THE ASCENSION REVOLT.

Additional Particulars of the Affair from a Private Letter.

We publish today a correspondence of the News which gives a description of the recent revolt at the town of Ascension. As the subject is of uncommon interest, we publish in addition, some extracts relating to it from a private letter received by President Wilcox and Counselors from Apostle George Teasdale. After detailing the incidents preceding and attendant on the murder of Senor Anchets and his secretary, Brother Teasdale says:

Rumors of the trouble and hearing that Senor Anchets was confined by the insurgents, at our last meeting on Fast day, Thursday the 7th, a committee of three was sent to see what could be done for his release and prevent any further bloodshed, as it was not known then that Anchets and his brother-in-law were killed; Brothers Jos. H. Jones, Edward and Hollister Richardson were the committee; they were friendly to both parties and able to speak the language, and were supposed to go to see what was wanted, or to have Senor Anchets released, act as peace makers, or in any way they could, do any good.

They were accompanied by Brothers Wm. Adams, who furnished wagon and team, Amos B. Call and Elias Bell. When they reached Ascension they learned the sad news of the death of Senor Anchets and his secretary, and that a requisition was made upon us to furnish thirty or forty men to take care of the government property, for the officials were afraid there would be further trouble. Some of the brethren, Jos. H. Jones, Jonathan Beck, Wm. Adams and A. B. Call, complied. Our monthly prayer meeting was held on that evening and volunteers were called for and the following brethren responded: Peter J. Christofferson, John Donaldson, C. W. Norris, Orson Richens, Jas. Jackson, Lewis Juggerson, G. Johnson, Laurin Mortensen, Peter Mortensen and others who were in Ascension numbering some nineteen or twenty men. Bro. W. W. Galbraith was appointed captain of our home guard and was placed in charge of our military affairs. He has a good influence with the Mexican officials and people. We have organized and the following guard was appointed out of the brethren who had volunteered as home guard. On the south, Bros. C. A. Fredericksen, C. Bolser, A. Anderson, J. A. Harvey, and Oliver Wilson—this was between us and the town. On the west, John Bowley, Parley Johnson and J. P. Bigelow. On the east, Wm. Wilson and Alfred Hendricks, and on the north, J. L. Wilson and John Mayhew. This is the entrance to the town and where the custom house stands. Thus the town, and the stores and cattle were guarded.

The next day, Friday (8th), Bros. W. W. Galbraith, Edward Richardson, Isaac Wilson, H. Hamilton, A. P. Underwood, James Gray, A. B. Call, and myself went to La Ascension to look after the interests of all the brethren, take some bread and blankets. We found the Custom House guard had been relieved by guards from Corralitos, as they no longer needed our help. Our brethren had been removed to some the place of repute, to the sunny side, and kindly accepted by Senor Marcos Sabanetes, Senor Anchets's brother-in-law.

Here we met with Senor Flores, the lawyer, introduced by Bro. A. F. McDonald to do business for our people. He spoke English and it was from him I learned most of the information of the unfortunate affair. He took us into a large room, where were I had visited Senor Sabanetes, and there had on a catafalque lay in state the bodies of the brothers-in-law, side by side. They were dressed in full black suit, with their arms folded on their breasts. Four candles, decorated with black, were burning at the head and feet of each body. Their wives and children were heartbroken; it was a solemn scene.

Senor Flores informed us that others had been threatened, there was a feeling of alarm in the breasts of the officials, as most of the town is second to be sympathy with the opposition party. We stayed there that afternoon. The bodies were buried without any ceremony. Bro. A. B. Call drove the team and wagon of Bro. Galbraith, but back as over, with the coffin containing the body of Senor Anchets, accompanied by a Mexican, and two of three Mexicans took the body of Senor Sabanetes in another light wagon. No one else attended the funeral; the Mexicans did not dare to go. The ladies were buried and the horses returned unmolested. Brothers J. C. Johnson and A. F. Gifford followed Brothers C. Christofferson and Laurin Mortensen, and we made arrangements for a relief guard to be sent in the morning. We called upon the administrator of the Custom office, paid our respects to him and stated our willingness to do all the good for them we could, etc. He thanked us kindly and appreciated our call. We then returned home and made arrangements for our home guard.

Next day as the brethren were collecting to relieve those in La Ascension, some of them received from the town with the information that our brethren were released. As there had been reinforcements from the interior, they would not require any more of our people at present. The insurgents still continued in the mill, but no more very sick were committed. The next day, Sunday the 10th inst., Brothers Joseph H. James, P. Christofferson, Gibson and Sullivan Richardson, W. W. Galbraith, who furnished the conveyance, and myself, went to La Ascension. Brother Galbraith had been requested by the judge to take over some medicine as one of the children of Senora Sabanetes was sick. When we arrived at the town we saw Col. Bonne and some of the custom house officials. Mr. Flores came up and we went to the sheriff's office and drove into the court yard. Brother Galbraith, Edmund Richardson, our interpreter, and myself went into Senora Sabanetes apartments and her sister Senora Anchets, their mother and some friends. After Brother Galbraith had finished giving instruction and aid for the sick, I addressed the families through our interpreter, Brother E. Richardson, giving expressions to our sympathy and to our hopes, etc., as the Holy Spirit suggested to my mind. They thanked us very kindly and we took our leave.

