OUR OWN STATE.

OGDEN.

Special Correspondence.

Ogden, Feb. 10.—H. C. Kiesel, teacher of Hon. Fred. J. Kiesel and a member of the hospital corps now at Manila, has sent home a large set of relics, which have been placed on exhibition in the show window of a drug store, where they attract great attention. The collection includes Mauser and Remington bullets, fragments of shell, bullets from shrapnel shell, a wicked-looking knife about a foot in length, medals and decorations, etc. Mr. Kiesel gathered them on the battlefield at Manila after the fight of August 13th, last.

Yesterday was a beautiful weather outlook the snow very rapidly and almost destroyed the sledding.

Within the last three or four days a grippe has taken hold of many people and bid them fair.

Sumner, one of the men who robbed Wheelwright Bros. store several weeks ago and who is now on trial for the crime, confessed yesterday to all the whereabouts of some of the plunder and accompanied by an officer went to the Hammond's home to get it. The visit was unsuccessful, but at 2 o'clock the prisoner's wife brought the stolen articles, consisting of watches and revolvers, and delivered them to the sheriff.

The Ogden butchers' ball was held in the Union opera house last evening, and was well attended. All hands enjoyed the occasion.

The annual reunion of the Hind family will be held in the Second ward meeting house on Washington's birthday.

COURT MATTERS.

The following proceedings were had before Judge Bishop in the district court yesterday:

Mattew Wild vs Union Pacific Railroad company; by consent the case was ordered to February 17th.

Peter Thompson et al. vs James Montgomery; continued to February 18th.

Ogden City vs James Larson; case dismissed.

Sisters of the Holy Cross vs T. R. Ovington; continued to March 18th.

Upton Lumber & Power company vs Fred Fox et al; continued to March 18th.

State of Utah vs Fred W. Davis, W. E. Williams and T. Samuelson, burglary. Davis pleaded guilty, the other two not guilty. Davis ordered to appear for sentence March 11th, the trial of Samuelson was set for today, and trial of Williams postponed.

A decree will be given Friday night by the Fourth ward dancing academy for the benefit of the poor.

Rev. D. Skyn Francis, by request, resumed his lectures, which are free to the public, this forenoon before the entire school of the Weber Stake Academy.

Some more maps showing the Ogden canyon yesterday, and the great gorge is still immense—big for team and wagon. It will be difficult to open it for several days.

Five coaches, well filled with ladies and gentlemen, went to Salt Lake last evening.

KAYSVILLE.

Special Correspondence.

Kaysville, Davis Co., Feb. 8, 1899.—H. W. Layton, a well known merchant of this city, died a week ago yesterday at the county recorder, for his creditors bonds, George Swan Jr. and Levi Taylor Jr. are named as assignees.

IRRIGATION COMPANY.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Kaysville Irrigation company held yesterday, Thomas H. Hughes, Hyrum Strong, Wm. Dooley, John G. M. Barnes and Henry H. Blood were elected directors for the company for 1899.

An expenditure of $200 was authorized for repairing the main ditches. Charles Barnes was re-elected secretary, the directors as the stockholders' choice for water agent.

A team belonging to Wm. Jones of South Weber, ran away today. Mr. Jones was at the creamery when the team became frightened. The stolen was somewhat broken but no serious damage done.

A member of the citizens' committee expected to straighten out the Layton and Kaysville trouble, was held Tuesday. What occurred at the meeting is not known, as the committee does not care to have it made public at present.

PROVO.

Provo, Feb. 9.—At the monthly meeting of the board of Brigham Young academy trustees held yesterday appropriations for January were made as follows:

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

The Third ward M. I. A. will give a grand concert in the Opera house on Tuesday, February 14th; matinee Saturday, February 11th, for the benefit of the committees.

Rev. Clarence T. Brown of Salt Lake will lecture in the Congregational church Monday evening, subject: "Abraham Lincoln."

Messrs Hosta of Springville and his sister, who is attending the academy here, were thrown from a buggy last evening. Mr. Hosta was dragged a block by the horse, who ran rapidly towards the lower mills. Fortunately neither of the young people were hurt.

Hyrum J. Wright, aged 24, of Linden, and Alice H. Tomlinson, aged 18, of Pleasant Grove, have received a marriage license.

Architect H. C. Watkins has completed plans for five new school houses to be built in Cassadon, Sanpete county.

