ANGEL OF DEATH.

A Harvest of Human Lives Along the Atlantic Coast.

THE RAGING ELEMENTS AT WORK.

Reports of Damage to Property on Sea and Land and Everything not Yet Told.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—A special to the Chronicle from Fort Royal, S. C., brings the startling information that fifty one hundred lives were lost at Fort Royal, at Beaufort, and neighboring points by drowning during the storm. Of the 100 persons killed and drowned only six were white the others were negroes. Twenty persons were drowned on Aprie Island. The total losses are estimated in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. Steams were blown down and carried in every direction. The tidal wave that deluged the town and country around Beaufort and Point Royal buried everything under from ten to twelve feet of water.

MOURNS UNKNOWN IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Many houses in this city were unroofed or demolished and wires of all descriptions were broken. The Long Island and Jersey shore resorts suffered more than from the storm of last week.

AT PHILADELPHIA.

At Philadelphia two electricians created this morning as a result of the storm. The Delaware river is higher than for years and the wharves and structures along the river front at Philadelphia were flooded and considerable damage resulted. The dry dock at Cramp's ship yards were damaged to the extent of $100,000 by the high tide.

Heavy damage to property was done at New Haven, Conn. Shade trees are down and chimneys and roofs blown off. Tobacco leafs are thought to be entirely ruined. The fruit orchards in Connecticut suffered much. The damage must amount to over a million dollars in New Haven county.

COMMUNICATION SUSPENDED.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—Sunday night's storm did incalculable injury to the farming interests of the southeast. There has been no communication with Charleston, Savannah or Jacksonville since Sunday afternoon.

BALTIMORE FLOODED.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 29.—Not since the great flood of 1893 has such a storm been experienced in Baltimore as that of last night. The wind blew a furious gale all the afternoon and in the evening the rain began falling in torrents and did not cease until morning. Roofs and chimneys were torn off, much glass was smashed, telegraph and telephone wires were wrecked and electric lights went out, leaving the greater part of the city in darkness. On the bay a mountainous sea spurted up and rolled high in the town, spreading over walls and flooring streets and adjacent buildings. This morning the street resembled lagoons instead of thoroughfares. The wharves were completely submerged and some potatoes destroyed. Several schooners were washed high and dry on the streets. The warehouses along the water-front suffered damages aggregating many thousands of dollars. A southeast gale prevented the waters from receding until noon today, to which time business was practically at a standstill in the flooded districts. Incoming vessels report severe experiences.

CHARLESTON ALMOST IN RUINS.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 29.—A passenger train on the Atlantic Coast line arrived this evening from Charleston, having been delayed twenty-four hours by the destructive storm of Sunday and Monday. The express messenger, who was in Charleston during the storm, says it commenced at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and continued without abatement until Monday morning. There was not fifty yards of space in the streets not littered with debris, such as roofs of houses, signs, etc. Railroad property was demolished and one schooner is lying high in the street, having been driven from her anchorage. It was reported that eight people were killed in the city. It is also rumored that there has been great loss of life on Sullivan's Island.

A dispatch from Raleigh, N. C., says much damage was done to property in that city and Wilmington, and great damage is strung all through the state.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—A Charleston, S. C., special says: This city was subjected to the full fury of the tornado Sunday night. The tornado left the city almost in ruins. The streets were strewn with debris from buildings and uprooted trees and the magnificent water front is planked with wreckage. The battery is badly wrecked. The greatest wreck was at Pregnall's dock yard, where the loss is $20,000. Hundreds of coastwise craft in the outlet were carried out to sea during the storm. Dozens of them were saved by hard work.

NEWS FROM SAVANNAH.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 29.—The great storm of Sunday and Monday did considerable damage here to the city proper. Fifteen people are known to have been drowned, as mentioned last night. More are missing, but it is impossible yet to estimate the number. In addition to the vessels in the harbor wrecked, as reported last night, a number of other wrecks are reported today. More than thirty vessels are reported wrecked so far and many out boats lost. Nothing is yet heard of the steamship City of Savannah, many hours overdue.

