

THE SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS

THE GREAT COUNTRY PAPER OF THE WEST

Is Issued Mondays and Thursdays and contains all the cream of the Daily and Saturday News.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Today is 30 minutes longer than the shortest day of the season, and from now on, the days will lengthen out with appreciable rapidity.

Architect Kletting has completed plans for a $1,500 ice house and cold storage plant at Minidoka, Ida., for the Salt Lake Brewing company.

A marriage license was issued out of the clerk's office yesterday to William Gurney, aged 29 years, and Charlotte Matthews, aged 51. The young couple came from Lehi.

The Mutual Improvement association of the Twentieth ward will give a dancing party next Friday evening, in the ward hall. It will be the first of the winter series.

The annual banquet of the Central Christian church will be held next Thursday evening, in the church parlors. The occasion is intended for members of the church and congregation only.

The funeral yesterday afternoon, of Mrs. Skovsted, was attended by 40 members of the Women's Relief Corps of the James B. McKean post, G. A. R. The ladies also decorated the grave of the deceased at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The cooks and waiters will give a ball this evening, in Federation hall. The reception committee are: A. R. Miller, Harry Turner, and Joseph Brown, and the floor committee are: C. Johnson, B. R. Burns, and B. F. Meyer.

Local carriage houses report extended sales of wagon outfits and harnesses to parties of prospectors intending to go to Goldfield, Nev., and other mining camps in southern Nevada. There has also been a good sale this winter in delivery wagons.

Friday evening in the Twentieth ward annex the M. L. A. of that ward will give a select dancing party. Many invitations have been issued and the members of the committee are using all their efforts to make this, the first dance of the season, a very enjoyable affair.

Contractor P. J. Moran stated this morning, that he would resume operations on East South Temple street the middle of February, when paving begins. He says that the Bell Telephone company may have to be dropped a little in two or three places, and that very likely a gutter will be built on the north side of the roadway, as the Light & Railway company desires.

Chemist Harma said that some time ago he found a locally made ketchup containing Fluorine of medium. This is one of the most violently corrosive chemicals known, and is used in etching on glass. Mr. Harma remarked that if it would eat glass, what would this chemical do in the human stomach. Through his agency a stop was put to the manufacture of this stuff very quickly.

In the federal court the jury brought in a verdict last night in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Rachel Jones vs. the Portland Cement company. The suit was brought in the sum of $20,775 for the death of plaintiff's husband, negligence being charged on the part of the defendant company. The deceased was killed by a revolving shaft when his arm was caught in a set screw and he was killed. The sum obtained by the widow was $4,500.

Six cases of measles and one of smallpox were reported to the board of health yesterday. Those who are reported as having the measles are: Albert, Luella and Harold Offer, aged 7, 9 and 12 years respectively, residing at 229 Fifth street; Daniel and Alice Sheehan, aged 1 and 3 years, residing at 967 Sixth street; C. L. Hughes, aged 25, stopping at 78 east Second south street. The smallpox patient is an 11-year-old boy by the name of Collett, who resides at 27 Almond street.

Architect Kletting has well under way, the new $17,000 central station of the R. M. Bell Telephone company at Missouri, Mont., and the Utah Fire Proofing company has the contract for the building, and is providing 40,000 being for plumbing and heating. A marked feature of the front elevation is that it will be of concrete blocks cast in special forms, so that the general appearance will be that of a solid stone wall. The building will be two story, 25x65 feet, and equipped with a fine switchboard and full telephonic equipment.

Judge Fred Wood was unable to attend the election contest meeting Monday at Mantol for "obvious reasons over which he had no control." His intention to be present in accordance with the subpoena served on him, was all right, only he got into the wrong car in essaying to leave this city. The car was an empty standing behind the Canpete train which pulled out on time as usual. Finally Judge Wood investigated only to find both doors of the car were locked, and it was necessary to raise a window and make something of a disturbance before a depot hand could be found to release him.

John Q. Critchlow, manager of the Utah Credit Men's association, will be present at tonight's meeting of the Grocers and Butchers in Woodmen's hall, and address them on the subject, "Failures and Their Causes," a theme that should be highly interesting to all the trade, who are most cordially invited to attend. In addition to the talk, the grocers will discuss the short weight butter scheme, by which dealers hand out but 14 ounces to the pound, a condition which the grocers feel should be instantly remedied. The association is pushing its trade journal, which will make its initial appearance

THE RAINING OF THE MEN AND WOMEN.

Hon. Nephil L. Morris Addresses The Students of the L. D. S. University.

