Last Night's Dispatches.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Blue Book, &c.—Senate Adjourns.

A bill to provide for printing a biennial blue book was reported and passed. In the course of the discussion on the bill Sargent said he had learned that since the abolition of the franking privilege a hundred thousand dollars had been expended by the government for scales to weigh mailable matter, and he said the cost to the government to send documents over the country was greater than before the franking privilege was abolished.

Sherman said he would vote against printing every public document unless some means could be adopted to distribute them.

The House bill repealing the salary act of March, 1873, was taken up, read a second time and referred to the committee on the civil service and retrenchment.

The morning hour expiring the resolution of the finance committee was taken up.

Boutwell was opposed either to the contraction or expansion of the currency at the minimum established by law, and favored waiting for the development of the resources of the country.

Howe opposed the expansion of what might be termed our broken promises as little better than a crime.

Morton argued that this was no time to return to specie payments, but the faith of the government was pledged for the redemption of the greenbacks, it would be done when practicable, as it had not been since the war.

Sumner, interrupting, asked if we had not paid a large amount of the public debt in coin since the war, to which Morton replied in the affirmative, but he insisted that we had never gold enough on hand at one time to authorize a redemption of greenbacks.

Sumner asked if the issuing of greenbacks was not a war measure, and if it should not have stopped with the war.

Morton agreed that it ought, but though the war had ceased its consequences were still upon us. One of those consequences was the inability of the government to redeem these notes. He favored a return to specie payments when the condition of the country would permit it, but he insisted that a time of panic was no time for such resumption. He favored a small addition to the volume of the currency as the true remedy for the present troubles.

At 3 p. m. the Senate went into executive session. At 5 p. m. the doors were re-opened and a resolution to adjourn over the holidays was received from the house.

Edmunds objected to its consideration, but the chairman over-ruled the objection, as the resolution was a joint one. Several motions to adjourn were then made and defeated, but after some further filibustering the motion to adjourn was finally carried, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Personal Explanation.

Hale of N. Y. made a long personal explanation of his connection, as agent and counsel of the U. S. before the British and American mixed commission, apropos of the amendment offered to the salary bill by Wilson, of Ind., yesterday, providing for deducting from the payment of members the amount of any compensation or fees received as counsel or agent of the U. S., and which resolution Hale said was meant as a personal insult, and he took it as such.

Hale, of New York, accused Butler of Mass., and Eldridge of Wis., of getting Wilson to propose the amendment, a statement which Eldridge, Butler and Wilson severally flatly denied. Hale recited the statement and said he could give the name of his informant. He then proceeded to make an exceedingly severe personal attack upon Wilson, of Ind., charging him with complicity in the salary grab of last Congress, and with trying to cover up his offence by attacking others, likening him to a cur who has wallowed in the puddle and then seeks to rub the filth off upon decent people.

Wilson obtained unanimous consent to reply to Hale, and began by saying that the House had just had a very fine specimen of a dirty dog, (applause) which the Speaker reproved. He then defended his record on the salary bill in last Congress, and his action in offering the amendment yesterday, and said, that while Hale had charged the members of last Congress with having enacted the salary bill by trick, subterfuge and evasion, he (Hale) had been drawing a salary of $10,000 a year as agent of the government, and drawing his pay as congressman also, the law by which he had done it having been taken from the Speaker's table in the last hours of Congress and passed without a word of explanation.

Eldridge made a reply to Hale, adopting that gentleman's language and logic, and Butler closed the controversy with a characteristic speech, in which, while praising Hale's ability, and asserting that the double pay he received was none too great, he questioned the propriety of his being so severe on those who only got their salary.

Kelly offered the following resolution, which was adopted, that the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to furnish the House with a statement of the total amount of money received on temporary loans under the acts of February 25, March 17, and July 16, 1862, and the act of June 30, 1864, stating, specifically, the largest amount on deposit, under each act, at any time, the rate of interest thereon, together with the amount of said certificates presented for payment, exclusive of the exchange for other securities in each month while said certificates were outstanding; also whether any of the said certificates, and if so what amount, were paid and redeemed out of the redemption fund of fifty millions authorized by said acts to be held by the secretary for the prompt payment of said loans.

Hooper introduced a bill authorizing the issue of certificates for the net coinage value of the gold bullion deposited at the mints and assay offices; referred.

Garfield, from the committee on appropriations, reported back the Senate amendment to the bill, making appropriations for the extraordinary expenses of the naval service, increasing the amount from four to five millions; the amendment was concurred in.

A report from the committee on rules was submitted, proposing to amend the rules so that it will not be in order to have a vote by yeas and nays on a motion to suspend the rules, unless a majority of the House second the motion, as in the case of seconding the previous question. Much opposition was made to it on the Democratic side of the House, and after a long discussion the rule was recommitted.

Dawes offered a concurrent resolution for adjournment over the holidays from to-morrow till Monday the 5th of January; adopted.

A resolution to print 20,000 copies each of the agricultural reports of 1872 and 1873 gave rise to a discussion, involving the question of the renewal of the franking privilege, and the reduction of the expenses for printing the public documents; the resolution was agreed to.