Dr. Allen is attending several cases of measles in Thistle.

The following Salt Lakers are registered at the Bonneville: H. S. Park, H. C. Evans, J. H. Turner, W. H. De Wolfe, R. R. Keaton.

COURT NOTES.

A transcript of Judgment in the case of Lewis Brown et al. vs John Park, from the Third district court, was filed with the county recorder yesterday. The amount of the judgment is $1,000.

In the case of Armstrong vs Pierpont & Heaton, the jury came in at noon yesterday with a verdict in favor of plaintiff awarding him $63 with interest at 8 per cent. Twenty days stay and 10 days notice for new trial granted.

Judge Daneberry will open the February term for Wasatch county in Heber Monday.

LOGAN.

Special Correspondence.

Logan, Feb. 8.—The failing of the beautiful has stopped so far, after nearly two days of it. About twenty inches has fallen, and again the weather is very mild. For three days, however, it was bitterly cold, the thermometer registering 27 degrees below zero. These sudden changes in the temperature have doubtless the principal cause of the sickness which exists here in all parts of the city. Whole families are down with the grippe. There is an annoying scarcity of water due to the freezing up of the water mains. In especially troublesome at places like the A. C. where water for all purposes is being hauled a distance of over a mile.

The Scandinavian Dramatic Co. of Brigham City appears here this evening at the Thatcher opera house.

A picnic and dance was given last night in the Greenville ward in honor of Elders E. T. Lloyd, Isaac Elwell and Christian Hansen, who shortly leave on mission, the latter two going to Great Britain and the last named to the Society Islands. The entertainment was a success socially and a neat purse was raised for the departing Elders. Elder Anon Deseile of College will go with Elder Hansen to that far off field of labor.

Mrs. S. B. McAllister gave birth to a daughter this morning.

HYRUM.

Special Correspondence.

Hyrum, Cache Co., Feb. 5.—The Deseret Semi-Weekly News that came here last Saturday, was more than a true prophet as regards the cold snap for northern Utah, and from this, Wednesday's, issue it might have added the balance of the State. Sunday morning the Mercury was down to 21 below zero, and 24 below Monday. Tuesday a change came, and at night a deep snow fell, making sleighing again possible.

LIQUOR PROBLEM.

The city fathers are grappling with that much vexed question, the sale of the liquor license. Last summer, a saloon was opened in the Opera house building, and the proprietors opened a billiard hall this winter. The license was small and payable quarterly, and in times past the saloon was only opened during the winter. The license fee was small and payable quarterly, and in times past the saloon was only opened during the winter. The people seeing that a piece of land had been purchased and bids filed for a new and permanent building, have fortified the city council to raise the license from the hundred to one thousand dollars per annum, and to be taken out yearly, hoping by this means to close the saloon. The council has taken the matter under advisement. The council are of the opinion that the billiard hall is the greater evil of the two evils and while their charter gives them the power to prohibit the sale of liquor, they would like to have some help from learned from former experience that four or five private dens sold liquor at increased prices, and had neither control nor benefit therefrom, but that the police bills were much more expensive. The council are correct, young men and will do all they can for the good of our people, but they say if the people want the saloon, the license question bill, this would settle for all time to come the status of the village saloon question. It should be stated that for the honor of the people of Hyrum that while the feature was under discussion, City Marshal A. B. Nielson stated that if our saloon had only the patronage of Hyrum it would have been closed long ago. It was the neighboring settlements that furnished nine-tenths of the business.

Notwithstanding the severe weather the health of the people is very good, save a few coughs, colds and barks.

VERNAL.

Special Correspondence.

Vernal, Uintah County, Feb. 9.—The weather yesterday and today have been pleasing as early spring and that people would be starting their sheep for the 1st of March, are very quiet these days. With the mercury down to degrees below zero, it was a cold Sunday night. It doesn't appear that we are very near spring yet. The snowfall here was light, only three or four inches, but the weather is colder that at any time before this winter. There are only about two feet of snow in the mountains, but farmers are hoping that it will be double that this month. Plenty of water for spring and early summer, the prospects are favorable there will be an increased average to irrigate this year. With cattle at $12 per hundred and wheat 75 cents a bushel and still advancing, the people are beginning to realize advantages of sowing their crops. There were not half enough oats raised in the county to supply the demand. Great quantities of oats are raised by the freighters in hauling copper ore and gilsonite to Price and Mesaite, both of which are 60 miles from Vernal. The government contractors have already shipped in one carload of oats from Nebraska, and more will follow.

