THERE are messages at the Western Union Telegraph office for Mrs. Mary Donohue, H. Goodman, C. F. Tray, Jr., Miss M. E. Jordan.

COUNTY CLERK ALLEN has issued marriage licenses to Anne H. [illegible] and Allen Pearce, Nels E. Youngberg and Emma J. Smith.

A TERRITORIAL School Teachers' convention will be held in this city, in the Deseret University, on the 29th and 30th instant.

S. R. MARKS & Co. have opened up a branch business house on Main street, in the Hooper and Eldredge block, where they are carrying a stock of choice furniture.

BEFORE Judge Bartch today the bond of John C. Harvey, administrator of the estate of Andrew Harvey, deceased, in the sum of $600 was approved.

THE various committees of the New England Association are hard at work selling tickets for the occasion of the celebration of Forefathers' Day, which comes on at the Knutsford tomorrow, where the annual dinner will be partaken of.

On Christmas Day, the mail carriers will make but one delivery, and the carriers' window will be open from 11 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon. The general delivery and stamp windows will be open from 10 to 12, and the registering department from 11 to 12.

THE case against J. W. Cory, the [illegible] who was arrested on Saturday for obtaining money under false pretenses, has been dismissed, the complaining witness failing to prosecute. Cory was rearrested later in the day on a charge of drunkenness. For this offense he was fined $5.

ABOUT 6:30 on Saturday evening the West Side apparatus of the fire department was called out to extinguish a blaze at the house of Attorney Barlow Ferguson, on First South and Eighth West. The fire was caused by an over-heated stove, and the rooms were considerably damaged. The loss amounts to about $175, but is covered by insurance.

On New Year's day the "Fatinitza" Opera company will go to Ogden over the Union Pacific, where the opera will be reproduced in the evening. Tickets, including supper at the Reed hotel and admission to the performance, can be obtained for $2.50 at the Union Pacific office in this city. The return train will leave Ogden for Salt Lake immediately after the performance.

THE passengers on a Warm Springs car, last Saturday evening, were more alarmed than injured over the result of an explosion. Some person placed a can of coffee, tightly corked, on the stove. When well heated the can exploded with a tremendous sound. Pieces of tin were blown in all directions, some of them striking the faces of passengers. The coffee was also liberally distributed, and the garments of the ladies received a gentle sprinkling.

THERE was a collision on the east First South street line of the City Railroad last night. Car No. 10 was going down the grade towards the first switch, when the motorman, who had not been long at the work, let the car get out of his control, and, instead of crossing the switch, the car jumped it and remained on the main track. Car No. 9 was on the main line waiting for the other car to run by on the switch. Apprehending danger all hands jumped, and immediately there was a crash, as the westbound car struck the eastbound car with great force. The front platform of No. 10 was broken up, and the front of the car more or less stove in. Car No. 9 was thrown from the track and the front end badly broken. Several hours' delay was occasioned by the mishap.

A Departed Veteran.

An old and faithful member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints passed away to his rest at Dayton, Ohio, on the 11th instant, notice of which will be found in the appropriate column. Brother Graves had been a subscriber to the DESERET NEWS almost from the first and was a devout believer in the latter-day gospel. He was eighty-seven years of age. The memory of the just is blessed.

Colonel L. C. Hopkins and wife of Brooklyn, New York, are at the Knutsford.

A NEAT STRUCTURE.

The Farmers Ward Meeting House Formally Dedicated Last Night.

Early in the present year the members of the Church in Farmers ward decided upon building a meeting house. Operations were at once commenced and by September 15th last the structure was completed. It has, however, not been used owing to a margin of indebtedness upon it. By the determined and increasing efforts of the finance committee and the generosity of the people the unpaid balance has been liquidated, and last night it was formally dedicated.

It is a neat and commodious structure and is a credit to the ward. It is 35x60 feet and is built of red brick with handsome cut stone trimmings.

The total cost was $5,000.97. The plans and specifications were drawn up by Joseph D. C. Young, and gratuitously presented to the ward.

President George Q. Cannon and the members of the Stake Presidency were present at the dedicatory services, which were well attended. The financial statement of the cost of the building was read and unanimously approved. The dedicatory prayer was offered by President George Q. Cannon, after which timely and instructive remarks were made by Counselors C. W. Penrose, Joseph E. Taylor, President Angus M. Cannon and Bishop Barton.

GENERAL CONNOR'S FUNERAL.

Interment of the Remains Yesterday at Fort Douglas Cemetery.

