NORWAY AND SPITZBERGEN.

An Account of a Trip to the Regions of the Midnight Sun.

SOME OBSERVATIONS OF A TOURIST.

Beautiful Scenery—Disappointing Aborigines—Cod Fishing—Whales and Fearlessness.

To the Editor:

Leaving Bergen some few weeks ago I proceeded on a trip along the coast of Norway to the North Cape, and then to an Spitzbergen, in company with Professor Chamberlin and Young, the latter as tall as Timothy or Lot of Gilgamp (for he is a Mormon). The last mentioned I consider one of the Responsible Deseret correspondent's works. I did not see much of Young, I rather think he was in a corner all the time. I was not sure of it, but I thought I heard