La grippe is the order of the day with us, a great deal of sickness is reported especially among children. Many deaths have occurred lately, most of them young children. Monday Lillian Hatch the 15-year-old daughter of Lorenzo Hatch succumbed to the disease after an illness of only a few days.

The course of lectures on the first principles of the Gospel which were given here, ended last night. The house was crowded every meeting, and a great interest was manifested by all. There have been 35 persons baptized in this Stake since the Mutual improvement associations commenced their labors here and a number of members are very favorably impressed. The association in Ashley ward is doubled and in some cases tripled, and a marked improvement is noticeable also in the attendance at the Sunday meetings.

The "old folks" committee are making preparations for a social entertainment of all the old people of Uintah to be held in the Stake house on February 22d. A programme of speeches, songs, recitations, etc. has been arranged and a free supper will be given. The invitation is extended "all over fifty" without regard to religion, race or color.

The "News" is eagerly welcomed here as it brings in the news twenty-four hours ahead of the other Salt Lake papers. Interest in the Klondyke excitement is unabated and a third of enlistment stirs the people at the reports from Manila.

PRICE.

Price, Emery County, Utah, February 5, 1899.

Special Correspondence.

The district court will convene here on the 13th inst. Asset indications are to be tried this session.

The weather has moderated, it is clearly apparently getting ready for a snowstorm.

Report has it that there will be an affiliated band for some time.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK.

An earthquake shock the coarser west and northwest from this last Friday night, about half past eight. A large flash of light was seen here as Price which seemed to cover the entire sky in a semicircle, running from west to northwest for miles and was immediately followed by a jarring rattle as some like the sound of distant thunder. People living on at Miller's Flat, say the shock came from the west along Gordon creek, northwest from Price, report the north shaking violently for a few seconds.

MAYHELD.

Mayfield, Sanpete Co., Feb. 8, 1898.—Anton Christiansen, formerly of this place, of Mayfield, and Margaret Vig of Nebraska, were united in marriage today and will give a social party tonight. All friends extend congratulations.

CHRIS. CHRISTIANSEN'S DEATH.

Yesterday morning the people of Mayfield were called to mourn the loss of one of their leading citizens and friends—Chris. Christiansen.

Brother Christiansen met death very suddenly. He was not ailing much though not feeling the best. He went on his way out to feed his cattle and had only gone about two rods when the team came home and he fell dead. Soon came and attempts were made to bring him to, but all in vain.

He leaves a wife and four children, and a host of friends to mourn his loss. The bereaved have the sympathies of the entire community.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.

A movement is now on foot looking to the erection of a new public school building in this place. The school is housed in all enterprising citizens. The advisability of this, and it is a self-evident fact, that no better investment can be made than that of investing in the education of our children, if we bear in mind that "The boy of today is the man of tomorrow."

ELSINORE.

Elsinore, Sevier Co., Feb. 16.—The creamery situated between here and Monroe has started to active business again, under the management of Andrew Lawson of Richfield.

The marriage of sister Mary Ann Nielson were held here today. The young house was filled with the relatives and friends of the bride, who assembled to pay their last respects to the good woman who had won their love and esteem. Among the numerous relatives was her father, aged eighty-two, Thomas Chr. Jensen.

Sister Nielson was born April 21, 1844, at Jerslev, Hinring Co., Denmark. She was baptized in October, 1856, and emigrated to Utah in 1866. She married Ephraim, Sanpete county, for several years, moved to Elsinore in 1876, where she has resided ever since. She leaves a husband, ten children and thirteen grandchildren, brother brothers and sisters, to mourn her loss.

LEHI.

Special Correspondence.

Lehi, Utah, Feb. 9.—The marriage of Mr. Geo. A. Gurney and Lenora Bowers was solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple Wednesday last and in honor of the occasion a supper and party were given last night in the Lehi ward. The latest spread was partaken of by the young married couple with their near relatives and friends, after which a dance was given in the Lehi opera house, about seventy-five couples being present.

PROTECTION ASKED FOR.

A Memorial to Congress on Behalf of Shipping and Agriculture.

The Argument Presented by the President of the Transmississippi Congress.