In the midst of a blinding snowstorm, the mortal remains of General P. E. Connor were yesterday afternoon consigned to their last earthly resting place in the cemetery at Fort Douglas. Despite the inclemency of the weather a very large number of persons assembled in the streets and at the grave to witness the military obsequies, and the cortege was a long and imposing one.

At 9 a. m. the guard of honor, veterans of the civil war, under command of Comrade E. A. Wyatt, escorted the remains to the reading room of the Walker House, where they lay in state until after 12 o'clock. During the three hours it is estimated that fully 5000 people viewed them. The room in which the body rested was appropriately decorated with streamers, bunting and various tokens of mourning. The Stars and Stripes were also conspicuous. On pedestals draped in black broadcloth the casket had been placed, and immediately behind it a canopy was arranged of flags and crape. In the centre were floral offerings from the Patriotic Sons of America and the City Liberal committee, surmounted by an American eagle in gilt. At the head and foot were stands of [illegible], the [illegible] of which served as hangers for floral offerings from friends and relatives. On the foot of the casket rested the chapeau, epaulettes and sword of a major general, and a magnificent floral wreath. A guard from the G. A. R. posts stood around the casket, and [illegible] Indians were stationed at and about the doors.

The religious services began at noon, when the doors were closed to the general public. They were conducted by the Rev. Father Kiely, of the Roman Catholic Church. Mr. C. C. Goodwin delivered a touching and sympathetic address, in the course of which he paid a high tribute of eulogy of the deceased general.

The first portion of the exercises ended, and the face of the dead having been gazed upon for the last time on earth by the relatives and friends present, the lid of the casket was screwed down. At a signal from Funeral Director Ross, the pall bearers, Mayor George M. Scott, Henry W. Lawrence, Major Bliss, Ed Lane, William Husbands, Daniel Dunne, A. J. Lowe, Captain D. B. Stover, J. W. Goldwaite, Samuel McLeason, Henry Payne and Captain J. W. Greenman, took the stations assigned to them.

Main street was thickly lined with spectators as the procession started forth, the order being the same in nearly every detail as previously announced in the newspapers. In consequence of the bad weather, however, the Knights of Pythias did not appear in regalia, but the Patriotic Sons of America wore their beautiful sashes of red, white and blue. Following the "regulars" came the Denhalter Rifles, Dyer Rifles, Company A, Second Infantry, University Cadets and the G. A. R. Posts acting as a guard of honor to the hearse and pallbearers. Immediately in the rear of the hearse, and led by Color-Bearer Stern, slowly walked the horse "Buckskin." Its trappings were of a military character, a pair of military boots being suspended from the saddle. Then came carriages, twenty-five in number, containing relatives, friends, invited guests, Territorial and county and city officials. The next division was headed by the First Brigade band, which rendered Mendelssohn's Funeral March, and which acted also as the advance guard of the Knights of Pythias, nearly one hundred strong, and the Patriotic Sons of America. A platoon of police, ten strong, in command of Sergeant Brown, lead the van of the citizens' division. First came the "Liberal" city committee, headed by Judge Powers and C. E. Allen, and next the Liberal drum corps, forty in number. They were followed by the Flambeau Club, Colonel Murray in command, in citizen's clothes. The Hussars, mounted and in uniform, in charge of Major Schulte, followed. Occupying the place of honor were the visiting delegations, Ogden, with its band, in the lead, the members of the various "Liberal" ward clubs bringing up the rear. Held's band headed the last division, which consisted of a platoon of police in citizen's clothes, marshaled by Captain Janney and Sergeant Donovan, and the Irish-American Association (120 strong), which formed the end of the procession.

At Seventh East street the local militia and civic organizations withdrew, having first been drawn up in line and passed under review. Then the cortege slowly wended its way to the reservation cemetery. Outside the low paling which surrounds the plat stood the Sixteenth Infantry with arms at present, and around the grave hundreds of persons had congregated.

Arrived at the place of interment, a dirge was given by the band, after which Post Commander Whitney of the J. B. McKean Post, G. A. R., spoke as follows:

"One by one as the years roll on, we are called together to fulfil these last sad duties of respect to our comrades of the war. The present, full of the cares and pleasures of civil life, fades away, and we look to the time when, shoulder to shoulder on bloody battlefields, or around the guns of each of war, we fought for our dear old flag. We may indulge the hope that the spirit with which, on land and sea, hardship, privation, dangers were encountered by our dead heroes—a spirit uncomplaining, noble, manfully obedient to the behests of duty, whereby today our southern homes are secure, and our loved ones rest in peace under the aegis of the flag—will prove a glorious incentive to the youth who, in the ages to come, may be called to uphold the destinies of our country. At the years roll on, we, too, shall have fought our battles through and be laid to rest, our souls following the long column to the realms above, as grim death, hour by hour, shall mark its victim. Let us so live that when that time shall come those we leave behind may say above our graves, 'Here lies the body of a true-hearted, brave and earnest defender of the Republic.'"

