Death of Bishop Henry Giles of Blue Valley, Sevier County.

A YOUNG "GROVER CLEVELAND!"

The Value of Colorado Farming Lands. A Cowboy Accidentally Shot.—Railroad and Mining.

A rich vein of gold ore is reported at Rose Mine in Lone valley, California.

A move is on foot to organize a stock association and make a racecourse at Richfield, Sevier county.

The Sheep Breeder's Montana correspondent says that 200,000 Montana wethers will be sold this year at $3.50 per head.

A branch line is being built by the Rio Grande from Crested Butte over Ohio Pass, a distance of eleven miles, to the coal lands of the Colorado Fuel company.

Emil Rosenvall, charged with stealing a watch from John Heppler, at Richfield, has been found guilty and fined $40. He gave bonds, preparatory to taking out an appeal, and left for Gunnison.

Miss Eva Bergquist, well known in Richfield and other places in Sevier county as one of the best primary teachers in the county, is now teaching in St. Johns, Tooele county, Utah.—Advocate.

The Electric Tramway company of Phoenix, Arizona, has a capital of $200,000, and the construction of the road will commence immediately. A Denver architect has prepared plans for a $50,000 hotel in the suburbs.

It is stated that many old orchards in the Willamette valley have become so infested with pests of various kinds that they will have to be destroyed. This is the fault of the owners, who neglected to make any precautions whatever against the myriads of pests.—Idaho Democrat.

A cowboy named Kenneth Sutherland, employed on the "X Y" ranch near Granada, Colorado, has been accidentally shot. A companion named Jim Blake was handling a revolver and the weapon, a 45-calibre, was discharged, the ball entering Sutherland's back and lodging in the right breast. His condition is said to be critical.

The Richfield Advocate says: On the morning after the election, Mrs. Albert Winger, wife of Albert Winger, one of the leading Democrats of [illegible], Sevier county, presented her husband with a fine son, whom the parents intend to christen Grover Cleveland.

A small farmer living near Kearney, Nebraska, raised 1500 bushels of onions this year, and onions were worth $1 a bushel. These onions were raised on three acres of land. It is profitable to raise onions as well as other things, and our Colorado friends must grow more of them.—Field and Farm.

As a train pulled out of the station at San Diego, California, for Los Angeles, a few days ago, a little 9-year-old girl rushed upon the track directly in front of the engine, and before the train could be brought to a standstill the wheels of the locomotive had passed over her body, cutting it in two and scattering her entrails about in the dust.

Tapestry embroidery is very much in favor just now among art needleworkers. Mrs. J. F. Jennings, of Los Angeles, California, is working a study for the Columbian exposition four by six feet. It represents the surrender of Mary, queen of Scotts, to the lords in 1567. When finished it will contain figures of thirty-five men and women, four horses, four hounds and a large tree, besides foreground.

While engaged in their patriotic work on the Democratic rally last Thursday evening, says the Beaver [illegible], the [illegible] between the two anvils burst, a piece striking a finger on the hand of Henry Sawyer and badly cutting it, the remaining pieces being hurled among the spectators present but fortunately without any casualties.

In Colfax county, New Mexico, at an altitude of over 7,000 feet, says Field and Farm, samples of the sorghum [illegible] of the amber cane variety, measuring eight feet and five inches up to nine feet and seven inches, were grown the past season. The crop had but two irrigations through the summer—the dryest season known there in a score of years. The yield is estimated at five tons an acre.

Carrie Bradbury has begun an action in the district court at Denver against the Denver City Cable company for $10,000 damages for personal injuries claimed to have been received on the 28th of August last. Mrs. Bradbury alleges that while attempting to board a car at [illegible] streets the car was suddenly started. She being in a delicate physical situation, the result was [illegible] and $500 was expended for medical aid.

A number of well known blooded horse owners and breeders of Denver have organized themselves into the Importers' and Breeders' Mutual Insurance Association. The object of the organization is not only to insure the live-stock of the policy owners in the association, but also to help in keeping contagious diseases out of Colorado and to protect its members against theft and other means of loss and inconvenience.

An agricultural exchange states that evidence of better times is shown in the increasing value of Colorado farming lands. There has been an apparent tendency in some of the irrigated sections during the past two years, and is now become nearly universal. It is not confined to the irrigated districts, [illegible], but is especially marked in regard to school and railway lands. The whole outlook seems favorable to the farmer, and should incite us to better efforts and more thorough work than ever before.

