Alleged Embezzlement.

The young man George McCann came up for examination before Commissioner Greenman, this morning, on a charge of embezzling the sum of $100 odd, the money of his late employer, Mr. Henry Wagener, the brewer. The facts were reported in the NEWS quite recently. The accused was in the service of Mr. Wagener at his saloon on Second South street, as bar tender, and it is alleged that he appropriated the money, as part of the takings at the saloon, to his own use and then skipped. He was arrested at a small town in Nevada, by the sheriff, on receipt of a telegram from this city, having signified his liberty but a short time after his departure from Salt Lake. The defendant, who was this morning represented by Attorney Critz, sought to make the complainant believe that Mr. Wagener was indebted to him to the tune of about $28, for wages, and therefore appropriated this, and that the balance of the $100 was loaned to him by his successor in the prosecutor's saloon. A witness called for the defense, however, admitted that McCann confessed to him that he took the money.

The commissioner held the accused to the grand jury's action, and fixed his bond at $500. McCann seemed quite downcastfor a man wished off by a deputy-marshal pending the finding of the required bond.

An individual named Lois, who has been doing a brokerage business in Ogden, has been arrested at the instigation of General Passenger Agent D. E. Burley, of the Union Pacific. This being the case Mr. Burley went to work with a view to bringing the guilty party to justice. Suspicion rested on Lois and he was yesterday taken into custody and will be held to answer the charge of forgery in the First District court at Ogden.

ATTEMPTED HOLD-UP.

Treasurer May Accosted by a Couple of Footpads.

Assistant City Treasurer J. L. May had an unpleasant encounter with a brace of lusty footpads, on North Temple street, last night while making his way to the City Council from his home in the Seventeenth ward. When near West Temple street he was called and asked for 25 cents, but as he made some reply that did not meet with the approval of the petitioners they made an effort to grab him but, drawing a revolver, he repulsed them and made his way to police headquarters, where he informed the officers of his experience, and they immediately went to the scene of the attempted robbery, but failed to see anything of the footpads.

The officers for the following year are as follows: Held, leader; Clark, manager, Berry, secretary and treasurer; Thompson, president. "THEO. SONNE, President."

Third District Court.

The business transacted in Judge Zane's court this morning was of an unimportant character, and beyond the matters mentioned below there is nothing to record:

A. A. Van Vorhees et al. vs. N. C. Christensen; judgment and default for amount due, $157.50.

The motion to set aside order staying execution in the case of W. L. Pickard vs. W. A. Hills et al., and after proceedings against the defendants on judgment against them, was argued by Messrs. Richards & Moyle for the defendants and Mr. Hoffman for the plaintiff. The matter was then submitted for the consideration of the court.

ATTORNEYS, TAKE NOTICE.

His honor made a request for the attendance of attorneys tomorrow morning, at 10 o'clock, when a resetting of civil jury cases will be made. This will occupy some time.

BEFORE JUDGE ANDERSON.

In the case of L. H. Hale vs. Peter Toutney et al., the appointment of a receiver was made.

In the long pending divorce suit of Hughes vs. Hughes, the case was read, on application of Attorney Baldwin, for December 18.

In the case of Louis Hyams et al. vs. Simon Sonberger, the hearing on the order to show cause was fixed for November 21.

Still another divorce suit. This time it was that of Esther Wilkinson vs. John C. Wilkinson. The parties reside in this city, and the grounds upon which the petition was based were drunkenness and cruelty. Messrs. Dey and Howat were the complainant's attorneys; the defendant did not respond, either personally or by counsel. The allegations made by the complainant were clearly proved, and the court granted the decree.

COURT NOTES.

Clerk Bates, of the Supreme Court, has changed his quarters in the Walsch building. He has removed into more commodious rooms.

Among the latest released from the penitentiary is Thomas Stillard, a resident of Providence, Cache County. He has served one year for infraction of the Edmunds-Tucker act.

