CHIN DISCHARGED.

The Chinaman Arrested For Cutting George Smith, Set at Liberty.

INSUFFICIENCY OF EVIDENCE.

He Is Shifty as the Only Party Could Not Be Found to Prove it—Smith Improving.

Ah Chin, the Chinese boy who was arrested Thursday evening, a week ago, on suspicion of being the party who stabbed George Smith, a son of John T. Smith, was tried before Justice Wenger this morning and discharged, the evidence adduced being deemed insufficient and altogether too indefinite to warrant the holding of the defendant on so serious a charge.

The trial proper commenced this afternoon, when Justice Wenger together with Assistant County Attorney Eichner, Attorney J. M. Hamilton for the defense and Chin were driven to the house of the injured boy, to being deemed in too weak a condition to give evidence at the court room. Having to be so early proceeding, Young Smith identified Chin as the man who assaulted him, but when closely questioned, he had to admit that he was not absolutely positive as to whether Chin was the guilty party or not.

The case was called up in the police court this morning and witnesses for the prosecution were placed on the stand. They were James Arbuckle, Edward Fleming and Nathan A. Lovell, the three boys who were in company with George Smith when he was so savagely attacked. All three identified the face in the case up to the time of the cutting and when asked whether or not Chin was the guilty party they affirmed that he was, although upon cross-examination they would not stand positive as to Chin being the man.

The officers placed on the stand proved Chinamen who were in company with the defendant on the Tuesday night in question and all testified that he was not a Chinaman who frequented Pom alley, from 3 to 4 o'clock that evening. The counsel was nonsuited at 10:30, due mainly to the fact that there was no clue as to Chin's guilt.

The defendant himself testified that he was 20 years of age and had been in this country between five and six years and in this city about four years. At the time of his arrest he was employed as cook at the residence of Judge Marshall and was on his way to the Marshall residence when arrested by one of the police officers. During the giving of his testimony, Eichner asked Chin through an interpreter if he knew what would become of him in the hereafter, if he told a lie in the witness stand. To this the only reply that could be elicited was that he believed it would be hell for him, if he told the truth, and that he would be hell. As to the question he knew nothing of it.

At the conclusion of the testimony the case was submitted with all argument, and Justice Wenger announced the defendant's discharge owing to insufficiency of evidence upon which to hold him. Chin passed out of the court room amid the handshakes and congratulations of his friends.

PREACHING IN SACRAMENTO.

The Corps Here Manifest Little Interest in the Corps I.

1315 SEVENTH ST., SACRAMENTO, CAL., Sept. 25, 1891.

To the Editor:

Elder Charles Brown of Murray, Utah, and I left San Francisco, while in jail, refreshing some tired souls and cause to Sacramento, where the tent is now erected and we have had from 80 to 140 in attendance in the shade. Elders B. W. Henderson and Justin Lovelace met us at the station and entered in with our baggage, to accompany a room rented by Elders T. P. Tram and W. S. Woodland, who were called to labor in Lorrida.

After a few days we became somewhat acquainted and began in a new part of the city to distribute our cards and tracts. As a rule we find the people courteous and generally willing to accept our tracts and ready to promise to attend our services. Certainly there are exceptions to all rules, but we seldom meet with cold receptions and have our tracts handed back when we call the second time, unread. And in vain do we look in the church for the people who do promise.

Time for us have not succeeded in getting more than six or eight outside the members of the church to attend our meetings. We are sowing the Gospel seed but know not how much will bring forth fruit.

President Tanner and Elder Willard Somerhalder and wife have been here since the first of September helping a series of special services. We had 5,000 papers printed, giving the dates of subjects, time and speaker for each meeting, and aimed to place one at every door in the city to acquaint the people, to let them know that the Gospel of our Lord and Savior was being preached here, and to invite them to the feast. "Well," says one, "you certainly would have large congregations, considering that the tent was being held, so that there was thousands of people in the city." We not more than thirty-five or forty at any of the special meetings. Whatever, however, in getting the fire to persuade a congress of four or three sermons and the Reorganizers three others. By this means the Utah is brought to thousands that would otherwise never have heard a word, so there are many who will neither adopt nor let their friends to hear our message or attend our meetings. The Herald Pool gave to the Saints 19 cents; 1214 is very applicable in our city.

President H. S. Tanner, and Brother Somerhalder and wife accompany us in our work of the state to hold special meetings. Sister Somerhalder furnishes music and the three sing a very good item or two for singing is concerned. And as to preaching, Bro. Tanner has five years' experience and Bro. Somerhalder, we are not qualified to teach the Gospel of Christ.

