A Carouser Fatally Shot While Trying to Evade Arrest.

A CIRCUS PERFORMER INJURED.

Hunting a Ferocious Hog—A Mammoth Pair of Shoes—Swarmed by Bees.

Frank Donohue and Wm. C. Lane, two grapepickers, quarreled at Selma, Cal. Lane struck Donohue on the side of the head, breaking his neck. Death followed immediately.

Prices on sheep are doing better as well as on cattle, as the following from the Casper Derrick shows: "Sullivan and Mahoney struck a good market with their last shipment of fat sheep to Chicago. They received from $2.75 to $3.10 per 100 pounds."

F. E. Russell, chief engineer of the Gulf system, put his men to work at Graneros, surveying the line between Pueblo and Trinidad, Col., on Tuesday morning. It is the intention of the road to build this line immediately, and the work of surveying will be pushed vigorously.

Harry Pinkerton, 19 years old, a circus performer and musician, was probably fatally injured on Monday evening at Byers, Colo. Pinkerton was engaged by Howe & Cushing's circus until a few days ago, when he left the show at Roswell, Texas, and being without funds he traveled north on freight cars. He was helping a train crew when injured.

Dan Noonan, a policeman, was found dead in his bed at Butte, Monday afternoon. He went to Anaconda on a picnic Sunday, returned at 1 o'clock Monday morning to his boarding house and went to bed. He proceeded to police headquarters early in the afternoon, but was taken with a vomiting fit and got back to bed. A 5:30 his landlady called him to supper and found him dead.

The order in reference to the removal of the soldiers at Fort Russell was issued yesterday, says the Cheyenne Sun, and they will go to Columbus barracks as was thought would be the case. Columbus barracks is right in the heart of the city of Columbus, O., and is said to be a very fine fort. The removal will be made at once and by the 1st of next month there will be none of the Seventeenth left in this region.

The Carson (Nevada) Tribune says: The strike in the Zirn-Scholz mine at Pine Nut continues to be the theme of conversation in Carson. The ore brought in by Zirn is on exhibition at the Arlington hotel, and swarms of people have been flocking into the hotel today to examine the same. Mining men from Virginia are astounded at the richness of the ore, and say that if there is any considerable body, Pine Nut will be a booming city.

Alfred Hodnett, the Altaville shoemaker, received an order for a mammoth pair of shoes this week, remarks the Angels, Cal., Herald. It came from an employe of a saw mill in the mountains, who stands 6 feet 6 inches tall on two feet that will favorably compare with those that the giants of olden times are reported to have possessed. The feet that the mountain man wants incased in leather measure 13 inches in length, 11½ inches around the instep, and 12¼ inches around the heel and instep.

While two little children named Hastings were crossing a pasture near the house of S. W. Ferguson on the Rosedale road, says the Kern county Californian, a swarm of bees settled on the head of one of the little ones. The child fought them off, but before they left her she was stung over 100 times about the face and head. The child with her was also severely handled by the infuriated insects. The greatest sufferer is only about five years old. A doctor was called on and applied remedies to ease and cure the wounds. At last reports both children were getting along nicely.

The wife of Professor Fred Stanton, formerly of Denver, has had a contest case pending in the land office at Cheyenne, involving her right to file on 640 acres of land adjoining the corporate limits of Cheyenne. The case has been contested most bitterly, and as a last resort went to the secretary of the Interior, and now the local land officers have received instructions to receive her filing under the old law, which permitted a filing of 640 acres as a desert claim. Five years ago Marshall Johnson, who thought he had a title, sold the land for $40,000, and a quarter section was laid out in town lots. The purchasers finding out later the condition of the title, forfeited his option, since which time the land has laid idle.

A farm hand who gave his name as Leal Burrow, was shot, probably fatally, while evading arrest at Woodland, Cal., on Monday afternoon. He had been carousing with some friends in a disreputable quarter of the town and created a disturbance in the house of a woman named Belle Curtis. The Curtis woman swore out a warrant for his arrest, but when Marshal Erwin and Constable Rhodes approached, Burrow fled. The officers commanded him to halt, but he continued to run. Constable Rhodes fired at the fleeing man, but failed to stop him. He was afterward found in a barn in the suburbs, suffering from a wound in the abdomen caused by the officer's shot. Burrow is still living, but the doctors consider his chances of recovery slim.

According to the Portland Oregonian, about a year ago a hog escaped from a band being driven through Albina into the brush on Montgomery slough, which is still very dense. The animal never was recovered, but has frequently been seen, and has become wild and ferocious. Until recently he never came out of the brush, but he has been committing depredations almost nightly on the premises bordering on the Montgomery tract. No fence can keep him out of an enclosure when he wants to go through. A gentleman and his wife were aroused the other morning about 2 o'clock by what they supposed was a burglar. On getting up they discovered the hog in the woodshed tearing everything to pieces. The hog made a break for the front fence, which though strongly built, he went through, crushing the boards and wrecking about five feet of fencing. There is talk of forming a hunting party, with dogs, and hunting him down and killing the animal. The hog is said to be a monster, wild and fierce.