Comrade Tatlock, laying a wreath of evergreen on the coffin, said: "In behalf of the Post I give this tribute, a symbol of an undying love for comrades of the war." Beside the wreath was placed a rose by Comrade Haynes, who said: "Symbol of purity. We offer at this lonely grave a rose. May future generations emulate the unselfish devotion of even the lowest of our heroes." Comrade C. O. Farnsworth adding a laurel leaf closed the G. A. R. exercises by saying: "Laid token of affection from comrades in arms, we crown these remains with a symbol of victory."

The Rev. Father Kiely recited a few lines in Latin. The casket was then lowered into the grave and at a signal Colonel Rose said "Fire by battalion! Ready! Aim! Fire!" The firing of the volleys concluded the ceremony.

Delegates were present from Ogden, Park City, Tintic, Provo, and other places, the Ogden delegation (among whom was ex-Mayor Kiesel) being quite numerous.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Zane Holds a Brief Session—Judge Anderson Overrules the Demurrer in the "Tribune" Libel Suit.

The December term of the Third District Court was opened at 11 o'clock this morning. The business in Judge Zane's department was of an informal character, and lasted about half an hour only. The following were the only matters that occupied His Honor's attention:

A FORECLOSURE.

Utah Savings Bank vs. Sarah Young et al. Default and decree of foreclosure; notice offered. S. H. Lewis sworn, and $150 attorney's fee allowed.

A NEW TRIAL IN VIEW.

Frank Logan vs. Salt Lake City. Thirty days' time was allowed in file statement for a new trial.

ASSETS SHEEP.

W. L. Pickard vs. Wm. A. Hillis et al. Motion to accept sheep in satisfaction of judgment was set for hearing on Dec. 23rd, at ten a. m.

ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP.

Hans H. Rasmussen, a Dane, and now residing in Utah, was admitted to citizenship.

TO ATTORNEYS AND LITIGANTS.

Judge Zane gave notice that tomorrow morning the court will take up any motions for new trials or any cases that can be tried by agreement between the parties.

BEFORE JUDGE ANDERSON.

Judge Anderson sat in the upstairs room and disposed of the following cases:

THE "TRIBUNE" DEMURRER OVERRULED.

In the case of Marshal E. H. Parsons vs. the Tribune Publishing company, heretofore submitted, the demurrer was overruled and ten days allowed to answer.

CONTINUED.

John W. Goddward vs. John F. Lynch et al.; hearing was continued by consent until January 4th, 1892.

THE MINING SUIT.

The trial of the action of the Old Jordan Mining and Manufacturing company vs. the Niagara Mining and Smelting company was then resumed. It seems likely to be as long-winded an affair as the Northland vs. Mayflower.

COURT NOTES.

No criminal cases will be taken up in the Third district court until the first Monday in February, 1892.

The trial of the great mining suit, the Northland vs. Mayflower, came to an end about 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, when, after a lengthy charge from Judge Zane, it was given to the jury. After being in conference until 7 o'clock last night, the jurors found themselves unable to agree, and were consequently discharged by the judge. The final ballot stood four for the plaintiff and eight for the defendant. This means either a new trial of the case or a compromise between the parties.

The December term of the Third District court opened today.

A woman who gave the name of Mrs. Nellie Bauer, and her residence as 122 West Temple street, went before Commissioner Greenman on Saturday evening and told a sad tale of want and suffering. She and her three children had been deserted by the husband and father, whom she described as a worthless profligate, and of whose whereabouts she is in ignorance. It is believed, however, that he is somewhere in the vicinity of Aspen, Colorado. The commissioner has taken the case under advisement, and an effort will be made to reach the vagabond husband. The parties formerly resided at Leadville.

The criminal calendar for the coming term will be a very heavy one.

A case which came before Commissioner Greenman on Saturday afternoon showed how expensive a thing is litigation. Some time in June last Isaac Kirkendall brought suit against Donald McLennan to recover $5, alleged to be due the plaintiff. Kirkendall employed an attorney to champion the case, but McLennan employed two lawyers. The case was called before Commissioner Hall. After running for several weeks a change of venue was taken, the costs were paid and Commissioner Greenman took the matter in hand. Two or three hearings were had and a number of demurrers entered and postponements allowed until Saturday, when the case was called. The defendants were absent at the hour set for hearing the cause and a verdict was returned for the plaintiffs. The costs and fees ran up to between $200 and $300, but Mr. Kirkendall got judgment for his $5.

