LONDON IN SPRING.

The Most Metropolitan Enjoying Beautiful Weather

AND THE PRESENCE OF ROYALTY.

Good Humored Society Not Active in the Park—Rose Bodyshe Goes to Hide Fields.

LONDON, May 11.—(Special London Letter.)—Not weighted up by the Atlantic Ocean, the beautiful healthy spring weather which Londoners have long wished for is now their just reward. It is now their joy and everybody, to the delight of everybody, is here enjoying it. The sunshine is as bright as a coach is polished, and the air is perfumed with the purest possible scent of the spring. The landscape seems as it is dressed in glory and smiles as its raiment and resembling in the full of spring, rippling and joyful and flutting in gladness, while mating the average West Londoner breathe sighs of joy.

Even the London cabs greeted by the sunshine, have lost their sombre hues and are fresh, young and gay, as well as every horse in the city, and all seem to be in carriages and cabs, and all seem happy. For the sunshine has not yet done take the life out of them, as it does days and the rest of the year. Well, the Prince of Wales and his brother, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, are in London, followed by the Duke of Fife, the best pleasure-loving royalties, that are left in Europe, and who is said to have inherited the spirit of the Queen's Prince of Ireland when the Queen was young and gay, and who, as we know through Pall Mall as well as anybody else, is not ashamed of his humanity, a man which is a misnomer, for the power of the sun presented, for the time being, the development of the day of the pleasure and sensibility, which people want to see what they do enjoy.

Social gaiety reigns there is such a thing in the city, the society people are all there for the most prominent, you can often hear spread about the Park, a Dunning feel by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leigh, in honor of the Duke of Fife, Mr. Ralph Leigh, Mr. Ronald Leigh and Mr. Ralph Leigh, Mr. Ronald Leigh, Mr. Ralph Leigh, Mr. Ronald Leigh, Mr. Ralph Leigh, Mr. Ronald Leigh,
