THE VOTING TONIGHT.

It Will Be at the Fair, for the Prettiest Girl in Utah.

The Manufacturers' Bureau Has Work to Say in the Home Industry Cause.

The bureau of manufacturers' committee keep on working, and have the following information and announcement meant for the public. Visitors now in the city from other parts of the Territory are taking a lively interest in the Industrial Fair and in the Home Industry movement generally. In the extreme northern part of the Territory beyond railroad connection the people, of course, do not have the same problems to solve. They are in a great degree self-supporting now, raising and manufacturing almost all they use.

But in central and northern Utah the conditions have been so different that outside made goods have secured a firm hold, and in many places now where the people want to use home made articles they are prevented because the stores do not keep them.

It is hoped that during this conference season, merchants from the outside cities will make such arrangements with home manufacturers and dealers as will remedy this difficulty. It is claimed in the present conditions the outside houses will not continue sending their consumers into the smaller towns and that they will endeavor to sell to jobbers in Salt Lake, Ogden and Provo and have the distribution made to retail stores in the settlements and small cities from the larger points. It would seem that such a plan should be well watched by the home industries. They must begin to mind that the manufacturers and jobbers of outside goods are not going to give up Utah trade without a struggle, and that all sorts of terms are now being resorted to to hold it.

Utah people, however, are saying that they propose to stand by the home made product which they should understand means also the investigation of reports which are being spread against the home goods by interested dealers in outside wares.

The great central thought being sent to the front, that the final result will be all right and with the good effects of loyalty to home goods will be noticed and the home industry cause receive such a forward movement that the business of Utah's people will be able to keep at home during the next year or two will have such a beneficial effect on trade and factory operations as will convince all of the benefits of the change.

At the last meeting of the Manufacturers' Bureau a committee was appointed to decide upon a proposed voting contest to be held at the Industrial Fair. The plan seems to meet with general favor and the contest will be inaugurated this evening, the first voting being for the prettiest girl in Utah.

The contest will be strictly fair in every detail. A committee of judges, consisting of a popular young man from each bank of the city will count the votes and supervise the contest.

The Salt Lake Lithographing Co. desires to use for a signature on bonds, and the selection will be made in this way. Votes will be five cents each, and the receipts from the voting contest to be held will be used by the bureau to spread the home industry movement over the intermountain region.

The Redeback Divorce.

Mrs. Bessie Redeback, who filed suit for divorce against her husband, Edward W. Redeback, on December 31, 1892, and who was granted a decree on January 5th last, complains that no decree has been drawn up, or signed by the court.

The plaintiff was allowed the custody of her child, $25 a month alimony and $100 attorney's fee. She states that neither the alimony nor the attorney's fee has been received by her as directed by the court, although she has made every endeavor to urge her attorney to secure her rights.

Mr. D. C. Dunnigan, one of the court, states that he conferred with Judge Hatch, who granted the decree, and found that no decree had been signed by him as yet that, further, the attorney in the case did not seem to have much interest in the matter.

Mrs. Redeback says that she paid $50 to her lawyer to secure the divorce for her, but that he will do nothing to have the case closed up. It is quite much, she says.

This is how the matter stands at present, and if the decree is not speedily signed and recorded, there are likely to be some interesting developments.

First Ward Democrats.

The Democrats of the First ward met last night and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President, John Sharp; first vice president, William Campbell; second vice president, W. S. Harris; secretary, George H. Hancock; treasurer, Samuel B. Allen.

The section of the executive committee was postponed until the next regular meeting which will be held on Tuesday evening next at the First ward school house.

Dairymen's Supplies.

Mr. E. S. Dey, of the Colorado metropolis and a representative of the Denver Stamping company, manufacturers of a superior kind of japanned ware and all kinds of dairy and creamery supplies, was building among the congeries of the department now, yesterday and yesterday in convince them that in the absence of such a plant in the Territory it was their duty to patronize institutions as near home as possible.

Anxious for a Match.

Billy Mahan, a California welter weight pugilist now in the city, is sent to us very anxious to meet some of Salt Lake's boxers. He is regarded in sporting circles as being a pretty clever sparrer and negotiations are pending for a fight between him and "Red Phillips" or Frank Hutchins the colored slugger, who has returned to Salt Lake after a week or more of visiting about the last fight, for which he was expected he would be arrested and prosecuted.

A German Entertainment.

A German entertainment will be held at the Social hall Monday next, April 9th. Doors open at 7:30. The program consists of declamations, songs and instrumental music, and concludes with a one act play, entitled The Lugbeetle. The public is invited.

RAID ON SUNDAY SALOONS.

Proprietors of Drinkshops Must Close Their Doors on the Sabbath.

For a long time past there has been a good deal of Sunday saloon business carried on in this city, notwithstanding that there has been a pretense at obeying the law by drawing the blinds and closing the front doors. It is stated that the union will be perpetrated no longer and from the time forth the letter of the law must be rigidly enforced or the violators punished accordingly.

The cause of the change in policy is the fact that a great many of the saloons have been open in a local fashion business on the Sabbath day of late. Drunken men have been turned into the streets from front, side and back doors and the police have had much work, says Chief Pratt, who is not responsible for the condition of affairs, which is an inheritance from a former administration.

Today Captain Donovan, acting under the advice of his chief and of the new police commissioners, paid a personal visit to every saloon in the city and notified the proprietors that they must keep within the law or take the consequences.

Charged With Adultery.

The case of John Bogan and Josephine Dobson, charged with adultery, was set for hearing in Commissioner Norrell's court this morning, and all the witnesses were in attendance in the appointed time, but upon the discovery being made that June is Arbor Day, and consequently a legal holiday, the hearing was continued until next Monday at 2 p. m. The male defendant is out on a bond of $600, the woman, being unable to furnish the required security, will remain in the penitentiary.

