COUGHLIN IS FREE.

Pathetic Scene in the Court Room as the Verdict is Read.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD.

Shaking Hands with Everybody.—A Happy Wife.—An Indignant Judge.

CHICAGO, March 8.—It was half past four when the jury led into the court room. As they appeared Coughlin turned deadly pale, and then, with an apparent effort, straightened up in his seat.

"Has the jury reached a verdict?" asked the clerk.

"We have," responded the foreman.

The verdict was read by the clerk: "We, the jury, find the defendant, Daniel Coughlin, not guilty."

A great shout went up from the crowd in the court room. Hats were tossed high in the air, handkerchiefs waved, cheer after cheer broke upon the still, steady courtroom, and there was a rush for the door by those anxious to tell the news for the crowds without.

Judge Tuthill, his face aflame with indignation at the demonstration of court attendants, demanded silence and the balliffs vigorously pounded for order, but it took considerable time for the enthusiasm of the crowd to subside.

The face of the big detective admirable, a moment before, flushed scarlet to the roots of his hair as a wave of joy swept over him when the words that had him were pronounced. Then there was a rush that almost swept the happy man off his feet. Newspaper men, old friends of before his troubles, were on him in a body and nearly wrung his hand off.

"It's all right boys, all right," gasped Coughlin, as he reached for three or four hands at once. "It's all right boys; I shall never forget that you treated me all right."

Then the prisoner worked his way to the jury box and shook hands with as many as he could reach. Then he turned to the judge.

And then a cry of "make way there, open the passage, make way," was heard and incidentally bailiffs pushed through the crowd and close behind them, her hat awry, veil half up, gasping with sobs that choked her, came Mrs. Coughlin. Dan was striding to liberty as though he were seven-league boots.

"Dan come here; your wife," called fifty voices, and Coughlin promptly retraced his steps, and met his wife. The woman gave an hysterical, her arms went up and fastened themselves around her husband's neck, and then she gave way utterly. Sincerity said: "Dan, Oh Dan!" but nothing, not even to Dan Coughlin's ears, was there such joy as in the sobs of the little woman who was pressed tightly against her husband's breast. Coughlin bent his big blonde head until his moustache swept her cheek and then the two remained so for a time until the woman was able to utter her emotion. Then she was led away.

For Raising the Kearsarge.

BOSTON, Mass., March 8.—The contract for the raising of the wrecked United States steamship Kearsarge has been awarded to the Boston Towboat company of this city. By the agreement, the company is to receive $65,000 if successful in delivering the ship at Dry Dock by next April, and if unsuccessful will be paid $10,000 for having made the attempt.

IN DENVER

The Representatives of Law and Order Quarreling.

DENVER, Colo., March 8.—The city police are stationed at the city hall tonight, under orders from Police Commissioners Orr and Martin, to prevent their successors, Dennis Mullin and S. D. Hynes, appointed to-day, from taking possession of the offices.

Counsel for Orr and Martin tonight secured from Judge Graham a temporary writ of injunction, restraining Governor Waite from calling out the militia, restraining Mayor Van Horn from calling a posse to assist in forcing the commissioners, Orr and Martin, out of their offices, and restraining the governor's new appointees from taking their seats. The writ was served on all the interested parties this evening. The governor was wild with rage.

At the city hall there was no outward sign of concern. The force is in readiness and well prepared to resist any attack which may be made. Sheriff Burchnell has a large force of deputies, who will assist in preventing the new commissioners from taking forcible possession.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Wines and Spirits, the Free Lists, Agricultural Implements.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Senate bill makes the collector of internal revenue the officers in charge of the collection of the income tax, instead of deputy collectors, as provided in the Wilson bill. The right of appeal against the imposition of unjust taxes is retained, but the final decision rests with the commissioner of internal revenue, and not with the secretary of the treasury, as provided in the House bill.

In the taxing of the salaries of employes of corporations, the House bill makes it the duty of the corporations to pay the tax at each employe, and then defend it from the salaries. The Senate bill relieves the corporation from becoming taxpayers for the employes, and compels the latter to make direct payment to the collector.

