LIFE OF A BARON.

The Scion of a Distinguished German House in America

DOES ANYTHING FOR A LIVING

and is Discharged from the Service of the Pullman Company in "Reduce Expenses."

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—Baron Otto Von Pritsch, officer of the German army, duelist, veteran of the American civil war, and a gentleman whose years have been crowded with romance and adventure, is no longer an employe of the Pullman Palace Car company. At 7 o'clock last evening he was relieved of the duties of Superintendent of the Hotel Florence, at Pullman, a position he had held since the close of the World's Fair.

For some time Baron Von Pritsch has been in hot water. His life has been made a burden by a number of petty officials of the Pullman company with the result that the baron's resignation was requested with a view, it is stated, to "reduce expenses."

Baron Pritsch comes of distinguished ancestry.

It is hither by nearly a third of a century held one of the most important posts in the diplomatic service of the German empire. The baron sought relief from the German army. He became a cavalry officer. One evening, while in command of a troop, a junior officer severely criticised the instructions. A duel was arranged and the baron killed his antagonist.

After the breaking out of the civil war, the baron came to America and personally tendered services to President Lincoln. He was informed that before entering the service he must become a citizen of the northern states. After several ineffectual attempts to get into the army without going through that formality, he met a colonel of a New York Regiment just organized and was made a captain. He served all through the war.

From clerking in a New York dry goods store, where he whipped an intruding floor walker, he became a tutor of French in private families and later filled the chair of modern languages in Yale College's university. There he fell violently in love with a New York heiress whose mother herself was attracted by him and the upshot of the romance was that the heiress broke away from both and pedaled organs while waiting for his remittances from home.

Drifting to New Orleans he met the scion of a Central American merchant, who engaged him as chief bookkeeper for the concern, only to have his conduct regulated. A society of German merchants furnished funds to carry him to Mexico. There he found employment in a large commercial house. While residing on the Esplanade his bearing manner caught the young president of Mexico's president. The association was mutual.

"The president sent for me one day," the baron said, "and told me he could not allow a civilian to wed his daughter. We had a long conversation and he finally confided to make me an officer in the army. He immediately offered a reward of $50,000 for the capture of a band of rebels, and to keep the money in the family put me in charge of an expedition to make the capture.

"Flushed with the prospect of marrying a president's daughter and getting so much money from the government, I started on the expedition. While approaching their camp a sleepy fire was opened on our ranks. I was captured, tried and sentenced to be shot. Two hours before the execution, while being bound to a tree, I heard a French officer's voice and begged him to take me a native Parisian. I deceived him by a story that I was a Frenchman who had been beguiled into the expedition without knowing what it meant, and explained that I overheard no hint of a rebellion. I was released.

"It was decided that my life should be spared if I returned to Germany at once. The Frenchman gave me his sword of honor and I was put on an outgoing steamer with the parting words that I would be shot if I reappeared on this side of the Atlantic. At Havana I escaped from the vessel, sold my ticket and sailed for Mexico, but afterwards abandoned the journey."

The baron passed through a number of exciting episodes before coming to Chicago. In the days before the fire he was in the real estate business. Last summer he was in charge of Mr. Pullman's exhibit at the Fair and at its close was installed as superintendent of the Hotel Florence.

Prices for Bosiness Agreed On.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 15.—At a joint meeting of the California Raisin Growers & Packers' company, constituting the new combine, and the outside packers, today, the following scale of prices for raisins was agreed on:

Four crown, loose, 4½ cents a pound; three crown, 3½ cents; two crown, 3 cents; seedless, 5 cents; dry grapes, 2½ cents; three crown layers, $1.35 a box; two crown, fancy clusters, $1.60; five crown, Deesa clusters, $2; six crown, imperial clusters, $3; sultanas, 4 cents a pound; twenty-pound leaf crown, at 12 wanlees, $1.25 a box.

The result of the meeting is considered satisfactory to growers here, and packing concerns which had refused to join have signified their willingness to come in on a state condition. Packing will begin next Monday in some of the vineyards.

English Markets Revived.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Daily News in its financial article, says the passage of the tariff bills by the American Congress has been followed by great activity in many markets.

Metals, it says, have most readily responded, especially copper and tin, the expectancy of a large American demand for tin plates.

