ONWARD AND UPWARD.

BY MURIEL, BRIGH.

"The hopes and dreams of my life have all faded. What have I to live for but death? Nay, despair not, for surely God hath not taken all. Remember, midnight comes before morning."

Live to be happy,
Live to do good,
Live to bless others,
To the hungry give food.
Life has its roses
And many a thorn;
It has sorrows untold,
And blisses unborn.

Though the clouds should envelop
Our souls in despair,
Still the world is as bright
And the Heaven as fair.

The song of winged minstrels,
The birds and sweet flowers,
Tinge life with bright rainbows
And roseate hours.

The bright river reflects
Lights and shadows above,
Faded leaves and bright buds,
Or the serpent and dove.
In the gloom of the night,
In the sunshine of day,
Still onward, still onward,
It rolls on its way.
So life has its brightness,
Interspersed with dark hours,
Its shadows, its sunshines,
Its thorns and its flowers.

But let not its splendor
Our progress delay,
Or its darkness affright us
From the bright way.

But onward and upward,
Oh, may our lives be,
Till our souls we shall bathe
In eternity's sea.

Wool.

BOSTON, 23.—The market for wool is quiet, but the prices are well sustained, and if there is not much pressure to buy on the part of manufacturers there is certainly as little disposition on the part of the holders to urge sales. Any desirable lots offered at a concession would be sure to be looked upon favorably by dealers, whose stocks are already broken. Combing and delaine selections continue to be taken as fast as offered; sales are readily made, firm, with a fair demand and a light stock. Lambs' wool is coming forward more freely, and prices range from 47 @ 50, and good super. and x 50 @ 55, with very choice lots of super. at an advance on the latter rate. In California wool there is a fair business doing, and sales at prices ranging from 30 @ 38 for medium and good lots of Spring and 40 @ 43 for choice.

Cotton Manufactures to be Curtailed.

The representatives of the manufacturing corporations, having their headquarters at Boston, to-day, voted that the production of the cotton mills of New England should be reduced at least one third, until the proper relation between the cost of production and the market value of goods is established and the true relations of supply and demand adjusted. A committee was appointed to recommend means by which this result may be attained.

To Run on Short Time.

A Fall River special says the mill owners, to-day, voted it expedient to join manufacturers elsewhere in running short time.

Speech by Conkling.

UTICA, 23.—Senator Conkling made a long speech to the Republican convention in reply to a call. He denied that the mission of the Republican party was ended, and declared that not one of the grave questions before the country would be safe without that party, citing first the condition of affairs in the south, which he attributed partly to the natural consequences of the civil war, but more largely to the hatred of the Union and of the negro by pardoned rebels who, he asserted, not only refused to help in reconstruction, but tried to deter capable men from accepting office, with the avowed purpose of leaving everything to carpet-baggers and negroes. He admitted the evil results of this rule in the South, but declared that those really responsible for it, instead of trying by peaceable means to remedy it, were determined to attempt it by revolution. Referring to Louisiana, he said the cause of complaint was that Kellogg was counted in as governor when McEnery was elected. Well, what of that? In New York Hoffman was counted in as governor when Grievey was elected; but the latter's friends did not resort to revolution. He commended Grant's course in the Louisiana matter, and declared it had prevented a war of races and a bloody grapple for the State governments throughout the South. He asserted that there was a move on foot to get through Congress an act refunding the war tax levied on cotton in the early days of the rebellion, and an organized attempt to have the State debts of the South assumed by the general government, and the republican party was the only one that would resist them. In this connection he referred to Fred. Douglass, as the lion in the path of those who wanted to get steals through Congress. He was not a man to be enraged or trapped. The speech was entirely devoted to State politics.

A Compromise.

NEW ORLEANS, 23.—In Terrebonne Parish the people's party and the republicans have made a compromise and agreed upon a joint parish ticket on which both parties are equally represented, both in candidates for the legislature and parish offices, and the two parties have been nominated on both sides. The Terrebonne Banner, the leading paper, cordially endorses this action, and the Picayune of this city says, apparently, of the move, "The people of that parish have agreed upon what promises to be satisfactory of the happiest results. It is not probable that Terrebonne has struck out the course which shall lead us from the wilderness."

More Favorable Indications.

The political conference will be held here to-morrow at the Custom House, and the indications now are that the republicans will accede a point, and allow the McEnerytes equal representation on the returning board.

Excitement Subsided.

AUGUSTA, Ga., 23.—The excitement in Edgefield, S.C., has subsided, and there is no apprehension of further trouble.

A Correction.

WASHINGTON, 23.—A corrected statement from the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has been received at the Post Office Department, from which it appears that steamers of the company will sail from San Francisco for Japan and China, on the 3rd, 17th and 31st of October, with the U. S. mails, instead of the 3rd and 24th, as stated in the schedule recently published by the Post Office Department.

Democratic Nominations.

ST. PAUL, Minn., 23.—The Democratic Liberal State Convention met here to-day, and nominated Westcott Wilkins for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and Wm. Lochren, of Minneapolis, for Associate Justice. Judge Wilkins is at present judge of the second district court.

WESTERN.

Fatal Accident on the C. P. R. R.—New Trial Granted.

SAN FRANCISCO, 23.—A dispatch from Emigrant Gap says that an accident occurred this forenoon on the Central Pacific Railroad, by which Dan Groger, a brakeman, was killed, and McGlone, engineer, and Frank Chinn and William Gaines, carpenters, were severely if not fatally injured.

J. J. Marks, ex-harbor commissioner, convicted of embezzling the State funds, has been granted a new trial.

Four Men Suffocated.

VICKSBURG, 23.—Four men were suffocated to-day by impure air in a well.
