endeavoring to stampede the convention into an unqualified endorsement of Grover Cleveland.

The fight for the governorship bids fair to be over tonight, with Shoaf and Matthews still in the lead, but the friends of Noback and Nyce hopeful. Shankland's friends insist that he will be nominated on the second ballot, Matthews says after the first ballot he will have twenty-five votes to spare. Nyce and Noback are making any claims. The matter is very complicated, and no one expected the result. The committee on resolutions has begun work on a platform to be adopted at tomorrow's convention. There is some little dispute on the question of party policy on the silver question being the only one which provoked extended discussion. Senator Voorhees and his friends favored a free coinage plank, but were overruled by a majority and the following plank was finally adopted: "We believe there should be kept in constant circulation a full and sufficient volume of money consisting of gold and silver and legal tender paper currency at par with each other."

Harrison's administration is arraigned for subservicncy to the interests of the money power and indifference to the welfare of the people; for the prostitution of public patronage by the sale of a cabinet position to John Wanamaker in return for financial aid in the campaign; for maladministration of the pension department; for the promotion of Judge Woods as a reward for saving Dudley and his fellow conspirators from the penitentiary and for the attempt to fasten upon the country the infamous force bill.

The diplomacy of Harrison and Blaine in the Chilean and Bering Sea affairs is denounced as "a weak and demagogical foreign policy which exhibited the American people to the world as a bully toward the weak and a truckler to the powerful."

The platform favors such tariff reform as will relieve the necessities of the people and the tariff policy of Cleveland is re-affirmed.

The district conventions nominated delegates to the national convention. Delegates-at-large and alternates were also chosen. This morning the Cleveland and General Grant clubs assisted by about two-thirds of the members of the Gray club and several hundred visitors and delegates, held a street demonstration in honor of Cleveland.

A Railway Sold.

PORTLAND, Or., April 20.—The lines of the Oregon & Washington Territory Railroad company were sold today at public auction by a master in chancery to satisfy a decree of the United States circuit court in favor of the Farmers' Loan & Trust company of New York. The road was bid in for C. H. Wright of Philadelphia for $4,250,000.

The Pennsylvania Republicans.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 20.—At the afternoon session Judge Thomas Clayton, of Delaware; Judge John Dean, of Blair; Judge John Henderson, of Crawford; Judge John Latta, of Allegheny; Judge Robert W. Archibald, of Lackawanna, and Judge Wilbur F. Sadler, of Cumberland, were presented for the supreme judgeship nomination. After the first ballot, Clayton's name was withdrawn. Upon the announcement of the result of the seventh ballot, showing 111 votes for Mr. Henderson, Mr. Magee shouted out a protest, saying the secretary was cheating for Henderson and moved that tellers be appointed. Magee's motion was put and although the vote appeared large to its favor Chairman Mantle declared it lost. Magee shouted such work would not do. Cries of fair play were heard all over the building, and the chair again put the question. This time there could be no doubt a majority favored the motion, and tellers were elected, Secretary Leach refusing to longer keep the tally sheet. The eighth ballot resulted: Henderson 126, Dean 100, Ewing 22, Archibald 19, White 16, Sadler 1. At the conclusion of the ninth ballot, several delegates changed their votes, mostly going to Dean for the reason Ewing's fund had been broken in favor of Dean, under the leadership of Magee. Philadelphia, which had been for Henderson, protested against any changes. Secretary Leach was working for Henderson here. Finally the votes of Magee was heard above the noise shouting, "Take Leach away from the tellers." "He's not a member of the convention." Cries of, "Put Leach out," "Throw him out," and yells of all sorts followed and stopped the work of the convention for some time. The chairman put an end to the bad feelings by announcing the tellers were unable to agree and that another ballot must be taken. This resulted, Dean 135, Henderson 127, Ewing 7, Sadler 1, Dean lacking just one of the number necessary to elect. Mr. Ross, who named Henderson, then withdrew him, and the nomination of Dean was made unanimous with a hurrah, bringing to a close one of the most exciting contests for a judicial nomination ever witnessed in a convention in Pennsylvania. After supper Major McDowell and William Little were nominated for Congressmen-at-large. Delegates to the national convention were also selected and the convention adjourned.

A Reception in Herr Most.

NEW YORK, April 20.—There was quite a large audience at the Cooper Institute, the occasion being a reception to Herr Most. Telegrams of congratulation were received from several outside points.

Victoria Elections.

MELBOURNE, April 20.—The results of the elections for the Legislative Assembly are known in 65 out of 95 districts. The figures indicate victory for the government, who gain 39 seats. The opposition won 16 seats and the labor party 10.

The poll was the heaviest ever known here. The members of the ministry were all returned. Roughly estimated the government will have a majority of twelve or nine. Of the thirty-six labor candidates, eleven are elected, of whom only five are workingmen. The opponents of the one man one vote principle largely increased their strength, the returns showing the election of fifty supporters and forty-five opponents of the principle.

A Wholesale Poisoning Case.

PETALUMA, Cal., April 20.—This town is greatly excited over a wholesale poisoning case. Daniel Shaw is dying; his affianced bride, Annie Hinkston, is very ill, as are also her mother, two sisters and aunt. Mrs. Carter. All are suffering from strychnine poisoning, administered by an unknown person. The poison was put in the tea at supper last night. Mr. Shaw and Mrs. Hinkston will hardly die. Realizing his critical condition, Shaw expressed a wish to be married before he died, and the ceremony was performed this afternoon.