KNOWING AND DOING THE MOTTO

Carlisle's Apostrophe to the Laborer With Hand or Brain the Basis of an Argument in Favor of Thrift.

An inspiring talk was delivered this morning before the student body of the Latter-day Saints' university. Hon. Nephil L. Morris addressed the assembly on the subject of the development of character—the training of men and women.

The speaker called attention to the change in the trend of education in our times, the change, that is, from the attempt to gain universal knowledge to the more thorough learning of one special branch; the change from cramming the mind with theoretical knowledge to that of training the hand as well as the brain; the change from the ideal of intellectual prodigies to that of well balanced men and women. The speaker maintained that the best educated man is the man who can do the most; and that this is always the man who has a trained mind and a strong body. The former scarcely realizes that his best kind of apples and celery, his finest heavy roasts and turkey, his best bread and butter, his best penmanship, are the products of scientific experiment. The day laborer is scarcely aware of the debt he owes to the scholar and the investigator; and the latter sometimes forgets their indebtedness to labor.

Continuing, the speaker said in part: "The best positions are rapidly gravitating upon the shoulders that can bear them best. You are preparing yourselves now for the places you will yet fill. It is not what you may in the future do, but what you do now, that will determine your place and station among men, and it is not alone what you know, but what you can do. A man may say he knows a thing, but unless he can produce it, we are not sure that he can believe him. It was so with the sculptor, who was never recognized as a genius until his mental images had been expressed through the creations of his hand. The western hunter and trapper, the ideal of manhood in the eyes of the physical and the spiritual." Carlisle's picture of the two men whom alone he honored—the hand laborer and the brain worker—was read and explained.

"It is the hand of man, armed with a tool, that conquers the earth and makes it his. The change from huts to palaces, from animal skins to broadclothes, from the spear to the plow, the hand, guided by the human mind, who does not live by thrift lives by theft. There is no other way of living, and thrift by hand labor is both the means and the end."

"The man who strives for the spiritually indispensable, the brain-worker, is also honorable. The real work of the student is not the emancipation of the intellect from Egyptian bondage, but the liberation of their minds to the true ideas of God, freedom, and immortality. Of the two we must pay the higher respect to the man who works with the finer instrument of the brain, as Carlisle says, whenever we find the two united in one, it is like going back to the man of Nazareth. In western America, this type of manhood has never been lacking—men who have been both practical and spiritual, who both work for the building up of the country and also for the betterment of the world in which they live. The world to come, the salvation of human souls."

Mr. Raphael Olsen, at the beginning of the meeting, as a representative of the students, presented the brain argument in behalf of the students' art fund. He urged a strict adherence to the determination heretofore expressed by the students, to beautify the interior of Barnhart hall with works of art.

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L.L.D., of West Valley, Utah, who arrived this morning, when first arising, often find a troublesome collection of phlegm, which produces a cough and very hard to dislodge, but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the throat is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take, I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble. See, see and $1.00. DR. DOWNEY ANSWERS.

He Affirms That His Wife Bombarded Him With Glassware.

Another chapter to the domestic troubles of Josephine Louise Downey and her husband, Dr. William S. John Downey, became public yesterday afternoon when the latter filed his answer in the district court to the divorce complaint filed against him last week by his wife. Dr. Downey charged her husband with cruelty, drunkenness and non-support. She claimed that he struck her with his fists on several occasions and blackened her eyes and that he left her ill in bed without any medical care or treatment and in destitute circumstances for several weeks, so that she had to depend on her neighbors for assistance.

In his answer Dr. Downey denies all of the allegations made by his wife and by way of cross-complaint alleges that she assaulted him in May, 1901, and threatened his life that he during the night of the house when they were stopping at the Grand Pacific hotel, by throwing a clock at him. In November, while they were living at 455 Second East street he alleges that she threw glass and chinaware at him. He also charges that she has been in correspondence with the Stanley Kay of San Francisco ever since their marriage, and that in November she received $40 from him and has threatened to leave her husband and go to live with Kay. Dr. Downey asked that his wife's prayer for divorce be denied, and that he be awarded the divorce.

SCHETTLE'S ONCE AGAIN.

Unfortunate Creditors Attempting to Recover Their Hard Earned Savings.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Schettler bank creditors last night, discussion centered upon the disappearance of the money deposited with the bank. Chairman Grunfor rendered a report of the results of the week's investigation of the books. He stated that the more he went into the matter the more surprised he was at the condition of the bank's affairs and at the indifference of the state officials in enforcing the law which should have afforded protection to the creditors.

