LOGAN, UTAH, - JULY 17, 1895.

Drowning at Smithfield.

On Sunday evening Smithfield was thrown into mourning by the sad drowning of two boys, John W., aged 15, of William Pitmer, 13 years of age, and Charles A., son of John Pitmer, 14 years old. The boys, as has been their custom every evening for some time, biked up a lane and went down to Bear river to eat a wagon box full of grass for their horses. Two smaller boys accompanied them on the occasion. When they arrived at their destination the little boys who went with them went up the river a short distance to catch fish, leaving the Pitmer boys to cut the grass and load the wagon. After fishing awhile they thought it time to return to the wagon, the little boys returned, and were just in time to see one of the Pitmer boys sink for the last time in a deep hole at the mouth of an inlet or slough. The other boy was out in eight feet of his clothes were lying on the bank they concluded that he, too, was drowned. The little fellows hitched up the team and drove home with the sorrowful news. A party started immediately, and with grappling irons recovered the bodies, in which they made every possible effort to resuscitate, but in vain. Neither of the boys could swim, and would not knowingly have ventured beyond their depth. The place where they went into the water being muddy, prevented every appearance of being shallow, but was scarcely fifteen feet deep. Justice of the Peace Hill held an inquest, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning. The funeral services were held yesterday, and the sympathy felt for the bereaved parents of both boys was evident from the size of the congregation, which embraced almost the entire population of Smithfield and many visitors from other settlements.

Militia Encampment.

The two local companies of the U. N. G. recently received their camp equipage, and have determined to hold their first annual encampment at Hyrum, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday next. The citizens of Hyrum have offered, free of charge, all necessary provisions for the men and forage for their horses, and we understand them loyally. On the evening of their arrival a grand military ball will be held, and on Saturday a varied program of amusements will be given for their entertainment by the Hyrumites. The details and duties of camp life, according to the rules of the regular service, will be observed. The Hyrum band has volunteered its services during the encampment.

Joint Temperance Meeting.

A large audience filled the tabernacle on Sunday evening, the occasion being a temperance meeting held under the auspices of the Latter-day Saints and Presbyterian churches, participated in by other denominations and the W. C. T. U. John T. Caine Jr. and Rev. N. A. Clemenson were the speakers, and each delivered a sensible, logical speech, free from the soul harrowing pictures so common in temperance efforts. Mrs. Dr. Brewer of the W. C. T. U. gave a rousing temperance lecture, and the choir, and the tabernacle and Methodist choirs gave some choice selections. Prayers in the interest of prohibition were certainly by members of the W. C. T. U.

Notes.

An election was held by company D, N. G. U., in accordance with orders from General Cannon, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of First Lieutenant Herman Paine. Corporal C. S. Shelton was the successful candidate.

Elder B. H. Roberts addressed the saints on Sunday afternoon in the tabernacle, and a special meeting of the Priesthood quorum of seventies in the evening.

The Wellsville baseball team feel so encouraged by their victory of Saturday over the Petersboro team, that they now challenge any team in the valley by a score to $50 a side, the game to be played on Pioneer Day.

Five wagons, which have been running through the valley for the past four months selling wrought iron ranges for a St. Louis firm, have departed for Boise, Idaho, with a view through prominent cities to visit a time.

Mrs. Joe Campbell, whose husband recently left on a mission to the Southern States, gave birth to a fine boy on Monday, and on Tuesday morning the wife of Deputy Statistician Farmer changed the statistics of his own family circle by the addition of a girl.

MIDNIGHT THEFT.

The earlier well, illustrated by the moon, is white and freshly green in foliage, the light of a rising moon of dazzling silver, the clusters of white flowers and the mound of our shaggy mountains fall clearly the perfumed air.

A cozy cack and peace over the top of the house, and a noble over mission to the first, through a flight broad, nothing between me and heaven.

Nevada!

I see here. But for summer sojourn now. There is still a good deal of snow in them. Oh, dear me! I'm so frightened. I haven't any time in my world.

Come, Dorothy, we must go. Don't be afraid! Come closer the shadow of the mountain, so—so, rather this way!

The adventure with little Dorothy, short sight. Her should white spirit, still almost that of a child, lies along the sward of the path. She returns from

Hood's Sarsaparilla is often of great value in giving the strength so much needed. Mr. W. G. Wooster of Stockton, Cal., had a large boil, called a friend, ate his supper, went to bed and died. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla when sore and was free and clear and the boil healed and removed to have been wholly disappeared. Recently, "Five bottles did the work. It is literally true, Hood's Sarsaparilla."