The section making it perjury to falsely swear to any proceeding under the income tax is stricken out.

The following language refers to wine and spirits: "Upon all compounds or preparations containing alcohol they shall be levied a duty at the rate of $1.50 per proof gallon of the alcohol spirits contained, in addition to the duty provided by law upon the other ingredients contained in such compounds or preparations."

A change is made in the duty on still wines, including ginger wine, ginger cordial, and Vermouth, in casks or packages, other than bottles or jugs, which the Wilson bill fixed at 50 per cent per gallon on everything. The Senate committee inserted the following: "If containing 15 per cent of less or alcohol absolute, 40 cents per gallon; any article containing more than 15 per cent absolute alcohol, 50 cents per gallon."

The following provision in the House bill was stricken out: "Provided no such still wines in casks shall pay a higher rate of duty than 10 per cent ad valorem."

Ale, porter and beer, in bottles or jugs, 30 cents per gallon, but no separate or additional duty shall be assessed on the bottles or jugs; otherwise than in bottles or jugs, 10 cents per gallon; Wilson bill, 15 per cent.

The section changing the bonding period is as follows: "That the tax herein imposed shall be paid by the distiller of spirits on or before removal from the distillery or place of storage, except in case of the removal therefrom without the payment of the tax, as authorized by law, and upon spirits in a fully organized in any distillery, warehouse or other bonded warehouse established under the internal revenue laws, shall be taken from date of original entry at the distillery, warehouse, or from date of original gauge, except in case of withdrawal therefrom without payment of tax, as authorized by law."

The free list is not so much changed as was supposed. It would be, and the alterations from it are far more numerous than the additions. The date when the free list shall go into effect is changed from June 1, 1894, to June 30, 1894. Apples of all kinds are stricken from the free list and placed on the dutiable list, as are also beef, mutton and pork, and bones and cuttings for decorating sugar, bituminous coal, shale coal and slack are transferred to the dutiable list, leaving anthracite on the free list. Dressed or undressed furs, dress skins, rough or shaved, are added to the free list. Raw ore and sugar are moved to the dutiable list.

There is a change in reciprocity in the proviso attached to the paragraph admitting agricultural implements free.

The administrative features of the bill are substantially identical with those of the House bill. The exception to the Wilson bill as to personal effects subject to duty is enlarged to read: "And personal and household effects specifically enumerated in the new list of this act."

The sections covering the tax on spirits are new throughout. The main section of the Senate bill is as follows: "That on and after the first day of the second calendar month after the passage of this act there shall be levied and collected on all distilled spirits in bond at that time or that have been at that time in the possession of or under the control of any rectifier or compounder in the United States, an internal revenue tax not paid before that day, a tax of $1.10 on each proof gallon, or wine gallon when higher proof, and a proportionate tax at the like rate on all fractional parts of such proof or wine gallon, provided, in computing the tax on any package of spirits in an fractional part of an gallon less than one-tenth shall be excluded."

IN AFRICA.

The Portuguese and the English on the Frontiers.

PORT NATAL, South Africa, March 8.—The collision between the Portuguese and British on the 2-mile river was due to an attempt made by the Mozambique company to obtain pecuniary consent from the African Transcontinental Telegraph company, a British concern. Failing in the attempt the Mozambique company commenced a series of petty annoyances, including seizures of supplies of food and provisions intended for the construction party and for the British gunboats.

The collision began with the firing of two shots from the Portuguese fort as a warning. Then boats loaded with Portuguese crossed the river and tore up the telegraph poles of the construction party. Shots were exchanged but no loss of life is reported.

The commander of the British gunboat Mosquito intimated that he would open fire if there was any further damage done to the telegraph, and if any property and reimbursements were sent for by both sides. The Portuguese are reported to have replied that they would build that no further work be done upon the telegraph line.

Later unofficial information is to the effect there was been firing between the Mosquito and the Portuguese parties and there has also been further conflict between the Portuguese and the construction party, which resulted in loss of life.