Amusements.

The minstrels drew another large house at the Salt Lake Theatre Saturday night. The performances were even better than the previous night, and the success must be gratifying to all parties concerned.

FATINITZA

promises to be a grand success. It has a cast of characters that would be a credit to some royal opera houses in Europe. The large chorus is composed of many well known voices. The Deer [illegible] will appear in the first act. The Shadow Dance is an amusing burlesque, [illegible], and will be presented by six young ladies and gentlemen. The special orchestra of fifteen instruments is headed by Professor Willard Weihe and directed by Professor Krouse. The costumes are hired from the Tivoli Opera house, San Francisco. Everything has been done to make the production of the opera a leading feature of the amusement season.

THE JUVENILE CONCERT

to be given in the Tabernacle Christmas night for the special benefit of the aged, the widows and orphans is sure to be an enjoyable affair. Professor Stephens was always [illegible] in the gigantic has a chorus of five hundred voices and artists of recognized merit to obey the movements of his baton, for the occasion.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR SCANDINAVIANS.

Mr. Ertman and his dramatic company are talking of appearing on the stage before long.

THE ORIGIN OF GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Ellis Treats the Matter Ably and Philosophically.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather a goodly number of persons, among whom were many ladies, assembled at the Salt Lake Theatre last night to hear Mr. Charles Ellis' lecture on government. The lecture was well delivered and full of interest and instruction.

Mr. Ellis commenced with the origin of man, and entered briefly into the theological and scientific theories relating to that subject. The former theory represented man as a special creation, the latter represented him as a development from lower life. The lecturer did not pretend to say which theory was correct, but insomuch as created man fell, and developed man ascended, both harmonized in one respect, viz., that man at one time occupied a plane comparatively akin to "total depravity."

The lecturer then went into the principles of political government, saying that there was no record of any perfect government having ever existed. If God created man perfect there was no need of a government, for a perfect man would be law and government unto himself. If, according to the scientific theory, man was a development from lower stages, then the source of government must be looked for in primitive savagery. The savage represents individualism. He is at enmity with every living thing, even with himself. But in time necessity and the struggle for life compel even individual savages to combine and form the tribe. Later, tribes are forced by the same necessity to combine. Thus is formed the federation.

The mode of selecting chiefs was illustrated by reference to the country school of half a century ago, when there were no school marms and the master had to flog the biggest and worst boy in school in order to assert his power to be the chief or ruler of that company.

Reference was made to the remarkable part that belief in spirits has played in the gradual formation of human government. The spirit chief still ruled his tribe through his sorcerer. The speaker touched briefly upon the apparent evolution of belief in gods as shown among lower savage tribes. First fetichism, secondly, a plane of animalism, so to speak, and lastly anthropomorphism. Savage man had obtained a conception that God was like himself perhaps, through his belief in his spirit chief. When savage man had reached a conception that as there was a chief supreme over the tribe, there must be a supreme spirit chief over all chiefs, he had laid the foundation for the [illegible] that God was Lord of Lords. When the time arrived humanity became possible on the earth as a man-made government. The belief in a Supreme God produced the priesthood as the medium of communication between Heaven and earth. When chiefs became kings over men they were subject to the priests and through them obtained from God a "divine right" to rule.

The lecturer next glanced at Greece and Rome, and passed to the Feudal system of Europe. This system he explained very clearly, and showed how it still existed, even in England, but the wheel of progress was in motion, and the last vestiges of the old feudal system—the House of Lords and hereditary monarchy, will have to go, and a republic will take their place.

The American republic was next touched on, the speaker contending that it was not the offspring of the English system, but, on the contrary, the direct opposite.

The lecture was a comprehensive, lucid and well arranged digest of the origin and growth of general government. On next Sunday night the subject of society in its relation to government will be taken up, and no doubt will be handled in the same able and instructive manner. Mr. Ellis said at the close of his lecture that he had promise of good music as an embroidery, so to speak, to his plain homespun logic of facts. He also said to a NEWS representative that he regarded his lecture on "Society and Government" as the best he has ever produced in Utah. He also expressed himself as being gratified that on such a night so many people came to hear him. The attention was excellent, the audience following the speaker with an interest that was at times intense.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

The Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—When the Senate met at noon, the chamber was partly arranged for the funeral obsequies. The desk and chair of the deceased senator was heavily draped. The galleries were crowded with spectators, except the diplomatic and Vice-President's galleries, which were reserved. In the opening prayer, the chaplain referred in a feeling manner to the death of Senator Plumb. On motion of Manderson the reading of the journal was dispensed with and Peffer rose to make the formal announcement of Plumb's death, and offered the following resolutions.

