FOUND DEAD IN A CHAIR

Night Clerk H. S. Lee of the Collins Hotel Dies of Apoplexy.

DISCOVERED SITTING UP AS IN LIFE.

Porter Willis Thought the Unfortunate Man Was Asleep, but Discovered that Life Had Fled.

About 1:00 o'clock this morning, H. S. Lee, night clerk at the Collins hotel, went into the south room, ostensibly to get a drink of water, and a short time afterwards he was found sitting in the hatchback chair, cold as ice.

Having occasion to go into the room from West Point Willis saw Mr. Lee sitting very naturally in the hatchback chair, and apparently asleep. Going to awaken him, Willis was horrified to find the old gentleman dead. He immediately gave the alarm, and upon physical examination, the cause of death was pronounced to have been apoplexy.

Mr. Lee was 61 years old and has a son in Salt Lake, Mr. H. A. Lee, who is cashier of the First National bank in this city. He has a brother in Concord, whether the remains are to be interred here or will be shipped to Memphis, Tennessee, is not known. He is a Mason, but inquiry was made here without satisfactory answer.

Mr. Lee was a man of fine appearance, across his shoulders he wore a very secure mantle. The death was evidently sudden and painless, and his friends will be pleased to hear of his sudden demise.

WILL GO SENT BACK.

Lehi, on account of the heat from the sun, as a lunatic this afternoon, asking that the body be embalmed and placed in a metal casket. The relatives, either will proceed to Lehi on Thursday. It was also requested that the body be placed in a metal casket, which indicates that it is the intention to ship the body east.

Railway Accidents.

Jeff Beech, an engineer on the Rio Grande Western, yesterday fell from his engine at a point about a mile and a half east of Ravenah, and received injuries which resulted in his death shortly afterwards. The accident occurred while the train was in motion. The body will be sent to Grand Junction for burial.

The body of an unknown man was found yesterday at Nine Mile, Utah, and was brought to this city on the Rio Grande Western. His identity has not been established, but he was about thirty years of age, and had on his shoes which bore the marks of a well-known maker of high grade, a brown coat and a pair of blue overall, with new shoes of medium weight, and a chest braided clear hat. He was evidently a laborer looking for work, and he was clean and his clothing was neat while clean. A white linen handkerchief and a watch were the only things he carried. His body was taken to Price to train No. 19 at 9:15 yesterday morning, and was still warm when it arrived.

WATERWORKS WATER.

To the Editor:

The express agent said it is sufficient generally to raise the city's supply of water to two inches. At second thoughts it occurs to me that the authorities are in misunderstanding all who reside in Ogdenites relative to the use of water. Failure to reside in Ogden and acquaintance to work in Ogden do not the charge are that residence will reside in Ogden, and consequently, the water supply, and there is no much water to waste.

A year ago I left my home and lodging, for, against water or water, but against the office and power authority, and I was not sorry. Now I am back, and I find the water supply is not sufficient. This is not to complain, but to call attention to the fact that the city is not prepared for the water supply. Here are the facts: The city of Fort Harris, Texas, has a population of 3,000, and is supplied with water from a system of 3, capable of supplying 3,000 people. Ogden has a population of 15,000, and is supplied with water from a system of 2 inches. I have lived and I have seen the water in the tank, a distance of the water of Ogden. Next year, I will be in Ogden.

Let me, as in the meantime, ask the use of water and the effects of the water, and the effects of the water. I chose that it is one of the best and fill to account. Ogden is small and fill to account. Ogden is small and fill to account. Ogden is small
