WASHINGTON, D. C.

The premature publication of the Treaty Investigation.

WASHINGTON, 19.—The Senate met with no more than twenty-four members present at the opening of proceedings. Harlan remarked that it appeared from the decision of yesterday and the day before, that certain advance copies of what purported to be the Treaty of Washington were communicated to the members of the Senate, before the official document was communicated to this body on the 10th inst. The Vice-President reminded the Senator that the Senate had not yet promulgated the fact that any such treaty had been communicated to the Senate. Harlan begged pardon, but thought the Senate had, by its recent proceedings, so declared. Sumner said the resolutions adopted yesterday, in special Senate, advertised to the world that the Senate had in its possession an official copy of the treaty.

Harlan offered the opinion that it would be proper to call each Senator who was supposed to have had an advance copy of the paper, that he might be examined before the committee.

He made the suggestion in order to relieve the delicacy of any Senator in the matter. The members of that committee, so far as he had conferred with them, regarded this as the thing proper to be done.

Morrill, of Maine, suggested that there were several other copies furnished outside of those placed in the hands of the committee on foreign relations; therefore the examination should be extended to all Senators who had obtained advance copies.

Several voices: "certainly, that should be done."

Fenton said: "I am glad my friend from Iowa, Mr. Harlan, has made the request that those Senators who were furnished with advance copies of the Treaty of Washington, should be examined by the investigating committee, with a view to their vindication, as it affords me an opportunity to make a statement, and suggest for myself, and, so far as I have a right, for others, that every member of the Senate may appear before the committee for the same purpose. I read from the Patriot, of this city, in an article referring to this investigation, as follows: 'During the last two days, Carpenter and Conkling have been bold in declaring that if the Senate would insist upon its rights, and exert itself, the committee would fasten the responsibility upon a Senator, and they have not hesitated, in a semi-public manner, almost to point to Fenton, saying, in the language of Nathan to David, 'Thou art the man.' If the Senator from New York, or the Senator from Wisconsin, were present, I should ask them to state to the Senate whether in an official, semi-official, or any other manner they had made statements or insinuation that would warrant such a publication. But although they are out of their seats at this moment, I cannot allow the occasion to pass without saying a word. I will simply state facts. I arrived here last Wednesday, the 10th instant. I was not favored with an advanced copy, except as it was read at the Secretary's desk, until Thursday afternoon, about three o'clock, when the Senate copy was placed in my hands, full ten hours after it appeared in the Tribune. Therefore the thought by any one having far more information than the members of the committee had, that I had anything to do with, or knowledge of its disclosure to the Tribune, would have been entirely unwarranted by the circumstances, and most unkind. Insinuations without the least shadow of justified suspicion, that I had anything to do with it, would have been as cowardly as base. The position of the charge would have been no less infamous than wanton and ridiculous. I am free to say that I should not thus characterize the matter, had it not come to me from other sources than the Patriot, than an attempt had been made to connect me in some way with this transaction. In conclusion, I beg to ask that every Senator have the opportunity to appear before the committee and vindicate himself under such forms and solemnities as the committee may prescribe."

Harlan moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

Morton said he desired to make a statement. He had been informed of an attempt to connect his name with the violation of secrecy.

Trumbull said he was sorry that the chairman of the investigating committee was not present, but as a member of that committee, he desired to say that so far as the examination had proceeded, there was no information from any source pointing to or indicating that any Senator had furnished the copy of the treaty. No one had said or intimated before the committee that either the Senator from New York, or the Senator from Indiana, or any other Senator, had given to any outside party a copy of the treaty.

Sumner, as a member of the select committee, confirmed Trumbull's statement.

Morton remarked that the Senator from Wisconsin, Carpenter, chairman of the committee, had stated in the most pointed and significant manner that objection has been made to the examination apparently from fear of exposure, and that if it be allowed to go on the Senator would certainly be implicated.

Trumbull repeated that nothing of the kind appeared before the committee.

