MUST CRUSH CUBA.

A Warning and a Threat Sent to the Spanish Government.

IF UNABLE TO CONQUER REBELS

Intervention May Be Expected in the Interest of Humanity and Commerce.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—A special to the Times-Herald from Washington says: Spain must crush the Cuban rebellion within the next three months or public opinion in international interference in the interest of humanity and commerce. That is the significance of a series of conferences held between Secretary Olney and the Spanish minister, Senor Depuy de Lome.

The United States has agreed for the present to keep hands off, but this is accompanied by a stern warning that unless Spain carries out her promise of suppressing the insurrection and restoring order in Cuba within reasonable time, she must expect the United States government to pursue quite a different policy. In other words, Spain is to be given one more chance to demonstrate her ability to rule the islands, and failing in this, the United States government will take the leadership in international intervention, with the complete autonomy or perhaps the independence of Cuba as the objective

A WOMAN'S VIEW.

Let Them Fight if the People Want Them To.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—"If Texas wants a prize fight, let them have it, I say," said Mrs. Charles A. Culberson, before leaving Chicago today for Texas. Mrs. Culberson is the wife of Governor Culberson, of Texas, and, with her mother, Mrs. Harrison, has been North for the summer.

"What is the use in your Charles worrying himself to death to prevent something the whole state wants?" continued Mrs. Culberson. "At least nine men out of every ten in Texas want the prize fight, and, after all, as we elected to carry out the will of the people, and the people want the fight, I am not sure what they say they want, they would, every one of them, get it. They think of the money it is going to cost to convene the legislature. I do not see, anyway, why one man should have the power to decide what the rest should do. One man's judgment is no better than another's, and I do not see why one judge's opinion is better than that of his fellow judges.

"Think of his conscience and his responsibility in the matter," said Mrs. Harrison. "A man must do what is right when he holds in trust an office for the people."

"That's just it," said Mrs. Culberson. "He does hold it for the people, and the people want the fight, and I say let them have it. There is no use in his staying up nights and worrying himself to death trying to keep up public dignity."

And Mrs. Culberson looked as if she meant every word she said, and was far more concerned about the hard work and worry her husband had been obliged to undergo in order to keep his chest and convene the legislature, than about any pugilist's attempt to sully Texas's fame.

"I have met a number of prominent business men from Texas this summer," Mrs. Culberson went on, "and everyone of them believes in letting the fight go on, and here the governor is trying to stop something that the public is in favor of having. It's all foolishness, and I've told him so. I said: 'You are expected to carry out the will of the people, and you are not doing it when you oppose what they want.'"

FOR THE LADIES.

General Harrison Waiting for Their Special Benefit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27.—Gen. Benjamin Harrison is devoting himself to an important series of literary articles, which he contracted for while in the East last spring. The work is to take the shape of magazine articles, which will have for their aim the enlightenment of women upon national questions, giving them a clearer conception of governmental affairs. Its scope will be wide enough to touch upon all national questions of general interest. It now appears that Gen. Harrison gave all of his time between New York while in the Adirondacks to this work, and he is still busy, and will be for some weeks in getting the material ready for a Philadelphia publishing house.

Atrocious Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—Advices from Australia state that the people of Sydney have been startled by the atrocious murder of a young girl on the night of September 1st. At midnight on a wharf was left a box containing a body of a young woman. She had been scientifically butchered, the corpse soaked in carbolic acid, and the remains then stuffed into a dry goods box. The identity of the murdered girl has not been discovered.

Like Tennyson's "throne" increased sales of Price's Cream Baking Powder go on forever.

VENEZUELAN QUESTION.

Wartike Speculations and the Monroe Doctrine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—There is no advance nor change in the status of the Venezuelan question, so far as can be learned from all available official sources in Washington, including the Venezuelan minister. Notwithstanding this fact there has been much speculation on the subject in the last few days, some being of a warlike tendency, indicating a determination on the part of the administration to take vigorous steps to constitute the Monroe doctrine as applicable in Venezuela. At the state department there is great reticence on the subject, and, so far as can be learned, because there is need of withholding anything for reasons of expediency, but because there has been a lull in the negotiations since last spring, Senor Andrade, the Venezuelan minister, was asked tonight concerning the reports.