"On Oct. 6," he said, "thirteen days before the receiver was appointed, Ernest Schettler drew out of the bank $100,000, all the money he had in the bank. Perhaps it was with that money that he helped meet the demand of Mrs. Thompson."

"A closer examination of the books seems to show that Schettler had $100,000 of $500. That money came from our deposits, and the Church ought to pay it back. I think the men at the head of the Church will pay it back when they understand the situation. I think they are fair."

An intrusion by a woman creditor contained the remark: "You don't know them. They never will, and time will show you. I have the files, and Mr. Grunfor then went on: 'On Feb. 10, 1892, twenty-five days after he started the bank, Mr. Schettler was insolvent, and he knew it, for from his own books we have found that the balance on that day was $324.45; that is, it was on the wrong side of the ledger. We have paid for everything that was in the bank, for the five cents, the meats, the clothing, the cutting of the lawns, the taxes and the tithes. We found that from February, 1892, to October, 1892, he drew out of the deposits more than $100,000. The question did he do with it? His family deny that they have had any of it. Perhaps he buried it.'"

Continuing Chairman Grunfor announced that in three years the sum of $24,000 had been drawn out.

John Beck, who represents the claims of his family against Schettler, said that he thought Schettler ought to be arrested on four or five charges, and that if he should leave the state, possibly an order from the court could be obtained, applying his bonds to his creditors. He further explained that the whole subject he brought to the attention of his Bishop, and an effort made to have Schettler forced into an explanation. This brought forth a letter from Peter Hanson, the banker, in which he stated that the matter had already been brought to the Bishop's attention and a refusal to investigate had been expressed.

Mr. Beck then asked that the matter be brought before the Presiding Bishop of the Church, and a request be made of him, that the money paid in tithing be returned to the creditors. "It should be made plain to them," he said, "that the tithing they paid by Schettler came from the deposits of people who trusted their money to Schettler."

Chairman Grunfor then read entries which he found in the books of money paid in tithing. On Nov. 23, 1893, there was an entry of $150, on Nov. 3, 1894, $125; and on Dec. 26, 1895, $225.

A committee consisting of John Beck, A. Von Binn, Mrs. Emma Hubert, and Mrs. A. B. Dale was appointed to visit Bishop W. B. Preston, and ascertain his view in regard to the matter. The action of the committee was that the formal proceedings of the meeting, informal discussion followed among the fifty or more creditors, most of them aged women.

HUSTLED TO PESTHOUSE.

Smallpox Patient Creates a Stompedo At the City and County Building.

Alma Powell, aged 19 years, called at the health office yesterday afternoon to have the officers diagnose his case. His face was literally covered with eruptions and Sanitary Inspector Korth at once informed him that he had the smallpox. He was invited out of the office and around to the west of the building to wait for the doctor. When his arrival he was taken to the quarantine hospital. He told Mr. Korth that his folks reside at 977 east Eighth South street, and that he had not been living with them at all recently, and that he had just returned from West Jordan, where he had been hunting rabbits.

Another case of smallpox was reported to the health office this afternoon, that of George Simpson, who resides at 263 Seventh East street.

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Convict En Route to Penitentiary Tried To Escape From Car.

There was a decidedly lively and interesting time on a state prison car last evening. Sheriff Joseph Bailey of Weber county and Detective Pender of Ogden had four prisoners handcuffed together, en route for the penitentiary. The prisoners boarded the Main and Second South streets, Joseph Davis, recently sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment, who had quietly unchained himself from the others, made a bolt for liberty. He chose the front end of the car, and before Davis could climb over the railing he was nabbed by the sheriff.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

There was a very enjoyable reception given last night, in the rooms of the Ladies Literary club, to the new Episcopal bishop, Rt. Rev. E. S. Spalding, D. D., by the members of the St. Mark's and St. Paul's Episcopal parishes. There seemed to be a general outpouring of the members and friends of the Episcopal church, and the Ladies Literary was crowded from 8:30 until 11 p. m. The new prelate charmed every one who met him, and he had a pleasant greeting and a warm word of welcome for every one. There was a choral music and Dean and Mrs. Edie, Rev. and Mrs. Perkins, Rev. and Mrs. Hunting, and the members of the choir, gave a most excellent entertainment. The bishop was most graciously received. The rooms were tastefully decorated, and in the hallway lemonade was dispensed, while from a center table in the dining room a fine menu was served. The Men's club is now arranging a banquet in the new building.