Railroads Disagree.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The lines of the Central Traffic association today decided they will not under any circumstances accept from the Trans Missouri others any tickets of the G. A. R. encampment at Pittsburg or the meeting of the Knights of Pythias, at Washington, which are sold at less than the agreed rate, which is one fare for the round trip.

The Denver & Rio Grande has positively refused to agree with the other lines of the Western Passenger association relative to the issuing of certificates entitling holders of tickets from points west of the Denver & Rio Grande access to Pittsburg.

DENVER, Aug. 15.—The Santa Fe has made a break in regard to trip rates from Denver to Salt Lake City, and the example will probably be followed by competing lines.

Morton May Accept the Nomination.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—A representative of the Associated Press had an interview today with ex-Vice President Levi P. Morton, in regard to his political prospects and his movement to New York to tender him the Republican nomination for governor. Mr. Morton, who appears to be in excellent health, admitted the statements which he made on Monday. He said that he had not written a letter expressing his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for the governorship of New York.

The Associated Press representative gathered, however, from his conversation with Mr. Morton that if it is the unanimous wish of the party leaders in New York that Mr. Morton should accept the nomination for governor, he will do so.

SINKING OF THE KOW SHING.

The Latest Account of the Naval Engagement Near Gensan.

The Tai Yuen's Commander Fought Two of Japan's Best Ships for Two Hours and Escaped.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 16.—The steamer Tacoma, from Hong Kong, brings the following account of the naval battle of July 25, in the neighborhood of Gensan:

Three Japanese men-of-war, the Akitsushima, Takachiho and Naniwa, met at sea the Chinese cruiser Tai Yuen with a small dispatch boat, the Ko Ohio and the transport Kow shing, and after an engagement lasting one hour and twenty minutes, captured the dispatch boat and sunk the transport, while the cruiser escaped. To fully appreciate this action, the relative strength of the combatants must be considered.

On the Japanese side were the Akitsushima with a tonnage of 3,150 and rated as cruiser; the Takachiho of 3,710 tons, with a speed of eighteen knots, and the Naniwa, fully as large, powerful and swift as either of her companions. The armament of these three included four 32-ton guns, four 26-ton guns, twenty quick-firing and thirty-two machine guns.

On the other side was the Tai Yuen, with a tonnage of 2,355, 2,200 horse-power and a speed of ten knots, and carrying two 24-ton guns, one 5-inch and nine machine guns. The dispatch boat was unarmed, and being a wooden ship, not steaming more than 8 knots, her power of resisting capture was as small as her power to evade it.

The Japanese war ships were proceeding toward Jinsen, when the Chinese vessels were met. The Chinese war ships, seeing the Japanese flagship, immediately opened their fires instead of observing the usual courtesies, and began the fighting, apparently to cover the retreat of the transport steamer, which left promptly pursued by the Naniwa. At this juncture the transport was flying the white flag as well as the English colors. What happened to her was not seen by the combatants, but was reported by the Naniwa.

Her officers state the flag of surrender was no sooner displayed than the Chinese on board prepared to attack the boarding parties from the Naniwa, and fire fairly did fire on them as they came alongside. The boats then returned to their cruiser and the transport was sunk with sea cocks directed shot.

In the meantime the Takachiho and the Akitsushima engaged the Tai Yuen and Ko Ohio.

The former after fighting stubbornly for over an hour displayed the flag of surrender and the Japanese men-of-war were approaching her when she suddenly discharged a torpedo, which, however, the Japanese were able to dispose of.

The engagement was then renewed more hotly than ever, till finally the Tai Yuen turned and made off at full speed toward Jinsen, being pursued for a hundred miles by the Japanese but not overtaken.

The Ko Ohio got aground in shallow water while in sheltered anchorage and thus fell an easy captive to the Japanese. The Chinese fought their good much more rapidly than their opponents and had they not been so greatly outnumbered would undoubtedly have achieved a victory. As it was, it is a testimony to the skill of the Tai Yuen's commander that he fought two of Japan's best ships for a full hour and then escaped.

Since the naval fight Corea has written of Japanese movements between Jinsen and Fusan has been suspended. General travel on the smaller coasting lines is very much broken and news of an authentic nature is difficult to obtain.

In Yokohama it is believed that China's plan will be to move troops into Corea by way of Wiju, and the Japanese government is said to be taking steps accordingly.

The queen of Corea, reported as missing, is under strong treatment, as she is attacked with a violent fever.