Had that portion of the city known as Tybee Island been washed away the destruction would not have been much worse than it is. At least half the houses on the island were blown down or badly damaged, and several railroad tracks carried out by the wind and water until cars stuck up like a fan.

IN CHORUS.

Senator Teller Gives His View of the Cause of the Financial Disaster.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The resolution offered yesterday by Stewart was all before the Senate. It directs the secretary of the treasury to inform the Senate whether there is danger of a deficiency in the revenues of the government during the current year, and if so, what is the probable amount of such deficiency, and whether legislation is necessary to supply such deficiency. The resolution gave rise to a long discussion, Senators Gorman, Voorhees, Mills, McPherson and others opposed the resolution. After some further debate the resolution was finally referred to the committee by a vote of 40 to 15.

Dolph introduced a bill which was referred to the committee on foreign relations, appropriating $100,000 to enable the secretary of the treasury to enforce the Chinese exclusion act, and said he would seek an opportunity of addressing the Senate on the subject.

Gordon addressed the Senate in favor of unconditional repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, and against the substitutes. Gordon, in the concluding portion of his speech, advocated repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks.

Teller addressed the Senate in an argument to prove that the Sherman law was not responsible for the financial troubles of the country. Almost without exception, he said, every one who addressed the Senate had spoken as if there were some great calamity impending over the people of the United States. He wanted to enter his protest against the "calamity howling." Nobody had analyzed the question as to whether the cause was or was not the Sherman act.

He has been in the city of Denver when four national banks there, $3 solvent, closed. He had gone on the street where the news spread and asked the people if they thought the trouble was and he was told, "We do not know what the trouble is. We have come here to be in to a great financial disturbance in the country. We do not know whether the banks will be able to pay us our money when we want it, and we think it is safest to get it now."

Those pessimistic notes of coming evil, Teller said, had emanated from the New York banks and newspapers; the city of the metropolitan press was followed by all the small papers of the country. None of them were able to tell what was going to happen. These misrepresentations and false statements brought about a state of things which could be brought about in any country and at any time by such means and agencies.

Teller went on at great length to discuss the course taken by New York's banks in refusing to pay their depositors' checks in currency, and in trying to work up public opinion in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act. He noted reported interviews with the President and Secretary Carlisle, and criticised the views attributed to the President, and which he said had never been denied, that the people of the United States needed an object lesson and were going to get it.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—In the House Aldrich offered a resolution providing for a special committee to investigate the Field's freezer disaster, and to determine what measures should be taken for the relief of the families of the victims. Referred to the committee on rules.

Catchings called up the report of the committee on rules, and a debate followed. An animated discussion over the rules was had between Speaker Crisp and ex-Speaker Reed, the latter criticising the report. For the first time during this session the speaker took the floor, having called Richardson of Tennessee to the chair, and replied to incidentals of the gentleman from Maine. At times the scene was somewhat personal, and each speaker received the plaudits of his party friends.

Reed argued in favor of the rights of the majority, as firmly maintained in the Fifty-first Congress. He criticised the provisions of the rules, which, he claimed, vested the committee on rules with authority which should be vested in the speaker.

Crisp said many of the rules of the Fifty-first Congress were to be commended; many others had been condemned by the country. Among the actions in Fifty-first Congress which were odious to the country was the arbitrary, high-handed action on the part of the speaker. Without authority of rules or anything else, the speaker assumed the power to count a quorum, and he (Reed) had claimed that the Supreme Court justified his course. This was not so. The Supreme Court said the House had the right to make its own rules, but it never said the speaker should make them. He (Crisp) felt, as the people of the country felt, that the rules of the Fifty-first Congress was a usurpation that ought to be repudiated.