[San Francisco Bulletin.]

Memorial of Hugh Craig, president of the Transmississippi congress, and president of the chamber of commerce of San Francisco, in relation to bill S. 3340 by Senator Hanna, also known as H. R. 11,432, by Mr. Payne of New York.

So as not to introduce this memorial, I inclose another duplicate herewith in the form of subjoinds A, B, etc., which will clearly and briefly, the general argument in relation to the matter.

While I am glad to see that our effort to bring matters to a focus in favor of shipping in the foreign trade, and of the upbuilding of our merchant marine, I am not the person to criticise or ask why no provision has been made in this bill for the joint protection of agricultural and other interests.

As it is well known and admitted, protection of either one of the two lines tends to protect the other, and vice versa the other. It is only by protecting both at the same time that an advantage may be had.

When this question came up for consideration before the chamber of commerce of San Francisco, the unanimous conclusion of the chamber was expressed in favor of the joint protection of agricultural interests and shipping.

The same conclusion and the identical action was had on the subject by the board of trade of Portland, Or., and of Seattle, Wash., and by the board of trade of Butte, Mt. in addition to the above, the joint action of both the joint protection of these two industries were the Atlantic coast shipowners and shippers, to a man.

No industry or industries organized is necessary to prove the fact that bill S. 3340, as it now stands, is unjust, we just, inasmuch, nor, indeed, is it calculated, to do the thing it purports to, namely, the vote of our members of Congress who represents an agricultural constituency, is to enable the farmer of Iowa to increase the price of ocean freight charges.

What then, must follow? This—that the farmers of the nation will see what the shipping interest will gain, and will then be in a position to the largest, but much more benefit, as will be shown by the following:

Whenever there is a surplus of wheat exported out of one hundred, a value in ocean freight of 5 cents a bushel would cover the whole surplus, but 5 cents a bushel on the thirty bushels for sixpence. This would cause a gain of $1.50 for the shipping interest, and what and a corresponding loss of $1.50 to the American farmer. This, however, is by no means the worst of the farmer's loss on this kind of protection, but is only the beginning. By this system the farmer is deceived into the belief that he and the shipping interest are for one another and much greater loss. He will likewise be compelled to sell his remaining six bushels of wheat, and the bumper crop which he sold for home use at the same loss of 5 cents a bushel that he sold the thirty bushels for. Thus, again he would lose 5 cents on each of the seventy bushels, which makes $3.50. Add to this the loss of $1.50 loss on the thirty bushels, makes a total loss to the farmer of $5 on one hundred bushels of wheat, and the shipping interest of $1.50.

This case would be the case in evident from the fact that the export and home prices of agricultural staples both pay the same price in the wheat pit or cotton exchange. The moment whenever the export price declines, the market quotation for home use likewise declines. This is true not only of wheat, but likewise of cotton, corn, tobacco, hops, meat products and other staples of agriculture.

This fact is evident and was freely admitted by the members of the San Francisco chamber of commerce at the time the matter was up for action. It was on account of this fact that the resolutions unanimously adopted.

The same interpretation, understanding and action was had on the subject of the Atlantic coast shipowners and shippers at Philadelphia on July 14, 1898, over which I presided. It was the very fact that caused Mr. Charles H. Cramp, president of the Cramp Shipbuilding and Engine company, to say at the convention the following, which I take from the Ledger of Philadelphia, July 15, 1898:

MR. CRAMP'S OPINION.

Mr. Charles H. Cramp said: "Mr. Chairman, I think that when we went to Congress to argue for a bounty for our industry, we made a grave error, and I am going to do what I can to repair it.

"There isn't any mistake, gentlemen, the foundation of everything that is good among us—the foundation of prosperity itself and everything that is good in this country—is due to agriculture.

"This is an agricultural country. I would like to see it a manufacturing country also, but it would not be a good country, and I do think we have made a grave error in the matter, that we made a grave error, and that instead of asking for a bounty on shipping, we should have asked for a bounty on agriculture.

"You will see from the enclosed Address that our Society of the important industries and exhibitions of the Atlantic coast was present at this meeting and we were unanimous, we all on the point illustrated that Mr. Cramp's remarks received unanimous assent, and the resolution were unanimously adopted.

