BEFORE TWO JUDGES.

Chief Justice Merritt Granted Two More Divorces This Morning.

A WIFE WHO WOULDN'T STAY.

Condemnation Suit—Various Short Orders Made—Judge Hatch's Division.

Chief Justice Merritt sat this morning for about an hour as a Third district court, for the purpose of hearing sundry formal motions. Prior to taking up these his honor listened to the testimony in a couple of divorce cases, in one of which the unusual spectacle on the witness stand was presented.

NO REASON ASSIGNED.

The first divorce matter was that of Ella A. Fowler vs E. H. Fowler, and the ground on which the complaint was based was desertion.

According to the witness of the plaintiff, a fairylike, fashionably dressed person apparently about 30 years of age, the marriage took place at Osawatomie, Osage county, Kansas, in June, 1887. Her husband abandoned her in September, 1892, without giving any reason and has not since returned. Mrs. Fowler has resided in Salt Lake for the last four years, and is now living with an aunt.

The case went by default, Attorney D. C. Eichner stating that the defendant, who was now in Vermont, desired to withdraw the extended time allowed for answering.

The plaintiff's attorney was D. N. Bishop, and he did not ask for alimony or costs.

Judge Merritt, after hearing corroborative evidence as to the assertion, granted the decree as prayed.

NOT PREVAILED UPON.

Alex. Winter vs Martha E. Winter was the title of the second divorce suit, the ground of complaint here being desertion. Attorney Krueger appeared for the plaintiff. This case also went by default.

The marriage took place at Chicago, Ills., in March, 1884, and for some time afterwards the parties resided together, in South Omaha, being desirous to remove to Rawlins, the plaintiff suggested this to his wife, but she declined to go there, remarking significantly that she "would not have time enough to stay in the United States to do that." She preferred, it seems, to return to Sweden, her native place. Plaintiff eventually went to Rawlins himself, and sent his wife money to come on to him, but she wrote that there was no need for his sending any more money, neither did she want any more of his letters. Winter added that when he went over afterwards to South Omaha he "found the doors open, the furniture gone and his wife gone too!"

A witness named J. M. Wiggins said that just prior to the parties separating Mrs. Winter told him that she did not intend to live any longer with her husband, that she did not like him and meant to return to Sweden.

Judge Merritt, on this evidence, acceded to the prayer of the petitioner, who left the courtroom smiling.

APPOINTED REFEREE.

In the case of M. Bush vs R. C. Watt, Judge J. M. Bowman was appointed referee, and the gentlemen have been cited to appear before him.

BY DEFAULT.

Carey Lombard Lumber Co. vs W. H. McClure; default and judgment.

DEATH OF PLAINTIFF.

Caroline McLoughlin vs Park City bank. Owing to the death of the plaintiff, an order was granted removing the case, with the appointment of Edwd McLoughlin as administrator.

An order was also entered allowing M. M. Cole to bring suit against the defendant bank.

John H. Ingram vs A. M. Janes et al. Order of publication upon affidavit.

NOTICE TO DISREGARD.

Oliver Ames et al vs the Union Pacific Railway Co. An order was made for the receivers to disregard the garnishments of justices, etc., course except when specially ordered by the court.

Central Trust Company of New York vs Utah Central Railway Co. Same order as above.

DEFAULT AND JUDGMENT.

Edward Stevenson vs William Dinsdale and Lewis M. Cannon et al. Default by defendant Dinsdale on cross complaint of defendant Cannon and judgment thereon.

LET THE TIME GO BY.

In the case of C. W. Nauss vs C. L. Johnson, Plaintiff having failed to amend his complaint within the prescribed time, an order of dismissal was entered.

DEFAULT AND JUDGMENT.

W. H. Irvine vs C. W. Aldrich et al. Default of defendant W. H. Howe and judgment. Attorney's fee of $25 allowed.

ACCOUNTS ALLOWED.

The accounts of U. S. Commissioner Norrell were allowed.

A NEW CITIZEN.

George Parsons, an Englishman, now of Utah county, was admitted to citizenship.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

Salt Lake City vs C. E. Allen. This is the case in which condemnation proceedings were instituted last Thursday against the Crocker estate, C. E. Allen, administrator, for the condemnation of the land for the gravity sewer outlet. The tract contains about seventy-five acres and the price to be agreed upon by the representatives of the estate and the City Council is $75 per acre.

An order was entered appointing Judge McDowall guardian ad litem of the minor defendants, on petition. Judgment and decree was then entered for the plaintiffs.

The Other Division.

Judge Hatch held court for exactly an hour and a half, and the following cases were brought under his notice:

Wm. A. Cooper vs the D. & R. G. Ry. Co. Motion for a new trial argued and submitted.

Alex Bogute vs J. W. Donnellan. Hearing on order to show cause continued till Aug. 15th, by mutual consent.

B. K. Bloch & Co. vs M. Lowenfels. Hearing on motion to dissolve attachment set for Aug. 6th.

The Albany Co. National Bank vs Wm. C. Wilson Jr. Default and judgment. Attorney's fee $10 allowed.

Ten accounts of U. S. District Attorney Jacob for the quarter ending June 30th were allowed.

P. P. Mason vs Maggie H. Thompson. Motion to set aside judgment in favor of the Utah Manufacturing company against James Thomson et al argued and submitted.

THE UTAH COMMISSION.

The List of Deputy Registrars Was Again Tackled This Afternoon.

Much Time Devoted to Drafting Instructions to County Registrars, to be Issued Next Week.

The Utah Commission met this morning at 11 o'clock—all the members being present—and devoted considerable time to discussing and roughly drafting a list of instructions for the guidance of county registrars at the ensuing fall election. These will not be concluded and handed to the press for publication, however, until about the middle of next week.

DEPUTY REGISTRARS.

The Commission convened again this afternoon and appointed more deputy registrars, the following counties being supplied.