Reed, in reply, regretted that the speaker had left his position to take part in a discussion on the floor, and introduced into the debate parliamentary. He believed the policy of the Fifty-first Congress had received the approval of the Supreme Court.

The debate was continued by Springer, Bunter, Hooker, Parker, Cummings, Hepburn and Bryan. Then the subject was dropped and Springer introduced a bill to provide for the coinage of the seigniorage silver in the treasury. Referred.

A CLEVELAND RUMOR.

It is Said an Operation for Cancer was Performed on Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—The Press publishes a four-column article containing the statement that President Cleveland submitted to an operation on the south side for the removal of a cancer requiring the cutting away of a considerable portion of the upper jawbone. So far there is no serious effect. The Press says Cleveland is still very sick, and the physicians fear a mortal disease will shortly broke in his system. A few days ago Colonel Lamont said in New York: "The President is a very sick man; how sick we cannot tell."

The Press says this operation took place at the home of the President's previous visit to Buzzards Bay. The wound seemed to heal easily and naturally. Now the physicians hope all the virus was removed and that the recovery will result. He is said to be improving today.

BUSINESS WOE.

SAUSSERVILLE, BAY, Aug. 29.—Disaster followed almost the worthy end of a noble life today by wrecking the great Industry stack from a field of nineteen complexions. He carried the top weight, too, and was ridden at the post nearly half an hour. Beside him, the track was heavy and sticky. It was just the day for a light weight, but he vanquished all of them. Unfortunately for him, a hard fight for over a furlong and was only a head behind at the finish.

The voice of the stake was $10,000, divided as follows: $6,000 to Dunbar and $4000 to his trainer, $2000 to Jennie, $1000 to his breeder, $2000 to Robbins and $1000 to his breeder.

A SILVER PAPER SUSPENDS.

DENVER, Aug. 29.—The Sunday News, the only silver-advocating paper in Colorado, was compelled to temporarily suspend today on account of the present business stringency. The paper expects to resume as soon as the times become better.

LABORERS MOB.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—The sugar trust opened Kansas City during the past week and from Thursday until this morning not a bit of that commodity could be bought at the wholesale houses. As a consequence the supply at the retail grocery stores is exhausted. Several wholesale houses received small consignments of granulated sugar the morning and the trouble is over for the time.

Sunday School Convention.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—Tomorrow the Sunday school International Field Workers' conference will begin here. A mass prayer meeting was held tonight to invoke divine help for the convention. Over five thousand delegates are expected to be present.

A Sugar Famine.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—There was the usual prayer meeting at noon today on the floor of the stock exchange. Many speakers were listened to, including Lucy Parsons. A mass meeting of laboring men has been called for the idea from immediate adjournment. The leaders proposed that there would be no disorder, but the police department is prepared to hold a large reserve force in readiness.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

Actual Hostilities Between Germans and Natives of Africa.

Conference of the Latin Union—Choleras in the Capital of Austria and France.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—A telegram received this morning from Dar-es-Salaam, the chief seaport of German East Africa, announces that active hostilities have begun between the German forces and natives. The German contingent, commanded by Governor Schele, stormed the fortified camp of the Sultan at Kilimarjaro, after four hours severe fighting. The German loss was a lieutenant and fourteen troops killed and a sergeant and twenty-three native wounded.

A Currency Question.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The French government has agreed to call a conference of the members of the Latin Union in Paris to settle the question of substitution of fractional silver currency.

Cholera Reports.

VIENNA, Aug. 29.—Cholera has appeared in Vienna. This is confirmed by physicians who examined the body of a workman who died yesterday, they certifying that there was no doubt that his death was caused by cholera. A dispatch received this evening from Buda Pesth says 140 new cases and seventy-eight deaths from cholera were reported in eighteen counties in Hungary during the twenty-four hours.

At Nantes.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—An epidemic of cholera has been raging at Nantes the past two weeks. A strong so twenty-five cases were reported in one day, and 40 per cent. of the persons attacked succumb to the disease.
