THE DISTRICT COURT.

Repetition of the Story of Miss Edith Kermott's Abduction.

BUSINESS BEFORE JUDGE HERRITY

An Action Against the Salt Lake Dramatic Association Settled Out of Court.

The arraignment of ex-Deputy Sheriff Joe O'Brien, on a charge of larceny, was the first thing that occurred in Judge Hartch's court this morning. The defendant pleaded not guilty and retired.

THE KARMANN ABDUCTION CASE.

Next the trial of Nellie Davis, indicted for the abduction of Edith Kermott into a house of ill-fame on Franklin Avenue, was resumed, further testimony of the defense being adduced. As stated in the NEWS yesterday, Edith is the fifteen-year-old daughter of the only married of Lehi, and the place into which she was enticed was kept by Minnie Hadley, the defendant's daughter.

The general public was very properly excluded from the court room during the entire hearing of the case, by direction of Judge Hartch.

On the part of the prosecution it was claimed that the girl came to Salt Lake in November of last year, first visiting the house of a Mrs. Moffit, on West Fifth South street, as a domestic, and later at the Templeton hotel. At each of these places she remained about a week only. On the 15th of that month, after leaving the Templeton and going to an employment office in search of another situation she chanced to stroll along Franklin avenue, where she met the defendant. Having informed the latter that she was in search of employment, the defendant said she thought that her daughter (Minnie Hadley) might obtain a place for her. They then entered the house together. Edith told on the witness stand of the subsequent disappearance of her purse, and it was also known in evidence that up to the time of Edith leaving home in November she was a quiet, modest girl.

But the defense called a number of witnesses, whose said testimony, with a view of proving that Edith was not altogether the innocent girl that she was claimed to be. Some of these were soldiers from Fort Douglas, others were women of ill repute. Edith Fleming, accused, belongs to the lewd class. She testified to having met Edith walking along Franklin avenue on the morning of the day on which she entered the woman Hadley's house; that Edith informed her she was eighteen years of age, and that she knew the character of the locality in which she lived. She said she wanted "a place." Witness testified that she warned the girl that if she was not eighteen she had better not remain around there.

Ellie Davis, another Franklin avenue bird, spoke of Edith coming to her house with another woman about a week on the morning of the 20th November and drinking beer; she also testified to her having played the role of a decoy unknowingly, while sitting at the window of Minnie Hadley's house. These and other things were said in order to prove Edith's loose morals. It was also stated that she joined the "other girls" in cigarette smoking.

The arguments are in progress as the NEWS goes to press.

Before Judge Morris.

Chief Justice Morris finished his morning's task in about half an hour. Three civil jury cases had been set down for trial, but all of them were settled without taking up the time of the court. Judgments were as follows:

J. C. Grant vs. H. C. Chambers; defendant's motion for a nonsuit was sustained, and no exception was entered.

Cole Bros. vs. F. J. Sylvester. In this case an order of dismissal was entered, the suit having been amicably settled out of court.

Nellie Longley vs. the Salt Lake Dramatic Association. Plaintiff's counsel accepted the defendant's offer to have judgment entered for the plaintiff in the sum of $50 and costs, and thus the matter was settled.

In this case the plaintiff, alleged to be a woman of questionable character, was refused admission to the theater some time in the year 1893, and for this she brought suit for damages. The hearing has been pending ever since. Manager Barton had received numerous complaints that women belonging to the demi-monde class were in the habit of slipping into the Theater at the various performances and a closer watch was then kept. The result was the exclusion of Nellie among others.

A FORECLOSURE.

Joe. T. McNulty et al vs G. L. Chamberlain et al. Judgment for plaintiff and decree of foreclosure entered. An attorney's fee of $100 was allowed.

Jas. T. McNulty et al vs G. L. Chamberlain et al. Judgment and foreclosure entered for the plaintiffs, attorney's fee of $150 allowed.

AMUSEMENTS.

OLD FOLKS' DAY was greatly celebrated at the Theater yesterday, the true and generous committee in charge of the annual affair having arranged a program that drew the old folks, widows and orphans alike to throngs. The house was jammed in every part, and the ubiquitous committee handled everything to first class shape. The entertainment furnished sufficient variety to suit all tastes. Miss Dalcour and her aides gave two dramatic selections, The Happy Pair and the familiar Box of Monkeys, both being very much enjoyed, and the latter especially being improved by its change to a big stage. Mr. Easton thrilled his hearers with Annie Laurie, and put the old folks into rapture with his beautiful rendition of the well known hymn, O My Father. Mr. Pierce recited, the veteran W. C. Dunbar played the bagpipes to encores, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Edwards sang a duet, Aristide Cammige played a violin solo, and the McNeil cousins danced; only one feature was missing and that was the annual speech by George Goodsell, who unfortunately is out of the city.