ADJACENT CITIES

OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, APRIL 7, 1894.

HE WAS NOT INSANE.

Frank Hamilton Found Guilty of Burglary.

The trial of Frank Hamilton, charged with burglary, was concluded yesterday in the Fourth district court. The trial has occupied three and one half days and has been one of much interest. The attorneys for the defense contended that the insane plea was. After Judge Morrey delivered his charge to the jury they retired and in about five minutes returned, bringing in a verdict of guilty of burglary. Hamilton will receive his sentence on Monday next.

The case of Hamilton's accomplice, Frank Morris, was set for hearing on Wednesday next.

Notes and Personals.

Business Manager of the My Aunt Bridget company Mr. B. G. Tracy, is in the city and a guest of the Bloom. The company, which will appear in the Grand on April 11th and 12th.

The U. P. train due in Salt Lake at 10:10 has been from 30 to 50 minutes late the last few morning, owing to swelling connection with the Utah & Northern, which is being put in shape on a great number of wholesale railroads along the road.

A foot day was observed as a holiday by very few people in Ogden City. The entire week not in session.

Three were sentenced thirty-days hard labor for gross indecency in the city jail last night. They are charged with vagrancy.

S. D. Chase, a commercial man from Salt Lake, is in the city on business.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, APRIL 7, 1894.

In District Court.

J. E. Cherrington entered a plea of guilty to the charge of incest, and waived time for sentence. He was given three years in the penitentiary. The case against Maud Carson, implicated with Cherrington in the charge of incest, was dismissed, it appearing that a conviction could not be secured.

The arguments in the Halket and Smith murder case were concluded, and the jury retired to consider their verdict. The attempt to derive him of such possession, and I charge you that if he was in the peaceable possession of their land and dwellings, notwithstanding Grant may have acquired some title, it is in the improvement on the land, still that gives him the right to forcibly eject Halket without legal process for that purpose. I charge you, however, that Halket would have been justified under such circumstances in using so much force as they may deem necessary to defend his possession; but if, while defending his possession in a lawful manner, he was assaulted with a deadly weapon by the deceased, and there was a manifest intention on the part of the deceased to deprive him of his life or great bodily harm, then under Halket and Smith was justified in killing deceased under such circumstances."

The decedent Halket has separated effective work and complained during his life. Smith has been some years, occasionally for months at a time, and his hands have been more in motion.

Police Court.

Moroni, one of the witnesses in the Halket and Smith murder case, was run in by Marshal Kimball for disturbing the peace while drunk. He paid $5 to the city justice.

Five Italians were arrested by the officers yesterday, four of them for vagrancy and the other, a servant girl, for assault. Three of them, including the servant, were released from the county jail but the day before, where they had been serving terms for petit larceny. One of the knights of the razor was given half an hour to get out of the city and the others were given various numbers of days in jail. The servant girl is a brave. During the spare time he was out of jail he engaged in serenading with a musical citizen, intending to compel them to give him money, but in each case he was successfully resisted. When he was arrested he had to be carried part of the way to jail. He was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, charged with assault with intent to commit robbery.

Notes.

Licenses to marry have been issued to Eli H. Baker and Rosanna Halet, of Provo, and George H. Hughes, of West Jordan, Salt Lake county, and Naomi Parkinson, of Franklin, Idaho.

City Marshal Knight has been ordering residents of the city to clean up to accordance with the provisions of the city ordinances.

Court Reporter Pike states that the Halet and Davis murder case in the Fourth district court, he has reported in the First District court.

A ROYAL BOX.

Belgrade Rose Will Wed Her Son the Son of the Duke Prince.

A rose of 18 years and a boy of seven years are the two most complicated specimens in Europe today. One, it is true, is not quite close on one of the most complicated pedigrees of the present time age. The other, born in a palace, was day by day upon a rather dusty throne. All Europe has noticed indeed, gaiety and the extraordinary relations which Prince Ferdinand and the Princess Clementine have sustained to each other. The royal youngster would there was world as solid standing.

Rose he not a chance to copy his father, and he was frightened half to death by the firing of 101 cannon under his window. He had hardly dressed the wedding clothes before he was announced to be "Prince of the Colleges of the Order of St. Alexander." The good child would have howled in protest, but the nurse had informed him that on the end of the new responsibility infantry, cavalry and artillery on each occasion would be charged. Some enthusiasts would be present, but some might be present, both in prose and dress, but as a full dress "Knight of the First and Fourth Class Military Order of Valor" he must preserve the stern dignity of his rank.

It was a hard work for him. In the first place, the palace ward was thronged night and day by his singing, dancing, effusive Grandmamma, Queen Natalie. The poor child was in doubt whether to appease the sons upstairs, persisted in singing him at a window several times, or to the frantic delight of the assembled crowds. The whole principality took a week's holiday, and the royal family was unfortunate and unfortunate that the nation found the opportunity a welcome relief from the school conditions about war.

Sister to Country Wife.

Minnie Hughes recently resided at the residence of a house to which the writer called, if there is a young girl in your place. The age of 16 or 17 is so very young one to follow out by marriage." The writer acted on the advice and married Miss Ella Hughes without legal process for that purpose. I charge you, however, that Halket would have been justified under such circumstances in using so much force as they may deem necessary to defend his possession; but if, while defending his possession in a lawful manner, he was assaulted with a deadly weapon by the deceased, and there was a manifest intention on the part of the deceased to deprive him of his life or great bodily harm, then under Halket and Smith was justified in killing deceased under such circumstances."
