HAPPENINGS IN THE COURTS.

Divorce Suits.—Action on a Promissory Note.—Other Items.

Mrs. Caroline E. Sorenson and her husband, Jacob Sorenson, do not appear to find married life altogether a bed of roses. The parties were married in this city in November, 1875, and now the wife is suing for a divorce in the Third District Court on the ground of desertion. She also asks for alimony.

WANT AN INJUNCTION.

Suit has been commenced in the district court by George Stringfellow and others against John A. Groesbeck et al., to recover the sum of $200, alleged to be due as part payment for certain real estate in Salt Lake County. The plaintiffs ask, to have a restraining injunction issued to keep the defendants from erecting a wall around the property.

FOR LOOKING, RESTORED.

An action has been in court lodged in the Third district court by the Cleveland Land and Cement Company against George H. Carney, from whom the plaintiffs sue to recover $500 for timber alleged to have been surreptitiously removed from the land of the company by the defendants.

ON A PROMISSORY NOTE.

The National Bank of the Republic has begun suit in the district court to recover $700 from H. T. Burton and others, alleged to be due on a promissory note.

SUE ON PROPERTY.

Weber S. Henderson has also begun suit to recover $302.70 from David Turnbaugh, alleged to be due on property.

An action in equity has been filed in the Third district court by Wilmot S. Henderson against Daniel Turnbaugh, Charles A. Gibson, Jacob Dustin, Jacob Israel and David Leslie. The case arises out of business difficulties of the Western Stone Company, the plaintiff having on July 5, 1891, received a judgment against the company for $[illegible]. But upon the sale of property under execution by the United States marshal there was still a balance due of $[illegible], which the defendants are now the unpaid stock of the defendants to establish as claims.

"CARRIED OFF" A BARN.

The case against Lee S. Whitehead, which was to have come up today before United States Commissioner Maginnis, has been adjourned until next Monday afternoon. The defendant, who is on bail on his own recognizance, is charged with an unusual offense—that of "heading down a barn and carrying it off." Defendant, however claims that the material is his own property; but a neighbor, upon hearing the former claims it belongs to him. A suit is expected to be brought by the second party with a view to recover the material in dispute.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Communications on Unjust Freight Rates, Discrimination and Manufacturing Industries.

The following has been received by the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce:

OGDEN, Utah, April 12, 1892.

Mr. John W. Donnellan, Secretary Chamber of Commerce, Salt Lake City:

Dear Sir—I am requested by the Chamber of Commerce to file a complaint against the railroads covering here for unjust and discriminating freight rates and undoubtedly your chamber has already filed such complaint. In these days we will hardly receive the same fair treatment, I suppose, but we work in concert in our interest. If in your power to do so kindly have you in signed.

Yours truly,

A. H. PARDEE.

THE SALT LAKE CHAMBER'S REPLY.

To this the Salt Lake Chamber sent the annexed reply:

SALT LAKE CITY, April 12, 1892.

A. H. Pardee, Ogden, Utah:

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 11th inst. received and contents carefully noted. We have had considerable correspondence with the Ogden Chamber of Commerce on the subject, and have been willing that should you desire with us joining they would find a reasonable basis of the proposal. In bringing the matter against the railroads we are actuated by selfish motives, and do not desire to confine the benefits to Salt Lake City, but share the good of the efforts Territory. We have engaged the services of a competent and experienced man to attack the case for us. Much expense has already been incurred, and it will require considerable further expenditure of money to bring the case to a final issue. In view of these facts it is only proper that some definite understanding should be reached at with the Ogden Chamber of Commerce before we agree to its joining issue with us. Awaiting your reply, I am, yours truly,

JOHN W. DONNELLAN,

President Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

Secretary Bates is in receipt of the following:

DETROIT, Mich., April 8, 1892.

Gentlemen—Are you offering any inducements or bonus for new manufacturing industries in Ogden or your city?

I have a block and one-half of the working factory here, also [illegible] shop. As I am about to move my business and enlarge to more suitable quarters and [illegible] of moving which might cause to your city if proper inducements are offered. Will be over a hundred employes, the shop is high, and will run [illegible] to start with from twenty to thirty weeks, nearly gone.

My plant, consisting of machinery and tools, is worth from $[illegible] to $[illegible], and I want from $[illegible] to $[illegible] like to put up my own building. Should you desire an enterprise of this kind with the [illegible] to correspond with you in regard to same. Yours very truly,

THE DIANA MONKEY.

One of the Most Lively and Playful of the Whole Tribe.

Diana was a soldier of the blue among the United States and Russian men-of-war [illegible] and to sell a little monkey with a black face and tan coat which proved to be some of the beautiful species. We [illegible] the monkey on the cross as we left the ship, and represented to the proprietor of a bird store that we had a monkey and we would sell it for a dollar and a half. The man was willing to give the money for the monkey, and we left the bird store and went to the ship. We had to pass through a crowd of people, and we were [illegible] the monkey was playing with the people, and we had to be very careful to keep the monkey from being stolen. We succeeded in getting the monkey to the ship safely, and we [illegible] the monkey to the man who had bought it. The man was very anxious to have the monkey