Two more judgments have been rendered against the Utah Central Railway company by Commissioner Greenman. The plaintiffs were T. A. Hodgen, who was awarded $175.35 and John Lund, $50.40. Larsen, whose claim amounted to $47.

In Judge Zane's court yesterday afternoon, a demurrer to the answer in the divorce suit of Emma Smith vs. Charles Smith was withdrawn.

In regard to the petition of the Herald company to dissolve, the time for hearing the same was set for December 21st.

In the case of John Beck vs. S. S. Nebeker, the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $50.

Ann Jackson was yesterday afternoon, in Judge Anderson's court, granted a divorce from her husband, George Alfred Jackson, on the ground of desertion and that he had been convicted of felony. On May 9, 1886, she and the defendant were married at Leeds, Yorkshire, England, and shortly after Jackson removed to this city, his wife following.

On August 5th of the same year Jackson without cause deserted and abandoned her. At the January term of the Third district court of the present year the defendant was arraigned and convicted of bigamy, and on the 17th day of February he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and was released from the penitentiary on July 17th. That seems to be the whole story.

It was expected that the complaint in the suit which Mackay, the saloon keeper, has threatened to bring against Marshal Parsons, arising out of last Sunday's raid would be filed by his attorneys (Reilly & Kanyon) some time this afternoon, in the Third district court.

THE JOINT DEBATE.

The Stage and Its Demoralizing Effects.

The Salt Lake Lyceum and Young Men's Christian Association Debating Club met in joint debate last evening at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., on East Second South. The debate was on the subject of a contest between the societies. The question was "Resolved, that Theatres are more beneficial than injurious." The affirmative was taken by Mr. O'Brien for the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Watts for the Lyceum; the negative by Mr. Anderson for the Y. M. C. A. and Mr. James for the Lyceum.

Mr. Walters opened the meeting and after some preliminary remarks Mr. Anderson was unanimously called on to preside during the debate. Mr. O'Brien led in the affirmative, taking the view of any drama and the drama. He held that the stage was moral, elevating in its tone, and enlightening in its influence.

Mr. Anderson followed as leader of the negative. He quoted from Plato, Cicero, Aristotle and others of the ancient worthies denounced the stage. He also quoted modern authorities who had had that the stage was demoralizing. In a general way he reviewed the history of the drama, showing that wherever good play was presented there were hundreds of noisesses, nasty pieces.

Mr. Watts, of the Lyceum, followed. He made an excellent argument for the affirmative. He view of the stage embraced the opera as well as the drama. And, in this view, it comprehended art, literature, poetry and music. He dwelt on the humanizing influence of the performances of great artists in music, art, and melody brought calm and solace to the troubled heart, as well as instruction and elevation to the unchastened intellect.

Mr. James followed in the negative. He also spoke with ability, holding that the stage was both degrading and demoralizing in its effects. He deplored the rush to see a prize fight, while the "legitimate" was played to the empty benches. He contrasted the reception of the "starred" company with those of Keene's in this city. He quoted from a number of local authorities who expressed opinions to the effect that the stage was hurtful to morality and religion and therefore to society.

The leaders on both sides next spoke in rebuttal and the debate was closed.

The judges, Messrs Plaisted, Illsley and Parkinson, unanimously decided for the negative.

Mr. Clark then took charge of the meeting and conducted the members to another room, where a repast was prepared. The following toasts were proposed and responded to: "The Occasion," F. H. Plaisted; "Literary Societies," H. Illsley, Jr.; "The Press," F. N. Berthoff; "Education," Oliver Hodgson, and "Our Guests," N. Y. Schofield.

A Prominent Artist.