"A number of advocates for shipping protection have urged as a reason for subsidies on the ground that this method is largely employed by European countries. These forget to take into consideration that but few European countries are exporters of agricultural staples, that on the contrary, most of them are importers.

Now, in a country where agricultural staples are the principal, can be no harm in protecting shipping by subsidies and agriculture by a tariff on imports, but when the country is an exporter of agricultural staples and at the same time protects its shipping, there is also protection for agriculture by a bounty on exports or by government relation to cost of carriage of agricultural products to the seaboard.

From what has been said it is evident that protection for agricultural staples must go hand in hand, side by side, side and be a portion of the system of protection, along with shipping in the foreign trade.

There is no section of the country which would derive greater benefit through shipping protection than the Pacific coast, but at the same time we must remember that the Pacific coast is an agricultural section. It has therefore, nothing to gain, but has much to lose, through the system of protection for shipping at so great a cost to agriculture.

Shipping is unquestionably entitled to protection so long as the manufacturing interests are protected and for the same reason agriculture is likewise entitled to protection.

The time has come when we all clearly understand that the tariff on imports cannot protect the staples of agriculture so long as they are exports—no more than a tariff on imports can protect shipping in the foreign trade.

There was a time indeed when manufactures could be protected at the expense of agriculture, but it is now that the new economic changes in the mode of agricultural production throughout the world has changed the condition absolutely, the time has now come when we must protect the staples of agriculture, and, as they are exports, or do away with protection altogether. We find cotton going at or below cost. The Pacific coast, quite temporarily profitable, is only so by reason of temporary adverse conditions of other countries.

Ordinarily and under the new economic changes we can no longer place our agricultural industry, the full force of, and what is true of agriculture is likewise true of shipping in the foreign trade, and the time has arrived when only by both at once, and only by both at once, a general system of free trade or under a special system of protection, can we avoid the ruin of agriculture.

In conclusion, I respectfully and earnestly urge that the bill S. 3340 be amended to include provision for agriculture by a bounty on exports.

(Signed)

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI COMMERCIAL CONGRESS.

HUGH CRAIG, President.

The affiliated societies were twelve in number, and represent the various branches of manufactures, mines and dairies, and marine conditions, adopted the following resolution in favor of shipping in the foreign trade by subsidies and of agricultural staples by a bounty on exports:

The principal representations seemed to favor indorsed the above are the following:

The National Farmers' congress, the chamber of commerce of Portland, Or., board of trade, Wheeling, W. Va., chamber of California, the chamber of commerce of San Francisco, the board of trade of Butte, Mont., the Philadelphia shipbuilders and shipowners, and various state grangers and labor.

WE CAN ALWAYS LIVE WELL ON THE FARM.

A shoemaker tinkering by one day, said, "Neighbor, pray what's the news?"

"That I'm starving," said he, with a groan.

"Pro so work, and can't find upon shoes?"

Next came a mason, crawling along, A hatted man, very pale and long.

"Alas!" said a "Brick, how happened it so?"

"Why, because I can't fatten on stones."

Next tramped a weary carpenter by, And much pitched were his lamentations pain:

When he stopped to explain the plight he was in,

"I was unique he couldn't eat saw."

Then trained a blacksmith, smutty and grim,

I asked if his courage had failed, And why he a giant, had lost his vim.

He replied, "Man, I can't digest nails!"

I turned to my wife,—She here, my dear, We have both got something to hear. Though times may be hard and prices low,

We can always live well on the farm.

There is plenty of butter, milk, and cream

Now counting the battery shelf

Eggs for the boiled, and hens by the score,

Which give us the wealth of good health,

Our grocery bills are bursting full. With their cans, their tins, and their wheat;

While pork from the sty and veal from the barn

Are landing our tables with meat.

Luscious berries, from garden and field, Are always at our command;

Bushels of apples from orchard and grass, Fairly burden the fruitful land.

Potatoes, cabbages, carrots, beets, Are high piled in our cellars and barns, And squashes and turnips, onions and beans,

Are proclaiming the thrift of the farm.

The world of the wind lots we gather, In our stalls a beautiful store; Then fore-armed against hunger and cold

The hens well never heels at our door.

When the collector calls for his tax, Or the grocer comes for his pay, We take to our cellars and find a surplus of vegetables, fruit, or hay.

Then let men of all callings who fall, This surplus of solid truth learn,—That to neither lose hard go the times No one ever starved on the farm.