"I have no information whatever of any change of development," said he, "if there is any new phase it has not been communicated to me." Senor Andrade added that he had noted the widespread comment of late as to the Venezuelan question, including the vigorous speeches of General Longstreet at Chattanooga and of ex-Governor Campbell of Utah. The minister looks at this as a general awakening of interest in the subject rather than as an indication of a change in the status of affairs. Since Lord Kimberly's answer to Mr. Bayard, setting forth England's position, an American syndicate has secured large concessions from Venezuela of land in the disputed territory. It is along the south bank of the Orinoco, so situated that if the American claimants enforce their concession and have the support of the United States, a direct issue with England is inevitable. Congressman Livingston, of Georgia, who is familiar with the affairs of the American company, says that men will be sent to take possession of the territory. He has expected that this would lead to a conflict, in which case the company would appeal to the United States for protection of its rights. As yet, however, there has been no conflict and no appeal for governmental support, and so far as can be learned, it is premature to state what the government would do should the American company bring about an issue.

LATHEY and necessity are combined in Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

The Question of Reforming the Upper House of Parliament.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Responding to a toast to the House of Lords at a banquet given at Blenheim tonight, the Marquis of Londonderry said that he thought the House of Lords could be improved in many ways, and he hoped the colonists would grapple with the question. The House of Lords might hereafter have to oppose the House of Commons in measures not so popular as the home rule measure. Therefore he wished it to be so strong that no alone could be cast at its action.

The Daily Chronicle, an organ of the liberal party, states in its issue of today that the leaders of the conservative party intend to make the House of Lords an elective body, either adopting the principle already existing in relation to Scottish peers sitting in the House of Lords, or to have the House of Commons elect an upper chamber in the peerage. It is also, according to the Chronicle, intended to give peers the right to sit in the House of Lords' prerogatives and enter the house of Commons.

An editorial in the Graphic this morning on the reform of the House of Lords, says: It is essential that the number of hereditary peers now sitting in the House of Lords should be reduced by applying the elective principle employed in cases of the Scotch and Irish peers. The Earl of Dunraven and other independent minds are known to favor this. Its application would purge the Lords of a few of the black sheep, who give occasion to the enemy to say, and would, at the same time, allow the peers who are inactive to the work of Parliament, to be replaced by representatives of great municipal and other commercial and learned institutions, and possibly would also allow the introduction into the Parliament of the empire of representatives of the great communities across the sea, who bear allegiance to, but who have not a voice in the control of the government.

THE TREASURY RESERVE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. — The treasury today lost $1,500,000 in gold pursuant to Europe, which leaves the true amount of gold reserve $92,700,057.

The difference between Pills and Simmons Liver Regulator, is just this: Pills don't go down very easy with most people, and you feel them afterwards. While Simmons Liver Regulator in liquid or powder is very pleasant to take and the only feeling that you have afterwards is the great relief that it gives from Constipation, Biliousness, Sick-Headache and Dyspepsia. It is a mild laxative and a tonic. 2

A Quarrel of Long Standing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A special to the World from Washington says: Captain George A. Armes, retired, better known as Major Armes, was arrested at his house, Arnesleigh Park, this afternoon by a file of soldiers, and is tonight confined in the Washington barracks. The order for his arrest was signed by Assistant Adjutant General Vincent, "by order of the acting secretary of war."

General Scofield was today the acting secretary. There has been a personal quarrel of twenty-five years' standing between General Scofield and Major Armes.

The dispatch says that Major Armes was refused an interview with the general, and wrote him an insulting letter. He at first attempted to resist arrest when Lieutenant Corning and Lieutenant Gordon read the order, but finally consented to enter the ambulance which came for him.

Major Armes was courtmartialed for pulling the nose of General Beaver, of Pennsylvania, at the inauguration of President Garfield.

DURRANT'S DEFENSE.

Said to Be Made Up of Weakness and Extravagant Assertions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 27.—If Theodore Durrant has anything tangible upon which to base his denial of the charge that he murdered Blanche Lemont and Minnie Williams, his attorneys have failed to give satisfactory evidence of the fact. After two days devoted to the testimony of the defense, the trial was adjourned at noon today until next Tuesday. In the meantime, however, the defense had disclosed enough to satisfy the prosecution that Durrant's attorneys are groping in the dark, in the hope that something may develop within the next few days to save the prisoner's life.

The weakness of the defense is made more apparent at this time on account of the extravagant assertions that Durrant's attorneys were uniformly made since the trial began. When the prosecution was engaged in putting in its case, and the situation looked the darkest for the young Bundy-street superintendent, Attorney Deuprey was accustomed to snap his fingers and remark that he had no fears for the future of his client.

