PROVO.

Provo, Utah. - May 14, 1893.

FROM THE GARDEN CITY.

Death by Drowning.—Elder Strong's Funeral.—Army Notes.

Mayor Holbrook received a telegram on Saturday from Fillmore, signed by J. Greenwood. The telegram reads: "Have two caskets ready for morning train; one for Orson Holbrook's child, other for Joe Ray's; both were drowned today. Ray will be on train." The caskets were shipped yesterday, Mrs. Holbrook going down to attend the funeral. Mayor Holbrook says that his brother's child was a little girl, about five years old. Mr. Ray's child, he thinks, was a boy about the same age. Mrs. Orson Holbrook and Mrs. Ray are sisters, and Mayor Holbrook supposes Mrs. Holbrook was on a visit to her sister, and that both children were drowned in a creek near Mr. Ray's house.

Mr. Ray was in Salt Salt Lake City at the time of the accident. He was not on the southbound train yesterday; but it is believed he may have received a telegram in time for him to leave on an earlier train.

Elder Strong's Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of Elder John Strong were held yesterday in the First Ward assembly rooms, under the auspices of the bishopric of the ward. A very large attendance showed the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Many of his relatives testified to the good qualities of the departed. John Strong was born August 15, 1820, in Kendal, Westmoreland, England, and was the son of John Strong and Agnes Miller Strong. He emigrated to America in 1854, and lived in Salt Lake City till 1866, when he came to Provo where he has since resided. Brother Strong was a kind, unassuming man, of a lively and genial disposition, and made friends of all with whom he was brought in contact. In spite of several months' illness he retained his cheerful disposition up to the time of his death. He took part in the Echo canyon war in 1857-9, and has faithfully performed all duties incumbent upon him since his residence in Provo. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to his wife and children (11) who are left to mourn the loss of a devoted and kind husband and father. Elder Strong leaves eight brothers and sisters and a large number of other relatives.

Industrial Notes.

The industrial army spent Sunday in camp. There were about 200 men there Sunday afternoon; they expected to wait till Tuesday to learn the result of the examination of General Carter and the other men who were arrested on Saturday, before they proceed on their way east, which they say they are determined to do. One man was very sick. They are rather short of leaders, but look for some one to take charge if the officers are detained in Salt Lake City.

An amusing incident occurred Saturday evening after the militia had formed on the street north of the camp ground. A little girl was bringing her cows home from pasture. It was necessary, or at any rate convenient, for her to pass through the lines in order to properly perform her task. One of the boys in blue told her she could not pass through the line. She looked at him for a moment in an amazed and bewildered way; then she struck up his gun which he had placed in front of her and went about her business, paying no attention whatever to the remonstrances of the militia man.

General Carter was arrested Saturday evening on a warrant issued by Justice Weigwood, charging him with inciting riot, and was taken before the justice for arraignment. His attorneys, D. D. Hoge, M. M. Warner and E. A. Wilson asked that his bail be fixed. Justice Weigwood placed Carter's bail at $500.

Deputy Marshal Fowler then read a warrant from Judge Smith's court, charging contempt in taking property in the hands of a receiver appointed by the court. A Salt Lake deputy marshal came up westerly and read another warrant from Judge Merritt's court, also charging contempt. The general now being thoroughly arrested, the question finally came up under which charge he should be held. Prosecuting Attorney Dart, upon a suggestion made by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Howat, dismissed the charge of inciting riot, and General Carter was taken to Salt Lake City to appear before Judge Merritt. The governor and militia returned to Salt Lake Sunday morning.

Diphtheria in Alpine.

The diphteria continues in and around Alpine. Mrs. George Myers and two children have succumbed to the disease, and one other child in the family is suffering from the same cause. Bishop Marsh has two children down with diphtheria.

A Mrs. Johnson died recently in the same place, leaving a husband and four children to mourn her loss. Her death, however, was not caused by diphtheria.

Notes.

Jillson gave a performance in legerdemain Saturday evening at the Opera house. The advent of the industrial army and the excitement of the day operated unfavorably upon the size of the audience, which was rather smaller than the wizard deserves. His expose and lecture, Religion vs Spiritualism, was given last evening to a better house, and gave intensest satisfaction.

Judge Smith, Clerk Peery and Deputy Clerk Thurman have gone to Nephi to attend the May term of court.

Elder Henry J. Mallen has brought a smoking bird with him from the South. The bird is attracting great attention from the visitors to Mr. Neff's drug store (formerly Pyle & Mallen). Where he is located.

THE PRICE OF IT.
Ah, there is the rub in these hard times. But consider what you save in so many ways. How you excelle your business, do do speedily as wound or attend to some duty with little loss of time that might otherwise be neglected. Think of the times you have gone home and been met by the wife of your bosom with the dreaded to know why you had not sent up the meat, and you recalled how, when you thought of it you put it off thinking to have some time later on, and then forgot it entirely until the supper came and your heart sank in your boots. How if you had had that easy running, light and graceful "Stearns" Yellow Fellow—that arms and chassis of bicycle construction—that strong, could, too, would have been attached to in a jiffy. Result: Contentment easy, money saved, wife smiling and affectionate, life filled with fullness and contentment.
