It will be recalled that following the dissolution of the P. G. MacLean stock company Mayall and Miss Elsmere content to play signed a 40 weeks contract to play "stock" at the Lyric. Mayall's salary was to have been $125 a week, the same as was paid him by the management of the Cyrheim. ment of the Orpheum. At the time the contract was signed Mayall intimated strongly to "The News" that he would break that contract if some-"The News" that thing better turned up. To be more correct, Mayall said that he would be a fool to sign up with anyone for 40 weeks and the contract he had signed was one which could be broken on two week's notice from either side. Apparently the soufful matinee idol did have the common courtesy of giving Mr. Grant even two weeks' notice, but simply made a "touch" for $300 and then boarded the train for the Mayall and Miss Elsmere have played together for several seasons, in fact Dame Rumor has it that Mrs. Mayall, who secured a divorce from the de-bonnair Herschel last spring objected seriously to the marked friendship be-tween the two. As soon as Mayall arrived in this city and appeared at the Orpheum, where he made such a hit, e proceeded to make things unpleasant for Miss Stuart, the clever little leading lady of the company. On several occasions he intimated that he had a leading lady in San Francisco sity of Utah is home again, and from who would be more acceptable than now on there will be plenty doing in was Miss Stuart. During the time Mayall was in Salt Lake he was a very good patron of one of the down town pool rooms where he was wont to play the races. He won several good stakes, but taker all in all, he practically lost all he had, including part of the $300 he secured from the management of the Lyric for salaries in advance.

On the strength of the engagement of the handsome actor the Lyric enspending conviderable on decorating and remodeling the house prior to a run of stock throughout the sea-son. The company met on Monday for its first rehearsal, but both the leading man and woman were absent Manager Grant, however, has secured two good people to take the places of Mayall and Miss Elsmere, He has been notified that Edward Calliwell, an actor of good stage presence, has left New York and is now on his way to Salt Lake to take the position of leading man for the company.

ing in a fatality occurred this morning about 10:30 at the intersection of East and South Temple streets, in which a carriage, an automobile and a dump cart figured.

At the time stated an automobile came up East Temple street at a high rate of speed and attempted to turn the corner toward State street. The driver was Le Roy Snow. On the curbing stood a small dump cart used by the city street cleaners. As the auto rounded the corner, a carriage occupied by Mrs. J. B. Cosgriff and two small chil-dren crossed the street and got almost directly in the path of the auto. The latter crashed into the cart, throwing the same into the vehicle occupied by Mrs. Cosgriff. The horses became frightened and would undoubtedly have bolted and upset the carriage but for the presence of mind of the coachman and his ability to handle the animals. When the auto crashed into the cart, I tion, and Sunday schools.

Maddock comes direct from Ann Ar-bor, where he has been for weeks in Curtice, framing up the Michigan system of play for this year. Speaking of the new rules, Coach Maddock said this morning that his first activity in Salt Lake would be to start a school for officials. No person is now qualified to the new rules. Since the line menin/having specially active men and the guards, center and tackles will be heavier men than ever, while the ends will have to stand onslaughts such as were never enforced before. The ends in fact will be the critical positions, and the heaviest kind of material will have to be employed to protect them. The back field will have to be trained in kicking and punting and the quar-terback in long distance passing, for the game this year will be noticeable for plays based on these qualities.

Coach Maddock arrived last night at six o'clock, and visited the university this morning. Today he got in touch with Capt. Bennion, halfback "Cuddy

PRETENDED JUDGMENT.

Judge Morse Ordered it Set Aside and Money Unlawfully Taken Ordered Returned to Owner.

The tactics used by Francis G. Luke in the collection of bills and in proceedings in court received a severe blow in Judge Morse's court this migration of some 200 White River Inmorning when a decree was rendered in favor of plaintiff in the case of having, apparently, their objective one Robert Roden against Luke, the Mer- of the reservations in South Dakota, chants' Protective association and the Nephi Co-operative Mercantile & Mfg. association setting aside a pretended judgment rendered against Roden in a justice court at Nephi and enjoining the defendants from attempting to collect said judgment and from taking any further action in the matter.

Not only is the whole proceeding in the Nephi court set aside as being void, but judgment is rendered against the defendants for the return of $56 paid out of Roden's salary by City Auditor Alff under garnishee proceedings and also the release of $60 additional which is now tied up under similar proceedings, together with

According to the complaint the Nephi Co-op, placed a pretended bill of $254.80 against Roden in the hands of Luke for collection and suit was filed in Luke's Murray court. Roden moved to dismiss on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction in the case. He also filed an answer in which he denied the allegations of the complaint. Nothing was ever done by the Murray justice in regard to the case so far as Roden ever heard and in April of this year, seven months after he action had been filed in Murray, Roden was informed by the city auditor of this city that his salary had been garnisheed upon an abstract of a judgment rendered against him in a Nephi justice court. Roden had never been served with a summons in the Nephi case and had never been noti-fied in any way of any action against him there until his wages were garn-isheed. He then filed the action which oday resulted in the Luke proceed ings being set aside and a judgment being rendered against Luke and the other defendants for the return of the

TROUBLE FOR DURAND.

