THE CUBAN REVOLT.

Ten Thousand Infantry and Three Thousand Cavalry

OTHER JOBS AGAINST SPAIN.

Political Government Formed—Heavy Loss of the Spanish Troops in a Recent Engagement.

ST. LOUIS, March 15.—The latest news from Cuba says that General Gomez, the new commander-in-chief of the insurgent army, has 10,000 infantry and 3,000 cavalry under his command. They are armed with Winchesters and rifles. A dispatch from Key West says several boats with arms and men from the Spanish gunboat Pinos Tubalo attempted the shores of Key West on Wednesday night, watching and ready to land in Cuba.

CONSULAR REPORTS.

PORTLAND, Me., March 15.—Cuban agents are at present visiting all the principal cities of Massachusetts in the interest of insurgent bonds and securities. Mr. Nagler and Mr. Gomez, the latter a nephew of General Maximo Gomez, has been there. A commissioner of Cuba has not had been appointed envoy to obtain foreign countries recognition of the cause of independence.

Two hundred Spaniards are said to have been killed in the battle of Tuesday.

OFFICIAL DENIALS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—A note from the Japanese minister of state received by Minister Morgan, makes everything is quiet in the province and that the only province and that the only province in which there is any disturbance, the province of Formosa, is in the hands of the Japanese, and that the province is now in the hands of the Japanese. The people of Cuba, under the supreme control, are still opposed to all disturbance, this is the case even with the natives of the lower province. He discredited the report that the revolutionists had a number of cannon and had cut down a commander-in-chief and are put the troops government and are not in close a government of the province, and have a declaration of independence.

The minister denied the report of the killing of 10 Spanish soldiers in the Indian Vaptiste, saying that such casualty would have been quickly reported to him.

THE CHINESE LOAN.

London Financial Circles Much Interested in the Matter.

NEW YORK, March 15.—A special to the Herald from London says:

London financial circles are much interested in the question of the floating of the Chinese loan of the negotiations for some deposit upon China giving entry incidentally to Japan. The idea of China's loan was almost an article talk on the London and continental markets although it was generally the common opinion of the most jobs. The representatives of the Rothschilds and other large financial houses thought that no proposition had been received yet from China to an indemnity loan. If it is not anything certainly would be the great difficulty in negotiating it. This would be less difficult if Japan shall enjoy Peking and adjoining the capital of the "celestial" people.

SURRENDER OF LIU KUNG.

Letters From Admiral Ting to the Japanese Commander.

Particulars About the Fall of China's Stronghold and the Suicide of Naval Officers.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—The steamer China brings the following special correspondence:

TOKIO, March 1.—Admiral Ting's proposal to surrender the forts on Liu Kung Island and what remains of his fleet was brought to the Japanese naval commander on February 12th by the captain of the greatest Chen Pei. The document was brief, setting forth that as results fighting had not ceased, and as many ships had been sunk and many men killed, the lives had come to yield. Everything should be given up to Japan on condition that all persons, Chinese and foreigners, connected with the defeated army and navy, should be unmolested. The writer expressed that the British admiral should guarantee the good faith of the offer.

While the letter was under consideration by the Japanese commander and his staff, the Chinese messenger disposed the situation successfully with a group of Japanese officers. He asserted that if the troops in the forts had cooperated courageously with the Pei Yang squadron, Wei Hai Wei would have been beaten beyond doubt, but the Chinese army was unfit for any kind of duty, and would never strike an effective blow in defense of the country. To prevent the last was almost an article talk on the London and continental markets although it was generally the common opinion of the most jobs. The representatives of the Rothschilds and other large financial houses thought that no proposition had been received yet from China to an indemnity loan. If it is not anything certainly would be the great difficulty in negotiating it. This would be less difficult if Japan shall enjoy Peking and adjoining the capital of the "celestial" people.

A SERIOUS AFFAIR.

Demand Made Upon the Spanish Government for Apology.

SEC. GRESHAM'S NOTE CRITICISED.

Possibility of a Rupture of the Friendly Relations Between the United States and Spain.