The Senate subsequently went into executive session on the Treaty.

NEW YORK.

The Paris magazine explosion.

NEW YORK, 19.—A special correspondent telegraphs from Paris last evening, the loss of life by the explosion of the cartridge factory on the Avenue Rapp, Champs de Marz, was mainly among women and children. The concussion was felt throughout the city and caused the greatest consternation. Thousands rushed in the direction of the place, and the streets were filled with astonished and terror-stricken people. The most indescribable scene of confusion, excitement and terror ensued. At half past six in the evening a force of cavalry was ordered to drive the crowd away, as there are several other magazines in the vicinity. It was feared the fire department would be unable to arrest the flames, and that they, too, would explode. All traffic on the bridge has been stopped, and a panic among the troops is feared. Requisitions have been made upon all street cabs.

A later dispatch this morning, from the same source, says the committee of safety officially declares the explosion of the cartridge factory was the work of agents of the Versailles' government. A strange story is circulated to the effect that Captain De Bain found in the pockets of the wife of a gend'arme, a plan of the cartridge factory, and a plan of Paris, prepared by Trochu. Four persons have been arrested on suspicion of being deserters from the army of Versailles and have been removed to the interior of the city from the Ecole Militaire, where they had been confined.

The mangled remains of the victims of the explosion were exposed yesterday at the church of St. Pierre, outside the railings. An immense crowd assembled, inside the sacred edifice, including a large band of national guards. The men smoked, drank, conversed and laughed as if they were at the Jardin Mobile. The number of persons killed by the explosion is less than was expected. The workmen left the building some fifteen minutes before the catastrophe took place. An attache of the American legation was blown into the air by the explosion, but was not seriously hurt.

Yesterday, being the fete of the Ascension, a large crowd visited the place Vendome and the Tuilleries, where there was a promenade concert. Some members of the committee of public safety have joined the France-tireurs, who are menacing and discontented. Should they go so far as to openly declare against the Commune they will give considerable trouble, as they are well armed and organized. The inhabitants of the Faubourg St. Antoine, who were among the most enthusiastic supporters of the Commune, are out of work, and as they cannot obtain it because of the insurrection, they also are discontented, and the quarter in which they live is assuming a disquieting aspect.

There was heavy firing from Fort Biecetre this morning, caused by the appearance of a reconnoitering party of cavalry belonging to the Versailles government, who were driven off by the guns of the fort. A serious attack upon the ramparts of Paris is believed to be imminent. There are now 20,000 Versailles troops in the Bois de Boulogne, and they are pushing forward their parallels with great vigor.

LOUISIANA.

Explosion.

NEW ORLEANS, 19.—The Times' Galveston special reports an explosion on the new steamer Stonewall, from Galveston, for Lake Charles, near High Island. Five men were killed, and several others injured.

MONTANA.

A desperate fight with Indians.

HELENA, M. T., 19.—Three mail carriers between Muscle Schell and Fort Benton, Montana, were attacked on the 10th inst. by a band of Indians, numbering about forty-five, ten miles from Fort Hawley, and a desperate fight ensued. The men, who were armed with Spencer and Winchester rifles, retreated into a thicket of Willows, and maintained a rapid fire with telling effect upon the Indians. One man, named Joe Lee, was killed and the other two, named Williams and Denton, were wounded, but succeeded in crossing the river on a log, and reaching a place of safety. One of the men visited the field a few days after, and found and buried Lee. The bodies of five Indians were found, and there were signs that many more dead had been carried off, besides the wounded who numbered at least twenty. It is believed they belonged to the Teton band of the Sioux, which band numbers about 900 lodges, and is regarded as being extremely hostile, even including in their vengeance any Sioux who trades with the whites.

CALIFORNIA.

