OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, APRIL 6, 1894.

Waiting in Jail.

A theft committed nearly three years ago is charged against W. E. Waite, the man whom Sheriff Bishop escaped with 500 in Kansas the other day. It occurs with the crime. Waite said he handling of considerable money for the Utah Loan and Trust Company, in whose employ he was in August, 1891. It is said he took advantage of the confidence placed in him and left the company's money out in sack. The other was left out at the bank, the company losing just the loss.

Mrs. H. Bishop left for the south on Friday afternoon to meet her husband, who is expected home shortly. Mr. Bishop is a very pleasant gentleman, and has accompanied Mrs. Bishop on her journey to Kansas. Upon leaving the sheriff asked the officers to be the very birth who was wanted in Ogden. Upon his release from prison and Sunday the sheriff was there ready for his man and got him. The wife of Mr. Waite accompanied him to Ogden. He is now in the county jail, where he seems to be watched by the bill-up Mormon son Hamilton. Waite will have an opportunity of entering his plea on Monday next.

Sales and Personals.

F. J. Cannon, general manager of the Pioneer Electric Power company, has returned from an extended visit to Europe, where he has been diligently looking for the interests of his company, and has accomplished much therefor. He has had a very pleasant time and looks well. He went to Salt Lake this morning.

The testimony for the prosecution in the case of Frank Hamilton, charged for burglary, was read over yesterday afternoon. The defense opened their case calling forth another line of argument a plea of insanity.

A company of infantry was organized in Brigham City last night by commissary-general Sievers of National Guard of Utah, with Captain H. L. Page, First Lieutenant H. Adams and Second Lieutenant A. A. Jones. They had a rousing time. The boys of Brigham City seem to take first hold.

Fred White was arrested and given twenty days in the city jail for spitting in his own and a pair of pants managing in the French dye works.

Sprinkling wagons make their first appearance for this season on the street this morning.

PROVO, UTAH, APRIL 6, 1894.

Hallett-Smith Murder Trial.

The criminal cases were passed on the stand in the Hallett-Smith murder trial. He testified to going with Hallett and his son on Sunday, January 28th, to see the Hallett farm, saying, for the purpose of erecting a pig pen. Mr. Hallett had a gun and the boy had a small rifle to shoot rabbits with. The Smith drove up in a wagon and Hallett and the boy went out and commanded them to stop. When witness came past the corner of the cabin he saw Royal Smith in front of the barn with a rifle leveled on Hallett. Smith said to Hallett, "Throw up your hands——you, or I'll kill you where you stand." Witness took the rifle from the boy and Smith. Royal Smith left. Witness threw open the magazine of the rifle, reloaded and turned to Frank Grant, who had a revolver pointed at witness. Frank threw up his hands and said, "I've had enough." Witness said, "All right." The boy of Royal Smith was placed in the wagon and the Smith drove away.

Hallett, the other defendant, took the stand. He told the story of the shooting substantially as told by Smith. As the Smith drove up, witness cried, "Hell, quick and leave my hammers to pass." The Smith were passing but three below the barn stopped. As it stopped Royal Smith jumped in front of the team and said, "Throw up your hands, you ——, or I'll kill you where you stand." Witness then detailed the account of the shooting. Counsel asked questions concerning the entry of the barn, but court would not allow the question of ownership of land to enter into the case. On cross-examination, Wilson was asked if he took his gun along with him on the day of the shooting because he expected the Smith would be present. To this he said emphatically yes or no. He didn't know whether he expected them to be present or not. The fight was taken place in the barn. Question in case the Smith should come. Wilson denied having begun after Roy Smith had been shot.

Mr. Quinlan, another witness, testified to threats made by Royal Smith, the bad reputation of Royal and the good reputation of Hallett.

Mr. Dixon testified to the good reputation of Hallett.

Several other witnesses from Great Junction, Colorado, and Wolcott testified as to the good reputation of defendants for peace and quietude.

The defense rested.

The prosecution took a few minutes for rebuttal testimony, principally as regards reputation and the case was closed and argument commenced.

Notes.

Chevpillet, the man charged with the crime of larceny, in the name Maud Carson, was also judged in Salt Lake and went to California. He was arrested here by Deputy Marshal Nelson, reported by court. He is charged with 200 W. Grant taking which crews from the case, and he taking to money to the amount stated. The money supposed to Kennedy to the end.

The B. Y. Academy expected on Thursday to look in on the branches and teachers in Utah conference.

C. W. Smith, one of the defendants in the murder case, is a member of the Lowi war.