Dawes introduced a postal telegraph bill, which was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Orr offered a resolution, instructing the Secretary of the Interior to certify no lands to any railroad company when such lands are claimed under the homestead or pre-emption laws, and to take no further action in any such case till the whole subject can be investigated, and some general action is taken by Congress; referred.

Butler, of Mass., from the judiciary committee, reported a supplementary civil rights bill. It provides for a fine of not less than one hundred or more than five thousand dollars for any distinction made against persons on account of color, in hotels, saloons, public conveyances, cemeteries, public schools or benevolent associations. He gave notice that he would call the bill up to-morrow. Adjourned.

EASTERN.

Evangelical Alliance Collection.

NEW YORK, 18.—The collection at the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance, on Sunday evening, for the families of Professors Proulor and Carrasco, lost on the Ville de Havre, amounted to nearly a thousand dollars.

Failed.

Wight and Tellinghast, dry goods commission merchants, notified their creditors to-day of their inability to meet their maturing obligations; the suspension is caused by loss of credit occasioned by the failure of A. W. Sprague & Co., of Providence, W. Sprague, of the latter firm being a special partner in the firm of Wight and Tellinghast.

Funeral of Agassiz.

BOSTON, 18.—The funeral of Agassiz took place from Appleton chapel, Harvard, which was profusely decorated with funeral emblems and flowers, a tribute of respect from the students. The services were extremely simple. They began with chanting a selection from Cherubini's Requiem Mass, by the Harvard Glee Club, and the burial service from King chapel. The Liturgy was then read by Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody, preacher of the University, and was immediately followed by the singing of the hymn "Go to the Grave." As the body was removed the Dead March in Saul was performed on the organ. A long cortege followed to the burial place, in Mount Auburn Cemetery. The church was densely crowded, and many were unable to gain admittance. Among those present were Vice President Wilson, Governor Washburn, Ex-Governor Claflin, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Ralph Waldo Emerson, R. L. Reed, and a large number of other distinguished persons. The church bells in Boston and Cambridge were tolled and flags were at half mast during the funeral.

Pardon for Navy Deserters—Bill Signed—"Resurrectionists" Punished.

WASHINGTON, 18.—A full pardon and restoration to duty is promised deserters from the Navy who shall surrender by the first of February next.

The President has signed the bill for the redemption of the loan of 1858, and the Secretary of the Treasury is changing such bonds to the new five per-cents.

Geo. A. Christian, late clerk of the Surgeon General's office, and Charles Green, both convicted on a charge of disinterring dead bodies and selling them, were, to-day, sentenced to eleven years imprisonment and to a fine of one thousand dollars.

Hale, of New York, accused Butler of Mass., and Eldridge of Wis., of getting Wilson to propose the amendment, a statement which Eldridge, Butler and Wilson severally flatly denied. Hale recited the statement and said he could give the name of his informant. He then proceeded to make an exceedingly severe personal attack upon Wilson, of Ind., charging him with complicity in the salary grab of last Congress, and with trying to cover up his offence by attacking others, likening him to a cur who has wallowed in the puddle and then seeks to rub the filth off upon decent people.

No Progress—A Public Park.

The House Military Committee have made no progress in the case of General Howard; they are waiting to hear the Secretary of War, who made charges affecting his integrity.

The officers of the Engineering Bureau, are reported to be in favor of deducting the Island of Mackinoe to the public use as a park.

Dead.

RALEIGH, N. C., 18.—Ex-Congressman, Hon. W. N. Edwards, died to-day, aged eighty.

Annual Meeting.

RICHMOND, Va., 18.—The annual meeting of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad was held here to-day; the old directors were re-elected.

CANADA.

Failed.

TORONTO, 18.—Wm. Hamilton & Sons, proprietors of the St. Lawrence foundry in this city, have failed; their liabilities exceed $200,000.

WEST INDIES.

The "Virginius" Investigation.

HAVANA, 18.—It is reported that the Virginius will be taken to Washington, where the investigation into her right to carry the American flag will be held.

FOREIGN.

SPAIN.

Magazine Explosion.

MADRID, 18.—The bombardment of Carthagena continued all day. There was a terrible magazine explosion within the insurgent lines to-day. General Dominquez offers pardon to all who will surrender. The insurgents are able still to obtain provisions, but their ammunition is failing.

The news of U. S. Marshal Morris' removal gives universal satisfaction in this community. His brutal conduct in causing the saloon of the ship Sunrise—who were held in custody merely as witnesses—to be marched through the streets ironed like convicted felons, aroused a storm of popular indignation which could not have been appeased except by his removal from office. For this good result we have to thank, in a great measure, Attorney-General Williams, who prosecuted the inquiry into the facts and urged the punishment of the offender. Edward S. Marcellus, recommended as Morris' successor, is highly spoken of as one likely to prove a good officer.—S. F. Chronicle, Dec. 12.

Several "full grown" people in Trinity county, Cal., are afflicted with the whooping cough, and whoop and bark just as naturally as the little folks.
