THE ARGUMENTS.

They Began Yesterday Afternoon in the Great Mining Suit.

JUDGE BOYLE LEADS OFF,

And Is Followed by W. H. Dickson, Who Made an Able Address.

The whole of the testimony being in shortly before noon yesterday in the Northland-Mayflower mining suit, which for the last fortnight has occupied the time of Judge Zane and a jury, the arguments commenced at 2 p.m.

Judge Boyle first went to the witness on the side of the Northland people, and he handled the case in a most skillful manner. His long connection and familiarity with the case, his knowledge of the science of mining and his ability as a lawyer all told strongly, and not a circumstance in the plaintiff's favor was overlooked by him. He commenced by referring to the plaintiff's interest in the Northland and the condition of affairs there, and insisted that the burden of establishing the apex was on the defendants. He attacked the theory of the defense as to the formation with ridicule and then went on to criticise severely the testimony of the witnesses for that side. Judge Boyle then proceeded to discuss the line of side extending around from the Fairview and in which the contact and a vein, ... is found. He next gave his views as to what constituted a vein and apex, and so on, combating the definitions of the defense on these subjects. Judge Boyle then said that the plaintiffs were poor men ... being overridden by the rich, and in closing with a general discussion of the case he displayed great warmth and feeling, not to say passion.

The court then adjourned until this morning.

The Saltair Railway.

Surveyors have been at work on South Temple street west the last few days, it is said, locating the new line ordered by the City Council at its last meeting. When asked as to whether the recent action of the council and the complications arising between that body and the Union Pacific would interfere with the building of the road this season, Mr. Clayton, who is president of the Saltair Company, is quoted as saying: "Assuredly not. The road will be built and placed in operation just as soon as men and money can accomplish such an end. The little difficulty at this end of the road will all be settled at the time we need to lay the track on South Temple street. There will be enough road to the lake this season, you may be sure of that."

Students' Society.

The Students' Society of the Latter-day Saints' College convened last evening. The students sang "Jesus, Once of Humble Birth." Jedediah Taylor offered prayer. Elder A. M. Musser lectured on "British India." The customs of the people and the features of the country were described. ... "Stay Thou with Me," was sung with pleasing effect by ... and Mr. Thomas Ashton ... Miss Ruth Jones recited ... "Glory to God on High." Frank Woodbury dismissed the meeting.
