Dragged by a Horse.

Manti Messenger: Alma Johnson met with what might have cost him his life had he not been fortunate by miraculous power to live. Sunday morning last, he was leading a somewhat wild horse to water (he blocks from his residence) and as he was reversing he wrapped the rope that was on the animal around his arm in order that he could hold him. In some way the horse became frightened and commenced running, pulling the rope tight around Alma's arm, throwing him down and dragging him to his home, where he stopped. His head narrowly escaped several rocks and bridges, which would have been instant death had he struck them. He received bruises on his arms and body, but not of a serious nature, and it is we are pleased to state, around town again.

Father Kingsbury's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Joseph C. Kingsbury will be held in the Assembly Hall at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Friends will have the privilege of having a last look at the familiar face between 12 and 1 o'clock tomorrow at the family residence, 211 south Third East street.

Satisfied Scipio.

Scipio, Oct. 14, 1898.

To the Editor:

The people of Scipio, since they finished threshing their grain crops (one of the largest ever harvested here) have been wearing an air of satisfactory modesty, and looking from their styacky doorsat (the cattle in Robie admiring the choice lots of third crop of lucern which stands up to mow knee, and with the present good prices for stock the grasers were at day long a holiday smile, disturbed only by the clang of the school bell and the anxiety of getting the youngsters there on time.

A change came yesterday when Justice Mentzer, in full regalia, walked to the house of Mr. Hans Hoklund and tied the nuptial knot which made Miss Ella Hoklund and Mr. John Johnson husband and wife. Great preparations had been gathered together to feast and event; much of the good things of earth had been gathered together to fast and make a jovialic gathering. And tonight the ability of delight goes on, for the greater portion of the townspeople are enjoying a dance in honor of the marriage.

Johnny Johnson is a young man who by his persistent efforts has pulled himself up to be a successful sheepman, and his young bride is the daughter of Patriarch Jesse N. Martin. They start out in their new venture with the best wishes of the whole of the community.

We have heard rumors that an important election is to take place in the State this fall, but up to the present none of the usual statesmen of the place have materialized here.

HOMES FOR THOUSANDS.

To Latter-day Saints Who Desire Good Places to Make Comfortable Homes. A Good Opportunity to Accumulate Means to Pay for Them Without Incurring the Bondage of Debt.

One hundred thousand dollars in labor wanted.

Fifty miles of the Alberta company's canal to be built, for which half will be paid in cash and balance in excellent prairie land, at $1 an acre, with free water for two years to first settlers on these lands.

Lands are to be settled in hamlet or settlement form, in order to afford settlers the benefit of ward organizations, including day and Sabbath schools.

All labor will be contract work, at ten cents a cubic yard for earth work. Gravel, stone and solid rock to be paid for in proportion.

An industrious, able-bodied man, with team can earn a good farm, town lot and cottage in one year.

Lands to be settled are adjacent to a railway. Plenty of cut for fuel near at hand.

President C. O. Card, writing to the First Presidency under date of September 23rd, says that work has commenced on the canal; that parties in Utah desiring to do work this fall would do well to bring their teams and wagons by railroad. By doing this they could be at work on the canal in less than a week after starting. Speaking about wintering teams, he says that hay, if needed, will not cost $4 a ton, and besides, it can be cut there as late as a month from the date of his letter; that no hay will be needed on the canal, as for miles in its immediate vicinity grass is found six to twelve inches high. Where work cannot be done on the canal, men can be building houses for themselves. He advises men to come with their teams, leaving their families until the spring, by which time houses may be provided for them. Parties desiring to join the new settlers in making homes, who may not care to do work on the canal, can obtain land through President Card.

For special rates of transportation for passengers, household goods, teams, etc., etc., apply to Wm. C. Spence, Box B, Salt Lake City, or C. O. Card, Cardston, N. W. T., Canada.

SERVICES AT THE TABERNACLE

Elder Charles W. Penrose of the State Presidency, the Speaker Yesterday.

Address on Deity, His Attributes and the Relation of Man to His Maker—The Gospel Restored.

Services at the Tabernacle Sunday afternoon, Oct. 16, 1898, were presided over by Elder Charles W. Penrose of the State presidency.

The choir sang the hymn:

Behold the mountain of the Lord
In latter days shall rise.

Prayer was offered by Elder Joseph Christensen.

The choir further sang:

O my Father, thou that dwellest
In the high and glorious place.