Christian Nielsen has filed a petition in the district court for a writ of mandamus directed against Charles F. Durand, justice of the peace at Murray, to compel the justice to accept a bond ! on appeal which the petitioner under-took to file in the Murray court. It is alleged by petitioner that the Mer-in the several communities through Protective association, of which Francis G. Luke is the manager, secured a judgment against him for $143.44 on July 18, 1906. The petitioner then took the necessary steps to appeal the case to the district court and filed an undertaking on appeal with G. H. Backman and C. M. Nielsen as sureties. Luke objected to Nielsen being a to umpire or refree a game, and the local talent will have to be instructed in the new system to prevent endless trouble on the field. It will not make play faster says Maddock, to conform for the petitioner and hence disqualified by law. It was shown that Judge Nielsen was not attorney for the petitioner in that particular case, but Luke still objected to him acting but Luke still objected to him acting as surety and Durand accordingly re-fused to accept the surety and entered an order to that effect, which was writ-ten out for him by Luke. The petttioner now asks that Justice Durand be compelled to show cause why he r fused to accept Judge Nielsen as sur ty and an alternative writ of mandate was issued in the case by Judge Armstrong citing Durand in court to show Tactics in Collection of Bills Re- Leave Their Reservation in Utah Dr. Scott. Secretary of Reform For One Located in South Dakota.

Informed They Are Liable to Punishment for Any Infraction of the Laws En Route.

(Special to the "News.") Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.-Indian Commissioner Leupp is watching the dians from their reservation in Utah, either camping upon their brethren of the Pine Ridge, Black Hills or Rosebud agency. Should the White River Utes reach any one of the South Dakota reservations mentioned, it is of course certain as to how they may be treated. The latest advices received by Commissioner Leupp are to the effect that the migrating Utes have reached Douglas, Wyoming, and despite the protestations of Capt. Hall, Indian agent at the Ute reservation, they refuse to turn and persist in continuing their erings. Commissioner Leupp has wanderings. Commissioner Leupp has instructed Agent Hall to warn them that if they persist in disregarding the wishes of the government they must assume all responsibility and that citizenship by which they set such great store, has its burdens and responsibilities, which must be met. They have been informed that they are liable to punishment by local authorities for any overt acts which they may commit on their journey. Should they continue as they have done thus far, quietly and in order, paying their way, they will not be molested. But should they for-age, run off stock, rob hen roosts and commit similar depredations upon communities through which they pass, they will be hauled up with short turn by the Indian department, backed up by United States troops. Indian Commissioner Leupp said that so far as he knew there was but one precedent for such movement. That was in the case of the Poncas, who were removed from their reservation in Dakota territory in 1878 and taken to Indian Territory. This move-ment occurred during the administration of Carl Schultz as secretary of the interior. The Poncas after some months residence in Indian Territory sickened and longed for their former homes in Dakota. They reached a point in Nebraska before the authori-ties took a hand. The Indians, however, upon being stopped, claimed that as citizens of the United States they had a perfect right to roam about at will, providing they did not molest anyone. Upon being stopped they emheas corpus was asked from Judge Dundy then sitting upon the States bench in Nebraska, Judge Dundy held that these Indians had a perfect right to roum about provided they adwhich they might pass. Ultimately however, the vast majority of migratory band of Poncas was induced to return to the reservation in Indian Territory, T. H. Tibbels of Nebraska. who was subsequently a candidate for vice president on the Populist ticket, espoused the cause of the Poncas, and of the tribe. The movement of the White River Utes is being carefully followed by the Indian bureau, and it is even yet hoped they may be persuaded to return to their reservation and take up the culslictted to them-

4 Hd - SIMPLIFYING

New York, Aug. 25 .- Dr. C. G. 7. Scott, secretary of the simplified speliing board, is elated over the president's order that the "reform spelling" be used in official documents issuing from the White House. He believes that is the greatest step yet made in simplifying the spelling of English, although, even with the presidential endorsement, he does not believe that there will be any sudden change from the old established spelling.

Dr. Scott said yesterday that he had been in correspondence with the heads of all the scientific bureaus in Washington, the president and the public printer, and many government officials, all of whom had long been eager to this issue. On account of its prominence and bold figure you can't get away from it. It will pay everybody to study this advertisement and read reform certain inconsistencies in spell-

The public printer, he said, had already asked the board to aid him in compiling a new "style book." One or two newspapers and some magazines and certain trade journals are using the 300 simplified spellings suggested by the board, and the superintendent of schools in Dublin, is authorized to adopt these spellings if he deems it advisable.

Interment in city cemetery, Prof. Charles McMillan of Princeton university, said when asked what he thought of the changes in spelling indorsed by President Roosevelt:

"I do not think it would be of any value, for when we change our words to spell them phonetically we lose their origin. When we do this we will have origin. When we do not to begin all over. Surely the English language is complicated enough as it language is complicated enough as it is now without making it still worse. believe we should by all means retain the old methods of spelling.

"What a change such a new system would make in our colleges and what a reprinting of standard works would be necessary to bring it into use."

"We must first secure uniform pronunciation because we can hope to have a successful phonetic system of spelling. said Prof. James Morgan Hart, head of the English department at Cornell university, according to a special from Ithaca printed in today's World. that reason, the proposed new spelling will not be phonetic, but will consist merely in cutting off unnecessary leters. I can't say that I dislike the innovation, but the men at the head of it are not recognized leaders and do not ommand a very extensive following. think President Roosevelt was a bit hasty in adopting the so-called phone-tic system for his state documents." The World also publishes a special from Providence, R. L. in which President Faunce of Brown university is quoted as follows: Of course, no one expects to intro duce a complete phonetic spelling of English words as they are pronounced. order to accomplish this we should have identical pronunciation. As long as words are pronounced in various as words are pronounced in various ways, they cannot be spelled in what is called a phonetic manner.

"I do not believe it is possible or desirable by any act of government to change the crthography of the English language. The result of centuries of growth cannot be annihilated by act of Congress or by any organization. of Congress or by any organization large or small."