VOLCANOES AND EARTHQUAKES.

Facts in Relation to These Violent Effects and Convulsions of Nature.

The subject of the volcanoes are found near, or at more or less very great distance from, the sea, though volcanoes of lesser size and more local influence are found from these to other volcanic activity near to it. For instance, in America we have our volcanoes on the Pacific side, and the Andes, which are the highest in South America and California possesses many volcanoes, and so far north as Alaska so far

BIRTH OF A VOLCANO.

Mount Etna. There are plenty of extinct volcanoes in Europe, in the Mediterranean and about the entire coast, about the Red sea and the Caspian, and even in the central chain of Asia there are volcanoes far from water. The Hecla lies on the other hand, are all volcanoes. Professor Dana's volcanoes are with remarkable regularity, so alleged in the testimony made to show that where volcanoes remain there is perhaps no one but at one time been, or now is, that at least. There are about 300 volcanoes at present in activity. Four in Europe, seven in Iceland and Jan Mayen's land, in Asia, seven more, in Africa, twenty-six, forty-six in North America and the Caribbean Sea, twenty-two in Central America and the Antilles, in South America, thirty-one, and twenty-four islands with volcanic influence largely developed. There must be some more "feedings" of volcanoes are openings or vents which communicate with the molten rock within the earth, and the molten form of volcanoes is owing to the deposits of volcanic matter as it falls from the opening called the center. The volcanic bottle is one hill, and inside the center we find cones within which smoke and emit smoke. These cones within the cone are the points of issue of vapor and smoke, sometimes concentrated, up in a whole. The signs of eruption are much the same, and usually cover a couple of days before the actual outbreak. First smoke appears, perhaps, and the cones of volcanic gases accompanied by earthquakes occur.

New volcanoes are continually in process of formation and from volcanic effusions of ashes frequently give rise to earthquakes, which are the most dangerous of natural convulsions. They are subsidence and central upheaval of the land is still going on, but we are frequently startled by the account of a rupture of the crust or the disappearance of a portion of a city.

EARTHQUAKE FISSURES.

The motion of the earthquake is generally in a direct line and undulating. Sometimes what are termed vertical shocks occur and destroy by sudden collapse. Monsters have been overturned by earthquake shocks, and trees have been twisted around. Sometimes the ground opens into enormous fissures. The sea is blown into great waves and encroaches upon the land, and when the sea recedes the recession of the water is followed by a wave terrible in its sweeping all before it. Earth tremblings often occur far away from volcanoes, and without any visible connection with volcanic action.

Artistic Effects in Metal.

Artistic metal work can be made as permanent as stone in the adornment of decoration of a house or building, says The Builder and Workmaker, at the workers, relative to other elements of architecture with appropriateness and taste in its meaning, and architects and their clients no longer consider the hardware and other metal work of a building as a matter to be left to chance or to the option of the contractor, but well worthy of careful study, the solution of which will have an important bearing on the final result. A great variety of metals are now employed, and an almost equal variety of metals and metal finishes have recently become available. In the proper selection of these, and in the harmonizing of one with the other, there is a large opportunity for the obtaining of beautiful effects.

Hardening Plaster of Paris.

A London exchange calls attention to a process for hardening plaster of paris, making that substance suitable for building purposes, communicated to the French Academy of Science. The plaster is mixed with one-fifth its weight of lime, freshly slacked lime, and used with as little water as possible. After it is thoroughly dry it is treated with a saturated solution of either zinc sulphate or iron sulphate. With the first the hardened plaster remains white, with the second it gradually crystallizes, yields the color of iron rust, which gives a fine imitation of mahogany under the application of linseed oil.

The Snow in India.

India has been described by a European as the paradise of horses, and from his point of view the climate is not unfitting. The natural affinity between horses and Englishmen becomes a closer bond by residence in India, where everybody rides—or ought to ride—where horses are cheap, keep very cheap, and where large costs of stable servants contrasted with a low wage, are capable under careful superintendence, of keeping their animals in a state of luxurious comfort. The horses, however, which serve native masters, are born to purgatory rather than to paradise. Those in the hands of the upper classes suffer from antiquated and barbarous systems of treatment, and are often ridden by novices ignorant or crippled by bad training, while those of low degree are liable to cruel ill usage, overwork, neglect and unrelieved bondage.—John L. Kipling in Popular Science Monthly.

A Deferred Sermon.

So early as James II's time, we read of a country clergyman who electrified his congregation by the statement that it was "for their vices that Providence has afflicted them and their families with that great pestilence which is spreading everywhere in this town." He had objected to read the sermon right through, for he would fain spare them that, this referred to the great plague in London.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR CLOTHING BUYERS.

THE WOOLEN MILLS OF THIS COUNTRY ARE now making better fabrics, made of finer wool, and selling them at Lower Prices than at any time in the last twenty-five years. How can they do this? For the simple reason that in 1890 and 1891 the production of the Australian and Cape of Good Hope wool was enormous, and those two foreign wools have been selling in this country cheaper than ever.

To meet competition in the American market, foreign woolen manufacturers have also had to reduce their prices. All large buyers of woolens understand these facts. It therefore goes without saying that we are able to offer to the public this season SPRING CLOTHING of finer and better fabrics, at lower prices, than ever before.
