FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Treatment of the Elders Who Are Laboring There.

COVEN, West Virginia,
January 11, 1895.

Editor Deseret News:

Perhaps a few lines of our travels in this region would interest your readers. It is three months today since Brother J. C. Allen, of Cache county, left his home for a mission in the Northern States. The weather here is very changeable; we have had about twenty inches of snow, but last Saturday night a rain took it all off. We can say that we enjoy ourselves in our labors in spreading the truth of the everlasting Gospel; but we have received in these two days. We have held a great many meetings in West Virginia and receive very good treatment from the people. We can praise them for their hospitality towards us.

Perhaps a little circumstance which occurred last Sunday would be interesting. We obtained the school house in Coen Run, and we gave out the appointment to hold meeting at 10 o'clock a. m. When the time arrived for meeting the water was so very high in the creek, and it was raining so, we felt the people would not come, but what we the servants of God were meeting. The congregation was called to order and after the opening exercises a sermon was delivered on the first principles of the Gospel and the organization of the Church with Baptism for remission of sins. The congregation gave very good attention to what has been said and when meeting was brought to a close friends were waiting to invite us to go with them. A gentleman by the name of Hunt gave us the first invitation to go home with him, which we accepted. After we got to Mr. Hunt's house and had found a very comfortable place, a crowd of men came in the room where we were and all took a seat. They were waiting for one of them to open up some quiet talk to appear as in what we had been speaking on in meeting, and after a few minutes one rose by the name of Shook spoke up and said he would like to see us take a cup of potato tea; it would nourish. He said he wanted a sign. We explained to him that the signs were not given to convince the unbeliever, but they would follow the true believer. He kept on saying he wanted a sign. We told him what the Savior said about those that sought for a sign, and then he started on other things and said he did not believe the things we had spoken on in our meeting. We showed him by the Scriptures that if he ever got in the kingdom of God he would have to comply with the ordinances laid down by our Savior and His Apostles. He then angry with that and said he wanted to get five dollars with us that he would not have to comply with the ordinances laid down by the Apostles, and he would prove it to us after the resurrection. He said he did not believe any of the Apostles' writings, that the epistle which Paul wrote to the different church was no more than he could do, and our opponent Shook said all he believed was what God wrote with his own hand on the tables of stone. We asked him where the tables of stone were and he said in the Bible. We asked him how they got in the Bible and he could not tell us. We then showed him that all the evidence; he had, that Moses received the tables of stone was some of the Prophets' writings, and we also showed him that we had to take the word of the Apostles that Christ ever was upon the earth, and Mr. Shook gave it up. Our little talk was interesting for those that were listening, and they returned home. We could feel to ask God to forgive Mr. Shook for the opposition he manifested. Mr. Hunt treated us with kindness and we can ask God to bless the friends for their kindness towards us. Last night we held another meeting on the same creek and at meeting time it was raining very hard, but we had a large congregation and very good attention, and the good spirit of God was manifest to our labors. After meeting closed Mr. Johnson invited us home with him, and he took us to a comfortable home. After we arrived there we had a nice talk with him on the Gospel. May the blessings of God be with all the Latter-day Saints.

Yours respectfully,

R. A. PEEKES,
J. C. ALLEN.

OBITUARY NOTE.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

BROUSSARD, Jan. 16, 1895.—Julius Alfred Boundey died at the parental home in Brousard, Bexar county, on Monday, January 14, 1895, at 9 a.m. He was the son of Theodore and Mary E. Boundey; was born at Brousard, December 20, 1876, while his father was on a mission to Switzerland and Germany. Last September he entered as student the B. Y. Academy, and became a fellow student of that institution, which he loved very much.

On December 21 he resolved home to spend the holidays, and whom a little indisposed, enjoyed himself greatly among his many friends, and on Monday, December 31 he here his testimony for the first time in public meeting. Having previously been ordained a Deacon he was that day ordained a Teacher. He was one of New Year's eve, while attending a social party. The malady which attacked him was nervous prostration. From the very beginning of his sickness he was in complete possession of his reason; he recognized his mother, claiming that he was wanted on the other side. He manifested good faith in the administration of the Elders and in the power of prayer, and thus was perfectly willing to submit to the summons from the other world. He was a kind and dutiful son and brother, with a loving disposition which won for him many kind friends among young and old. His death is a great blow to his father and relatives, who have the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, Jan. 16th, at noon. The services were held in the meeting house.