THE TABERNACLE held 1,200 or 1,300 people last night who came out to listen to an admirable program and to aid the deserving cause for which it was given. There were some admirable selections, and some not so admirable, but generally the concert was greatly enjoyed. Mr. Clive, who is coming up by leaps and bounds, got a triple encore and deserved it; the Harmony Club, also, the only one of our vocal musical clubs that range high, showed astonishing improvement, and its selections were very admirably rendered, the bass solo being especially fine. Hobbs's band played nicely as usual, and all right as far as it went, but not up to the day at the start. Miss Jennings sang not quite better than she has ever given anything to praise, and was warmly received. Mr. Plummer sang a song by Evan Stephens and was also kindly applauded. The choir rendered "Lift up your heads," from the Messiah, in grand style, the basses executing their part well. Mr. Dayton's exquisite "Pilgrim's Song of Hope" was received; Mr. Cortlevat was encored for his rendition of "Love's Request," sung very tenderly, but not so slowly. The encore to encore Mr. Caine played well as usual, and Mr. Kraus and Mr. Pedersen deserved credit for skillful accompaniments.

KATIE POTTGIESER advises sale operas today. She has found in her new play, The Old Limes Club, her great success. While the comedy is bright and catchy and predominates, there is a vein of human interest throughout, with enough of the sentimental to make it intensely interesting.

AT THE GRAND — An Unequal Match worked a decided improvement last night. Mr. McNally states that they have engaged two of the present company to remain here and that they are in telegraphic communication with other capable people. He states that owing to reports circulated among the dramatic agents in New York by Griffin & Scott to the effect that the Salt Lake Amusement company was not responsible, Manager Rogers had a hard task guaranteeing the contracts with the new people he is engaging. He has issued the following card:

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah,
February 5th.

In view of the fact that so much business has been said and written concerning the so-called "strikes" in the theater opera house, perhaps a brief and plain talk of explanation in regard to the matter would not be amiss. A short time ago Mr. Frawley expressed strong dissatisfaction with the inexperienced business which some members of the company were responsible for, and I felt that the management of the house had sought in unity to dispose the offices to alight the very obvious needs of certain player. In the disturbance which ensued he intimated to take the company away and I, feeling that an equally good and perhaps better company could be organized at a late time, informed him that I would be pleased if he would release it from our contract and asked him if he would accept a notice to quit. He said that he would (I imagine without sufficient reflection) and I accordingly gave him the three weeks' notice, which Griffin and Scott, his principals, accepted by wire. I must now add that the whole transaction seems to have caused Mr. Frawley some pain; I take to arrange the matter, as I then supposed, to the own self fashion, I feel that I can now do nothing more than offer him my sympathy and express the hope that he will do well elsewhere.

Respectfully,
J. H. ROGERS,
Manager Grand Opera House.

As the public now has all the facts in relation to the controversy, it will be called closed so far as the NEWS is concerned, unless something of more interest than now seems evident, should transpire.

Public Debate.

The Pollock debating club has completed arrangements for a public debate and entertainment in the club commodious rooms at No. 211 State street on Friday evening next at 7:30 sharp. The Hamilton debating society will meet the Pollock club and discuss the question, "Resolved, That the market reports of the cities of the union are equal." Allison, Lewgren and Johnson will represent the Pollock club, while Lawrence, Emery and Pulland will defend the negative on the question.

Before the debate commences the following program will be rendered:

Piano duet ..... Miss Laura Welch and Miss Martha Hoff
Recitation ..... Miss Inga Hansen
Piano ..... Professor Pulland
Comic recitation ..... Mr. A. A. Thomas
Violin solo ..... Mr. O. A. Allison
Recitation ..... Miss Grace Pulland
Piano duet ..... Misses Hoff and Welch

Immediately after the debate the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium class will give an exhibition under the direction of Mr. John T. Allen. Five public school buildings will act as judges of the debate. The public is invited.

The Letter Carriers' Ball.

The fifth annual ball of the Salt Lake Letter Carriers' association will take place this evening at Christiansen's hall. The members of the association have been making a strong effort to have it terminate successfully, and it is now a foregone conclusion that they will neither disappoint themselves nor their patrons.

Can Have the Pair.

A week or ten days ago Angus M. Cannon Jr. lost a fine fur glove, one of a very valuable pair, at a point between the Templeton and Theater cash cotsers. Since then he has advertised continuously for it but has heard nothing from the finder. He now announces that that person need no longer deprive itself of the use of the pair and that he is perfectly welcome to the remaining one if he will only call for it.

Cut Him Up.

There is one dog that will never enjoy himself again so romping at the revolving wheels of an electric street car. Last evening, at the corner of Second West and Fifth South streets a shaggy-coated dog engaged in that pastime when he was caught by the wheel, and in two seconds half of his body was made fine sausage meat. A feature that made immediate attention to that the naughty remains are yet lying in the street, a sickening sight.