Elder Charles W. Penrose of the State presidency addressed the congregation. He said he took great pleasure in speaking to the Latter-day Saints, despite the fact that it was a surprise to him to occupy the pulpit. As the words of the last hymn imported, all were the children of God and as such were supposed to pay attention unto him. The speaker introduced the text that he chose from Deut. xxxii, 3: "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God." He said there was much confusion concerning Deity. His attributes and the mission of Jesus Christ. There was no wonder that people were in doubt, however, for in this dispensation God had revealed Himself and had received His gospel in the world in the person of the Father and Son. He referred to the vision of John the Revelator on the Isle of Patmos. The angel spoke from through the midst of Heaven and Revelation contained the everlasting Gospel which was to be preached to every nation, kindred, tongue and people to whom the message would be, repent and be baptized.

The Latter-day Saints, said the speaker, claimed that they had been recipients of this Gospel. They professed to have had communion with God the Father, through His revealing Himself to His servants the Prophets and Apostles in this dispensation. All honorable men admit an instinctive humility which prompted them to look to a superior power, but even in their exercises, unless led by the spirit of revelation, they would fall short of receiving the desired knowledge concerning that power. There were heavenly laws which had to be complied with, and that they worshipped God must do so in spirit and in truth.

The world at large had a very vague idea concerning Deity, largely because of having their belief in Him, on a foundation far from substantial—something hardly tangible and of which they themselves had no very great admiration.

Elder Penrose spoke at some length on the personality of God and the relation of man to His image. All people upon the earth were His children. His sons and daughters and had been made in His likeness. Contemplating this fact should cause the heart of man to swell with joy, in the knowledge that the Ruler of the universe had seen fit to so recognize His children, whom He had sent upon the earth to fill a mission, upon which it was expected they would render a report when called to leave this sphere of action.

The Godhead was one in the unity of the Spirit, said Elder Penrose. This was made plain by a proper interpretation of the scriptures. The Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, were three separate and distinct substances, but in the unity of spirit, purpose and action they became one. This was brought about, and they comprehended the life and light of the world. Such a union God required of His children, and in the accomplishment of this, the Gospel was the all important factor. The necessary spirit permeating all who embraced it and lived up to its principles and ordinances.

Elder Penrose referred to the fables of ancient origin which had crept into the different nations of the world as to Deity. They had been the cause of much confusion among religious denominations, and a great portion of the human family had been led to declare "There is no God," and had thrown aside religion in disgust, feeling in their hearts that the world was full of impostors and false teachers and all because of a lack of that living testimony as to the true Gospel of Jesus Christ.

The speaker bore testimony to the restoration of the Gospel in this dispensation. He was a witness of it, as were thousands of others who had been gathered out from the nations of the earth, and had received testimony for their obedience. God's Spirit was made manifest to His people, and in whispered to those desirous of doing His will, the great truths embodied in the Gospel. The Mormon missionaries were now out in the field preaching this word. It was a message to all the world and was being received by many of the honest in heart. A singular thing connected with its promulgation was the fact that opposition came mainly from those who professed to be followers of Jesus, and leaders in their religious callings.

Continuing, the speaker appealed to those who had not received the Gospel to investigate it with a true and honest purpose. This was an age of scepticism and doubt and it behoved those who would be true followers of Christ to cast aside their ancient traditions and bigotry and look into God and His operations aright.

The choir sang the anthem:

With shields and swords and bows ascending.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Brigham Young of the Council of the Apostles.

Utah Land Guide.

Mr. W. M. Wattlaw of this city has published a very useful pamphlet called the Utah Land Guide. The little book is exceptionally handy to persons interested in the acquisition of land in this State, containing as the work does useful and instructive articles by authorities on the subject. The subjects covered include Methods of Secure Title in Government, State and Railroad Lands; Irrigation; Best Building Plan Green Cheap Dwelling; Profitable Poultry; Feeding of Sheep and Cattle, and miscellaneous information. There is a section devoted to each county in the State of Utah, each county being put in a separate pamphlet, showing at the open and sold government, State and railroad lands, compiled from the latest official records.

Notice.

The St. George Temple, which was closed Nov. 15, will reopen Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1898.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Board of Education recently passed a rule which will require all pupils in the public schools who are found books belonging to the Board to provide a book cover for which to care such books to and from their homes. To enable pupils to comply with this rule we have added to our large stock of stationery a complete line of School Bags and Satchels from 10 cents to $1.25 each.