We then went to where the acting President and Judge were and requested an interview with them, which was granted. Senor Eutimio Barbo was acting President, Senor Celso Gil our Judge, Bros. Esteban Ornelas and Philipi Leringa, members of the council, were present. I was the spokesman and Brother Richardson interpreter. The object of our meeting was to explain all we had done from the beginning, and our desire to prevent further bloodshed, our relations with both parties from the beginning of our settlement in the country, our mission on earth and desire to do good, to benefit and not to destroy, our motto being peace on earth and good will to all men; our solicitude with the gentlemen who had been killed, that we could not be in sympathy with their murderers, but we thought perhaps we could exert an influence with them to lay down their arms and let justice overtake the guilty parties. We described our last meeting and the appointment of the committee, the object, etc., our grief at the news of the death of the men who had been so kind to us, etc., and the promptness with which we furnished the required aid. It being a new and unlooked-for experience, we had now motion to counsel with them and adjourn.

They replied they were well satisfied with all we had done, but did not approve of our sending any committee to those who were murderers; that the government must be sustained and such men punished; that troops were hourly expected, who would suppress the uprising.

We had a very interesting interview, satisfactory to all parties, and were invited at any time to go and confer with them; they appreciated our feelings towards them and the people, and said that only the guilty would be punished.

We called on the administrator. I asked him privately if he had not discretionary power to pass four without duty. We had some who were suffering for food; they had friends who would supply them if they could get it in without duty. He replied he had no such discretionary power and that he would not do it.

A MEMORIAL CITY.

It Will be Erected in Marshall County, Alabama, on the Tennessee River.

The subjoined interesting communication was received by Governor Thomas last evening:

Hon. Arthur L. Thomas, Governor of the Territory of Utah:

Dear Sir—It is proposed to mark the quadricentennial of the discovery of America by the founding of a memorial city, which will bear the name of the discoverer. A site, greatly famed by tradition, has been selected for the purpose, in Marshall county, Alabama, on the bluffs of the Tennessee river. The ground has been platted and lots have been sold to several thousand people, including many business people residing in your Territory. The promoters of this memorial city desire that its building should be a national work, and they have applied their energies successfully to interest freedom in every part of the country. On February 22nd they intend dedicating the city in an impressive way. Several governors of national reputation have already promised to take part in the exercises, and it has been determined to request the participation of the governors of all the States, and personally invited to attend the dedication as a visitor to the City on February 22nd on the ground of the Columbian City Mining, Manufacturing & Development Company. If you can be present and notify the company promptly, in order that proper provision may be made for your transportation and entertainment, otherwise will you be so kind as to favor the enterprise with some words of approval and whisper, yours respectfully,

COLUMBIAN CITY M., M. & D. CO.

Still They Come.

Several more suits reached the file of the Third District Court late yesterday afternoon. Here are two of them:

William A. Jackson against Candidus A. Jackson. Plaintiff seeks to obtain a decree of divorce. In his complaint he alleges that he married the defendant at Sioux City, Iowa, and in February, 1888, "disregarding the solemnity of her marriage vow, she wilfully abandoned him, and has ever since continued to live separate and apart from him." The decree is asked on the ground of desertion.

The Deseret National Bank has brought suit against F. W. Fowler, to recover $3000 and interest upon a promissory note. An attachment upon real estate owned by the defendant has been served.

Charles E. Pearson has filed his answer to the complaint of Hector W. Haight in the Third District Court. Pearson denies all the allegations of the plaintiff and asks that the temporary restraining order be dissolved and that further injunction be denied.

The Theatre Stage Corps.

The stage corps of the Salt Lake Theatre met yesterday afternoon, at the Theatre, and established an order of Theatrical Mechanics of Utah. The society is organized for the purpose of creating a more social feeling among those interested, and feeling as well of "protective association." The business done at the first meeting was the election of J. S. Forsey as president, George Derr as vice-president, John Hutchings as secretary and treasurer, and C. D. Adams as sergeant-at-arms, and also the appointment by the president of H. H. Harty, T. F. Manning, H. J. Hanks, Frank Myers and J. P. Cahoon as a committee of five to draft a constitution and by-laws. Several speeches regarding the objects and values of the association were made by the members and the meeting adjourned until February 2, at 7 p. m., when some reports will be made by the committees regarding constitution and by-laws and also future quarters.

Funeral at Draper.

Beginning yesterday afternoon, at 1:30, interest services were held over the remains of Elder Rachel Pratt, who died on Sunday last from la grippe. The deceased was in the 59th year of his age at the time of his decease. He joined the Church at an early day and has always been known as an active and energetic man. His death will be keenly felt in the Draper ward where his general conduct made him a useful and respected member.

Consoling and instructive remarks were made by President Angus M. Cannon and the bishop of the ward and his counselors and by Elder Daniel Jones.