This morning we had the pleasure of a call from Col. James Fairman, one of America's foremost landscape and marine painters. He has also gained considerable prominence as an art lecturer. He represented during the war in Salt Lake about two weeks, during which time he will exhibit some of his pictures, which will arrive in a couple of days. It is not impossible that he will also be induced to deliver one of his art lectures in this city. Besides being an artist and lecturer he is an old soldier, having served in the Union army in the war of the rebellion. His versatility is further exemplified by the fact that he is a licensed Congregationalist preacher. We bid the distinguished gentleman welcome to our city.

Death of William Skewes.

About 9 o'clock this forenoon William Skewes, the undertaker, was found with some injuries to the brain, while on the way from his residence, 132 East Second South street, to his place of business. He fell to the sidewalk partly unconscious and was carried back to his home by a couple of citizens who happened to be passing by. He expired within a few minutes.

The deceased has been a resident of the Territory for twenty-five years. He leaves a widow and two sons and one daughter. The body is being prepared for burial by Undertaker Evans.

Dynamite bombs under a newspaper office in Dublin, a street battle between McCarthyites and Parnellites in Cork, and a mob rescuing some Nationalists deeply with sticks, clubs, shovels and guns, "this is what home rule for Ireland has come to. God save old Ireland from her own sons!

The treasury department seems at a loss to tell what articles are antiquities and therefore to be admitted into the country free of duty. The department wants to find out what antiquities are if, but only to take a look around the departments at Washington and inspect some of the old office holders.

The most cruelty in the "hitch, stitch, stick," business is alive in practical by the sweaters, who contract with a large firm to make garments at a given price. Then they enlist the work to poor women in garrets and basement rooms and squeeze those victims of ignorance and weak will down to the last, lowest price. One large Chicago house has taken a stand against the sweater. It gives not no cloakmaking to sweaters.

A century and a quarter ago, before the United States was thought of, when the most radical liberal and come enter would as soon have expected the ocean to open and swallow all the continent as that the American colonies would ever be anything else than a loyal dependency of the British crown, then it was that the Massachusetts colonists made a raid on Acadia (now Nova Scotia) by a handful of plain people in a little town in New York city. It was the starting of the John Street church, the first Methodist congregation in America. The denomination now has over a million members and nobody knows how many million dollars and the old John Street Methodist church, which in New York lately celebrated its one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary.

BRAZILIAN NEWS.

The Depth of the Trouble Seems to Have Been Almost an Abyss.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The steamship "Karnalo" from Rio Janeiro arrived in Brooklyn yesterday morning. The ship was the first to arrive from Brazil, and the officers bring some interesting news.

The "Karnalo" sailed from Rio on the morning of Oct. 24th, having been in port about two weeks. During that time there was no United States war vessels in the harbor, but there were two British and one French cruiser. All Brazilian men-of-war were in the Rio navy yard. Only two steamers left for the continent, so the reports which reach here of activity in the Brazilian navy are very probably exaggerated.

"The only trouble known of," said one of the "Karnalo's" officers, "was carried on the night of October the 9th. A great crowd of medical students collected in front of the theatre, where a rather popular actress was the cause of a great deal of cheering and shouting. The police objected to the disorder and tried to put a stop to it. The result was a rush of students against the police, who drew their swords and attacked the students with them. Several students were killed and a number of undergraduates took sides were badly injured. On the following night the police and students met in a row which resulted in the death of two of latter, and a number of minor casualties. A young Englishman who happened to be passing down the street where the fight occurred, was killed instantly by a stray bullet."

As the result of this rioting, numerous police patrolled the streets of the capital night and day, and after dark it was unsafe to go into the streets. The garrison was not called on for assistance, probably because the army would have sided with civilians. The soldiers hate the police. The latter is made up of the lower classes. They are mostly negroes.

"Was there any political signification to this student riot?" was asked, "which not. There is a powerful faction desiring the reinstatement of the Emperor. They want to put Dom Pedro's son on his throne. The differences since the fall of the empire the interest in every community have doubled and the government has imposed a high tariff."

