Miss Rowe's advanced class in Greek is studying the Iliad. Her Latin classes are studying Virgil.

L. D. S. UNIVERSITY.

The lunches last week in the dining room were particularly dainty and the department was well patronized. Every day after the last lunch was taken there were additional applicants, who had to be "sent empty away."

Barratt Hall is to be dedicated on Thursday, Oct. 2, at 2 p. m. A general invitation to attend the services will be extended to the friends of education. The meeting will be conducted by the board of trustees, and members of the First Presidency and of the quorum of the Apostles will honor the occasion with their presence.

The Saturday kindergarten of the Latter-day Saints' university will begin on Nov. 1 and will meet weekly thereafter at 1 p. m. until June, 1903. The course is designed for the training of teachers for our Sunday school kindergarten classes, and is recommended to the Sunday school. This year-school operation and practice in the kindergarten will be important features of the course.

A new 20-line switch-board has been put into the telegraph department of the business college. As the instructor sends the message, the students receive, each taking down with pencil or on the typewriter. The instructor then sends back to the instructor the same message, so that speed and accuracy are cultivated together. The student has a certain station, say Farmington, Centerville, etc., and has charge of the work of that station, filling in the blanks as in a telegraph office, and learning to keep the books of a station.

Several hundred dollars worth of minor pieces of physical apparatus has just been received for the high school and normal classes in physics, and added to the larger machines and apparatus already possessed by the school, will make the physical laboratory a thoroughly practical workshop, in practical demonstration. The physics class number 31 and is the largest in the history of the institution.

The Sunday school kindergarten course consists of two parts: (1) The Saturday class, to be organized on Nov. 1 for teachers who can attend only on Saturdays, and (2) the regular day kindergarten course, with observation and practice in the kindergarten, beginning in November, kindergarten theory from January to June, and Sunday school theory once per week beginning in October. Teachers who desire a complete kindergarten year should enter at once; those who can attend only on Saturdays should enter on Nov. 1.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY

Brigham Young Academy, Provo, Sept. 25.—D. P. Felt of Salt Lake City dropped in to the academy for a short call Wednesday morning.

President Cluff went to Beaver Wednesday evening to attend to the affairs of the branch institution at that place.

Miss Trysa Boyer and Miss Nora Broadbent, former students of the academy, spent Thursday shaking hands with old friends.

The gymnasium classes have now been thoroughly organized with Prof. Swenson and Eugene L. Roberts as instructors. Both classes are large and the members very much interested in the invigorating work.

The normal department is exceptionally large this year, there being already nearly 400 students enrolled.

The excursion to the Provo bench fruit farms last Saturday was a great success. The students visited several of the large farms and were treated well by the superintendents of each. At one place the gentleman in charge gave an interesting and beneficial talk on how to plant and care for trees.

The board of directors of The White and Blue have selected Frank Day as managing editor and Eugene Roberts as local editor of the school paper. These will be assisted by a staff of associates consisting of C. S. Jarvis, to represent the scientific department; Robert Sainsbury, who will attend to the pedagogical, J. W. Young, to take charge of the literary items, and Sytha Brown and Katherine Harvey to assist in the local department. The board also appointed Roy Murdock as business manager and O. W. Jarvis and Robert Townsend as his assistants.

The students met en masse last Saturday evening in college hall and re-organized the Literary society of the academy. As is usually the case at such meetings class patriotism and politics prevailed throughout the election of officers and nominees for the various positions were numerous. The 1902's succeeded in electing R. T. Higgs, Jr., of their class, to the position of president. The '03s came next in order with Miss Dora Murdock as vice president. Then the '04s elected Miss Edie Howe as secretary; and the '05s succeeded in getting Joseph Boregard as treasurer.

After the election of officers, Miss Murdock entertained the members with a reception.

Chester Van Buren, one of the members of the Brigham Young academy exploring expedition through Mexico, Central America and South America, who is still in South America doing missionary work and gathering botanical, zoological and archeological specimens for the B. Y. A., has been released, but writes the academy board that he would like to remain in that interesting country to acquire more information in the scientific line. Although he has been out for over two years he is not satisfied and desires to stay nine months more.

Mrs. Ida Smoot Dusenbury entertained her kindergarten training class and the teachers in the normal training school last Friday evening.

A very interesting guessing game occupied the first part of the evening, at which Mrs. Anna Nuttal won the prize. Delicious refreshments were served. Then kindergarten games were played until the clock announced the hour for the "good-bye" song. Those present were: Mrs. Ella Larson, Edith Walsh, Susa Talmage, Mary Duke, Jennie Teasdale, Anna Nuttal, Berte Walsh, Pearl Swift, Josephine Murdock, Geneva Day, Phoebe Daybell, Dora Murdock, Nellie Clyde, Florence Fisher, Emma Giles and the Misses Schram, Cook and Ballard.

The room known as Preparatory Hall has been re-arranged and is used now entirely for devotional work and Sabbath meetings. The preparatory department having moved into the north room of the same building.

There are now nearly 60 students enrolled as first year normals.

Prof. Cluff will deliver a lecture before the members of the Polysophical society on Friday evening.

The athletic association has been organized with Ernest Hamock as president and Lorin Hall secretary and preparations are being made for effective work in this direction the coming year.

Prof. Maeser entertained Polysophical society last Friday evening with a talk on "Chinatown" and during the evening three vocal selections were rendered by Prof. Durham.

Class organizations have been effected and everything now points to a very prosperous year.

BRANCH NORMAL.

Cedar City—From present indications the Branch Normal is to have a considerably greater attendance this year than ever before. About 150 students are now registered.

The domestic science classes are already fully organized. This department seems to be filling a long felt want from the way students are registering for it.

Conventions were held by the school and the various classes Monday afternoon at which nominations for the offices in the school city were made. The election is to take place Friday next.

The Students society began work last Friday evening by electing officers for the ensuing term and carrying on the following program:

Piano solo O. C. Anderson
Address Howard R. Davies
Recitation Miss Spencer
Solo, "Forgotten" Mrs. H. R. Briggs
Address Principal Porter
Piano solo Miss Sadie Jones

BEAVER BRANCH B. Y. A.

The work in all departments of the school is progressing very satisfactorily and new students are coming in almost daily.

The enrollment has now reached and passed the 150 mark with prospects of this number being greatly increased within the next two weeks.

A missionary course is offered this year for the first time in the history of the school to begin Oct. 5 and already a number of applicants for this work have made known their intention of entering same.

The room known as Preparatory Hall has been re-arranged and is used now entirely for devotional work and Sabbath meetings. The preparatory department having moved into the north room of the same building.
