On some vineyards near Saratoga, Santa Clara county, Cal., the pests of grapes has been now lost to the acre.

Hops have been taken by one Bernardino citizen to form a character of commerce in conjunction with other towns in the county.

George Belshaw, aged 70, has just died at Farmington, Wash. He was a pioneer of Oregon and one of the most prominent wheat growers in the Northwest.

The Wilson ranch, one of the big places of Tulare county, Cal., will soon be divided, into small holdings. There are several thousand acres in the ranch.

Mesa county, Colorado, now boasts of the following sources of wealth, says an exchange: Fruit, agriculture, livestock, coal, iron, asphaltum, natural gas, oil, building stone, and water power.

A. H. Beighler, for some years reporter on the Pueblo (Colo.) Chieftain, and one of the most popular newspaper men in the city, has just died of consumption.

The county gas well at Stockton cannot be used at present, as a length of the pipe has been eaten away by some corrosive chemical in the earth. The supply of gas for county use is now obtained from the private gas mains.

Attachments to the amount of $1000 have been levied on the Deseret Dairy company's property at Lehi, Utah, by local people. They are: Western national bank, $200; American national bank, $200; Nevada-Lumber company, $500; operator & Assessor, $100.

An exchange states that the Santa Fe mountains, New Mexico, are being prospected with good results into silver. This range has been overlooked and neglected ever since the Spaniards settled the country. Old mining people are in the mountains and prospects show what the range contains.

C. W. Smith, a "tyee," came in from Quaitso yesterday, bringing with him some fine opals, towards the Indian Jimmy Mathieson. They are beauties. He also brought in some gold dust from an placer claim on Hoko river near Warm Springs ferry. From this locality has he cleaned up over $10.

Action has been commenced in the federal court at San Francisco against Captain Charles Sellands, owner and master of the steam schooner Lucille, to recover $1000 because of the action of Sellands in taking from Bonny sound, Alaska, six barrels of seal skins. It is alleged that as the island is not a port of entry the captain has no right to receive a consignment there.

Says the Cheyenne Tribune: Frank Lane, a prominent resident of the Cottonwood county, has arrived in the Tribune there, and who has he brought the hides of ten gray wolves and eighteen coyotes for the bounty. It is stated that the country around his home is full of these animals and that the ranchmen are suffering great loss from their depredations on their cattle.

Hot Shoe, the Chinese prisoner, of San Francisco, whose case was mentioned in these columns a few days ago, has been put in the custody of the U. S. marshal, the charge against her of kidnapping a Chinese girl being dismissed. She is accused of frequently procuring the labeling of the girl, whom she afterwards offered for sale for $400.

Several hundred acres in Humboldt county, that this summer raised the biggest hay crop in the state, burned to ashes, says the Humboldt county (Wash.) Times. The soil itself has been consumed by fire to the depth of fifteen feet. Two years ago the land was several feet under water and is well as Owl lake. It was drained by a big ditch and dried up, leaving a very rich soil. A few days ago, when a prairie fire swept over it, the soil itself took fire, burning like turf. The fire came down to a hard clay that will be of no use for farming purposes.

Mrs. Ida James, who is known in Oakland, Cal., as "the lady from Napa," wants a little more notoriety in the courts. She has commenced a suit against Charles Kershner to recover $200, which she claims was stolen from her and which money is now in the hands of the constable. The defendant, who is in the county jail awaiting sentence for embezzlement, has entered a contest in the suit and declares that the woman has no right to the money. He sticks to his original story that Mrs. James simply paid him what she owed him, and he therefore owns the money.

Thomas McCart, a street paver, was locked at the police station, San Francisco, on Tuesday, for robbery. Frank Knoxe, of Santa Cruz, arrived in town last Friday. He met McCart and Dan Page. After the evening was spent the trio went to the room of John Malbearn at 908 Howard street. They retired there, and all was well until morning. Then Knoxe awoke to find the diamond gone from his ring, and with it $17 in coin. Detectives Gossett and Dillon arrested McCart, who acknowledged the crime. He spent the money and says that he so allowed the place where he hoped the police were looking for him.

B. Frick Gibbs, who now lives near Ogden, but formerly was the Deseret News compositor at the Weekly's case during the month of October. He was visiting the exposition in company with his parents, and becoming separated from them, as they left the grounds on an evening train, has never been seen since. On the morning of November 4 Frank Wheeler of Wilmington shot and killed a burglar. Mr. Gibbs, who has been anxiously searching for his son, was shown a photograph of the dead man, and was examined the map. There were many points of similarity between the dead burglar and the missing boy, but he does not believe that it is his son. Young Gibbs was not well when he left home, and his father is distressed that he could not find his son.
