THE rough, broken-up condition of North Temple street, between Last Temple and West streets, is the occasion of considerable complaint and comment that do not reflect favorably on the street commissioner.

THE local billiard business seems to have suffered a severe shock since the arrest of the four common tipsters who, seemed to be investigated by the grand jury in the last issue.

THE street railway companies are getting ready to put down in their cars spittoons. Men among on their cars will be greatly appreciated by the traveling public in these crisp mornings and evenings, and the change doesn't come any too soon.

THE News is requested to state that the husband and relatives of Mrs. Hakeson desire to thank the Bishop of the Twenty-second ward and all kind friends who rendered their aid and sympathy in service in their recent affliction of losing a wife and mother.

A WELL known citizen reports that it would pay a city to a good deal of petty thieving if prisoners of grade arrest from small boys would simply question the little as to where they get them. The last that stole which relief at the state a piece in the street car he bought from boys at the much a reason would indicate that all was not right.

Resting Together in Utah.

The lion and the lamb, says the Denver Times, are resting together in Utah. Mr. Morgan of the Union Pacific and Mr. Babcock of the Western have been in consistence since Thursday last to adjust the differences existing on most lines regarding Utah freight rates. The warfare has been a most bitter one since last spring, and freight matters have been really demoralized in that territory. During the conference the entire situation has been thoroughly canvassed and they announce today that a definite and amicable understanding has been arrived at and the war is at an end. A few changes may be made in rates, but in the main tariffs now in force will be maintained.

A Double Wedding.

The little town of Union, south of here, was yesterday the scene of a double wedding, the contracting parties being John W. No Quorum Present.

The board of public works held a meeting last night, but no business was transacted for the reason that it was decided that no "legal" quorum were present, as the appointment of Mr. Hoxie, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Conklin, has not yet been confirmed. The matter was referred by the City Council to the committee on public works and is now in their hands, but will probably be reported upon favorably at the next meeting of the city fathers.

CONVENTION OF FARMERS.

Important Gathering of Agriculturists at South Cottonwood this Week.

A most interesting and instructive meeting for farmers was held at South Cottonwood, this Utah county, on the 13th and 14th inst.

Professors Stalkup, Prof. E. G. Ballantyne, S. Fisher, U. S., Dr. W. S. Tangney and Prof. E. G. Gaskill of the Agricultural College of Utah were there to impart information to the assembled farmers.

Besides the above, the well known farmer, Barnes, Brewton, D. B. Brown, Samuel Bateman, Robert Gibson, Nelson Pickett and many other experienced and practical farmers of the Utah county were seen in the audience.

The Monday afternoon session was occupied by D. S. S. Twomey on the causes and treatment of noxious diseases, and by S. Fisher, C. E., on irrigation.

The evening session was occupied by Prof. Ballantyne on the history of the cow, entertaining the house with exceptional views of the cow from the age of the cavefed with so through the gradual changes until it has reached the cow of today, the young, the milky and cream cow of today.

Prof. Cornwell, of the Central experiment, gave a brief lecture on the appearance of the farmer's house, and there was also addresses by Mr. A. C. Hanley on the sheep industry and Richard Howe on the purchase and care of farm machinery.

The meetings on November 14 were occupied by Prof. Bateman on fruit-distributing remedies—their mode of propagation, means of destroying the insects, etc., and by Prof. Gaskill on dairying, cream and butter making, the proper care of cows. At the close of these addresses Bishop Hendrie called the people called The Bee of the Place.

Afternoon meeting—Prof. Ballantyne discussed on alkali lands and showed the advantages Utah has over California; the alkali to raise to be more profitable, also the kind of soil best adapted to the different alkali; irrigating, cultivating and marketing came in for a share of the gentleman's attention.

Bishop Hendrie measured the possibilities of Utah, enumerating our advantages of irrigation with that of other regions. Some people were displeased on the rating, but the several lages we enjoy of having our resources filled with rich deposits of money, besides gold and silver.

President Stalkup closed the exercises by a picture arrangement by a blackboard chart showing an alkali rates with figures showing glue earnings, vapor and net profits.

Many questions were asked and answered apparently to the satisfaction of all during the meetings. A unanimous resolution was passed by the convention that a small appropriation be asked of our Legislature at the next session for the purpose of ascertaining the probable available water supply of Utah, the quantities now in irrigation water, the probable amount of land that might be reclaimed by drainage and to frame some suggestions to the farmers in the measurement and division of their water supply.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the visiting professors, and the convention adjourned sine die.