"We will clear him in three minutes," said Deuprey, "and the public will be at a loss to understand how Durrant's name was ever connected with the case."

The same line of extravagant claims was continued when Attorney Deuprey made his opening speech for the defense.

"Not only will the prisoner tell you with his own lips that he had no hand in his life on the day Blanche Lamont was murdered," said Deuprey, "but Dr. Cheney will tell you that Durrant was at Cooper medical college at the very hour when the murder of Blanche Lamont is said to have taken place. Besides that, we will prove to you that Durrant never tried to sell the Lamont's ring at Oppenheim's store. On the contrary, we will bring forward the young man who did try to pawn a ring at Oppenheim's similar to the one worn by Miss Lamont."

In view of these startling statements, it was first believed that the defense might have a strong case held in reserve which would put to a severe test the case of the prosecution. In one day, however, the case of the defense crumbled and fell of its own weight, and today Durrant's alibi has not a leg upon which to stand. Dr. Cheney, who was expected to tell so much for the defense, was as strong a witness for the prosecution as he taken the stand during the trial. Instead of fulfilling Deuprey's statement and swearing that Durrant attended a lecture at Cooper medical college on April 3rd, he said he had no recollection of seeing the young medical student there. The denial dumfounded the defense.

If further proof were needed of the belief that the defense has little to offer in refutation of the case put forward by the prosecution, it was furnished today. Instead of placing witnesses on the stand to testify to some material fact in connection with Durrant's alleged alibi, two gas fitters were called to testify with regard to the acoustics in the gallery of Emmanuel church. For two hours the crowd was bored and the jury made tired by a long series of questions and answers relative to the minutest part of the construction of sounboards. Not one word during the entertainment was the name of Blanche Lamont mentioned, nor was anything said to indicate that it was not a suit to collect a plumber's bill, instead of a murder trial that was before the court. The evident purpose of the examination, however, was to show that the repairing of the sounboards would necessarily result in the escape of a great deal of gas. This testimony will be used to substantiate Durrant's statement that he was suffering from partial asphyxiation when he came down from the church belfry, trembling and flustered, and met Organist King in the auditorium.

A significant feature of the testimony of the two gasfitters was the fact that each testified that he made an examination of the sounboards in Emmanuel church on September 21st. The prosecution interprets this to mean the defense had nothing upon which to base a theory of the case of the people was nearly complete. Only when confronted by the actual necessity of opening its case is it believed that the defense made an attempt to secure witnesses to testify with regard to the condition of the sounboards.

The apparent hopelessness of his case, however, produced no change in the demeanor of Durrant. Day after day he sights the courtroom beside his father and mother and listens to the evidence against him without a sign of emotion. The stoicism of the prisoner is only surpassed by that of his mother. Mrs. Durrant seems to have no cognization of the gravity of her son's position. Attired in waving plumes and a tailor-made gown, such as a lady might wear at a matinee, she laughs and chats with her friends, while the evidence that the prosecution believes will hang her son is being put in against him. To frequenters of the courtroom Mrs. Durrant's conduct is almost as unfathomable as that of her son. Durrant's father, however, looks careworn, and gives evidence of the intense mental strain through which he must be passing.

Might as well be without money as Price, that is Price's Baking powder.

FIRED UPON BY SPANIARDS.

An English Steamship Flying Her Country's Flag.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A special to the Herald from Kingston, Jamaica, says: The captain of the British steamship Alene, of the Atlas line, has reported that his ship was fired upon by a Spanish gunboat. The Alene was bound from New York for Kingston and was off Cape May, when the gun boat appeared in her wake and without warning threw three shots after her. The Alene at once hoisted

A TALK ABOUT BEER.

When Certain Effects Follow Beer Drinking, Then Look Out.

WHAT IT MAY INDICATE

How Beer Affects Various People.

A Strange Fact Familiar to Most Doctors, but Not to the Average Man Who Quaffs the Foaming Lager.

Drink beer! Don't drink beer!

This seems like very contradictory advice, but, nevertheless, it is the considered opinion of two great classes of people, and it is a fact that they believe that a glass of beer is a healthful, invigorating beverage. There are others who regard beer as a sort of liquefied poison. And the strangest thing about it is that both opinions may be right under certain conditions.