MADRID, March 15.—The following cablegram has been received here:

TANGIER, Morocco, March 15.—This department is informed that on the 5th inst the U. S. mail steamship Alabama on her homeward voyage from Cuba to New York, when she came from the coast of Cuba, off Cape May, was repeatedly fired upon by a Spanish gunboat with solid shot, which, fortunately, fell short. The windward passage where this occurred, is the nearest and most highway for vessels plying between ports of the United States and the Caribbean Sea. Through it several regular lines of American mail and commercial steamers pass weekly within sight of Cape May. They are well known and their signal embraces no Cuban port of call. The terrible interruption with them cannot be claimed as a belligerent act unless they give up their colors on the Cuban coast and, under no circumstances, be detained when to make it may expose. Your minister will at once present strongest of the unauthorized act and the expression of regret upon the part of Spain, and it must itself that immediate and positive orders be given to the Spanish naval commanders not to interfere with the legitimate commerce passing through that channel, and prohibiting all such wantonly imperiling life and property lawfully under the flag of the United States. You will communicate this to the minister of foreign affairs and sign the importance of a prompt and satisfactory response.—(signed) Gresham.

THE SPANISH MINISTER HAS NO IT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—Senor Moragas, the Spanish minister, has not been informed up to 11 o'clock today, either by the government or by the state department, of the United States demand upon Spain through the minister at Madrid. He repeats that the present general of Cuba, state that there is no information of a Spanish gun ever although the officials along the eastern coast of Cuba, where the supposed outrage occurred, have been on the lookout.

"For my part," said the minister, "this looks very much like a sea serpent story. Every now and then a sea serpent story is told, but the sea serpent and came near being swallowed. Captain Crossman is no doubt a worthy officer, but it looks very much as though he had dreamt that he had seeing a Spanish gunboat. The proper course would be to exact affidavits from the crew and passengers of the American steamer and find out if it agrees with the statement of Captain Crossman."

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The text of Secretary Gresham's dispatch to Spain was sent by a representative of the Associated Press to Senor Moragas, the Spanish minister.

"Of course I have heard, but this source should be taken when only one side of the story has been told and any action must be based on an ex parte statement of Captain Crossman."

He scanned the text of the demand forwarded to Spain, commenting on the severity of the language of the Secretary. He said: "Such a prompt disavowal." and "the expression of regret on the part of Spain," with "immediate and positive orders," to the Spanish naval commanders. Senor Moragas, had received no copy of the demand from the state department and not any information that this ship had been or would be taken, nor had any word yet come from the Spanish government to him.

"Certainly there will be no reply until all the facts are known, and since from Captain Crossman, not from the commander of the Spanish gunboat alleged to have fired the shot, I think we will wait and be able to act intelligently on the whole case. Spain will undoubtedly not alter the recognized principle of international law that the ocean is maintained her sovereignty over the waters within her jurisdiction limits."

He regretted the issue of the order requiring or permitting a searching force with American ships cannot be claimed as a belligerent act, whether unreasonable, but none of any other note. The Spanish minister said: "Cuban vessels were delivered to their new owners, with the exception of the "Kwang Chi" which Admiral Ting gave back, in order that the property of the Chinese commander should be taken away to a nine-of-war belonging to his own country. The body was carried ashore with military ceremonies, and salutes were given as the vessel departed for the Pei. On the 19th, the Garrison of Liu Kung, numbering 3,000 men, with the four remaining sailors of the Pei Yang squadron were sent to the mainland, escorted to the Japanese outposts, some twenty miles from Chefoo, and set at liberty.

The Chinese armies in Manchuria show a great deal of persistence in repeating their movements against the Chinese, but they invariably run away before any real fighting is done. The latest demonstrations were on February 16th and 21st, when little efforts were made by the Japanese outposts from Lao Yang and New Chwang in consequence of the Chinese "general position." As could the Japanese have taken the offensive, it would have been a great advantage to the Japanese, and many hot efforts were made to induce the Chinese to fight, but they would not.