Aldrich May Resign.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., March 8.—Senator Aldrich is notified the state central committee that he intends to resign from the United States senate if the legislature elected by the people in April is Republican.

A BOMB OUTRAGE IN ROME.

Anarchists Believed to Be the Authors of the Villainy.

Eight Persons Wounded and Some Serious—the Alleged Bomb Thrower Arrested.

ROME, March 8.—A terrible explosion occurred at 8 o'clock this evening, on the piazza of the Meats Office, very near the residence of deputies, the sitting of which was just concluded. The police at once swarmed to the scene. The explosion shattered all the windows in the neighborhood. It is believed the bomb of internal machine was placed by anarchists. It is rumored the police made several important arrests and have obtained information from one of the prisoners concerning a widespread conspiracy to blow up things. It is reported the Dominica was to blow up the chamber of deputies.

Eight persons were wounded by the explosion, including one lady. Six of the wounded are in the hospital. Three men are in a serious condition and are reported dying. A boy of the name of Pulldari, slightly wounded, was placed under arrest, and the police believe him to be the man who threw the explosive.

FROM LONDON.

LONDON, March 8.—A dispatch to the Standard from Rome says: It is believed the purpose of the perpetrators was to have the bomb explode at the hour the debate on the amended was expected to end and the deputies who ministers would be dropping out. The intended massacre was prevented by the chamber adjourning earlier than expected.

The force of the explosion made tremors of the external masonry of the chamber of deputies. Force enough to have torn arrestas, who refused to give their identity or any account of themselves.

Address to the Irish.

LONDON, March 8.—The Associated Press agent in this city received from John Redmond a cablegram to the Irish people, which will be published in Dublin tomorrow. Dwyer, in part:

"We warn our fellow-countrymen that Gladstone's retirement can have origin only in a scheme to thwart the hopes of the Irish people by the abandonment of home rule, of such a compromise as can only be regarded by Ireland as an insult and a mockery. In Lord Rosebery and the present cabinet we can have no confidence, and we warn our fellow-countrymen to have none. They will succeed just as much as Irish extorts, by the organization of her people. The time has arrived not only for plain speaking, but for prompt action, and we call upon you to be longer tolerate a policy of subordinance, and we Irish party interests. Organize the forces of our race in support of the struggle for national government, leaders that the cause of Ireland has left nothing in the trust by those who speak in your behalf, and show that you regard it public in your cause and more battling the dignity and honor of Ireland to continue, if necessary, the sister struggle with both the English parties than to continue to be the cockpit of one and the scandal dupes of the other."

The address is signed by John Redmond, Timothy Harrington and Joseph Edward Kenney.

A Bishop Transferred.

NEW YORK, March 8.—A private cable dispatch was received in the city today from Rome to the effect that Cardinal Ledochowski announces that Bishop Matz has been transferred from Denver, Colo., to St. Cloud, Minn., as the successor to Bishop Zardetta. The bishop of Denver will be appointed later.

Notes from Stevenson.

WELLS, Nevada, March 5, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

One party, consisting of four, first entered at Wells, on the Southern Pacific railroad, 70 miles almost directly north of the Salt Lake City line and cut on the desert northwest of the Great Salt Lake. It is 170 miles to Salt Lake from Wells. The morning is clear and very windy, with three or four inches of snow and some deep drifts. Snow little showing in Long range. The town is small, with some wells and windmills. The cattlemen feed the place. Lots feed alfalfa and the whole country looks like a failure excepting for sheep that could eat sage brush and not know.

Since the red rate this route is largely patronized by those who when in crowded for comfort. There was considerable complaining with the passengers after changing cars for the West, many saying that the accommodation and class of cars did not compare with the other lines they had been riding on. My opinion is a change for the better would be profitable to the railroad company in many respects. I protest against the checking system wherein colonist was made at Ogden to recheck baggage only to the end of the journey, so far instance with tickets to Los Angeles, with stop-over privileges in California. These desiring to stop over at Salt Lake City would have to pay over without their baggage or as some have had to do, lug away and encumber themselves with their grips. I look upon this as a cruelty which should be immediately remedied. The railway also should give better accommodations in passenger.