THE NEW PROBATE JUDGE.

J. Clifford McNally—a Brief Sketch of His Career.

The Appointment is Generally Approved by the Members of the Bar and Others in This City.

Commissioner J. Clifford McNally, the newly appointed probate judge for Salt Lake county, and whose nomination for that position by President Cleveland was given in yesterday's NEWS, has been busy all day receiving the nearly congratulations and handshakes of his wide circle of friends. The appointment finds special favor among the members of the Salt Lake bar, upwards of one hundred and fifty of whom signed the petition which was forwarded to Washington recently asking that he be named as Judge Blair's successor.

The new judge, who is in his thirty-first year, was born in Bedfordshire, England. He came to this county when about three years old, with his parents, who settled in Pittsburg, Pa. When he had reached the age of twelve he was sent to the Pittsburg City college, where he remained three years and then went to St. Vincent's college there to look the degree of M. A. Leaving that institution in 1884, he came to Montreal, Canada, where he spent two years at the St. Laurent college, taking the degree of A. B. Upon finishing his collegiate studies, Mr. McNally received an appointment in the postoffice department, and this he held some two years, having resigned the position to go to Ann Arbor, Michigan, where he commenced the study of law. Here he took the degree of LL. B. in June, 1891. Soon after graduating at Ann Arbor he married, and came to Salt Lake City in the following month, August. He was first admitted to the bar in Michigan and later in Illinois.

Upon coming to this city he entered into a law partnership with A. Lowry Higgins, the firm being known as Higgins & McNally, and this lasted about a year. Since that time Mr. McNally has been practicing law on his own account and worked up quite a successful business. He was appointed a U. S. commissioner in March, 1893, and in that capacity has had quite an extensive run.

There are already a number of candidates in the field for the vacant commissionership.

Mr. McNally's commission is expected to arrive from Washington within a week or ten, and upon receiving it he will at once qualify and take his seat.

Looking for a Check Sharp.

Sheriff Heber Wright, of Weber county, was in the capital last evening in search of an alleged check sharp, described as being an "Englishman of distinguished manner and bearing." It is claimed that he collected several considerable sums of money in the Junction City through fraudulent representation and the passing of bogus checks.

For Horse Stealing.

"Tom" Caldwell, the fellow arrested on Sunday last by Officer Pratt on a charge of stealing a horse from J. W. Duffield was before Justice Smith today. After a meeting of the case, he was held in default of $500 bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

Sheriff Hardy and His Deputy Had a Scare Today.

A young fellow named Henry Wright, who has been confined in the county jail awaiting the grand jury's action on charges preferred against him of highway robbery and burglary, caused a little stir about 12:30 today. He had been taken before the grand jury during the morning, and was being escorted down the stairs of the County building, with several other prisoners, by Sheriff Hardy and Deputy Sheriff Rowe. Suddenly he broke away, crossed the street, ran along the alley way at the rear of the Eagle block, around the back of the Realty building, and dodged through several of the thoroughfares until he reached the Metropolitan hotel, where he was caught by a man who had joined in the pursuit. Deputy Rowe had fired twice at the runaway in the outset of the chase, but this failed to bring him to a halt. When recaptured by the county jail he was quite subdued.

Wright is one of the men who held up the Agricultural park train car some time ago.

LOGAN.

LOGAN, UTAH, FEB. 5, 1895.

On Trial for Child Murder.

The Fourth judicial district court commenced its February term here on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Judge H. W. Smith presiding. Fifty jurors, an unusually large panel, were in attendance, were examined, sworn and accepted. The case of Thomas Davis vs Charles Henderson et al. was dismissed, and that of Henry L. Mattox vs the U. N. & O. S. L. railway continued. The first case on the criminal calendar, the United States vs Elias Rodriguez, for the murder of an infant child, was then taken up. Yesterday afternoon the evidence at various witnesses for the prosecution, and the opening statement for the defense, the defendant herself was called to the stand; she is 22 years of age, has five living children, had been deserted by her husband three years ago, on the evening of July 24th, had given birth to an illegitimate child—it was prematurely born, which she recovered sufficiently, so, within a minute or so, she examined and found it dead; then she determined to hide her own and family's disgrace by burying it herself.

Prof. Paul Assaulted.

President Paul, of the A. C. of U., has been endeavoring to keep outside of his pupils from attending J. R. Edwards' billiard hall, and for that purpose has visited it several times of late, thereby arousing the animosity of the proprietor. This evening he called there and was assaulted by Edwards. A struggle ensued between Edwards and several the striking of a second blow, and the city marshal, who was present, placed him under arrest. Professor Paul was but slightly hurt.