At the time of the sinking of the Tacoma from Yokohama, four Chinese Gunboats were reported missing, and were supposed to have been destroyed in a typhoon or captured by the Japanese.

The government of the island kingdom was still harrying men and supplies to Corea, not excepting even an immense armatory plant to follow up the land forces and dominate the chief.

The Mikado has just issued a rescript to the superintendent general of the police to hot the feelings of the people regarding the war and to report to him direct.

Crazy Shows His True Colors.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 15.—A special to the Sun from Hyattsville, Md., says: General Coxey came near being mobbed at Cottage Lost Liberty yesterday. He came for the purpose of taking away seven of his horses, and when questioned about the movement of his herds, became angry and said he was done with the enemy. This greatly incensed the five men left by the Baltimore police to take care of the camp property and Coxey was obliged to beat a hasty retreat in one of the horses. The men gave chase to Coxey, but he escaped.

Nebraska's Discontent the Tariff.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—Governor McKinney said today, in discussing the new tariff law with Representative Hurd, of Illinois, recently, that the action of the Democrats on the tariff put the question of protection before the country as a political issue in a more pronounced manner than ever before. The friends of protection must see that protection is promptly restored to every industry that suffers from this legislation.

THE BENNINGTON SIGHTED.

General Lorin and the Other Fugitives Alarmed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—It became known today that the United States gunboat Bennington, having on board ex-Vice President Lorin Lorin and some other fugitives from the Barcelona, was signaled late last night about thirty miles out from Golden Gate. The Bennington was overhauled by the tugboat Sea King flying a special navy signal and bearing Lieutenant Binney, aide to the commandant at Mare Island navy yard. Lieutenant Binney delivered the dispatches from Washington ordering the Bennington to remain outside until further instructions should be received from Washington. Lieutenant Binney boarded the Bennington to order of provisions that all on board had been captured in their allowance. The Sea King at once returned to port and at noon today she put to sea again with a big supply of fruit, vegetables, bread, fresh meat and other supplies for the Bennington. She also carried a pouch of mail for the gunboat's officers and men. The naval authorities refuse to talk and special efforts have been made to keep the tugboat's crew silent, but it is learned that the appearance of the Sea King on her mysterious mission caused a commotion on board the Bennington.

General Lorin and his brother refugees viewed the approach of the tug with apprehension, which was changed to consternation when they learned from Washington of documents affecting their freedom. They made attempts to send letters ashore by the crew of the Sea King, but Commander Thomas of the Bennington kept them carefully under his eye and frustrated their plans.

For the Exploration of Africa.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 15.—Chaplain Henry V. Plummer of the Ninth cavalry, colored, U. S. A., is spending a year in Africa to explore certain portions of the dark continent. He petitioned the secretary of war to furnish him a company of picked colored volunteers to accompany him to Africa. With these men he believes that he will be able to penetrate into the heart of Africa and expects to discover many things that are yet hidden from the view of civilization.

Mr. Plummer has read much on Africa and has conversations that have been there, and is well versed upon all subjects relating to the continent. He believes that what he has read that Africa is a country of wonderful resources and extensive mineral wealth.

Mine Workers Meet in Convention.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15.—One hundred and fifty delegates, representing organized labor in Ohio, responded to the call of John McBride of the United Mine Workers, and met in convention here this morning to form an independent political organization and adopt a platform severing union men from the old parties.

REVIVAL IN TRADE.

Wholesale Dry Goods Merchants Look Forward With Hope.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 15.—Wholesale dry goods merchants expect a still further revival of trade, now that the statement at Washington have agreed upon the tariff bill. In anticipation of the passage of some sort of a tariff bill dry goods that had been lying in bond were being put in condition to ship on short notice ten days ago. Wholesale dry goods and wholesale hardware merchants of this city have had thousands of dollars worth of foreign goods lying in bond for several months, while waiting to see what the outcome of the tariff legislation would be. All these goods are now being withdrawn from bond as quickly as possible and are to be thrown on the market.

The King of Siam Dead.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 15.—Dispatches per steamer Tacoma announce the death of the king of Siam. H. M. S. Battler has been dispatched to Siamese waters to anticipate possible trouble over the succession.

Right Arm Paralyzed!

Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 21 pounds. Her nervousness and sympathetic Vitus dance are entirely gone, and she is in good health, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."