He said: "Mr. President, I esteem myself peculiarly unfortunate in that, since I am a member of this body long enough to become familiar with even the dimensions of the chamber in which we sit, I am called upon to announce the death of my distinguished colleague upon whose wonderful resources I expected largely to rely."

Peffer eulogized his late colleague eloquently, and concluded by offering the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the sudden death of Preston B. Plumb causes profound sorrow and deep regret to his associates in the Senate;

Resolved, That a committee of five senators be appointed by the vice president to take charge, with a committee of the House of Representatives, superintending the funeral of the late Senator Plumb, and, as a mark of respect for his memory, that his body be removed from the capitol to the State of Kansas in charge of the sergeant-at-arms and attended by said committee, which shall have full power to carry this resolution into effect.

Resolved, That the Senate will at 12:30 today attend in its chamber the exercises incident to his funeral, and that these resolutions be communicated to the House of Representatives.

The resolutions were agreed to unanimously and the vice-president announced as committee on the part of the Senate, Peffer, Dolph, Paddock, Ransom and Palmer. The Senate then took a recess.

At one o'clock p. m. the Senate was called to order. During the half hour's recess the work of preparing the chamber for the funeral ceremonies had been completed. A row of arm chairs were placed in the area in front of the clerk's desk and the western side of the chamber was set aside for occupancy of the members of the House of Representatives.

The public galleries had in the meantime become crowded to their utmost capacity and even the halls and corridors leading to them were packed with people seeking to gain admittance.

Shortly before 1 o'clock President Harrison and the Cabinet officers and the assistant secretary of the executive departments began to arrive and were shown to the President's room. Mrs. Harrison, escorted by Lieut. Parker, of the navy, occupied a seat in the reserved gallery. At 1:20 the Speaker and members of the House were announced. The Speaker was escorted to his seat on the right of the Vice President, and the members took the seats assigned to them.

The diplomatic corps, about 25 in number, arrived and were shown to their seats in front of the members of the House. They were followed by the chief justice and justices of the Supreme Court, who took seats in front of the diplomatic corps, at exactly half-past one. Captain Bassett announced the presence of the President of the United States and Cabinet. The senators and spectators stood up to do them honor. President Harrison, and the members of the Cabinet were shown to the arm chairs on the right area.

A Last Tribute to Senator Plumb.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Today the United States Senate, the House of Representatives, executive and judicial department of the government, representatives of foreign powers, and his many friends among the Washington public, paid their last tribute of affection and respect to the memory of the late Senator Preston B. Plumb. Early this morning, the body was placed in a handsome, cloth-covered casket of cedar, on the lid of which was a plain silver plate bearing the following inscription: "Preston B. Plumb, born October 12, 1837; died December 20th, 1891."

During the night, the only watchers at the residence of deceased were the detail messengers from the capitol, and his private secretary. This morning there were a few callers at the house, mostly Senate employees. At 10 o'clock the casket was borne from the house to the Senate by eight of the capitol police. Immediately following was a small funeral cortege, consisting of the hearse and a single carriage. Arriving at the capitol, the casket was placed near the President's chair in the Senate chamber on a black catafalque, and all persons were requested to retire.

Two Indictments Against Field.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Two indictments were returned today against Edward M. Field, by the grand jury. Both indictments specify grand larceny in the first degree and are based on a complaint made by Frank J. Sprague, who charges Field with larceny of 430 shares of Lithon Electric Light company stock, which he gave as collateral for borrowed money.

The Row in the Canadian Government.

QUEBEC, Dec. 21.—The action of Lieutenant Governor Angers, in dismissing Mercier from the government promises now to wreck the federal government at Ottawa also. It seemed the mouth of Tarte, now Mercier's ally, who created a tremendous sensation last night at a mass meeting called in Mercier's interest, by disclosing that in making his famous charges at Ottawa relative to the Quebec harbor work boodle, which drove Sir Hector Langevin and Thomas McGreevy out of public life, he was aided and abetted by Sir Hector's colleague and apparent friend, but real rival in the cabinet, Caron, minister of militia, and he claims to be able to prove that the federal government received $57,000 with which to run their elections.

The Austrian Emperor Suffering from Influenza.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—A Vienna correspondent to La Paix telegraphs that Emperor Francis Joseph is the victim of influenza. The dispatch further states that the Emperor's attack is of a rather serious nature.