The officer said further that it was the general opinion at Rio, when he left, that the government would not last many months longer. He was not surprised when he read of the revolution movement.

TERRIBLY'S NEWS NOT FORTIFIED.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—No confirmation has been received from the Eachange Telegraph Company's Rio de Janeiro advices yesterday, reporting that naval and military officers stationed in Para have taken no part in proclaiming the declaration of the independence of that state. The most important news received here today relates to the affairs in the State of Rio Grande do Sul. This is given in a dispatch to the Times from Santiago de Chile, according to which the differences which have been interfering with a perfect unity of action by the provisional Junta now in authority in that State, are disappearing, and the members of the Junta are now acting in harmony. They have made one of their number, Dr. Assis Brazil, minister of war. Preparations are now being taken to improve the defenses and increase the effective strength of the army. The mouth of the Rio Grande, the principal river of the State, is obstructed by the sinking of two ships in the channel and the river is protected by heavy artillery. The Junta is in full control of all military stores in the State, and the government factory for making munitions of war. Foreign capital banks and private persons are offering to furnish the Junta with ample funds to carry forward the plans that may be decided upon for maintaining the independence of the State. Officials have been sent by the dictator to take the places of those who have cast their fortunes with the insurgents in Rio Grande do Sul. They have arrived in Montevideo and propose to proceed at once to their destination. Four transport ships with men-of-war are now on the way to Rio Grande, and that others are being made ready to follow. Refugees from Rio Grande who have reached Montevideo express the opinion that Fonseca will not be able long to maintain himself. They say that it will be only for fear and violence, in their opinion, that now remains the discontented opposition at the Brazilian capital from taking active steps against Fonseca.

A St. Paul Fire.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 18.—St. Paul last night suffered one of the most disastrous fires in its history, the buildings damaged being those of Griggs, Cooper & Co., wholesale grocery, and Farwell, Ozmun, Kirk & Co., wholesale hardware. The total loss is estimated at from $900,000 to $1,000,000. The losses are covered by insurance. The building occupied by the two firms is a brick and stone structure, five stories in height, and has a frontage on Third street of three hundred feet, and on Broadway of two hundred feet. Griggs, Cooper & Co. occupy two-thirds of the building. The flames first made their appearance at 11:45 o'clock in the fourth floor of Griggs, Cooper & Co.'s buildings. Within less than five minutes the fire department was on hand in force, but a general alarm had to be turned in soon afterwards. The rapidity with which the flames spread, the blinding smoke which filled the streets surrounding the cold weather and the inability of the firemen to get at the fire, rendered their work very hard. In half an hour from the time the alarm was sent in, the flames leaped through the roof and were communicated to the adjoining building where they made rapid progress. The firemen turned their attention to saving lives below, and by hard work, for a time succeeded in confining most of the damage to its floor, though the loss in this department alone would reach fully $50,000. The flames crept downward in the hardware building through the elevator shaft, and one by one the other floors succumbed.

The fire in the Griggs, Cooper & Company building at this time turned disheartened to the ground floor. The fire department fought valiantly against terrible odds, and at 3:30 the walls fell. The flames set fire to the frame building used by the Northern Pacific Express Company, and soon the walls of the Farwell, Ozmun & Kirk building fell outward. Several attempts were made to save the stock in the two exposed parts of the buildings, but without avail, and complete destruction both to stock and building was the revelation. The buildings belonged to Edward C. Griggs. It was estimated to be worth $200,000. The losses are estimated as follows: Farwell, Ozmun & Kirk, $400,000, with an insurance of $300,000; Griggs, Cooper & Co., on building and stock, the $500,000, fully insured. The total loss is $900,000. The flames were under control by half-past four o'clock, but not but concerning what occasioned of the stock. No definite information is obtainable as to the cause of the fire, but it is thought it may have originated in some unknown manner in the packing room on the fourth floor. Both firms will continue their business, without interruption. Their books and accounts are saved.