We are following along the old California emigrant trail and soon will be going down the Humboldt river. On our way to this place and calling at Farmington to enlarge the depot, our attention was called to an old tree in the form of a deed made out and dated July 27, 1857, a synopsis of which I am quite sure will interest many at your readers, as it pertains to an independence, Jackson county, Mo., inscription deed from Edward Partridge and Lydia Partridge, his wife, of the county of Caldwell and state of Missouri, for the consideration of "one hundred and twenty-six ($126.00) dollars received to our full satisfaction of Louis Abbot, of the county and state aforesaid, do grant, bargain and sell unto the said Louis Abbot and his heirs forever the following described parcel, it being a part of the northwest quarter of section No. thirty-three (33) west, township forty-one (41) north, range thirty-three (33), and bounded as follows: Commencing at the center of said section, thirty-three (33), thence running west eighty (80) rods, thence south forty-two (42) rods, east eighty (80), north forty-two (42) rods to the point of beginning, twenty-one acres of land. Attest: Lydia Partridge, Lydia Carrington.

Dated 27th July, 1857, in presence of W. W. Phelps, Isaac Morley.

After the death of Brother Abbot, whom I had know to Far West, Missouri, the land mentioned passed into several hands and finally to the present possessor, Thomas Abbot, it was recently found among a lot of miscellaneous papers, but the deed was intact and was preserved, and may be claimed as an old relic. Brother Thomas Abbot was has a fine track, 4 inches square and 8½ inches in height, made in 1848, by Dr. Thomas B. Smith. Still remembering interesting to me, in that when I was leaving my home in Nauvoo, I made the tin tank for a medicine chest.

MISS MARY SULLIS WAS GIVEN UP TO DIE

85 a Month, Medicine Furnished Free.

"Is this Mrs. Sullis?" asked the writer of a (disease fiend lady who measured the bill at No. 2 Cottage court, Fourth East.

"Yes you are."

"We understand your little daughter has been troubled with Drs. Shores & Shores. Would you mind telling what success they have had with her?"

"Nothing; we will give our worst enemies this to do that, for I feel thought she would die she was so bad. She is one grace by my neighbors."

MISS MARY SULLIS, NO. 2 COTTAGE COURT, 4TH EAST STREET.

Her last St. Vitus dance, she could not sit still a minutes, but jumped from one place to another; her mind was so that she would assume all sorts of shapes; she could not eat for two weeks she could eat nothing but bread and milk, and she was so bad to make her take, she would not feed herself, it being impossible for her to do anything; she would not let her mother feed her, she would take her in the street without holding her, she would jump up and down, and run off the walk to the other; she would have chairs placed around the bed, could not sleep of night but a very little bit; she would sit up in a chair and sleep; she would sometimes spread about jump out of bed, she was a constant care and her nothing seemed to amuse. She got very weak and was terribly nervous. Her mother frankly told us that she would never get well. In this condition I called upon Drs. Shores & Shores and they took her case and examined the child and gave her a remedy that began to relieve her immediately. After a few weeks she was able to go to the office for treatment, and today I can say she is as well as ever."

"You would be willing to make your remarkable statement public this evidence?"

"Indeed I would; you cannot write a statement that will express my gratitude to Drs. Shores & Shores. Anyone have certainly saved my child's life."

Mrs. Sullis resides at No. 2 Cottage Court, Fourth East and if there is any doubt in the reader's mind as to the truth of the statement, they can be most thoroughly satisfied by calling on Mrs. Sullis, as she is the witness.

Mr. Sullis is employed at Salt Lake's leading photographers, and when we called to the Wonderland photographers to secure a photograph, Sullis the following statement:

"About a month ago little Mary Sullis was brought to my gallery for a photo. She was so sick a very sad expression that it was almost impossible to do anything with her. Her mother was almost frantic. Matters did not improve, and I am profitably say the change was remarkable. She not so sick as anyone would. The effects of treatment in her case have certainly been extraordinary.
