

FINANCES SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Last Week There Was Good Progress Made Towards Normal Conditions.

EUROPE IS A GREAT FACTOR.

She Must Have American Products but She May Sell American Securities.

New York, Nov. 10.—The progress of last week was a steady improvement in financial conditions in New York, which was reflected in strong closing quotations in the stock market. When the crisis arrived in New York, American obligations to foreign lenders were at an unusual ebb, the London and Paris money markets having been exercising severe discrimination against American borrowers for several months past. This policy was prompted by the recollection of the troubles precipitated on foreign money markets last fall by heavy American borrowings, attributed by foreign critics to speculative operations in America and which forced upon the latter the payment of the gold loan at the time of the autumnal strain in London and Paris. This year foreign lenders have hesitated to make even the usual advances in anticipation of the export of the merchandise and the consequent loss of the few maturing obligations of American borrowers now falling due to offset the debit accruing for the payment for commodities we are exporting.

BANKS MORE LENTIENT.

The shortage of foreign crops and the low level to which copper supplies in Europe had been allowed to fall have been alternative to the buying of our commodities, and the low level of our securities tempted investment purchases of these also for foreign account. American bankers who have purchased bills of exchange against the exports have their choice of commanding payment in gold and have exercised the choice, but with the engagements of gold already accrued, now rising above $300,000,000, and the effect of relaxation manifest from the supplies already received, New York bankers are beginning to canvass the desirability of more lenient exercise of their control over the gold supplies. The deterioration of foreign markets is keenly manifested and signs are seen of a disposition to meet American actions by free offerings of American securities to the New York market. The reflex action on American affairs that may result from pushing demands for more gold is coming into growing consideration.

CURRENCY REQUIREMENTS.

Interior requirements for currency have continued heavy, and every resource has been sought to meet them and to assist this in the movement of crops and the keeping open of the currents of commercial activity, vital as these processes are to the working out of the situation and the facilitating of liquidation. The success to be obtained in this now commands the almost undivided attention of the financial world. The contraction of credit must work some hardship and damage, but the hope is maintained that this may be limited and conditions placed early on the road to betterment. Increased number and liabilities of failures, fall in prices of commodities and reduction of forces of labor there have also been. The record of failures thus far and the fall in prices of commodities find explanation in over-extension in new enterprises and a price inflation due in some cases to withholding of stocks which must now come to market at a disadvantage.

WEEK BEGAN GLOOMY.

The week began on Monday with a feeling of grave doubt as to the future of the two trust companies which had been subjected to severe runs. The possibility that they might go down and drag with them some of the financial structures which still stood erect kept Mr. Morgan, the trust company's president and other financial leaders in almost continuous suspense until last Sunday morning, and again on Wednesday until 3 o'clock in the morning. When it was finally announced early on Wednesday afternoon by President Morgan of the Lincoln Trust company, acting as chairman of the committee of trust company presidents that the management of the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company were to receive all the assistance they required in return for depositing the majority of their stock in the banks of the committee, the situation cleared, confidence returned and the stock market advanced generally from two to three points. It was felt that the crisis of a general crash in New York was over, and that the waves of the storm would gradually subside.

COMPARATIVE SECURITY.

The restoration of comparative security in New York was obtained only by demands on the markets of Europe which created a tension not before experienced since the war was ended. Indeed the Bank of England, in order to protect its gold resources, raised its discount on Thursday to 7 per cent, a rate which had not been fixed since 1873. The Bank of France raised its rate of discount to 4 per cent, the Bank of Belgium to 6 per cent, and the Bank of Germany, at a special meeting called on Friday, fixed the rate of discount at 7 1/2 per cent. It is not surprising that these precautions were taken to protect European banks against the possibility of a general crisis in New York. The first arrival of the yellow metal came at the critical moment when the trust company situation was uncertain on Tuesday. Then came smaller consignments on Wednesday and on Friday the delivery of $12,561,000 by the Luxurious. The demand for gold from Europe came at a favorable time in some respects for the onward movement of American products of which the leading ones are cotton and wheat. The cotton movement has been a great deal congested by the absence of small bills in the southern banks, but everything possible is being done by the secretary of the treasury and New York bankers to aid the southern banks in meeting the demand. The same is true in regard to the movement of grain, which has thus far been easily handled at Duluth and other northwest points with the aid of western banks than has the cotton movement.

New York bankers are sending forward to the west and south all the currency they can spare, especially in those points wherein the money is most needed. The premium on currency, which rose as high as 3 per cent during the week, though it closed somewhat lower, has had a curious effect upon exchange and the price of United States bonds. It has disturbed the calculations based upon gold prices of exchange and has made it possible to pay a higher price for gold and to acquire bonds as a basis of circulation than if no such premium prevailed.

A GOOD FEATURE.

One of the features of the situation thus far is the small number of failures of national banks compared with the record of 1893. At that time 78 national banks suspended in the single month of July, and 63 additional in June and August, while during the first eight months of 1907 the number of suspensions of state and private banks was 415. In the present crisis the number of national bank suspensions reported does not exceed a dozen, and some of these will reopen.

The week closed with a favorable situation as indicated by the reports of R. G. Dun & Co. The new week opens with the banking situation in New York cleared up so far as any of the further failures or suspensions is concerned, with the banking reserves comparatively intact and with more than $25,000,000 on the ocean to strengthen them during the coming week.

WEEKEND, Mo., Nov. 10.—Charles Kullman, who disappeared on July 5, 1901, and the payment of whose life insurance for $5,000 was contested by the Modern Woodmen of America, on the ground that he was still living, was arrested in Oregon City, Or., Nov. 9, by Insurance Detective Close, and he will return to his home in Benton county, Mo., having waived his right to a trial. Kullman disappeared after starting alone from Holquiam, Wash., and attorneys for his family made numerous trips to Washington and seemed certain that Kullman was dead.

Ehlers and his wife had been estranged for several months. Mrs. Ehlers returned to live with her parents, Ehlers called at the Thomas home and inquired for his wife.
