Arrivals—The Guion steamship Arizona, from New York, arrived in Liverpool on Tuesday morning, November 8th, and among the passengers were Elders C. W. Sorensen, Joseph Johnson, A. C. Olsen, of Mount Pleasant, Anton Nielson of Huntington, Christian Hansen of Ephraim, and A. G. Holander of Ogden, Utah, for the Scandinavian mission; Fredrick Remund of Midway, Utah, for the Swiss and German mission; Edwin Reuben of Taylorsville, Utah, for the Netherlands; and W. H. Lyman of Paroan, Utah, for the British mission. Elder Benson was accompanied by his wife. All were well. Those for the continent proceeded on their journey. The Arizona reported having experienced violent northwesterly gales throughout the voyage. On November 1st, 2nd and 3rd, the wind blew with terrific force, and heavy seas broke on board, washing the decks with great fury. On November 3rd, the vessel was in the center of the storm, and on that and previous days the passengers did not venture on deck. One of the ship's cranks on the Arizona was washed off the main deck on the morning of the 3rd, and was lost to view immediately. Owing to the terrible sea running at the time, it was impossible to make an effort to save him.

Appointments.—Elder Andrew Walworth is appointed to labor as traveling Elder in the Manchester Conference.

Elder Edward Fernley is appointed to labor as traveling Elder in the Leeds Conference.

How to Treat Rough Ceilings.

When ceilings look rough and show a tendency to peel, go over them with a solution in the proportion of an ounce of alum to one quart of water. This will remove all superfluous lime and make the coming whitewash.

How to Remove Grease from Stone Steps or Passages.

Pour boiling hot water, with washing soda, over the places. Apply Fuller's earth made into a paste with boiling water and leave over night. Repeat this if necessary.

How to Make Real Scotch Shortbread.

Two pounds of flour, one pound of butter and unshalf pound of sugar are mixed to a smooth paste. This is rolled out half an inch thick and cut into squares. Prick the edges, prick the tops with a fork and bake in a quick oven.

Our Daughters.

The household thereof with noble daughters ought to be a happy one; most parents forget, however, to imbue them with love of nature which is so invigorating and healthful. Greenhouses only make hothouse, but noble teachers and give them the help which alone her sweet grandeur gives more than all other influences—the help of will and fair nature. You cannot baptize them rightly to look deep down from nature upon you baptize them in the sweet water which the great Lawgiver strikes forth from the rock of your native land. You cannot teach them fairfully to those sacrosanct laws which are to fulfill the nature, in the sweet inscription—above hell, not to, but by an unknown God.—Ruskin.

What a Womanly Woman May Do.

The womanly woman with her noble instincts, her pure views of life and her nobler nature can spur a man on to higher and better work and let him see in her eyes the first glimpse of heaven. Such a man makes a true wife and model mother, and the life of a man blessed in this way is revealed by a symmetry absolutely precious. With more noble, upright and true women in this world there would be fewer disorderly, unprincipled men. A good woman can almost always make a good man, nobler indeed he is beyond redemption when she takes him in hand.—Philadelphia Times.

Truthlets About Women.

Love from gratitude is love by purchase. He who has a good wife has a second mother.

You can best discern a woman by telling her the truth.

To know some women a man must know them thoroughly—and then he frequently wishes he cares to please them at all.

A woman is always charmed with the man who is keen enough to see through her little stratagems and bad enough to tell her so.—Morley H. Pike in Kate Field's Washington.

Two Fundamental Rules.

Among the general rules to be observed by those who aspire to stylish elegance of appearance, the first and most important is that all effort must tend to withdraw the shoulders by means of large cuffs sleeves, and lace drapings over the shoulders and across the breast; and the second is that equally strenuous effort must be brought to do away with all protuberances about the hips by means of most carefully fitted princess gowns worn over equally well shaped corsets and undergarments.—New York Sun.

Mme. Demlet.

Mme. Alphonse Daudet is a writer of talent and has frequently assisted her husband in his work. When Daudet fell dangerously ill as he was writing "Les Rois en Exil," he commissioned his wife in case of his death to finish the book. Her style is refined, artistic, and characterized by most delicate touches and charm, and her books are faithful interpreters of Parisian home life, with most charming chapters on childhood.—Paris Letter.

How Rubber Rings May Be Softened.

The elasticity of rubber rings that have become hard and useless may be restored by their being placed for half an hour in a mixture of water and ammonia, containing about twice as much of the latter as of the former. Plunging them into water heated to 70 degs. is also said to be effectual. All objects made of rubber should be kept in a cool, dark place, at a constant temperature, and sheltered from light, heat and frost.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Fresh Air and Exercise.

What the American girl needs to perfect and maintain her health is the cold bathing tub, less toilet powder, more fresh air and out of door exercise, and the wholesome admonition of the horrid furnace, which, placed in every cellar, sends forth circulating blasts of air into every chamber in the house, and so converts the modern American home, in point of temperature, into a conservatory for forcing plants.—Exchange.

Relief for a Tight Shoe.

When, as sometimes happens, one is forced to wear an uncomfortably tight shoe, it may be of value to know that boiled cloth wet in hot water laid over the pinching point will afford the speedy relief. Change the cloth several times to keep up the heat, which shortly stretches the wear and shapes it to the foot.—New York Times.

Six women have been included among the members of the Philosophical Society of America—Mrs. Libbey, noted for research in vast physiology; Mrs. Sarah Catherine Scribner, Mrs. Somerville, Maria Mitchell, Mrs. Agassiz and Helen Abbott.

Mothers should make a point of seeing that their daughters acquire the best of habits. Every girl should be taught and required to carry into practice in her own expenditure a certain amount of bookkeeping.

A celebrated realistic writer who is in the habit of weaving phrases spoken by young people in his stories, "a fifteen minute girl," going on to explain, "one of the sort that tell you all they know in fifteen minutes."

It is unnecessary to say that brushing the teeth is an excellent mode of tendering the mouth antiseptic, and that so doing keeps further excellent lurking places for germs they should be promptly attended to.