The fact of the matter is that a glass of beer may be either a benefit or a curse, according to the health of the person who drinks it. If a man or woman is in sound health it may do good. If, on the other hand, there is a weak spot in the liver or kidneys, injury will result from the drinking. One of the greatest proofs that liver complaint is the brewer's opinion is that we suppose is the oft-repeated remark of beer drinkers: "I wish I hadn't taken that glass of beer."

In this way, beer acts as a barometer which shows the state of the health. If Cooper drinks a glass of beer and after commence to feel that something is wrong in the small of your back, or have a dull, heavy feeling, a bad taste in the mouth, and, perhaps, the first stages of a headache, you may be sure that your nerve and kidneys need strengthening. Neglect the warning, and more serious results are bound to follow sooner or later.

Those great vital organs are the foes to indirect disease, and when they are out of order the miserable sensations above described are sure to be felt. When this is the case it is cheaper and wiser to remedy matters before they become serious and dangerous. There is no time or time up the body, purify the blood and regulate healthy action of the liver and kidneys. For this purpose there has never been but one remedy, and that Warner's Safe cure, which for years has been recognized as the greatest and best health reliever in the world. Physicians everywhere acknowledge it, and thousands of men and women gladly testify to its splendid effects. It is, and always has been, unsurpassed.

her colors and turned about on her course. The Spanish war vessel followed in pursuit until she was within a mile of the Alene, when she reversed her course, put her full steam ahead in disdaining to give any explanation, sailed swiftly away. Many American aboard the British steamship were extremely indignant over the matter.

Indicted for Manslaughter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The grand jury today ordered indictments for manslaughter in the second degree against the following men, who are held responsible for the collapse of the Ireland building, August last, when fifteen men were killed: Thomas Murray, mason's foreman; Thomas Walker, superintendent; John Parker, contractor; Dennis Berkley, ex-inspector of the building department; C. E. Byrnes, architect, and Edward J. Youdale, architect's assistant.

Many are offered, but only one is chosen, Price's Cream Baking Powder.

Husband and Wife.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—John B. Sherman, one of Chicago's oldest, as well as wealthiest citizens, was married Wednesday to Miss Katherine Nesser, of Detroit. Mr. Sherman is 79 years old, while his wife is but 26. Mr. Sherman was the originator of the idea which resulted in the formation of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, and since 1867 he has been its superintendent. He is also largely interested in banking and other commercial enterprises.

Robert Dealy Dead.

BRIDGEWATER, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Robert Dealy, aged 95, is dead. He was born in Canada and received his early education in Quebec. He was the son of an exiled Frenchman named Desteauxville, who was forced to leave France on account of his political views during the revolution. When the time came to vote for the choice of the last of his name and preferred to be known by the plain name of Dealy.

Presidential Candidates.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Senator Richard T. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, is registered at the Fifth Avenue hotel. In an interview he announced the candidacy of Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota, for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket. Senator Pettigrew said: "Cushman K. Davis is the choice of the northwest for President. In the nominating convention he will have the solid delegations from his own state, the Dakotas, Montana, Oregon, Washington and probably a part of the Wisconsin delegation."

A Claim for Millions.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—W. H. H. Hart will soon go East to prosecute the claim of a client whose case bids fair to become as celebrated as has the contest over Blythe's millions. Mr. Hart has been retained by Mrs. Elizabeth Dale, of Mountain View, to support her claim to one-seventh of a vast estate in Philadelphia, which is said to be worth $50,000,000.

Mrs. Dale has waited over four score years for her millions, and the fancies that the passage of time will soon make it possible for her to put in her claim to the estates of her ancestors comes rather too late for her to fully enjoy her good fortune. She is a descendant of an Edward Finsley, who lived in Philadelphia in the early days of the nation. He owned thirty-four acres of land upon what was then the outskirts of a little village, and as was not unusual in those days of longevity, he granted a lease on it for 99 years. The term of lease will expire on November 1st next, and Mr. Hart is now engaged in collecting proofs of the kinship of his client to the original owner of the land.

Railroad Out of Politics.

RENO, Nevada, Sept. 28.—C. P. Huntington arrived here last night. He said that the Southern Pacific was out of politics, but if any candidate announces that he intends to clinch the road, we will fight him and try to defeat him, but we will do it openly.

Concerning the action of the railroad commissioners reducing local rates, Mr. Huntington spoke calmly of his purpose to test the issue in the courts. He said nothing at all about Dr. Stanford and Mr. La Rue personally.