Bishop Henry Giles, of Blue Valley, passed quietly to rest on Friday morning, Nov. 11th, after six weeks of terrible suffering. The funeral took place on Sunday, Nov. 13th. Deceased was thrown from a horse on October 4th, breaking one of his legs. Before Dr. [illegible] could be brought from Gunnison, blood poisoning had set in, and it was found impossible to properly set the bones and start the healing process. The leg was finally amputated and everything possible was done but the Bishop's life could not be saved. He leaves a wife and eight children.—Richfield Advocate.

A. J. McDaniels comes back at D. H. Moffat and W. T. Sawyer with a demand for $21,000 damages for malicious prosecution. The complaint sets forth the facts of McDaniels' arrest on a charge of holding up President Moffat in his bank and relieving him of $21,000 in cold cash. McDaniels alleges in his complaint, filed Saturday in the district court, that defendant, on July 29th last, maliciously caused to be issued from Justice Simmonds' court a warrant charging plaintiff with the felony of receiving the stolen money; that he was arrested at Elbert two days later, brought to Denver and incarcerated in the county jail until August 1, when he was discharged with an injured reputation and a ruined business. T. H. Adams and Thomas Ward appear as attorneys for plaintiff.—Denver News.

Trouble has again broken out at Pine Cienega, forty miles from Silver City. It will be remembered that over a year ago several of the Hall boys went hunting and never came back alive. It was supposed they were killed near Ash Springs. Since then, it is claimed, says the Lordsburg Liberal, the Halls have been trying to beat Mrs. Lizzie Hall, who was the wife of Dick Hall, one of the two who disappeared, out of her husband's estate. This has caused considerable family feeling. Last Friday Ed. Burleson, Mrs. Lizzie Hall's father, and old man Hall and Will Burleson took a shot at Hall and put a Winchester ball in his shoulder. Will took a shot at Burleson and missed him. Hall went after his gun, but his horse moved so he could not get it out. Burleson tried to complete the job but his gun hung fire. Owing to these circumstances the party separated without further damage. The indications are that there will be more trouble in the Pine Cienega country, and if the men have got to quarreling among themselves, the trouble will result in several killings.—Albuquerque Citizen.

A Puzzled English Visitor.

When Lady Somerset first came to America she was particularly anxious to become acquainted with all the American customs and to take part in everything American. Her appreciation of America was in brief.

"Now will you tell me," she said one day to a friend, "why the chestnut has been adopted as a national nut and why it is so dear to the hearts of every one? I notice that all, be they old or young, boy or girl, man or woman, speak of the chestnut frequently and always pleasantly and even affectionately.

"Today, as I was seated in one of your horse cars, a little boy began telling another one some short anecdote, when suddenly the other little boy sprang to his feet and shouted, 'Oh, chestnuts!' Later in the day I saw one man whisper something in the ear of a friend, to which the friend only replied, 'Oh, what a chestnut!'

"How pleasant to have something of which every one is so fond. But explain the cause of the liking. Why was that particular nut selected? Why not the almond or the peanut? Is it that the chestnut grows more freely here?"—New York World.

The "Yellow Day."

Sept. 6, 1881, is well remembered in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and parts of New York and Pennsylvania as the "yellow day." Canada also took on some of the characteristics noted in the states above mentioned, only that the yellow was of a dull, greenish cast, which accounts for the fact that the Canucks refer to it as the "green day." In the morning the sky had the appearance of being clouded, but as the sun arose it was plainly visible and of the color of burnished brass. About midday the peculiar yellow was most apparent—everything except leaves and grass was of a well tinted dark yellow color. The cause of the phenomenon has never been satisfactorily explained.—Philadelphia Press.

Pin Money from Raising Flowers.

It is curious that when so many women are asking what they can do to earn money so few think of becoming amateur gardeners. Violets, pinks, chrysanthemums and many other flowers are not difficult to raise, and when carefully packed and sent to a first class florist bring good prices. It is said that a woman in the south makes a good income for raising real orange blossoms to a [illegible] florist, while five or six others [illegible] themselves on the dollars produced from the violets that grow with so little care in the well preserved violet pit.—Exchange.

Sweet Innocence.

Two apprentice girls came to a full stop in front of a baker's shop, at the door of which stood a negro in the traditional costume of a French pastry cook.

"Look there! A black baker. I didn't know there were any."

"Of course, you silly. They're put to make the brown bread."
