boy was afflicted with Eczema in about four days his face was a sight which we could without exaggeration call horrible. The disease spread over his right cheek and was of a character and virulence that we thought it would heal the kindly impulse of the skin of the face, and we were advised to present such treatment as would be proper for curing it. We decided to try Cuticura, I bought a box, the first application of Cuticura ointment gave the child the appearance of the affected parts which a physician of the highest standing in this city, only mentioning the best remedies, said we could use on his old specialist skin as cut to found anywhere.