At present we have twenty-seven Saints in this city, three of whom came their views with them. There is plenty of room for us to be harmonious, so that we have to refuse reproaches, as the Elders pay for everything they get, but the sin, excepting when they are invited to dine with the family.

The laborers in the northern part of the state, meet at San Francisco, Oct. 4th, for our conference.

We are expecting some changes and some of the first in the field have actually dreamed of eating Thanksgiving dinner at home in Utah. I remain your brother, ALVA N. MYRDOCK.

Faithful in Two Bids.

A peculiar story of intuitive perception of approaching death comes from Selma, Ala. One evening of last week Guy Wright, a child 12 years old, told her mother and friends that she had but one night more to live and gave directions of her burial. The girl had been incapacitated for several days, but does not appear to have been seriously ill. Early neither took the child to sleep with her that night.

At 6 o'clock the following morning the mother, made aware, by dream, of her daughter's strange premonitory awake, but found her to be sleeping quietly. An hour later the mother awoke again and found the child dead.—Buffalo Express.

Kind Treatment in Montana.

FLORENCE, MONTANA, Sept. 24, 1891.

To the Editor:

As we are laboring in a very peculiar field as missionaries, we thought a few items from here might be of interest to your many readers.

We presume it is generally known that this is a new field so far as missionary work is concerned. I speaks of course, concerning the Latter-day Saints. Several (our twenty in all) Elders have been called to labor here and are being sent into the field by our worthy president, T. E. Ricks, so last so we can place them.

We feel safe in predicting that a powerful work will be done here, by way of working generally, and when our conditions are not realized in the particular, we are at least working to come. We find in this field a great number of the "Disciples of Christ," or more commonly known as "Campbellites," who quite a number of our converts in Jackson County, Missouri, were members. We believe treated us very hospitably.

On Sunday, the 20th, at 11 a. m., a Mr. Hardy, a Methodist leader, delivered a discourse on the Resurrection, and at 2 p. m. the same day Elder F. M. Brammell explained the views of the Latter-day Saints on the same subject, by special request. The Methodists and Disciples expect for us and know as the law of God, church is often as we desire to hold meetings.

Notes.

Tuesday evening a happy throng of people assembled at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Tait. The occasion was a farewell social to honor of Elder Elias A. Geo., a young man for many years employed in the Press Room, now under the management of Mr. Tait, representing Z. C. M. I. Mr. Geo. leaves on the 5th to be a missionary to the Southern States and Mexico. It is the pleasant social evening spent by associates in the store and in the Press Rooms in Z. C. M. I. connection, with a new gem or a memento of their esteem and kindly interest in his welfare.

The fifth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will commence in the city on Friday evening, October 2nd, and continue through Saturday and Sunday. The service will be held in the Baptist church, the Methodist church and the Tabernacle. An excellent program has been prepared and an interesting and profitable time is expected. All citizens are invited to attend.

A very pleasant time was spent at the Brigham Young seminary last evening. A reception was given by the teachers to the students; many fine musical selections were rendered and the school of learning called separated and making the students feel they are among friends, who took an interest in their welfare in every respect was fully accomplished.

Bonnegil, the famous violinist, appears in the Tabernacle Saturday, the 3rd, and will see Miss Florence Mills, soprano, and Miss Carrie Jacob Bonds, who plays. The concert will be under the auspices of the Musical Society and will commence early in the evening.

THE BOTTLING FRUITS.

AS FOR AND CONTAIN WAY OF PRESERVING FRUITS THROUGH THE WINTER.

A good wood cutting fruits. Every housekeeper has accumulated bottles. They would always be closed before the cold come away, says the Philadelphia Times. Take the who assembled into the bottle that on stones and the [illegible] for cutting and tomatoes. Place a wad of one pound of sealing, wax under or between, and two of wood to wholesomely melted together. When you want to put up fruit put the bottles, easily opened, in a bottle of cold water, and set it over the fire, so that the right side sealing is made. Put four jackets and put them in a preserving kettle without water, and warm them briskly, letting them the bottom to prevent them turning from the juice to make them too hard. While the bottles are in the bottle fill them with the juice, let them have been taken through, and the peaches with the liquor up to the top, let the cork in, dip it in the wax, and then dip it dry water or tea, bottles, it with a knife. This is an easy and safe way of keeping fruits for the months are usually followed. Hesitation, hesitation and slack. Lester Hall fall only for months. Tomatoes must be sliced and better [illegible] stamps, then sealed the cork a cobbler, to remove the skins, to boiled in the bottle and bottles to work, and the bottles filled when cold, dried and sealed as the fruits. Keep them in a cool, dry place. If you are the true place there is only water or water. Now, have a wide-mouthed bottles, preferable bottle, some fruit, put and so forth.