Applies for a new trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, 18.—The statement and bill of exceptions in the application of Mrs. Fair for a new trial sets forth the following grounds: That the jury received evidence while out of court, other than that resulting from a view as provided by law; that the jury separated without leave of the court and that they were guilty of misconduct tending to prevent a fair trial and due consideration of the case. That the verdict was decided by means other than a fair expression of opinion on the part of the jurors. That the court misdirected the jury in the matters of law and its instruction and charges, that it erred in refusing to give the instructions asked for on the part of the defendant; that the court erred in its decision upon the questions of law which arose upon and during the course of the trial; that the verdict is contrary to law and evidence; that the minds of the jury were prejudiced and biased against defendant by means of the fine of 150 dollars imposed upon her in their presence, and hearing of newly discovered evidence, material to the defendant, and which, she could not, with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at the trial; that some of the said jurors had expressed an established opinion as to the guilt of defendant, which was unknown to defendant at the time they were sworn and accepted on said trial. The new evidence set forth in the evidence of Mrs. Mary G. Smith, who swears that previous to Mrs. Fair making the acquaintance of Crittenden, her character was good, and details the circumstances of her carrying a letter from Crittenden to Mrs. Fair.

George Dougherty, the contractor who let off a blast at West Point without giving notice, whereby a man was fatally injured, was examined in the police court to-day, and held for trial at the county court, notwithstanding the verdict of "nobody to blame," returned by the coroner's jury.

Avery King, who ran down and killed a small boy while riding furiously through the streets on horse-back, will be examined on Tuesday next, on a charge of manslaughter, the coroner having issued a warrant against him.

Clara Dodge, alias "Moon," Wm. McGrath, alias the "Billy Goat," and William Bell were arrested to-day, charged with going through a soldier on the Barbary Coast for $180, and then pitching him out into the street.

Fred Hendricks was locked up as insane.

The woman's rights convention has done nothing of special interest to-day.

FRANCE.

PARIS, 18.—The Versaillists attacked Montrouge, but reinforcements arrived and the attack was repulsed. Several cannon were captured. The attack on the village of Vanvres was also repulsed. The Versaillists were beaten in the Bois de Boulogne, and before the Maillot gate. The latter is destroyed. The Versaillists' flag floats on Vanvres.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Journals suppressed.—Reign of terror.

LONDON, 19.—The frigate Galatea, with the Duke of Edinburgh, has arrived.

The Paris safety committee decrees the suppression of the Revue de Deux Mondes, Avenir, National, Patrie, Commune Justice, and five other papers. No new journals will be established till the war is over. Writers who sign articles attacking the government are punishable by martial law; officers hesitating to obey are guilty of treason.

McMahon tells his soldiers that the communists have destroyed the Vendome column, which foreigners left undisturbed, and exhorts them to avenge it.

Specials agree that a reign of terror exists in Paris; many are imprisoned, and the lives of hostages are despaired of.

The Daily News says it is reported that the Versaillists occupy Clichy. There was a sharp engagement at Asniers. It is rumored the Versaillists attempted to storm the Dauphine gate and were repulsed.

The Paris Journal says Broglie replaces Favre after the ratification of peace.

The Times says the nationals stopped the service at St. Augustine and Trinity churches, and turned out the Sisters of Mercy. The federals were beaten at the zoological gardens. The Prussians are near Fontans.

This Machine is the harvest gathering of twenty years' experience in the manufacture of Agricultural Machinery, and takes rank with the Printing Press, Sewing Machine, Locomotive in the qualities of precision, adaptation and durability.

Its foundation is a single casting of solid iron, of great strength, and all gearing is covered in, and runs in a bath of oil; the pitman, pinions, and main shaft are of solid steel, with all improved appliances.

The working parts are permanently fitted and easily adjusted from the driver's seat, and all gearing, including the pitman, runs in oil.

By these means, we reduce friction to the lowest point, stop the rattling common to all other machines, and make a machine that will last and do good work for years, when machines of other makes are worn out and worthless.

The "WORLD" has been tested and proved in the hands of the most intelligent farmers, who testify to its superiority, when in competition with other machines.
